Rash of Films Featuring Unclad Women Being Shown

Editor's note: a rash of films featuring nealed women is drawing big crowds to make-shift discussing an uproar in the movie capital. Critics blame the film behavior, the industry blames fly-by-night operators. AP columnist Bob Thomas explores the situation in three stories. The first follows.

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The matinee audience at the Vista theatre consisted of 35 men, all of them sitting alone. A hacking cough echoed through the window washer gapes at undressed girls.

There was an air for another theatre that was playing something called Erotica. This was billed as a portette of films including Nudists on the Right Beach, Naked Innocents and Bikini Busters. There was little evidence of bikinis or other clothing in the film clips.

Next came the short. This was Mickey Mouse.

The title was This is My Body. A well-endowed model goes on a hike in the woods, takes a nude swim and lies on a hot rock. That's all. She exults her frame in an unctuous narration with such lines as "what a crazy, sensuous life I lead!"

SEES 'EM EVERYWHERE

The main feature was The Immoral Mr. Teas. In Sunoeiler copy of the French Mr. Hulot films, it features a bespectacled delivery man who sees nude girls wherever he looks—in offices, at lunch counters, on a beach blanket and in the lakes. Swimming scenes are a must in these films.

The Vista Theatre is not unique. A dozen theatres in Los Angeles area are showing such films. Dozens more are showing them in other parts of the country.

Apparently they will not lack for product. A police spokesman reports that between 15 and 20 films employing nudes have been made here in the last three months.

Why the nude wave?

The justices of the U.S. Supreme court might blush to learn they are largely responsible. Their decisions proclaiming freedom of the press have hamstrung local and state authorities from censoring sex in films.

PRODUCERS HOPPING MAD

The major producers aren't only blushing. They're hopping mad.

Says Paramount patriarch Y. Frank Freeman: "Unfortunately, everything done in Hollywood reflects on the motion picture industry. We take the blame. The public doesn't realize that the nude films are made by fly-by-night promoters who have no connection with the industry."

While the major studios have been making expeditions into the jungle of sex, they still keep the wraps on nudity.

Despite their protests, the major producers continue to take the fat from the nude films.

The issue came to a head recently when Los Angeles County Supervisors urged closing of a neighborhood theatre that drawn complaints over its nude movies. One supervisor threatened withdrawal of county support to the $4,000,000 movie museum.

That brought industry leaders streaming to the supervisors' meeting to proclaim innocence. The board reversed itself, thanked and appointed a cleanup committee headed by Freeman.

Obviously these films are made for the purpose of attracting people who like a little sensuality and sex," Freeman said. "This kind of problem has been going for 4,000 years. Frankly, I don't know what we can do about it."

(Tomorrow: How the nude film industry operates.)

There Wasn't a Real Dog In All the Opening Shows

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—New television shows started popping into living rooms during the weekend with the regularity of a cuckoo from a Swiss wall clock. Two were excellent; one, good; two, run-of-the-mine, and there wasn't a real dog in the lot.

CBS' The Defenders made its debut Saturday night. This is another of those father-and-son lawyer series and a lot of the drama in the opening show took place in a courtroom.

E. G. Marshall plays the senior trial lawyer and Robert Reed his son. The first show concerned a mercy killing of a mentally-deficient infant a few hours after it was born. The murderer was the doctor who brought it into the world.

Although the acting seemed weakly motivated, the episode was exciting and tightly knitted together the immorality and pity to shape an attention-holding mood.

COMEDY MAKES BOW

Sunday night, Car 54, Where are You? made its bow. This comedy series Nat Hiken created for CBS probably won't do anything for a policeman's lot in a happy one, but it surely promises to be a funny program.

The two hapless prowl car cops with the best intentions in the world get themselves and anybody else in serious trouble are very short Joe E. Ross and very tall Fred Gwynn.

As George Burns said on another program Sunday night:

"If it makes you laugh, it's funny; if it doesn't, it isn't."

HAS PRESENCE

ABC's new Follow the Sun also had its premiere Sunday night. Here is a honest-to-goodness story about those TV-type correspondents who never seem to correspond and it is set in Hawaii. Its parents' appear to be the network's Hawaiian Eye and the late Hong Kong. It was a fairly routine tale of a prima donna, aided by the correspondent, revealing the killer of her daughter.

Item: Although a pistol was flourished a few times, there was no shooting or fighting for the whole hour.

SIGN AGREEMENT

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada and Guatemala signed agreements Saturday formally establishing diplomatic relations between the two countries for the first time. External Affairs Minister Green and Carlos Anjos, performed the brief ceremony here. Mr. Anjos will become the first Guatemalan Ambassador to Canada and W. Arthur Irwin, Canadian Ambassador to Mexico, will be the first Canadian ambassador to Guatemala.

Maris Wants Day Off!

BALTIMORE (AP) — In a statement as startling as the 58th home run he hit Sunday, Roger Maris said today he is thinking of asking Manager Ralph Houk to give him a day off during the three-game series with Baltimore Orioles starting tomorrow.

Needing three more home runs to break Babe Ruth's record of 60 in a 154-game season, such a request by the New York Yankee slugger sounds ridiculous, but that's what the man said.

"I'm bushed," Maris repeated as a remark he has made a number of times in the last two weeks. "This has been a long, strenuous season. I can't wait for it to end. My happiest day will be Monday, Oct. 2 (the Yankees finish American League season ends Sunday, Oct. 1).

"Except or not, I'm thinking of asking Ralph for a day off whichever game Barber Hall's move left-hander Steve Barber pitches. He's rough on me. And I can name on the first."

Maris might as well save himself the trouble of asking. Houk has no intention of giving him a day off, not until the pennant is clinched, anyway. The Yankees still need two more victories, or two Detroit defeats, to clinch the flag.

Nicklaus Wins Title

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, master of every club in his bag, crushed Dodger Wynegg in the fog and mist Sunday and won the U.S. national amateur golf crown 8 and 6.

Splashing over the 6,747-yard Pebble Beach course in the morning, Nicklaus fired a three-under-par 69 and was 4 up at lunch. He relentlessly closed it out after 12 holes of a soggy afternoon round and finished the day five strokes below par 36-36.

By his triumph, Nicklaus regained the title he won two years ago as a 19-year-old.

Three Die, 50 Injured

Soccer Game Tragedy

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP) — Three spectators were killed and 50 injured Saturday when a barrier collapsed at a soccer game and scores of fans fell in a writhing, screaming heap.

The railing holding back part of 10,000 fans at the Jamestown of the Ibrox Park Stadium for the Glasgow Rangers - Celtic game gave way in the final minutes of the contest.

The crowd surged forward in the excitement of a tying goal and thousands were trampled in the rush. Ambulances rushed the injured to hospitals while extra police, called out for the game, sought to untangle the mass of screaming spectators.

The goal which caused the tension allowed the Rangers to keep intact its unbeaten Scottish League record with a 3-2 tie. The game matched Glasgow's two big teams, a traditional top interest contest.

It was Britain's worst sports disaster in 15 years. In 1946, 33 were killed and 500 injured in a similar incident at a soccer game in Bolton.

The Training Camps

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Maple Leafs took their second beating in three National Hockey League exhibition games when they lost 5-3 to New York Rangers in Kitchener Sunday, but there were no signs of gloom in the Leafs camp. The three games were described by manager - coach Punch Imlach as merely a reconnaissance in force for his rookies.

The rookies performed well in Leafs' 5-2 decision over Boston Bruins Saturday night in Peterborough, and also in the team's 4-2 defeat by the Bruins in Niagara Falls Friday.

Montreal Canadiens opened training Sunday in Victoria, where Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion made an ebullient appearance. But coach Toe Blake was unable to confirm that Geoffrion had signed a contract.

In other exhibitions, the Bruins defeated Hull - Ottawa Canadiens 5-4 at Sudbury Sunday night and Chicago Black Hawks played a 1-1 tie in Buffalo with the Bisons, their American League farm team.

MINOR REGULARS

In both their Peterborough and Kitchener games, the Leafs were without nine players who will probably start the season with the club. A standout in both games was goalkeeper Jerry Cheevers, former junior with Toronto St. Michael's Majors.

Rangers goals Sunday went to Jean Ratelle, a newcomer from the Junior A ranks, Don Royal, and Guy Gendron, both with two, and Earl Ingarfield with a single. Leafs scorers were John MacMillan, Dick Duff and Bob Nevin.

The win was the second on the exhibition trail for Rangers, who were helped by impressive play by rookie defenceman George Konik, from University of Denver, and Al Lebrun, from Guelph.

Frank Mahovlich, Bruce Draper and George Armstrong scored for Leafs Saturday. John Bucyk and Murray Oliver counted for the Bruins.

Boston scored four times in the final period at Hull. Leo Boivin shot the opening goal for Bruins in the second period. Don McKenney scored again in the third but Jim Roberts narrowed the margin for Canadiens before Bucyk, McKenney and Terry Gray fired in three more for Bruins.

'Rifle' Stars in Cards Win'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The new Minnesota Vikings and a Dallas Cowboys team that finished with a win in its first season last year provided the big surprises as the National Football League campaign started Sunday.

Other American League games saw Buffalo Bills outscored New York Titans 41-31 and San Diego Chargers blanked Oakland Raiders 44-0. Boston Patriots defeated Denver Broncos 45-17 Saturday night.

The Cardinals surprised the Giants with a fine defence and just enough offensive power. Sam Etcheverry sent fullback Mal Hammack over on a 29-yard scoring jaunt to overcome a Giant lead. Pat Fischer fired a five-yard scoring pass in the final quarter.

'RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

It seems this week should mark the final act of the diamond comedy of errors that has featured the final series of the Belleville and District Softball League.

The latest word from the league is that the Cobourg brewers will meet Jerome Real Estate here tomorrow night, with the next game scheduled for the lakeshore city on Saturday night.

It was stated by President Bill Hurst, quote "I told Cobourg they will play here Tuesday and back there Saturday. If they fail to show up here the series will be forfeited to the Belleville club," end quote.

This, of course, in accordance with past performances of the Cobourg jugglers, is subject to change with or without notice.

Those muffled noises you hear are probably the cracks of derisive laughter emanating from the Cobourg entourage. Why should they? The Cobourg ball boys been accepting the league fees all through this series — and again they have got what they wanted.

Oh they'll be here tomorrow night all right — all nine of them. Umless of course, the local brass band has an engagement which will claim the horn-blowing services of two of the team.

And the game should end up in the third 9-0 farce. It all depends on the diamond behavior of the Cobourgers. Let one man get the heave — as has happened once here and again in Picton, and the game receives itself into a joke.

What should be done is to send each Cobourg player a registered letter so they can't say "I didn't know about it". This too would prevent what happened once before when one Cobourg official agreed to a date and another yelped he had no authority to make the decision.

Perhaps in some sort of fairness to the Cobourg Club it has been beset with player troubles. But that is no fault of other clubs of the league nor is it any reason why they should demand everything, anything which suits their own whim.

The local paper in Cobourg blared headlines "Merchants Cleared . . . Vindicated". This after the Bobcats and RCAF had voted for cancellation of a league decision to forfeit a game. The writer said "Byron Merchants decided to withdraw from the league Burnt charged his tune . . . Temple felt the league had been built into for strong a grouping to risk a breaking (and get this) over a mere misunderstanding." . . .

It seems to me the Peterborough Softball League, one of the strongest in the district did not "break up" when Cobourg either withdrew or was not invited to play.

The Belleville District Softball League operated very successfully for many years, long before Cobourg joined the loop. And I do not doubt that it will continue to operate rather well if the Merchants decided to ply their trade elsewhere.

Joyces would have been well within their rights to pull out of the farce and let the Cobourg nine, in the true sense of the word, take the championship they seem to value so highly, or is it the home gates?.

Cobourg knew as did Gerry Joyce, that the postponement of dates would mean player depletion of the Belleville club through the loss of Hull and other boys through school commitments, but Joyce in fairness to his players and fans decided to carry on and let the Merchants have their merry way despite a weak executive.

One of the brighter things if not the brightest in this merry-go-round has been the work of the league secretary Sonny Beleh. Sonny is level-headed, does not go off at half-cock and has been kicked around by both the executive and teams. But he had the guts to stick to his convictions, and it seems to me the league would have been a whole lot better off if it had abided by his decisions.

Maris Hits 58, Needs Pair In Three

Belt Whips Tigers 6-4

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Roger Maris has 58 home runs and needs only two more in three decisions to tie Babe Ruth's all - time record of 60 set in 1927.

Maris slammed No. 58 Sunday with Tony Kubek on base in the 12th inning at Detroit for a 6-4 New York Yankees victory over the Tigers. As a result, the Yanks, leading by 10½ games, can clinch the American League pennant with any combination of victories or Detroit defeats adding up to two.

As commissioner Ford Frick has decreed that Ruth's records must be tied or broken within 154 decisions, time runs out on Maris in Baltimore Wednesday night . . . weather permitting.

Maris and Mickey Mantle, who has been clouted at 33 since last Sunday, are idle today with the rest of the league. They play a tri - night doubleheader in Baltimore Tuesday and a night game Wednesday. They also have a night game with the Orioles Thursday.

Of course, they are playing a 162 - game schedule this season and have plenty of time to get over the clincher. If Maris and/or Mantle hit 60 or more homers after the 154th decision, the feat will go into the record book, marked by an asterisk to indicate it was done in a 162-game season.

HAD EXTRA CHANCES

Maris had two extra chances when Sunday's game went into extra innings. He walked twice and struck out once before he tripled in the seventh, a blow that missed being a homer by a foot. After Moose Skowron's wild throw helped Detroit tie the score in the eighth, Maris filed out in the 10th and then hit the 400 - foot drive on a 2-1 pitch by relief man Terry Fox. It left him one game ahead of Ruth's pace.

Bill Monbouquette of Boston Red Sox held Baltimore to three singles and won 1-0 on Jim Pagliaroni's double in the fourth. Lew Krausse, Kansas City Athletics' $125,000 rookie, won his first game since June 18 with a five - hitter against Washington Senators, 3-2.

Minnesota Twins took a pair from Cleveland Indians 5-0 and 3-2 on Camilo Pascual's seventh shutout and the combined pitching of Al Schroll and Ray Moore. Joe Altobelli, who homered off Jim Perry, drove in three runs in the opener and one in the second.

Chicago White Sox swept two from Los Angeles Angels 8-1 and 4-3 in 10 innings. Al Smith's grand - slammer and Frank Baumann's five - hitter won the opener. Billy Goodman's pinch single broke up the second. George Thomas of the Angels drove in their only run in the first and all three in the second.

In Saturday's games Los Angeles clobbered Chicago 11-4, Detroit downed New York 10-4, Washing ton blanked Kansas City 3-0, Cleveland defeated Minnesota 4-3 and Baltimore edged Boston 5-4.

Monbouquette's shutout was his 12th victory. He was when Pete Runnels singled and Dave Philley missed a shoestring stab on Pagliaroni's liner that went for a double. Chuck Estrada got the loser.

Bill Bryan, a rookie catcher for the Orioles, homered in the "freshman day" game at Washington with first year men batting the lineups of both clubs.

Pascual ran into strikeout trouble in NY by fanning nine in the Twins's first game victory and Moore balled out Schroll when he ran into trouble in the eighth of the second.

Smith's homer for the White Sox was his 37th of the season. Jim Landis' 22nd homer tied the second game in the eighth.

Dodgers Nibble At Reds Margin

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cincinnati's National League lead dwindled to 9½ games Sunday as the Reds were shut out 4-0 by Philadelphia Phillies while Los Angeles Dodgers nipped Milwaukee 4-3 in 11 innings.

Duke Snider and Gil Hodges chipped in to help the Dodgers. Snider singled to drive in the tying run in the ninth and won it in the 11th with another single after Hodges, playing his 2,000th game for the Dodgers, beat out a bunt single.

The Phils' victory over the Reds was only their third in 20 meetings of the two clubs. It reduced Cincinnati's margin over Los Angeles to two games in the Reds' column. The Reds have played three more games than the Dodgers.

Cincinnati has only nine games to play in the Dodgers' home park while Los Angeles hopes to have an edge against Chicago Cubs.

Stan Musial celebrated his 20th anniversary in the major leagues with a 4-0 victory by hitting his 14th home run while Larry Jackson shut out Pittsburgh 3-0 with five hits.

Felipe Alou went on a tear against Chicago with four hits, including his 18th homer and 4 runs batted in, as San Francisco rallied to a 5-4 decision over the Cubs.

Milwaukee rode along with a 2-0 lead behind Carl Willey going to the eighth when the Dodgers got their first run on Willey's wild pitch with the bases loaded. Norm Larker's double and Snider's single tied it in the ninth.

Frank Sherry opened the 11th with a single and all hands were set for a bunt. However, Don McMahon muffed Bob Aspromonte's high bouncer for an error. Snider then laid a bunt and Snider broke it up with a bouncing single down the right field line.

DOWNS PITTSBURGH

In Saturday's play, St. Louis downed Pittsburgh 9-3, Chicago split edged Philadelphia 3-2, San Francisco defeated Chicago 4-3 and Los Angeles edged Milwaukee 8-7.

MICHIGAN TOPS ONTARIO

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Mike Rodriguez, United States national 135-pound wrestling champion, won the middleweight class to help Michigan defeat Ontario 16-15 in a wrestling contest Saturday. Rodriguez, who weighed up a pinch when Ontario produced no 140 - pounder, won a 7-0 decision over Toronto high school teacher Roger Doner. Lightweight Mario Lutila of Sudbury pinned Bob Sowers for one of Ontario's three wins.

Errors, Ejections

Kenmors Whip Kingston

Behind the five-hit hurling of Larry Soden, the Belleville Kenmore swept to an easy 12-1 victory over Kingston at the Fair Grounds yesterday afternoon.

Seven errors and disputed decisions did not help the Kingston youngsters in their first bid in the best-of-three series for the OSA junior major "A" Eastern Ontario championship.

The second game is scheduled for the Cricket Field, Kingston, next Sunday starting at 2.30. The winners of the series draw a bye into the all-Ontario championships.

It was a baseball game tied at one-all until the bottom of the third when a disputed plate decision and rhubarb netted the Kenmore three runs — and the ball game. After that came arguments and ejections on the part of the visitors and the Kenmore coasted home.

Rod Aylesworth went the route for Kingston and was nicked for 14 safeties, whiffing seven and walking five. After the hassle at the plate in the third he never regained his early-innings form.

Disputes and errors followed. Plate umpire Al Kelleher ruled with an iron thumb and tossed three Kingston players, including their star catcher O'Donnell, out of the game.

Soden had little trouble with the visitors. He held them to three hits until the ninth inning when they got the remaining pair. His team fielded well behind him, committing only two miscues and killing a third inning Kingston rally with a smart double play. He struck out eleven and issued three walks.

Pat Asselines' triple and the first Kingston error gave the Kenmors a run lead in the first inning. Kingston tied it in the third on singles by McConnell and Earl. That ended the best baseball of the game.

The winners got to Aylesworth for four hits and three runs after the plate disturbance when Kingston hotly disputed Kelleher's "safe" call on Asselines at the plate.

They added two on a hit and two errors in the fifth and nicked the Kingston hurler for three solid clouts and three tallies in the sixth.

The disrupted Kingston club continued to kick the ball around and two errors and two hits secured a pair for the Kenmore in the seventh. Four hits and two more miscues netted them another two runs in the eighth.

Asselline was the big gun for the winners with a triple and two singles. Soden helped his own cause with three singles. Mawby had a tripis and single, Pulford and Monzo two singles each. Gary Goyer hit a double and Moe Hunter a single.

The teams:

Kingston: Earl, O'Donnell, Taylor, Anderson, Mercier, McCue, Thompson, Osborne, Konowich, Fraser, McConnell, Robinson, Aylesworth.

Kenmors: Follwell, Vaughan, Asselline, Goyer, Mawby, Soden, Hunter, Forsythe, Monzo, Weston, Clapp and Locke.

Trudeau Even Series

Lyle Wannamaker's three-run homer with two out in the first inning paced Trudeau Meteor to a 5-2 victory Monday in Construction at the CNRA Park yesterday afternoon.

Trudeau's win tied the best-of-seven Commercial softball league finals at one game apiece. The next two games are to be on Tuesday and Thursday nights, both at the CNRA Park.

After Wannamaker's homer had opened up a 3-0 lead in the top of the first, Lightfoots cut the margin to 3-2 in their half of the inning. That was it as far as the losers were concerned, while Trudeau plated single markers in the fourth and sixth to wrap it up.

Peggy Long toiled for the Lightfoots. He gave up five hits, struck out four and passed five.

Wannamaker's blast was the big blow for the winners while Hits had 2 doubles, "Deacon" Whiting, Doug Murray and Day singles.

Ralph Plaxe and Jack Caddick collected two singles apiece in a losing cause. Long hit a double and Don Wood one single.

Giants Like Etcheverry

NEW YORK (AP) — There's nothing wrong with Sam Etcheverry that a second right arm won't cure. Then he'll be terrific instead of just great.

That was the sentiment today of New York Giants, who still felt the effect of Etcheverry's magic that guided the Cards to a 21-20 upset victory over the New Yorkers before 39,958 at Yankee Stadium Sunday.

The game marked the first regular season National Football League appearance for Etcheverry, whom the Cards signed when a technicality in his Canadian League contract with Montreal Alouettes was violated.

"Canadian ball is good ball and he is tough," he said afterward. "The defenses are much tougher to handle here. But I like it."

Despite a shoulder injury six weeks ago, Etcheverry completed 10 of 23 passes for 97 yards and one touchdown. The touchdown was a five - yard screen pass to fullback Frank Mestnik late in the fourth period.

"Whenever the weather is warm, the arm feels a lot better," he said. "But it really has come around in the last two weeks. I've had no pain at all recently."

Reed Takes Singles

TORONTO (CP) — Whitney Reed, who flouts the best training rules, upset Mike Sangster of Torquay, England 3-6, 6-4, 6-4, 6-2 Sunday to win the Canadian men's singles tennis championship.

Sangster, 21, blasted into the final past Francois Godbout of Waterloo, Que., 6-4, 6-4, 6-4 Saturday. Reed made the final by beating Bob Bedard of Lennoxville, Que., 6-4, 6-2, 7-5, 6-4, ended the Canadian's hopes for a fourth championship.

Argos Lucky To Tie

Als Whip Riders, Cats Nip Stamps

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A couple of individual records, a couple of near - misses and one tie ball game highlight the Western phase of the Canadian Football League's partial season packed with thrills and excitement for fans in two towns.

Hamilton Tiger-Cats, only undefeated team in the CFL after 5 games, gained a 38-38 victory over Edmonton Eskimos on Saturday night, still by virtue of stretch their winning streak to seven games when they face Eastern champs Roughriders at Regina.

At Vancouver, the winless British Columbia Lions will be battling for their first victory of the season against Calgary Stampeders. The Argos withstood a late rally by Edmonton Eskimos Saturday night to escape with an 8-8 tie at Edmonton.

In Saturday's other game, an Eastern Conference clash, Montreal Alouettes earned their first win of the season by defeating Ottawa Rough Riders 36-12 at Montreal.

Tonight's games are the last of 10 appearances by Eastern Conference teams in Western Conference cities this year.

GAME TEARS SCARS

At Calgary, 30,875 fans watched the Stampeders take a 10-7 first-quarter lead, then behind 17-10 at the half, then burst ahead 25-17 in the third quarter. But the Tiger Cats roared back for three last - quarter touchdowns — including a shocker by Gerry McDougall when he recovered his own punt and dashed over the goal line. Don Sutherin's convert became the eventual margin of victory when Calgary's George Hansen missed a field goal attempt on the last play and Stamps had to settle for a single on the kick.

McDougall scored two touchdowns, both in the last quarter. Red Paul Dekker caught two touchdown passes and halfback Gerney Stanley sprinted 52 yards for another. Sutherin nicked four converts and a field goal.

Rookie half Ed Buchanan scored two Calgary touchdowns. Gene Filipski and quarterback Eagle Day ran each. Hansen kicked two field goals, four converts and the single. Filipski also scooted a single on a missed field goal.

ATTRACT RECORD CROWD

At Edmonton, a crowd of 21,530 broke Clarke Stadium's attendance record of 20,600, set at the 1957 Grey Cup.

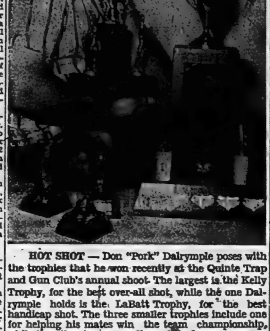
Toronto quarterback Tobin Rote tied the pace set by the conclusion of the ground game. He completed 22 of 36 throws for 305 yards, including a first-quarter touchdown toss to flanker Jim Roumbres that covered 33 yards.

Toronto's other points came on singles by Cookie Gilchrist and Bill Mitchell, both on missed field goal attempts.

Don Getty scored the Edmonton touchdown and Jackie Parker kicked the first of the scorcery in the fourth quarter. End Vic Chapman kicked a single in the first quarter.

NEW QUARTER STARS

Gerry Thomphries, 22, 13th quarterback processed by Montreal since Sam Etcheverry's departure, spurred the Alouettes to their victory throwing two touchdown passes and scoring a third himself against the injury-weakened Rough Riders.



Montreal coach Perry Moss said after the game that Thompkins "has a real good arm, good vision and he can run. He's our quarterback."

Thompkins cut by Ottawa earlier this season, made a steady ground game pay off.

He threw 21 passes, completing four and losing three in interceptions. But a 46-yard pass play to Don Clark brought one touchdown and a 37-yard play involving Ross Beattie, another Ottawa castoff, a second.

George Dixon went over last tackle four yards for a touchdown and Thompkins one yard. Billy Bewley converted two of them.

HOT SHOT — Don "Pork" Dalrymple poses with the trophies that he won recently at the Quinte Trap and Gun Club's annual shoot. The largest is the Kelly Trophy, for the best over-all shot, while the one Dalrymple holds is the. LaBatt Trophy, for the best handicap shot. The three smaller trophies include one for helping his mates win the team championship, while the other two are replicas of the larger ones.

Increased agricultural exhibits, possibly fewer entries in the horse and cattle classes, and an attendance at about average sums up the 1961 edition of the Stirling Fair, held Saturday afternoon.

Ideal fall weather for farm work possibly kept a few of the district farmers at home, but there was a big turnout of younger people; 4-H Club members had a big day, and there were races of all kinds to satisfy all ages.

Fair president Earl Wallace said the attendance was about average for the fall classic.

BUILDINGS PACKED

One of the features of the fair was the splendid showing in the agricultural building, which was packed with exhibits of all kinds.

District public school children had their own section for the display of school work and garden products, while the Hastings Sweet Corn Club, the South Hastings Grain Club and the Trent-Moira 4-H Forestry Club all had attractive displays.

Some kind of a record was achieved by the Stirling Calf Club with its 25 members having 100 percent completion of their summer project. All 25 showed their calves at the club achievement day held in connection with the fair.

Winners in the junior group of the calf club achievement day were Calvin Sharpe, Ron Heath, Ted Reid and Grant Hagerman.

Club leaders are Douglas Detlor and Paul McKeown.

Stirling and district homemakers outdid themselves in their display of home cooking and preserves of all kinds. There was also a big display of flowers and of needlework, quilts and other home crafts.

CHEESE CLASSES

Six Stirling district cheesemakers competed in the cheese classes. The makers were Harold Saarr of Harold, Don Pollock of Stirling, C. Blair of Marmora, Ivan Sine of Eldorado, Ekreid Elliott of Foxboro and Thomas Sarles of Stirling.

In the livestock section Harold Harris of Madoc and Erwin McGuire of Crookston showed sheep and swine. Cattle were shown by C. Nelson of Campbellford, Elmer Wood of Ivanhoe, A. J. Elmhurst of Indian River, W. A. Dunford of Springbrook and Allan Frankl and Sons of Madoc.

Among those showing horses were Cecil Woods of Madoc, A. Cook and sons of Newburgh, Donald Heath and Murray Heath of Campbellford, Jim McCormick of Belleville, Jim Johnson of Wooler, Harold Johnson of Stirling, Robert Dunford of Halleway, Norm Whytock of Madoc, and Alex Moynes of Brighton.

MIDWAY ATTRACTIONS

Midway attractions for the younger crowd were provided by Amusements Canadienne, with the different rides being well patronized throughout the afternoon.

Special events included a school parade won by S.S. No. 7 Rawdon Public School; selections by the Stirling-Rawdon School Band headed by Maurice Bell of Stirling, and solo and group numbers by Barbara Woodbeck's baton twirlers.

The oldest woman on the grounds was Mrs. Rilla Rodgers who despite her 96 years said she was enjoying the fair.

RACES STAGED

There were three classes of harness racing, a pony race for the junior riders, a carriage race for those showing drivers, and a bicycle race for boys.

The official provisional standing in the Bundestag (Lower House) with two seats still to be contested was: CDU 241, Social Democrats, 190, and Free Democrats, 66.

The standing the previous Bundestag with two less seats was: CDU 201, social Democrats, 196, and smaller parties the rest.

ALL DISTRICTS REPORT

Official preliminary returns from all election districts gave these popular vote results:

Christian Democrats: 14,238,884 or 45.3 per cent, compared to 50.1 per cent in 1957.

Social Democrats: 11,408,253 or 36.3 per cent compared with 31.8 in 1957.

Free Democrats: 4,009,996 or 12.75 per cent, compared to 7.7 per cent in 1957.

The remaining votes went to splinter parties.

Adenauer himself was re-elected by a commanding majority in his own district of Bonn.

Brandt said after he learned of his party's gains, that he would like to see a three-party coalition, but Adenauer Bestenajis promptly rejected such suggestions.

Political experts said a coalition between the Christian Democrats and the Free Democrats was more likely.

Youthful Erich Mende, the Free Democrat leader, attributed his party's gains to the fact that "we rejected Adenauer as leader of a government with which we would go into coalition . . . that helped us."

If the Christian Democrats and Free Democrats join in forming a new government, there could be some minor changes in foreign policy, but little change domestically.

The Free Democrats see West Germany as caught between East and West. They believe the country should remain bound to the Western alliance, but at the same time favor feelers toward the Communist world.

DECISIONS NECESSARY

In any case, the new government will have to make quick decisions in foreign policy. Critical Western decisions have been held up by the uncertainty of the outcome of the election.

It has been no secret that the United States, Britain and France did not wish to do anything about Germany's future that would jeopardize Adenauer's chances.

Anxiety about the Berlin situation—and perhaps some lack of confidence in Adenauer himself—may have accounted for the switch from the Christian Democrats.

Brandt won many friends by his strong stand against the Russians when the Soviets ran a wall through Berlin Aug. 13. The Free Democrats also may have won votes from Germans who feel negotiating with the Russians is the only way to avoid nuclear war.

If a coalition does not come about, Brandt said he would continue to serve as mayor of West Berlin.

LIVELY INSTRUMENT

The piano accordion got its name when Bouton of Paris in 1852 added a keyboard to the historic instrument.

for the Trafalgar Square demonstration Sunday.

From his jail cell, Russell issued a statement calling for an international resistance movement against nuclear weapons.

"We call upon people everywhere to rise against this monstrous tyranny," his statement said. "We call upon scientists to refuse work on nuclear weapons.

"We call upon workers to black (boycott) all work connected with them and to use their industrial strength in the struggle for life.

"We will not tolerate the incineration of human beings because governments are occupied with idiotic matters of prestige."

The London demonstrators had planned to start their rally in Trafalgar Square and march to Parliament Square, about a mile along Whitehall. When heavily reinforced patrols of police barred their way they sat down in the square on the roads and sidewalks.

CARRIED OFF

Police had to carry them bodily off to the fleets of waiting buses, trucks and police vans. Many of the men were uncermoniously dragged through puddles. The women were carried.

The rally petered out after midnight when 200 demonstrators again began a march on Parliament. Police wheeled in a fresh detachment of reinforcements which had been held in reserve. Mounted police rode up and the final sally by the demonstrators was turned back.

Authorities extended by 24 hours Sunday's ban on processions and assemblies in the area after the campaigners threatened to march on Parliament Square again today.

There were minor anti-bomb demonstrations in the United States. About 100 marchers moved on the nuclear sub shipyard near New London, Conn.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RICHTER

GENERAL TENDENCIES—Until 1 p.m. very adverse aspects are in effect which you would be wise to make no changes and to avoid anything whatever that is drastic until after that time when the influences change and you then are able to arrange conditions as you would like them to be for a considerable period of time to come. Discuss material matters.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Act very circumspectly until 1 p.m. or you can get into trouble of some sort or other. Afternoon is best for any important conferences or matters concerning credit. Be sure you give dinner out-in some charming restaurant in P.M.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Make sure you do not follow that pugnacious new friend this morning or you could be rolled in some way. Evening is best time to make new contacts and get information you need. Be alert and charming for best results. Retire early.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Important you conscientiously get rid of obligations before 1 p.m. and then you do not start an argument with the one you love. Then the remainder of day and evening are fine for keeping the ball rolling in the right direction. Advance.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) Take care you are diplomatic with associates until 1 p.m. Later, iron out any differences with those who are vital to your well being. Don't lose your temper, but be concentrative and understanding. Get future planned wisely. Grow.

Leo (July 22 to August 21) Morning is best spent putting things in order and keeping out of trouble with workers or others around you. Evening is best time to get together with associates and plan your activities and the future more wisely. Time for expansion.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) Here is a day and evening when every opportunity is yours to have a wonderful time provided that you are not extravagant and become too excited. Plan your activities early and spread cheer and sunshine wherever you go. Be happy.

Libra (Sept. 22 to Oct. 22) Vital that you give attention to the welfare of home and family today and tonight. Be sure you are useful around the house and very devoted. Don't be forceful in any way or there is trouble.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You are tempted to be forceful in the attainment of what you desire until 1 p.m., this would be most unwise. Look for a new outlet to reach your goals instead. You will be successful and tonight is fine for having a wonderful time.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Take care you do not commit yourself heavily or jeopardize present security today. The latter part of the day is fine for making improvements to property and increasing its value. Be sure you set up a workable budget in p.m.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Many delays may seem frustrating in a.m., but this gives you time to plan future activities wisely. The remainder of the day and evening will then prove profitable if you make the right contacts sociably. Combine business with pleasure.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Until 2 in the afternoon nothing seems to materialise for you, so be sure you utilize this time to get pet projects well worked out in your mind and on paper. This will lead to success. P.M. fine for going to the theatre, enjoying art etc.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) Steer clear of that irate companion who is troubled and wants a scapegoat. After lunch he or she, will feel much better and you can come to a fine understanding. Be sure you get into town in p.m. and have a jolly time with good friends.

If your child is born today, his or her early life will be fraught with problematical affairs simply because the nature is a temperamental and impatient one. However, upon maturity the reverse will occur and the chart becomes very successful in professions where steady nerves and the ability to work hard are prime requisites. Property management is ideal in this horoscope, or the law, whether male or female.

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE

CAN YOU MATCH THIS ?

ANYWHERE ? It can't be done ! We say this for we have a beautiful well-treed lot, 100' x 200' deep, on one of Belleville's choicest residential spots, a beautiful, level building lot that would have 3 bedrooms, tiled bath, fireplace and a big eat-in kitchen. This is a most unusual offering and we are sure you will agree that it is a real bargain at $1,500 but — we have an experienced builder who will build you a home on this lot for $12,000 complete. That is not a mistake — the price is $13,500 for the lot and home — the Down Payment would be only $2,500 with $75.00 monthly for lot and the entire package — ready to move into. Ideal location, for the deal before the builder changes his mind. Call

Successful Living

By Doris Clark

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Need More Experience

DEAR DORIS:—Bob is 18 and I'm 16. Other girls told me he was a wolf but he behaved himself with me. Then he dropped me.

DORIS CLARK

Soon after, I met Pete, and everything changed for me. I was an altogether different person, and my friends liked me better this way. They told me to hang on to Pete because he was a nice guy and I like him. He is 20.

The thing is I can talk to Bob and Pete for hours about personal things and it doesn't bother us and they don't get fresh. I like Bob but he isn't worth it and I like Pete because he is more sensible and is worth it. Please help me. —MIXED UP.

DEAR MIXED UP:—If you can give such good reasons for liking Pete and dropping Bob, and still feel mixed up, make no decisions. You need more experience.

Your own good behavior has some bearing on their not getting fresh; doubtless, but if Pete has a good influence on you, keep him for a friend (even though he is a bit old for you) while you continue to play the field. One of these days it will be your own opinion, not what your friends think, that counts.

DEAR DORIS:—I'm bored and so is my husband. We have been married seven years, have no family. We have enough money to manage on and are buying our house. I do all my own work but the heavy cleaning.

My husband comes home tired every night and we have little to say to each other. I try to get him to discuss his work with me, and he tries, but that's over in about five minutes. Then I tell him about the tap that needs a new washer. He reads the paper and I read your column. Then that's over.

He is too tired to go out and I don't know where I'd want to go anyway. What's your prescription for boredom? —JUST BORED.

DEAR JUST BORED:—You will be less tired if you do more.

Boredom is an important cause of fatigue. The trick is to find the spare time interest which is right for you and your husband. Your particular situation might lie in making furniture or jewellery; in painting pictures or walls; in gardening or golf. One couple joined a "you" group and learned to play bridge, which became a lifelong delight.

In Canada such resources are almost endless. You may feel listless to start with—but if you are desperate enough you'll find some answers to your plight. Better include a medical examination in your survey. If a tonic can help, your doctor can prescribe it.

DEAR DORIS:—Being divorced and having two children, I re-married when the children were very young. They always call their stepfather Dad.

My son is being married soon. Would you kindly tell me how the notice should read in the newspaper, as his real father is still living, whereabouts unknown. — MOTHER OF TWO.

DEAR MOTHER OF TWO — Since his stepfather has raised him, and the relationship is a legal one, he deserves recognition in the place of your son's real father.

If his fiancee's parents are making the announcement, which is usual, it could read as follows: "Mr. and Mrs. John Smith of 10 Main Avenue announce the engagement (or marriage) of their daughter, Mary, to Mr. William Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Black, 30 King Street, also of this city."

look off in perfect weather. A minute later it had crashed, disintegrated and burned.

Alfred M. Coutu, 35, a disabled Korean war veteran and factory worker from Waukegan, Ill., saw the tragic crash which killed his wife and four children.

Coutu escorted his wife Joyce, 35, and their children, three boys and a girl, all under five, aboard the plane for a flight to Tampa to visit Mrs. Coutu's parents. Coutu then went to the observation deck to watch the takeoff.

EYEWITNESS ACCOUNTS

Eyewitnesses said the Electra reached an altitude of several hundred feet, then faltered and appeared to lose power. Its right wing dipped almost vertically as it made a right turn, plunging t o w a r d the ground. The wing cut through high-tension wires, hit a 35-foot high railway embankment, bounced into the air, then crashed into a cornfield just west of the airport.

One eyewitness said the plane exploded spewing bodies and plane parts along an 800-foot swath it cut through the field.

"I saw the right wing hit a high-tension line just outside the airport boundary and the whole body of it lit up in a huge blowtorch flame. It went down and seemed to be enveloped in flames."

Of the 32 passengers, 14 were women, five children and 13 men. The crew included a pilot, co-pilot, flight engineer and two stewardesses.

Survivor Says UN Plane Shaken By Explosions

Rhodesia Denies Rumor Katanga Jet Fired at It

BY Ross Reuter-AP

NDOLA — A Swedish inquiry opened in private here today into the fateful plane crash that killed Dag Hammarskjold while two more bodies were discovered in the wreckage.

The investigation got under way amid widely-conflicting speculation about the cause of the crash—an aerial attack or sabotage were seen as possible causes—but Rhodesian authorities officially dismissed any suggestion that the aircraft was shot down.

With the discovery of more bodies, the death toll rose to 13. A Canadian secretary was killed in the crash of the DC-6B less than eight miles from here in Northern Rhodesia.

Only one person, Sgt. Harold Julian, an American air force security guard, survived the crash. He was in serious condition in the hospital here, but was reported today to be "holding his own."

PROBE CAUSE

Investigators probing the cause of the crash were keeping an open mind on the possible sabotage or that the two jet planes owned by the Katanga government were somehow involved.

Col. Ben Matick, U.S. air attache from Leopoldville, who arrived here today, said only he was convinced that speculation that the plane may have been shot down "is absolutely nonsense."

"There's absolutely nothing in it," he said.

Seasoned pilots who viewed the fire in the debris-and wreckage agreed with Matick. They said it looked like typical results of a crash during a landing approach by loss of power or faulty instruments.

Julian said a series of explosions shook the plane before it crashed. They said shortly after the 56-year-old secretary-general had changed his mind about landing at Ndola in darkness and told the pilot to alter course to another destination.

UN officials in the Congo capital of Leopoldville said they did not exhibit any credibility that Katanga's two jet planes were in either directly or indirectly responsible for the crash.

However, Northern Rhodesian officials denied a report that an unidentified aircraft had circled Ndola airport on Sunday night before Hammarskjold's plane was due. Only Hammarskjold's plane was known to the airport, they said.

Rhodesian air force fighters today escorted a chartered UN plane here from Elisabethville in the Katanga province of the Congo, hoped to have talks with President Moise Tshombe of Katanga to begin a new cease-fire

Canadian Staff Moves Into New Building

LONDON (CP)—The 200 military and civilian personnel of the Canadian joint staff here left their headquarters of more than 10 years to move Monday into a newly-decorated building at Grosvenor Square in the smart Mayfair district.

The building, erected two years before the war, was the home of the United States Embassy until the new embassy was opened last year. It was bought from the U.S. so all the various Canadian government offices in London, scattered through some 15 buildings, could be consolidated in two locations —Grosvenor Square and Canada House, a few minutes away in Trafalgar Square.

The joint staff, headed by senior representative of the three services and the defence research board under the chairmanship of Maj.-Gen. George Kitching, keeps in close touch with the British armed forces; research organizations and industries producing military equipment.

Gen. Kitching is adviser on military affairs to George Drew, Canadian high commissioner to the United Kingdom. He is also military representative to SHAPE headquarters in Paris and adviser to Canada's NATO delegation.

Auto Workers, And GM Reach Decision Day

DETROIT (AP) — This is Decision Day for General Motors and the United Auto Workers union.

Do they reach agreement on a new three-year contract or do a rash of crippling local-level strikes erupt into a nationwide walkout?

Both sides were due to go back at the bargaining table GM Vice-President Louis Seaton said "it looks like a long day."

But he and UAW President Walter Reuther said progress was being made and neither appeared pessimistic as they resumed bargaining shortly after midnight.

Today is Decision Day because the UAW's 300-member General Motors council has been summoned to meet Wednesday to approve or reject a new contract. The council is made up of local union presidents and shop committeemen from across the country.

Effects of local-level walkouts have spilled over to 20 additional General Motors of Canada announced Monday it was laying off 6,000 at its Oshawa, Ont., plants which normally depend upon GM's U.S. factories for parts.

There was no hope of getting the world's No. 1 automaker back into full production at all its 120 U.S. plants before next week. And GM of Canada said there was no chance, even if all strikes ended today, of its avoiding the 6,000-worker layoff.

MASS UPRISING FEARED BY UN IN KATANGA

Belgian Civilians Voice Bitter Hatred

ELISABETHVILLE (Reuters) —Hatred and suspicion stalked this capital of breakaway Katanga province today amid fears of a mass uprising of Katanga civilians against the United Nations forces.

The situation in the tense city had deteriorated to the point where an explosion was feared at any minute.

Belgian civilians left over from the days of colonial rule openly expressed their bitter hatred of the UN forces who are helping Katanga province for control of the province.

Doctors at a city hospital charged that UN troops were sniping at unarmed civilians, both Negro and white. But Brigadier Conor O'Brien, chief UN representative in Katanga, said this was not true in general.

Europeans living on the outskirts of Elisabethville meanwhile charged that Negro members of Jeunskat, a Katanga gendarmerie unit, have been ordering European homes destroyed, looting restaurants and arresting Kasai servants.

NEED TENSION

But despite rising tension, contain representing Katanga's 20,000 Belgian, British, French and Italian residents insists safe sabotage or that the two jet planes owned by the Katanga government were somehow involved.

Col. Ben Matick, U.S. air attache from Leopoldville, who arrived here today, said only he was convinced that speculation that the plane may have been shot down "is absolutely nonsense."

Canada Will Hum From Sea To Sea During Century Year

OTTAWA (CP)—Pick a day—any day—in the year 1967 when Canada celebrates her 100th birthday as a nation: The country will be humming from sea to sea on the hum of suggestions forwarded to Ottawa seven years before the centennial event.

It would cost several billion dollars to carry out all the suggestions — athletic, intellectual, artistic, academic, material or public—Prime Minister Diefenbaker told the Commons last day, when he tabled the list of about 100 ideas.

Here's a sample of what might be going on during any of the 365 days in 1967:

There is a royal visit on. And a Freedom or Confederation Train is moving across the country, bearing among other things a replica of the ship sailed by one of Canada's numerous early explorers, a Canadiana Pavilion exhibit minia tures of the Fathers of Confederation, the Governor - General and historical documents.

The Empire Games, Winter Olympics, Pan American Games or an international regatta have been, are, or will be held in Canada.

There is a new flag, a new national anthem and a common license plate for motorists.

Plenary meetings of the United Nations, NATO and the Commonwealth nations are being held, plus conferences and scores of international organizations invited to come to Canada on the birthday present.

It may be Canadian Family Day or Law Day or Week of the Deaf or Canadian life.

These are fireworks, military tattoos and displays of folk, social postage stamps, coin issues, medals and youth conferences.

Some cities would appear—a model satellite town for Ottawa and a new metropolis, a science city or a centennial city along the St. Lawrence.

Mr. Diefenbaker singled out the Confederation Train Monday as a good idea. He noted that some of the suggestions already are proceeding, including reference in the National Capital Commission's streamlining program for Ottawa.

THE CHAIR IS EMPTY — Chair normally occupied by U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold on the Security Council is vacant as members of the council gather for meeting to consider impact of Hammarskjold's death on the world organization. Jobless Below Year Ago First Time in 18 Months

OTTAWA (CP)—For the first time in 18 months, unemployment in Canada has dropped below its year-earlier level, declining to 323,000 at mid-August, from 354,000 a month earlier, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today. The August jobless represented 4.8 per cent of the labor force, compared with 5.2 per cent a month earlier and 5.3 per cent a year earlier.

The 31,000 drop in unemployment between July and August was attributed to a larger-than-usual decline in the jobless figures for young people. Early hiring in the automobile industry and general strengthening in a number of other industries also contributed.

"In the past years," said the labor department in its analysis of the jobless report, "Unemployment has seldom decreased and often increased during this interval."

The August unemployment total was the fifth monthly decline in unemployment since the winter peak of 719,000 in February when the seasonally-adjusted rate was 11.3 per cent.

The picture in brief, with estimates in thousands:

	Aug.	July	Aug.
	1961	1961	1960
Labor force	6,704	6,743	6,625
Employed	6,381	6,389	6,271
Unemployed	323	354	352

The unemployment report is based on a survey of 35,000 households across Canada.

The labor force report said there was no "appreciable" change in employment between July and August, which stood at 6,381,000 a month ago. The labor force increased by 39,000 to 6,704,000, which is more than usual for this period.

The Congo Loses Best Friend It Had in Hammarskjold

Lynn Heinzerling was the Pulitzer Prize for International reporting this year for his coverage of the birth of the Belgian Congo as an independent nation. Now on a temporary assignment in Berlin, he analyzes the impact UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold had on post-war African state.

By LYNN HEINZERLING

BERLIN (AP) — The Congo has lost the best friend it ever had.

When UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold died in a plane crash in Northern Rhodesia he was on a mission he first undertook in July, 1960—to safeguard the unity, territorial integrity and sovereignty of a new and confused republic.

Hammarskjold took smabs, insults and vilification from the immature, helpless and self-seeking political leaders of The Congo. He did not move an inch from what he considered was his mandate from the United Nations.

President Patrice Lumumba and other Congolese leaders from the first assailed the secretary - general whenever they felt their own personal progress was being impeded.

Not one of them contributed as much toward making the Congo free from foreign rule and a stable political state as Hammarskjold. He was far from understanding the task The Congo when he met his death.

Moise Tshombe, the Katanga leader now fighting the United Nations, opposed it in many ways from the beginning. Tshombe has been determined from the birth of the republic to keep his copper-rich province independent.

Gen. Victor Lundula, once commander of the Congolese Army, turned his back on Ham-

HOUSE BUILDING SHOWS INCREASE OVER LAST YEAR

Other Construction Down a Little

OTTAWA (CP) — House construction will increase appreciably this year compared with 1960, Works Minister Walker said Monday.

"The balance" exists between demand and supply, he told the Commons in a long statement covering National Housing Act matters.

Other construction is down for the first seven months of the year, he said. The interest rate of 6% per cent on National Housing Act mortgages would be lowered as soon as the government can take that step without discouraging non - government supplies of mortgage funds.

Mr. Walker also said that a third offering of mortgages held by the government housing agency, Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, probably will be made in the next few months to encourage a secondary market in mortgages.

There was growing interest and "we now know that a number of loans purchased in June have since been resold to Canadian pension funds, some of which had not previously invested in mortgages."

PROVIDES FUNDS

He spoke on a resolution providing legislation which will:

1. Provide another $500,000,000 for National Housing Act loans, bringing the total to $2,000,000,000;

2. Add another $100,000,00—or act as loans to municipalities looking at improving sewage treatment plants;

3. Add another $5,000,000—to

USES SNAKE FOR WEAPON

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP)—Daniel Calvin Milligan is charged with assault with a deadly weapon—a snake. Police say Milligan, 19, admitted dropping a nonvenomous serpent into an outside vent of the air-conditioning system at the apartment of his former wife, Miss Bonnie Johnston, 18, Sept. 4. The snake, which was long and three inches in diameter, was found the next day by another tenant. The viper was in a cloth bag.

Clash Expected Over Selecting UN Secretary

Russia Likely to Press For Three-Man Board

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The United Nations General Assembly opens today (3 p.m. EST) under the shadow of a possible East-West clash over a new UN secretary - general to succeed Dag Hammarskjold, killed in an African plane crash.

Hammarskjold's untimely death—he had more than a year to go in his six-year term as UN boss — added to the grave cold war issues already facing the UN and may make this session the most critical in UN history.

For the first time since the UN was founded in San Francisco 16 years ago the General Assembly will convene without a secretary-general.

Delegates are expected to hear expressions of condolence and then adjourn for at least 24 hours out of respect to Hammarskjold, the suave Swede who never stopped trying to find a tough problem in world affairs and himself became an issue in the East-West cold war.

A new secretary - general must be selected by the Security Council with the agreement of all five permanent members — the United States, the Soviet Union, France, Britain and Nationalist China. A succession must be approved by the General Assembly.

The assembly was confronted by a long agenda of 95 items including such issues as Communist China's admission, testing nuclear weapons in outer space and Berlin, crisis also may come up.

With the sudden turn of events, the Russians are expected to press with new vigor for their plan to replace the secretary-general with a three-man board. In that triumvirate would be a Communist, a Westerner and a neutral representative, each with veto power. Premier Khrushchev personally introduced the plan before the assembly last year in a table-thumping attack on Hammarskjold.

The Western powers have rejected the troika idea and their plan on grounds it would hamstring the UN's ability to take firm action and that Hammarskjold did in The Congo.

Yet at the same time Russia would pick this time to start a new dispute about UN organization the Western powers charge. The Soviet Union balked at a UN plan to set up a UN body, modelled after the peacetime Economic Council of the Second World War.

O'Grady was originally charged with capital murder arising from the death of his wife Verna, 31, on a bus en route to Kingston General Hospital after being struck by a car on Highway 2 on Sunday last Jan. 28.

After the capital murder true bill was returned today, O'Grady pleaded guilty to the reduced charge of murder charge.

Sentence was pronounced by Mr. Justice Ferguson, of the Supreme Court of Ontario.

Dr. Schneider was a former professor at the Warsaw Academy of Fine Art. He is internationally known for his work in ceramics. Dr. Schneider received his degree in 1914, in stories, in ceramics this year at the Canadian National Exhibition. An interesting feature regarding his craft is that he always uses Ontario Red Firing Clay. He claims that the Ontario Clay is more alive.

Mary Schneider, his wife, is also of international renown, being a graduate of Warsaw College of Art and she also holds a diploma from the Warsaw Academy of Fine Arts. Many of her paintings are in the Permanent Collection of the National Galleries in Warsaw. She has exhibited her paintings in Poland, Switzerland, Paris, London, Tehran and Beirut. Just recently Mrs. Schneider held a one-man showing at the Upstairs Gallery in Toronto. Mrs. Schneider is also acting at the Artist-Work Shop in Toronto.

During their stay in Belleville, Dr. and Mrs. Schneider will visit the Arts and Crafts Registration, which is being held at the Corby Public Library, and will be in attendance there on Thursday evening, September 21st at which time they will display some of their prize winning collections, hold a discussion period and will answer any questions on ceramics and art.

Colin F. Hepburn Dies in Hospital, Ill a Month

Major Colin Francis Hepburn, 239 Charles Street, prominent business man during the years of two World Wars, died at the Belleville General Hospital on Monday afternoon following an illness of a month. He was well known in the Quinte district and for many years he resided in Picton, his native town.

Mr. Hepburn was born in Picton, 71 years ago, being the son of the late Colin and Mrs. William Hepburn and received his public and high school education in the Prince Edward County town.

His earliest childhood he took an interest in soldiery and joined the militia regiment in Picton, becoming most proficient soldier. On the outbreak of the First World War, he joined the overseas forces and became Liaison Officer between the Canadian Army and the Royal Flying Corps and served in that capacity for the duration.

At the second World War he again offered his services to the government and was recruitment officer of the Hastings Regiment. He also held down another position he filled with distinction and capability. He served in Prince Edward-Lennox Quebec City and enjoyed the rank of Captain. Quartermaster Sergeant after the conclusion of the First World War he joined the Militia Staff Corps in Toronto and at the time of his death he was the distributor for that organization in Belleville.

HAD MANY FRIENDS

In his business life he enjoyed the full confidence and confidence of wide clientele, in the civic arena he served the public in office but was most interested in municipal life. Politically he was a staunch Conservative and took many parts in Federal and Provincial elections during the years. He was a man of great charm and held the friendship of a wide circle in his social life. He enjoyed companionship and was liked by the people in the meeting old friends for a chat.

He was a member of the Anglican Church and also a member of the Belleville Club where he spent his leisure hours.

Surviving are his wife, the former Mary Currie, one daughter, Mrs. Lance (Kath-arine) Hepburn of Picton, one son, James Currie Hepburn of Belleville, two sisters, Mrs. T. D. MacArthur of Winnipeg and Mrs. Frank Nobes also of Winnipeg, one brother, Hugh and grandson, William Nethery of Picton.

The funeral will be held in St. Mary Magdalene Church in Picton on Thursday afternoon with interment in Glen wood cemetery.

Northern Parts Of County Feel Touch of Frost

Although the mercury has not dropped to within seven degrees of freezing in the immediate Belleville area, slight touches of frost have been reported for the past three nights from the more northern parts of the county.

Reports were that the temperature actually was low enough to turn corn leaves a bit white. Slight frost was reported in Hawdon township.

No damage to the canning corn was reported, however, and well over 95-percent of the corn has already been picked for the factories.

At Belleville the closest to frost was Sunday morning when the mercury dropped to a chilly 39 degrees. Monday morning the low was 42 degrees and last night the low was 46.

Increased Productivity Will Benefit Four Ways C of C Pres. Tells Rotarians

Canadians will benefit in four ways if they can manage to increase their productivity, local Rotarians were told by guest speaker A. O. Drydale, president of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce and superintendent of the local Canada Cement plant.

The resultant lower cost of the product will allow Canadian goods to sell competitively both at home and abroad, and result in a greater degree of market appeal and consumer acceptance and purchase. In this fashion a greater amount of profit will be realized by the firm involved which will allow more money for expansion and growth, taxes and wages. Through the latter there will be an increase in the standard of living for the average Canadian.

The final benefit is that increased productivity helps prevent inflation, Mr. Drydale said, by maintaining the individual's buying power, thus allowing him to save money as well.

Since Canada is a trading nation it is natural that competence must exist between the labor content of the goods she exports and those she imported, the McGill University graduate noted. He added that in Japan, where by far the most active and prosperous trading nation today, there has been a 131 percent increase in productivity whilst Canada has experienced a rise of only 14 percent. Western Germany has had four times the increase of Canada.

DUE TO STAGNATION

Canada's major problem of unemployment is due, he said, to great degree, to stagnation, the speaker suggested. This is the failure of the economy to grow at a rate in keeping with the expansion of population. Canada has the second highest birth-rate in the world, India being first. This is an increase of three times the rate in 1939 and is paralleled by a very low mortality rate. It is going to be a very real problem to feed, clothe, educate and provide jobs for all of these people, he added.

As an example of this very serious situation, Mr. Drydale suggested that Ontario would serve well. Currently, he said, there are some two million children in the province today of 14 years of age or under. There is a labor force of but slightly more than this figure. In a few years, he said, work to be found for these people if a policy of increased productivity to allow for the expansion of industry was not assumed by business and industry.

Government, he suggested, could only provide a favorable climate for the development through the introduction of tax allowances and a monetary policy of favorable interest and exchange rates. Business and industry would have to do the rest either through price decreases being granted only for increased production on the part of the firm involved which would reduce costs and ensure a market for their products.

Mr. Drydale was introduced by Rotarian Gus Freeman, who backed in the radio and club president Virgil James, and presented with a plowman's hat from the club.

Members of Fair Board Guests of Honor at Meet

PICTON — Directors of Prince Edward Agricultural Society were guests of honor at Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce directors' meeting recognizing the important role of the Society in promoting agriculture and community betterment.

President George Morden in welcoming the guests, pointed out that the C. of C. and Fair Board have much in common — volunteers are working for the good of the community.

"We are the first Fair Board doing a wonderful job and receiving all too little recognition," Mr. Morden declared. He pointed out that much effort goes into preparing for the three-day event. Entries in the Agricultural and Recreation Centre was added, the fair has seemed better than ever. He extended good wishes for the September 21-22-23 dates.

Society president Creighton Lockett in his address called to secure entertainment due to competition offered by other media. He also commended the fair is agriculture, with such features as parades, fairs and clubs designed to benefit youth. Only by volunteer effort are these made possible.

Secretary - treasurer Dodds felt one of the main benefits derived from the fairs was the County Agricultural and Recreation Centre which is so widely used. By reaching a high standard, the fair became eligible for Government grants and these made the Centre and other improvements possible. He referred to the value of the 4-H Clubs which play an important role at the fair and expressed thanks to merchants for their generous support. He urged greater support of one of Ontario's best fairs by attendance.

KIWANIANS PRAISED

Agricultural Representative Ivan Bell spoke on the many 4-H Club competitions and the Junior Farmer displays. He especially praised the Kiwanis Potato Club as an outstanding exhibit.

Hydro Crewmen Erect Poles for Tented City

A forest of hydro poles is reaching for the sky north of Belleville on the site of which will be the tented city built for the big International Plowing Match.

Hydro crewmen last week went into the 40-acre field on the Arthur Vermilyea farm north of Belleville and now have almost completed setting the poles and stringing the wire for what two weeks from now will be a city under canvas.

The area for the tented city has been laid out and within a few days will be ready for many booths, exhibits and other tented city attractions will commence.

This year's Inter-national Plowing Match is utilizing parts of four different farms on the 4th concessions of Thurlow and Sidney townships immediately west of No. 14 Highway.

Much of the plowing acreage is on the Clarence Vermilyea farm with approximately 40 acres being reserved for competition. Plowing will also be done on the Horace Knight and Clarence Bird farms.

As noted earlier, the big tented city is on the Arthur Vermilyea farm, where parking has also been arranged.

Council Plans to Change Confusing Street Names

TRENTON — At last night's meeting of Trenton council, the councillors voted to take legal steps to change the name of the section of Bleecker Street, lying in Kinwood Acres, to Bleecker Avenue. In years gone by the Graham family, well-known in the Trenton area, lived at 420 Bleecker and Councillor C. V. Graham is a connection of the family.

The move to change the name of the street was instigated by a letter from R. V. Young, a Birch Street resident.

Mr. Young said that this street is cut up and that delivery men, taxi drivers, etc., were misled up to his address. He said that this situation might have serious results in case of fire or an accident requiring ambulance service.

Council will consider changing the names of several other streets which give rise to some confusion because they are also signated "North" and "South," in cases where a pair of streets live on the streets in question. council may run into some opposition in its attempt to rename the streets. In that case, council's justification to name the street must be advertised and the case argued before the Ontario Municipal Board.

REPAIR POLICE STATION

Council voted to direct the firm of Berry and Coad to proceed with the reconstruction of floors in the Trenton police station, at a maximum cost of $2,500. The work to be based on a labor cost plus invoice cost of cost plus 15 per cent for the contractor. Mayor MacDonald suggested that the firm be given an estimate on the construction of a lunch room for the members of the police force. Councillor Ross Burtt said that a caution fan for the station had been ordered.

"Some weekends, the inmates who behave themselves cause quite an uncomfortable odor in the police station," he said.

"While you're at it," said Councillor N. J. McNair, "you should have an exhaust fan and get rid or some of those old unused benches at the north end."

"All the benches were in use last Saturday," explained Councillor Burtt.

"Perhaps they should be repaired and repainted," suggested the mayor.

LAND PROBLEMS

Council will ask the Trenton Traffic Committee to consider the town's problems with future needs in a situation involving the use by the town of a road"deliverance" which crosses over land owned by the CNR, and the presence of a CNR station platform on town land, adjacent to the road allowance. The area in question lies at the intersection of Quinte Street with Dundas St. W., in front of the CNR station. Councillor Graham said that council should proceed carefully in any suggested "land trade" as the town might require the land if a bridge was ever built to relieve from Quinte Street to the area in front of the Trenton Community Centre at some future date.

Trenton Legion branch will be given permission to hold Poppy Days on Nov. 4 and the night before, also to conduct a house-to-house campaign for donations on those dates.

Council voted to buy a half page of advertising in a new magazine, Outdoorsman Guide, which is being published by the Lake Ontario Development Association. Cost to the town will be $110. In addition to this, information about the town will be printed gratis in the publication. The magazine will be distributed at last sportsmen's shows and sent to various Boards of Commerce and other organizations in Canada and the United States.

PUC Will Replace Many Street Lights

TRENTON — Trenton public utilities will shortly embark upon a light replacement program in various areas of the town. In all, 57 lights will be replaced. Streets affected will be Division, Ramsay, West, Elizabeth, Leonard, Nicholson, Murray, Quinte, Gage, Richard, Leopold, and Louis.

The PUC will also be asked to provide lights for Elmwood Acres.

Burtt Wants Division Street 'Extras' Listed

TRENTON—Councillor Ross Burtt has challenged the town engineering department about "extras" on Division St.

At Monday night's council meeting Councillor Burtt asked town engineer Eric Aldersey to comment on any extra costs that occurred which would have the effect of running the projected cost of $105,000 into a larger figure Mr. Aldersey said that he could think of one instance where work to tie in the street sidewalk with private peoples walks and driveways would cost an additional $900. He also said that this work should have been in the original contract.

"Well, I'd like to know the cost of these extras before the next Council meeting," said Councillor Burtt.

Mr. Burtt also asked the engineer to explain how water lying between the curb and gutter would be allowed to run away this winter.

The present plans call for the laying of two inches of asphalt on the road to be based and the addition of an inch and a half next spring, the catch basins will be slightly higher than the street surface. Mr. Aldersey said that the water should run off through holes in the sides of the catch basins and that the catch basins in the centre of the road would be built up temporarily until the additional asphalt was laid.

Decide to Permit Burning Leaves If Chief Notified

TRENTON — Town residents may now burn leaves on their property, providing they first get permission from Fire Chief Cecil Ellis.

Last night town council amended the air pollution bylaw, which originally made this effect, to allow for the burning of leaves.

The Trenton Board of Health had asked council to remove leaves from the bylaw entirely. Council, aware of the fact that the removal of leaves would be a costly operation, finally amend the by-law to allow citizens to burn leaves in the fall.

Found Guilty Of Leaving Accident Scene

Arthur P. Mollett, 72, first concession of Hungerford, was found guilty of leaving the scene of an accident and fined $30 and costs in magistrate's court this morning.

Costs amounted to $38. Another charge of careless driving was later withdrawn. The fine was paid.

Evidence revealed that Mollett drove into the rear the rear end of another owned by Gordon Robert Smith of Goldcup Road, while it was parked outside 180 Station Street on August 31st. Damage to the Morrison car amounted to $280.

The accused told the court he admitted to the collision, but noting the damage to his own car drove it to a garage for repairs. He said he intended reporting the accident after his car was in the garage.

He testified he had swerved out of the way to avoid another car and could not avoid the collision.

Another witness told the court Mollett had turned a corner and struck a car on a boulevard, struck a sign, then crashed the parked Morrison vehicle.

Ex-police Constable Robert Bland came upon the scene of the accident and followed the Mollett car. On the way downtown he picked up Police Constable Robert Hall and they in turned followed it to a garage.

Decide Trenton Will Have Three Air Raid Sirens

TRENTON—Trenton is to have three air raid sirens. These will be located, according to present plans, at the corner of Willard Ave. and Hillcrest Ave; on town land at the corner of Marmora and Peter Streets and on the roof of the post office. Word of this came from the Department of National Defence by way of letter to town representatives to iron out details. Last night, Trenton council was told that for the present, the sirens would be activated from the fire hall, on a signal from Kingston. Eventually, the signals to "take cover", from the fall-out shelter or make tracks for the designated public building in the area will come directly from Ottawa.

Council was informed that the town of Picton would join with Trenton and Belleville in a civil defence program and would share the cost of hiring Ted Reid, Belleville, as co-ordinator. County councils of Prince Edward and Hastings County have yet to be contacted on the scheme.

Meanwhile, the Trenton branch of the Royal Canadian Legion has written to council to offer its services "in any way" in the carrying out of the civil defence program.

Post Masters Honor District Postal Head

TRENTON — On Saturday night in Trenton, George H. Macklem, district director for postal services (Ottawa district), was honored at a testimonial farewell party at which 150 postmasters and workers from the district were host.

Mr. Macklem recalled that he had entered the postal branch of government employ on July 5, 1915. He said that he had "started out as a railway mail clerk at a $500 annual salary."

The retiring director was presented with an honorary life membership in the Canadian Postmasters' Association.

Chairman for the evening was Fred Whalen, postmaster at Keene, and district director of the Canadian Postmasters' Association (Ontario branch).

Head table guests included Al Leach of Belleville, gave an entertainment; C. E. McClure, district personnel director; K. C. McDonald, retired area superintendent; Max Lysack, regional director of finance (Ottawa); J. G. Fultz, director of the Toronto district, and area superintendents J. L. Call of Smiths Falls and Roy Kightly of Renfrew.

Following the presentations, the postmasters and their honored guests were entertained by members of the 413 Wing, RCAF Association. They were given an official welcome by Wing Commander Gaughey, president of 413 Wing.

Will Not Try To Make Anglers Wear Lifebelts

TRENTON — Acting on a suggestion made by Fire Chief Cecil Ellis, Trenton council a few weeks ago requested the Department of Transport to lodge with the town regulations fishing from the dams in the Trent River wear life preservers.

At last night's council meeting, a letter from the department was read.

Department officials said that while they were concerned about drownings in the river, they doubted if the government could be included to wear life preservers unless "forces" were employed. They pointed out that the area might become unsightly with fishermen unless this enforcement were carried throughout the province. They suggested instead signs reading, "Persons entering upon canal property do so at their own risk."

"We might better put up a sign, 'Last year three people drowned while fishing off this property,'" suggested Councillor Fraser. "Council shouldn't be concerned about people who refuse to wear life preservers."

in the breakaway Congo province.

Owners of his plane, the Swedish Air Company, said in London that Ndola airport had been shut down by a jet fighter of pro-rebellious Katanga's Welensky.

A UN spokesman said neither Tshombe nor Ashoppe could be ruled out.

WORRY IN CAPITALS

News of the crash of Hammarskjold and the other victims were brought to Ndola, the Northern Rhodesian copper town about the effect of his death on the United Nations.

Hammarskjold's death posed grave problems for the UN and its Congo operation. He had been a major cementing factor in the world organization and the UN Congo force had been idea to keep the new nation from lapsing into anarchy.

The departure of Hammarskjold from the scene leaves the Congo on the brink of chaos. UN troops, who went on the offensive last week to disarm Tshombe's white mercenaries, are in mineral wealth back under the rule of the central government were still fighting Tshombe's army.

Leaving Ndola for his capital at Elisabethville "to direct the action," Tshombe offered to talk peace with Hammarskjold's successor or "anybody of good faith." But he added: "I don't represent the United Nations." Tshombe and Ireland in Ireland in has accused O'Brien of double-crossing him.

Katanga forces claimed the capture of the main UN base in Katanga at Kamina and fighting was reported in several other areas of the province.

The deteriorating military image of Hammarskjold's DC-6B plane and the report of the loss of contact with it gave rise to questions besides the possible cause of the crash.

Julien said Hammarskjold ordered the pilot to change course when he got word that it was dangerous to land at Ndola. He said Hammarskjold ordered, officials said.

A UN spokesman said "there must be something very strange" about the crash.

ACCOUNTS FROZEN

The plane left Leopoldville at 5:30 p.m. Sunday on a 1,100-mile flight to Ndola. Normally such a trip would take the British engined craft about four hours. But the pilot of the plane had overtaken a roundabout route to avoid Katanga. The airliner appeared over the Ndola airport at 12:12 a.m. Monday.

Ndola officials reported the pilot had received clearance to land, but informants in Salisbury, Rhodesia, gave out a different account.

They said that the plane approached the Ndola control tower asked the pilot to identify it. The pilot replied that he was at 21,000 feet. Then the pilot reported he might need more fuel but moments later the plane climbed again and disappeared without any explanation.

The dead included Canadian secretary Alice Lalande. Miss Lalande, 47, a native of Joliet, Que., served as Dag Hammarskjold's secretary in the office of Hammarskjold.

Acquaintances of Miss Lalande said Hammarskjold in his world trips usually would ask for her service as secretary when he made inspection tours of UN affairs. In September, 1960, she was assigned to the UN mission in the Congo.

The possibility of sabotage was raised in the Delhi by Indian Prime Minister Nehru.

"Whether this was due to an accident or some kind of sabotage, I do not know," he said. "Conditions in the Congo are such that anything is possible."

UN officials in Leopoldville disclosed that the plane had been damaged during the week-end by machine gun fire over the Katanga capital of Elisabethville.

The plane limped back to Leopoldville with one of its four engines knocked out. Repairs were carried out Sunday and it was given a complete check, but of-

Plan Amendment To Sales Tax

TORONTO (CP)—An amendment to the Ontario Retail Sales Tax Act is the near future to iron out the kinks in its administration was promised Monday night by Frank Sheppard, assistant director of the retail sales tax branch of the provincial government.

He told a sales tax symposium manufacturers' interpretation of the tax could not be solved before the act was seen in operation.

K. M. Fleischmann, vice-president of the new branch, said the home system of administering the tax is working well.

Among the answers the two experts gave questions from the businessmen and accountants at the symposium:

Transfer of ownership is taxable, calculated on "fair value," except perhaps when a transfer between husband and wife.

Whenever anyone feels that special reasons exempt him from the tax he does not pay but notifies the sales tax branch.

A ruling will be made to make legacies exempt from the tax.

No refund for vendors who pay the tax on a bad debt.

Thinks People Would Soon Change Minds

REGINA (CP) — Lord Moynson, president of the British board of film censors, said Monday night that he thinks the public can no censorship would soon change their minds if it were done away with.

Addressing a conference of Canadian film censors, he said he would like to do away with censorship for a time as an experiment.

"In six months those people who object to censorship would change their minds," he said.

He advocated censorship rules that are flexible and easily modified and said he doesn't believe in rules that are iron codes. Rather, he said, censors should recommend changes in approach and judge a film on its merits.

Earlier, the Primate of the Anglican Church of Canada declared the modern world's obsession with the sex theme and the "rapid decline of moral standards of the Canadian people.

Archbishop H. H. Clark of Edmonton, in an open letter to the conference, called for a better social conscience on the part of the public.

EXPRESS CONCERN

Dr. Clark's letter and briefs from the provincial IODE chapters in the province, gave expression to concern over the need to protect children from damaging influences of sex and violence in visual and radio broadcasts.

Dr. Clark defined censorship as "a part of the action of the state in defence of its people."

He warned however, "our churches would be uneasy if censorship of films or of any other medium of entertainment became a tool of political repressive. . . ."

The church seeks to maintain balance between authority and freedom, taking care to prevent freedom from degenerating into restricted licence, Dr. Clark wrote.

Reds Open New Offensive In Propaganda

BERLIN (AP)—The Communists have brought a new weapon into their war of nerves over Berlin.

All along the concrete and barbed wire barriers of the divided city, they have opened up with a barrage of loudspeakers turned at full strength toward West Berlin.

They blare out propaganda, threats, scorn and flattery—interspersed with American jazz and German waltzes.

Some of the loudspeakers are mounted on trucks. Others are hung in trees overlooking the border or fixed to the boundary fence.

The loudspeakers are guarded by People's Police and Communist army patrols with sub-machine-guns and hand grenades.

START EARLY

The programs usually open at 8 a.m., designed to awaken the West Berliners out of their sleep. It usually ends late and the noise continues throughout the day.

"This is the real voice of the German people," the announcer says. "We are Germans like you, and soon we will be reunited. But now the soldiers go, and if we are attacked we will not hesitate to shoot, even at Germans. . ."

The announcer puts on Nikita Khrushchev's voice, Khrushchev threatening all-out nuclear war if West Berlin continues to stand in his way.

Hiatt, was given the 2,000,000 - lire ($3,200) prize in a close competition with Chicago, a documentary on the American midwestern metropolis by Britain's Dani Mitchell.

An All-Canadian Constitution

The current efforts by both the provincial and federal governments to establish a means of amending the Canadian constitution without recourse to approval by Britain have raised an interesting point on the entrenchment of provincial rights.

It is of major importance to the future development of Canada that this matter be handled with extreme care so as not to defeat its true purpose—that of providing Canadians with a means of developing our country with a minimum of red tape and legal obstacles.

On the one hand Quebec has insisted on the firm entrenchment of the provincial rights as provided by the British North America Act. On the other hand Saskatchewan wants only language and education to remain a firm provincial right with others amendable by a majority vote of the provinces. Any modification of these rights, Quebec insists, should be only by the unanimous agreement of the provinces.

This latter arrangement has proven to be extremely untenable and inconducive to progress wherever and whenever it has been tried before, and it has been tried by the most astute and knowledgeable statesmen the world has been capable of producing.

Basically the entrenchment of provincial rights is little more than the protection of the interests of a small segment of our society to the possible detriment of the future development of the rest of society. It is all very well to allow certain rights to an individual and to provide for the protection of these rights but these should be sufficient for all but the self-centered.

The provision for the guarantee of minority, or even majority, group rights is a horse of another color entirely. Such provisions can only be made by sacrificing at some point or other, either within or without the group concerned, the individual rights to which all are entitled.

Too often in western society we have seen where the fierce adherence to special group privileges by a minority group has served only to frustrate the proper growth and development of mankind as a whole. The degeneracy into which the advocacy of special rights such as provincial rights or states' rights can sink is most terrifyingly illustrated by the chaotic examples of civil disobedience and intolerance which have recently been rampant in the southern United States.

A great nation cannot be built on a foundation of paperwork setting forth the compromises of unreasonable and vacillating politicians. It can only be built to endure if it is founded on respect for the individuality of all concerned, on the will to ensure that the rights of all individuals are equally and justly protected and on the desire to live in harmony and on an equal basis with whatever other groups or classes of intelligent and sociable human belngs may exist apart from one's own.

Our revised Canadian constitution should be an expression of man's confidence in himself to achieve better things and not of his fears and desire to cover up his contemporary weaknesses no matter what the expense to future generations might be.

It is a wonderful chance to eliminate some of the compromises which weakened the British North America Act. The guarantee to Quebec of many special privileges has certainly not resulted in the development of a strong self-confident province or race of people during the past century. Rather it sacrificed the individual rights of a most delightful race of people to the vagaries, injustices and corruptions of a group which used the guarantee of a minority group's "rights" and way-of-life as a tool by which they could exploit and hold down a people to their own personal and pecuniary advantages.

This is the unsavory history of guaranteeing "provincial" rights in Canada. We should not allow ourselves to be deluded or cajoled into carrying on with this albatross about our necks no matter how hard professed "saviours" of minority rights speak about "injustice." The greatest injustice to all would be to heed their cries.

That Canada and Canadians, and we care not what their "racial" origins might be, must progress is imperative. We must progress, however, on our own two legs and not on crutches.

We may have to shed at first but at least we will know that we are on our way up and that all we have to do is to develop our muscles with no worry about our crutches collapsing under us.

Let us have a Canadian constitution, not a French-Canadian, not a Scottish-Canadian, not an Irish-Canadian, or Slavic-Canadian, or Italo-Canadian one. Let us build something that is genuinely Canadian—all-Canadian.

Birds Enemies of Jets

By Group Captain J. A. McDonald, RAF, from Air ID

Birds (like aircraft) spend most of their life on the ground. Unlike aircraft, the majority of birds are grounded at night, and during bad weather and fog. In what sense, one of my age might call the "good old days" of flying, when take-off and climbing speeds were 100 m.p.h. or less, birds were on of the latter's flying hazards and there are instances of very few cases of serious pre-war bird collisions. One reason is that the birds had ample time to take evasive action, and when collisions did occur, damage to the aircraft was seldom serious.

What was little more than a nuisance for upwards of 30 years has now become a danger, not only because of the high speeds of modern aircraft, but also because of the old days when the propeller and engine were the only things to age, birds can now be drawn into the turbine air compressors. A modern aircraft is a lockheed Electra aircraft in the U.S.A. was struck by a bird (sort, if not in whole) to loss of engine power after striking birds on take-off. Statistical figures have shown that over a recent three-year period, 50 known birds were killed striking aircraft on take-off and landing. All involved jet aircraft. Over the same period, it has been stated that about six per cent of all bird incidents and eight per cent of minor accidents to military aircraft were caused by striking birds.

The risk of aircraft striking bird, is greatest during take-off and climb and to a lesser degree on landing. A bird manoeuvring in free air space is able to take avoiding action and invariably does, whereas a bird on the runway, especially one in the middle of the day (and probably full of food) cannot normally's has a slow reaction and often succeeds in getting airborne only in time to be hit.

In the case of London Airport, proximity of the Metropolitan Water Board reservoirs and their associated filter beds contributes greatly to the bird problem, and seagulls can be seen in the late afternoon flying between their feeding and resting grounds on the reservoirs. In the long grass which borders the Surrey County Council sewage beds on the West Bridge of London Airport, common gull species breed freely. In addition, both Prestwick and London Airports are surrounded by rich agricultural land, and in both cases has a municipal refuse dump less than a mile distant.

Apart from this, residents, Prestwick is also on a migratory route, and golden plover, lapwing and starling can descend at times by the thousand.

It has been noted reliably from other coastal airfields that seagulls have been known to use the concrete runway surface to help break open shellfish to some cases crushing the shellfish from a height sufficient to crack the shell.

Bird nets are used on the open spaces and swards of the airfield itself provide for birds to nest and rear in safety and security.

There are, of course, kitches scraps and other tid-bits in plenty on and around an airfield, but the greatest insect species exposed in the short grass seem to be the main attraction. These can be further combined with all-round visibility and early warning of danger. At Prestwick birds found on the runways have often just fed behind the plow in nearby fields, and at London Airport on the adjoining reservoirs or sewage beds. The birds then settle on the runways to digest their food and rest. Gulls usually rest in groups, and, if the combustibility with us, often lower their bellies more to enjoy the residual heat in the surface.

It is clear that the major hazard is from seagulls because of their low grooving flight on take-off and because of their numbers.

The highest proportion of strikes is undoubtedly on take-off and within about 50 to 100 feet off the ground, and the problem is accentuated by the acceleration of the aircraft and the short distance available for take-off. Fortunately the most likely time for bird strikes is early morning, when aircraft movements are usually few.

Post-war trials started in 1948-49, using first peregrine hawks, followed later by noise-producing devices of one sort and another. These experiments were not backed by any scientific knowledge and the results were disappointing. At Prestwick, where the author was station commandant at the time, trials were started with four female hawks, and only one survived the four-week experiment. In fairness, it must be said that in action the hawks were 100 per cent and most effective, but one was reported by a working pigeon owner and two others failed to return from their sorties. Also, in the case of the gull the seagull is not the hawk's natural prey and the sight of a pigeon usually sets off the gull on a chase.

After the hawks came the turn of detonating devices. These random noises dispersed the birds for a day or two, but soon ceased to have an effect whatsoever. Indeed, between bangs the birds were seen to perch and preen nonchalantly on the detonators.

About 1857 trials were resumed on a new and more scientific basis, using birds of prey unwilling trained ornithologists. This time the system used was based on the knowledge that all birds can hear and are acutely sensitive to cries from their own kind.

In 1948 bursts of ultra-sonic transmission were used. But by ornithologists that bird calls might it had been overlooked. They were mostly in the 3,000 to 10,000 cycles per sec. band, so that any idea of transmitting ultra-sonic signals was well off the mark and only served to show how little we knew in those early days.

Broadcasting bird distress calls first took place in America and considerable success was claimed for calls followed by gulls. These calls were recorded from captured birds on tape recorders, not exceeding a frequency range of 10,000 cycles per sec. Reproducer was then connected to a high fidelity amplifier, which in turn fed a number of loudspeakers dispersed around the airfield.

This technique has been given extensive trials in Holland.

An interesting discovery made during trials on the continent is that broadcasting a distress call appropriate to the species plays not always provide the desired result; in some cases better results made where possible from a locally caught bird. There seems to existence of a marked local dialect among birds as among humans. Furthermore, there is evidence that it is an advantage to broadcast more than one call.

In the United States bird-scaring trials are under the overall direction of the Ministry of Aviation Equipment for broadcasting bird distress calls has been designed manufactured and installed at two airfields.

STRENGTH for the DAY

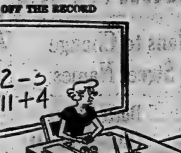
GOD HOLDS THE FUTURE

It has become a cliche to say that we are living in a dangerous age. Nations in a power built up as much armament as we find some other nations have now possess. Without using it, and if we started using all we have — or if our enemies did — not only cities but civilization might very well disappear. Furthermore, we might easily blast ourselves off the planet. And this fits in with the Biblical statement that 'the heavens' shall pass away with a great noise, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat, the earth also and the works that are therein shall be burned up." (II Peter 3:10). The same passage refers to this as "the day of God."



Nostradamus, who lived in the middle of the sixteenth century and was so unbelievably accurate in his prophecies concerning the French Revolution and some events of the following century, wrote that things would begin to get bad in the world about the year 1961. There seems to be plenty of disorder supporting his predictions. He said that The Battle of Armageddon would be fought in the last year of this century. This conception is nevertheless earthshaking. Those who are now past sixty would probably not be here to experience this. Present-day middle-aged men and grandchildren certainly would be.

Whatever the future holds, let us live each day in God's hands and according to His purposes.

If big companies can contribute to political parties, why should not labor? Labor should, at least, in the case of unions, the members know about it and must give their assent. The shareholders of companies which contribute to political funds are not asked to consent; they may not even know about it. The result is that big business democracy remains legislation requiring all political parties to disclose publicity the sources and amount of all their donations.

Hastings county high school students taking part in special classes in the Intergalactic Plowing Match, to be held early next month, had a day away from the classroom yesterday to receive instruction in the finer art of plowing.

High school "plowboys" from South Hastings gathered at the Hastings County Home farm west of Belleville where they were given instruction by experts in the field.

Today (Tuesday) high school student plowmen from the Centre Hastings area are meeting at the farm of Wilfred Forestell north of Madoc where they will receive instruction.

Giving plowing instruction at the county home farm yesterday were "Will" Timbers of Stouffville, former International Plowing Match champion, both in the tractor and horse classes. Mr. Timbers was match champion for tractors about 20 years ago, and a few years prior to that won honors for plowing with horses.

Both men will be at Madoc today giving instruction to Centre Hastings high school students.

The government bill calling for expenditure of $85,500,000 on the Pine Point railway was given second reading — approval in principle—by a vote of 93 to 0.

Transport Minister Balcer said total investment — mainly from the railway project should be $120,000,000 or more.

Opposition MPs criticized the government for not starting the project sooner and suggested the privately-owned CPR—not the publicly-owned CNR—should be building the line.

Works Minister Walker forecast that house construction will increase appreciably this year compared with 1960.

Tuesday, Sept. 19

The Commons meets at 11 a.m. to debate centennial arrangements. The Senate is adjourned until Sept. 26.

Legislative Boat Enjoys Smooth Sailing

OTTAWA (CP)—The government's legislative boat enjoyed some smooth sailing in the Commons Monday. Although the opposition indicated there are stormy waters ahead for at least one bill.

A bill to give Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta full control over school land and school land funds within their borders sailed through all legislative stages to final approval.

The only ripple on the otherwise serene surface came at the night sitting with second reading of the Pine Point railway bill.

Although the measure finally was endorsed in principle 93 to 0 in a recorded vote, Liberal and CCF speakers complained they hadn't been given enough information about the project and suggested perhaps the government wasn't as sure of the line's success as it pretended to be.

The railway would run 366 miles north from Grimshaw, Alta., to Hay River on the south shore of Great Slave Lake in the Northwest Territories. A 40 mile spur would be built east to Pine Point Mines Limited, developing a vast lead-zinc deposit.

COSTS $71,000,000

Transport Minister Balcer said the line will cost at least $71,000,000. The bill would provide the publicly - owned CNR with this amount, plus $11,500,000 for contingencies for a total of $86,500,000.

Pine Point's parent company, Consolidated Mining and Smelting, would agree to contribute up to $30,000,000, paid over 10 years. Ore would be shipped to Cominco's smelter at Trail, B.C.

Mr. Balcer assured the House that the line will operate at a profit. But two opposition MPs asked why the privately-owned CPR, which controls Cominco, wasn't building the line itself if a profit was so certain.

H. W. Herridge (CCF—Kootenay West) said it is strange that "the CPR refuses to build a road in its own mine." This was one of "certain uncertainties" about the proposed line.

Lionel Chevrier, transport minister in the former Liberal government, demanded that the government produce the draft agreement with Cominco. Mr. Balcer said earlier that the agreement would be made available during committee study, the bill's next stage.

Donald Gordon's Future Left With Directors

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government may leave the future of Donald Gordon as president of the publicly-owned CNR up to the railway's new board of directors, reliable sources indicated today.

The cabinet appoints the directors and picks one of them as chairman of the board.

In the past, the chairman and the president have been one and the same person. But this is not mandatory. The act says the president may be the chairman of the board of directors or a person other than one of the directors."

Thus, speculation is that the government could set up the new board, recently expanded to 12 members from seven, without reappointing Mr. Gordon as chairman. He could be made a director.

The board, then, would meet to pick the president — and it could be Mr. Gordon, if he would accept.

REMEMBERS COYNE

The government is said to be playing its cards carefully to avoid a repetition of the storm that blew up over James E. Coyne, ex-Bank of Canada governor.

Three months ago, Prime Minister Diefenbaker dropped a clue in the Commons about the role of the directors as president-makers. Without mentioning Mr. Gordon, he said:

The board of directors will be appointed and will convene, and naturally will give considerations to those things that are requisite to be brought before them in their position as directors of the CNR."

One of the first items to be "brought before them" would be the choice of president.

If the government sidestepped Mr. Gordon as board chairman, while leaving the presidency open to him, it would effectively split the chief executive functions of the railway.

Harkness Rips Away at Liberal Stand on Arrow

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Minister Harkness has ripped away the last shred of agreement between the government and Liberal Opposition on the Arrow jet interceptor program.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Feg. 25, 1959: "I am not condemning the Liberal government for what it did in laying the foundation of the Arrow. . . .

"I am not condemning the last government for its stand. . . . In the large field of the maintenance of our security and freedom there is much range for disagreement as to the means taken, but no disagreement as to the objective."

Mr. Harkness last week ditched the soft line when the Liberals contended that cancellation of the Arrow program to 12 members from seven, without reappointing Mr. Gordon as chairman. He could be made a director.

"BIGGEST MISTAKE"

Mr. Harkness referred to the Arrow as "this albatross around our neck" and said:

"There is no question at all that the decision to go ahead with building the Avro Arrow was the greatest single mistake ever made by any government in Canada in connection with defence equipment matters or in connection with defence production."

Paul Hellyer, Liberal defence critic, said the Canada-U.S. arrangement under which Canada is obtaining 66 American Voodoo interceptors is "one of the biggest boobs ever pulled by a minister of national defence."

Mr. Harkness did confirm that this deal will cost Canada $100,000,000 more than a straight Canadian purchase of the Voodoo in the U.S.

However, he made it clear that he considers Canada got the best of the deal because the U.S. will spend about $130,000,000 in this country for production of a plane for the American mutual aid program.

Home Improvement Loan

Maybe a loose shingle started it. Or worn-out weather stripping. Or a gnawing band of termites. Whatever it was, plugging a leak properly can be expensive—and, of course, the longer it's left, the more costly a repair becomes. This goes for peeling paint, crumbling concrete, and missing mortar too.

Yes, keeping a house in shape sometimes costs a lot of money, and occasionally it may cost more than you have on hand. What then? The answer may be a Scotiabank Home Improvement Loan... money you can borrow at low interest for repairs... or for extra bedrooms, a garage, a carport, modern heating, new and up-to-date plumbing—things that maintain or improve your home as an investment. Just call at your nearest branch of The Bank of Nova Scotia. See the manager. He will welcome the opportunity to discuss how a Scotiabank Home Improvement Loan can help you.

Weddings

PURDY — CATHERS

Bridge Street United Church was the recent setting for lovely late summer wedding when Gwendolyn Marian Elizabeth Cathers, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Charles Cathers, was united in marriage to Donald Jay Purdy, of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Jay Purdy, with the Rev. Harry M. Davis, pastor, officiating before a beautiful background of white gladioli and blue sprayed mums.

The wedding music was rendered by the church organist, Mr. S. Lee Gordon which included "Purcell's Wedding March," and the soloist, Miss Loretta McGonegall, who sang "The Lord's Prayer," and the "Nuptial Benediction".

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in her nuptial gown of white slipper organza over white taffeta, fashioned in ballerina length with fitted bodice and hooped skirt. She wore a headdress of white sequins and embroidered sheerider length veil, and carried a bouquet of red roses mingled with white carnations.

She was attended by her sister, Mrs. R. S. Hunley, as matron of honor, wearing a cornflower-blue silk organza gown over a pink taffeta with hooped bemline. Her headdress was of blue net, velvet and flowers and she carried a bouquet of mums and roses, bride.

The two sisters of the bridegroom, Miss Sandra and Miss Bonnie Lynn Purdy, as bridesmaids, were in white with blue satin sashes and headpieces of hooped crinolines, while little Cynthia Huntley, niece of the bride, was demure and sweet in dotted Swiss organdy and carried nosegay of mums and roses.

Mr. Leslie B. Smith, of Kingston, was groomsman and Mr. Donald N. Cathers, brother of the bride, of Belleville and Mr. Harold Jeffries, of Belleville, cousin of the bridegroom, were ushers.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held in the church ladies' parlor, where the guests were received by the bride's mother, wearing blue silk organza over printed silk, blue marlbon hat and corsage of pink rosebuds. The bridegroom's mother chose a beige and brown pure silk gown with mink hat, and corsage of yellow rosebuds.

For the honeymoon to Quebec and eastern United States, the bride chose a pale green shantung suit with matching hat, and corsage of Sweetheart roses and white carnations.

Out-of-town guests were present from Frankford, Kingston, Toronto, Peterborough, Montreal and Senneterre, Quebec.

The bride, prior to her marriage, was entertained at a shower held at the home of Mrs. George Deline, with Mrs. Ken Cathers as hostess; also at a linen shower at the home of Miss Sharon O'Neil, given by Mrs. N. O'Neil, and at two presentations of a pop-up toaster from Bridge Street United Church choir, and crystal from the laboratory staff of the Belleville General Hospital.

The members of the C.W.L. enjoyed a delicious pot-luck supper at the initial meeting of the new season last Monday.

A pleasant surprise was the room in St. Michael's junior school which has been given to the League for its use. Beautiful new chrome armchairs have been purchased which add much to the attractiveness and comfort of the room. Adding the 'woman's touch' is a lovely driftwood arrangement created and donated by Mrs. B. Burley, diocesan president.

Honored guests were St. Michael's new assistant priests, Father Carty and Father Murphy.

Plans for the graduation dance are under way, under the convenorship of second vice-president Mrs. D. Jones.

Mrs. H. Brown, past president, spoke about the forthcoming Sewing Match, of which she is over-all convener.

PLANS BANQUET

St. Michael's group convenor is Mrs. Vinkle. Both members have been busy for many months planning and organizing and asked for the League's usual generous support and cooperation. St. Michael's is one of four churches catering to the huge banquet to be held in the Belleville Armouries.

The November annual bazaar was another point of discussion. Much sewing and knitting has already been done, insuring a bountiful array of bazaar bargains. A new and interesting booth has been added, "The Nearly New Booth." This booth will have for sale articles which are perhaps outgrown, but hardly worn: such as party shoes, party dresses, skates and numerous other items of apparel that are, as the booth indicates, nearly new.

The bridge marathon opened on Wednesday evening. Much credit goes to Miss Stella Ford for her pastable job of organizing.

Mrs. Greenfield, a former resident of Belleville and CWL member, generously donated a piano for the new CWL meeting room. The League has several piano players and it was suggested that it could have seasonal hymns sung by the members, which would be enjoyable as well as commendable.

Mrs. Gallagher, president, had much to report after attending the Kingston CWL convention, but thoughtfully postponed it for another meeting due to the extreme warmth of the evening. She thanked the League for the privilege of attending, saying that newly acquired knowledge gave much confidence in carrying out her presidential duties. Mrs. Gallagher also mentioned that the Diocesan convention may be held in Belleville next year.

After the meeting a delicious lunch was played. It was an opportunity to have fun and become re-acquainted with the many League members.

After euchre, the hostess, assisted by Mrs. A. Genereaux, served a most delicious lunch.

VANCOUVER (CP) — There is little difference in the basic causes of 'juvenile delinquency around the world, says Constable McGrath, principal of South Australia's women's police force.

"Parents in most countries are caught in a general rush of a fast-changing world and either are disinterested or give only passing attention to the problems of their children."

"This," says Miss McGrath, a career policewoman who has turned much of her energy to young people and their problems during 28 years with the state force, "results in youngsters recording little of the basic moral or spiritual grounding needed to face life as an adult."

Miss McGrath, who heads a force of 39 women scattered through South Australia's 380,000 square miles, arrived here by flying to start an eight-month survey of North American and British methods of combatting juvenile crime and rehabilitating youthful offenders.

Juvenile delinquency is our No. 1 task, especially young girls," she said. "Sex is the main concern. Drug addiction is almost unheard of.

"Teen-agers become impatient and restless and jump into many things without thinking in their attempt to escape boredom or to squeeze into adult circles.

"Too many get married too soon. They don't spend enough time becoming aware of parental responsibilities and their own individual traditions and backgrounds."

Teen-agers, and in many instances adults, tended to frown on goodness.

"Too many good people are not news, but bad ones are."

Miss McGrath said the South Australian force, established in 1915, has no uniform. Training and pay have always been the same as for men. Each woman must be able to handle a gun but none carries a weapon on duty.

"We play a limited part in the reformation of the girls but that doesn't mean we don't take an active interest in what becomes of the girls we bring before the courts.

"And while we do worry about the girls and boys in institutions, we also try to keep them out by taking part in youth organizations."

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL

Question — After my divorce I decided I'll keep my married name, but I do not use my ex-husband's initials, nor do I think it is correct. Some people, however, still address mail to me as Mrs. J. W. Doe, whereas I use Mrs. Mary Ann Doe. Which is correct? — Mrs. M. A. D., New York City.

Answer — Officially, neither. Since you have elected to retain your married name, it should be coupled with your maiden surname in place of your ex-husband's first name or initials. If your maiden name, for example, was Kelly, I feel your correct title now should be Mrs. Kelly Doe.

Question — Is it good taste to put the husband's name first when enclosing anniversary or Christmas cards? My in-laws use this form, and, since I'm a fairly recent bride, I was wondering if I should do the same thing when sending cards to the family. — Mrs. N. B., Brockton, N. Y.

Answer — There's no set rule about this. The wife's name usually is put first on engraved names out of custom and courtesy. While names are written on a card, the wife usually attends to these matters — why often puts her husband's name first out of deference. So whether to sign, "John and Mary," or "Mary and John" is really a matter of personal preference.

Question — Recently a friend of my husband was married. He informed my husband before the wedding that an invitation had been sent to our old address. It still has not been forwarded. Are we obligated to send a gift? When would be the proper time to send it? — Mrs. A. D. S., Shreveport, La.

Answer — If you had been invited to the reception, then you naturally would send a gift. But since the invitation still hasn't arrived, and there's no way of telling, then I don't think you're under any obligation. Besides, sending a present at this point would put too much emphasis on the gift-giving side of the wedding. If you want to give something, then wait until the couple is settled and either send a small housewarming present or take something with you the first time you're invited to call.

Question — I'm the sort of heavy smoker who can't do without a cigarette even during meals. My wife puts up with it at home, but she can't stand my smoking during dinner when we're out. She says it's very discourteous. Does she have a case? — E. G., Pelham, N.Y.

Answer — She does, if you make a habit of lighting up while others are eating. It's hard for anyone to enjoy a meal when he or she can hardly see the plate for the smoke. Cigarettes may be smoked between courses, but, by the way, first of all, should be carefully put out before the next dish is served.

Answer — The spoon is left in the soup dish unless the soup is served in a cup, dis which case the spoon is deposited on the saucer.

Question — I am to meet my husband for cocktails and dinner on our anniversary in New York hotel. This is the first time I have been to meet his business associates and I want to be sure that all goes well. Would a simple dress and fur stole be too substantious? Also, should I wear a hat? Thank you so much. — Mrs. J. S., Hackensack, N. J.

Answer — A simple sheath gown would be perfect. Also the fur stole. A small "cocktail" hat would complete the ensemble. Don't forget gloves. You purse and shoes would be the same color, and they should blend in with the gown itself. Don't be nervous. Be natural and gracious and forget what you are wearing, because you will know that the ensemble is in good taste for the activities of such an evening.

THE FAMILY COUNSELLOR

Rose Y. — My husband is too emotional for a man. Bernard: What's wrong with showing your feelings?

Rose Y. — I was born and brought up in England. My husband is an American of French ancestry. We were married two years ago and have a baby girl. What worries me is that whenever Bernard is gripped by a strong emotion, he is literally moved to tears!

I'm not used to this in a man. The man in my family were taught to keep a stiff upper lip. To weep was unmanly.

The strange thing is that I was drawn to my husband by his warm, responsive nature. I bless him for his gentleness toward me. I guess what pushes me to seek more "toughness" in him is my desire for our son to have a he-man father around to set an example.

Bernard Y. — I don't see where it's done the British any good, or the gals are either, for that matter, to keep up that hip-hip-cheerio front at all times what. Why should women be permitted to show their feelings while men get the silent and heart attacks from keeping it all inside.

This has nothing to do with "manly" virtues. There were plenty of fighting Frenchmen, brave and industrious, who let their hair roll down their cheeks that June day in 1940 when the Nazis took over Paris. Rose admits there are many gloomy homes in England and it's not just from the fog. It's from repression.

I like honesty. I'll set a better example for my son if I laugh and cry when I feel like it than if I clamp a lid on my feelings.

The Council — Rose can relax. The stereotype of the man of steel is no longer the model our girls aspire to. We have seen, through wars and revolutions and physical and mental breakdown, that the human must crack in the face of stress. He's a phony. He cannot bend. Bernard's behavior is closer to the ideal as defined by sociologists.

A Florida doctor says flatly: "If men could cry they'd live longer." This doesn't mean being soppy or maudlin. Nor does it encourage indulgence in hysterical displays put on with no restraint. It simply suggests that men would be healthier if they could respond naturally to an understandable stimulus by a word of feeling, a look of silent agreement — to "plow under" the travail of feeling.

Man, so less than women, experience surging impulses of tenderness. Bernard has rebelled against hiding these, and he's right. What we need in our society are more outlets and more expression of honest emotion — not repression. We rejoice at the glimpses of it in an old man's solicitude for his grandson, in a boy's delicate "touch" with pets, babies or the handicapped.

Rose's son is fortunate in that his "soft" side will be nurtured hand in hand with his manliness and callouses. "Man has not really survived through toughness," says Dr. Lorene Kiesley, the eminent anthropologist. "He has survived through tenderness toward his kind."

Mary Moore, perhaps, than being a man is being a "human." That's what Rose and Bernard are striving for, we believe, in raising their son. No robot, no hollow facade for them. From sincere emotion, openly acknowledged, all good things grow: words of art, healing, discovery and — yes, Rose, — strong, stalwart, sturdy sons, too.

The Bell Telephone Co. will entertain at the Orange hall and show a film in connection with the telephone service. Correspondence was read by Mrs. Chambers.

Mrs. Velma Carman took charge of the program. Several interesting readings, including "Time Goes By," "Harvest Time," "Stood Up Still," and "I Shall Not Live in Vain" were given. The grandmothers showed photos of their grandchildren. Several gifts were presented to the grandmothers from the following: having the most grandchildren, Mrs. Arthur Bronson; the youngest grandchild, Mrs. Ken Bateman; and for the oldest grandchild, Mrs. Arthur Blackburn.

Successful Living

Prefers Former Love

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—Prior to our marriage my husband had an affair which lasted approximately two years. The woman came of a different class, better educated, and never introduced him to her family.

It was only after we were married and had two children that I learned that he had been engaged to her, had intimate relations and that she had thrown him over.

Now he tells me I can never match her sexually. It seems that I cannot match her in any way; not important enough, not educated enough, not sexy enough. I might add that I hold a responsible position as a laboratory supervisor before marriage and my husband is a bricklayer.

We both love our children and would not like to break up the home but inside I die a little every day while I gulp tranquillizers and try to forget I have feelings.—H. H.

DEAR H. H.—My message is for your husband.

Sexual attraction wanes in the harsh light of day-to-day living. The other woman knew you could not meet and match up with her family. So she left you dreaming your foolish dream.

How long will it take you to recognize and appreciate what you've got, and to stop insulting your wife with odious comparisons? This is your life too. Make the most of it.

DEAR DORIS:—My girl friend is a very nice person to have around. She is popular at school and everywhere else we go together. She tells me she will play with no one but me, then next day I call on her but her mother says she is playing with someone else. Sometimes it's Dottie.

Dottie is quite spoiled by her parents. Her mother gives her all the money she wants and complains when my girl friend and I don't play with her.

What should I do? We just can't seem to play all together. Am I being too greedy when I don't let my friend play with anyone else after she's been with me? Should I drop her or hold on? She is the best friend I ever had.—LONELY.

P.S.—She sticks with me after I get paid for baby sitting. I'd like to give her a piece of my mind but I'm afraid that would break up our friendship. Everyone follows her around like follow the leader.—L.

DEAR LONELY.—"Two's company, three's a crowd," and that's for sure! Whether you're twelve or twenty or twice that.

Your "best friend" sounds a little spoiled to me. She makes a promise and breaks it; but she makes sure she is around when you have some money. Are you spending it on her? Don't do it.

All your life you will be making new friends. You don't need to drop your pal to have others. Look for another girl to play with, you would round out your group to four, which is better. Act a little bit independent of Miss Follow-the-Leader and just see if she doesn't change.

DEAR DORIS:—Recently my sister got married and as the present time she and her husband are living with my parents and me. My problem is my sister's husband.

When he eats he is so sloppy he makes everybody feel sick to their stomach. His manners are just horrible. He embarrasses my sister. Please tell me how I can change him into a half decent human being.—A WORRIED SISTER.

DEAR WORRIED SISTER:—You can't. Your interference will only cause hard feelings.

They will eventually move out—soon, we hope.

DEAR DORIS:—I lived with a man for seven years. We have a little girl of six. We got along well and have a nice apartment. Eight weeks ago he died. I had money for expenses and to live on for a while but it is getting short and I have no family to turn to.

Do you know if I can get help from the government? I want so much to keep the child with me. She has a lot of playmates around here and will be starting school next month. Everyone here thinks we were married and think it odd that I don't get some kind of a widow's allowance. I am afraid to try that as they may ask for proof of my marriage.

His wife was killed in a car crash about five weeks ago and they had no family.—DAR.

DEAR DAR:—Canadian provinces have legislation for such cases as yours. Common Law unions are recognized under certain conditions.

Your local or regional welfare officer is the one to see about this. Any information you give him about yourself will be kept strictly confidential.

DEAR DORIS:—I have been asked to present a gift at a shower. I would appreciate it if you could give me some idea what I should say when making the presentation. —M.

DEAR M.—Presentation should be brief, warm, informal. Refer to the occasion: "We are here because of Jeanie's getting married and this is our get-together to wish her well." Refer to the friendship of the group with the bride-to-be; something about her background and characteristics: "Jeanie has been our happy pianist (or collector—or business) years. Always on hand when we needed her; always ready to help with work or social events or with her friendly concern when things went wrong."

Say how fond you all are of her. Make an amusing reference to "this token of our esteem—which we know she needs, because we asked her mother"—and make your presentation speak directly to the recipient: "Jeanie, on behalf of all of us, please accept this gift, and whenever you use it may it serve to remind you of a group of friends who wish for you the best of everything."

The above is a pattern only. Read it over then put it away and write your own speech in your own words, to suit the girl getting the gift.

(Doris Clark, Master of Social Work, is a graduate of McGill, Toronto and McMaster universities, and has had broad experience in social work. If you would like help with your problems, write to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.)

Income Tax Explained

Written and designed so the taxpayer who is not in a position to employ the services of a professional accountant, or to visit an Income Tax Office.

By C. A. Miller, former Supervising Assistant Toronto Tax Department.

There are certain types of employment where the taxpayer is required to travel away from his employers' place of business and his contract with the employer is that he use his own car or truck and pay his own expenses.

When a taxpayer takes employment under these conditions, he can claim as a deduction from income the cost of operating the car or truck, but cannot claim for meals unless he is away for over 12 hours. Such contracts of employment usually apply to service repairmen who service and maintain household appliances such as television sets, radios, refrigerators, washers, dryers, oil burners, etc.

If the taxpayer owns and operates his own car or truck he is allowed 7c per mile operation on the vehicle to the extent that it is used to earn income. The daily rate of depreciation is 30% of the cost to the taxpayer, but in the case of a time when it was first used to earn income. Other allowable expenses are gas, oil, garage, repairs, tires, washing, parking, licence, etc., as well as carrying charges, if the vehicle was purchased on credit.

Records must be kept partly for pleasure and partly for business you must determine the ratio of driving that applied to your work. You should keep a daily record of all expenditures, and as many receipts as possible, in regard to the vehicles operation for the year. At the end of the year you will take the expenditures, including the depreciation, and reduce this total by the percentage determined as applying to pleasure-driving. If your employer pays all of your expenses except an allowance for depreciation you cannot claim depreciation alone, as an expense.

Question — I am a television service man. My employer pays all my expenses, I sell a number of new sets and at the end of the year, I am paid a bonus based on the sales I have made. Is this taxable income? If so am I allowed my expenses in regard to after work calls I make to close a sale?

Answer — Your bonus is taxable income. You may claim any expenses as you are not paid straight commission on each sale.

Question — I use my own car in my employment as an appliance service man. I work for a large department store. I turn in bills for all car expenses and am reimbursed. Am I allowed to claim depreciation on my car?

Answer — No. Depreciation may not be claimed unless you have a claim for other car expenses.

Secretary of State Rusk Shy, Friendly but Cautious And Does Not Trust Reds

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP) — Dean Rusk, erudite scholar of foreign affairs and one of the key men in the West-West tussle over West Berlin, has a hard time coming out of President Kennedy's shadow.

Shy, friendly but cautious, the U.S. secretary of state appears in the public image more of a technician and administrator than a forceful projection of American diplomacy.

Frequently, the state secretary's display of colorless accuracy is underrated by critics and commentators with the more flamboyant, high-pressure operators of the late John Foster Dulles.

But where the fast - moving Dulles often irritated Western allies with his unilateral decisions, Rusk is patient and ready to listen to the allies' viewpoints.

As a result, his major achievement so far — and one not generally discernible to the public — is a quiet, backstage ability to reduce Western frictions and bring confusion to chancery into greater cohesion and effectiveness. In plain words, many of the Western diplomats are ready to trust Rusk where they would not have trusted Dulles.

SHOWS FAULTS

But, in the case of Cuba and other sensitive areas, the 52-year-old Rusk, who still has a hankering for the cloistered ivy walls of the university, has shown shortcomings.

For the world and for the six-foot, 200-pound lanky secretary Berlin may be the big turning point. If American ideas and strategy can be sold Soviet Premier Khrushchev's demands are foiled without war, Rusk may finally emerge with great personal power and prestige. Something less than generous success may thrust him deeper into the shadows.

One of the main problems facing Rusk, who was president of the Rockefeller Foundation before coming to Washington, is that Kennedy is a strong-willed leader who likes to run his own foreign policy show.

Rusk has been in congressional circles that Kennedy would have chosen Senator J. William Fulbright as state secretary but for his witch-hunting views against immigration. As chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, Fulbright raised a voice in the white house.

NEIGHTLESS ADVICE

In the Cuba adventure, Rusk found his advice almost ignored out. Rusk went silent when he sensed Kennedy's own enthusiasm.

The resulting loss of prestige hurt Rusk as well as Kennedy in their ability to influence other countries.

Rusk's friends tried to give the impression, abroad he didn't really have his heart in the Cuban adventure; that he was only going along with the president's decisions. The White House gave this viewpoint no support since it would leave the president out in the cold.

Despite his counsel to walk deeply in Kennedy's shadow—unlike Dulles who set the foreign policy pace for President Eisenhower — Rusk is credited with being blessed with a great personal knowledge of foreign problems and with a penetrating grasp of Communist ambitions.

TAKING GAME

Convinced there is no real way of coming to permanent terms with the Reds, Rusk has been playing a game of conversation, of trying to tie up the Soviets in the complex discussions and negotiations; yielding little ground but at the same time trying to contain the Reds and hoping that eventually Communist societies may become more democratic through evolution.

For a time it appeared Laos would be entirely lost to the West, but aides to Rusk say that after months of complex negotiations with the Reds Laos is still at least; that there still is hope of removing it as a cold war pawn.

As a brilliant college student, Rhodes scholar, war veteran, college professor and architect of American policy on Korea, Rusk has accumulated a variety of experience—and ability to avoid the thorns of opposition.

Even when the late Senator Joseph McCarthy launched his most violent attacks against the state department, he made no mention of Rusk who at the time was in an extremely sensitive and vulnerable position as assistant state secretary for the Far East.

Rusk had supported President Truman in opposing General Douglas MacArthur's proposal that he be allowed to push into Red China from Korea.

DEAN AT 25

Now married to a one - time student, Virginia Foisie, and father of three children, Rusk sometimes wishes he was back in the quietness of Mills College, a California girls' school where he was a faculty dean at the age of 25. He has little time for his main sports of golf and tennis. Almost all his waking hours are occupied with the world crisis. He knows he can never trust the Communists.

Even the Communist view of the word "negotiation" is used as a weapon, he says. They demand that the only subjects to be negotiated "are further concessions to the Communist appetite.

"Agreements are offered, but against the background of a long and sobering list of broken promises; an agreement is apparently a rest camp where one passes and refits for a further advance."

Rusk knows the Reds and has a scholarly appreciation of the problems involved. His major problem is how much attention Kennedy will pay to his views.

CAMEL — Friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hughes (nee Tufts) gathered at Carmel Church hall to honor the bride and bridegroom. After a short program, Miss Dollina Robinson read an address and Dick and Marilyn were presented with a lovely chair, hassock and cushions. Both expressed their thanks and extended invitations to visit them. A social hour followed.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Chambers were in Eldorado one day last week to attend the funeral of Mr. William Chambers.

The Woman's Missionary Society met at the church hall and finished a quilt. There was a good number present.

get an elected secretary-general. Dag Hammarskjold will have no replacement."

The Liberal paper said: "Now there is hope in the stronghold of oppression such as Johannesburg and Lisbon and among the leaders who see their victory in chaos and the paralysis of the United Nations."

"One would say less[illegible] if the president of the United States did not carry, with greater power for good, greater responsibility."

The Liberal paper warned that "in the United Nations we must expect a period of perhaps dangerous uncertainty."

TRAGIC IRONY

A similar warning came from the Financial Times of London which said that even if a successor were named "it would take months if not years" until he "gained the respect and the authority which Mr. Hammarskjold had earned during eight years in which he played an irreplaceable role."

Many newspapers noted a tragic irony in the mission of Hammarskjold at the time of his death.

Le Parisien, Conservative, said the UN chief had "a curious destiny."

"This politically passionate man put his destiny in the cause of a great international organization for service to peace which offers to an astonished world the sad spectacle of its mercenaries re-establishing justice by machine-gun fire."

The Daily Express in London said "the death of Dag Hammarskjold is a sacrifice to a myth."

His tragedy, the right-wing paper said, "is that he gave his life for an ideal that was false."

Prime Minister Macmillan of Britain, who had been cool to UN action to suppress President Moise Tshombe's secessionist Katanga regime, called Hammarskjold "a world servant who has pursued his duty with courage, single-mindedness and devotion."

The Queen, in a message to Frederick Boland, president of the UN General Assembly, said she was "very much shocked" to learn of Hammarskjold's death.

'SELFLESS BEST'

Prime Minister Diefenbaker of Canada said Hammarskjold gave his "selfless best" in pres. ervation of world peace.

In Australia, Prime Minister Robert Menzies said Hammarskjold "did as much as any man could to hold the UN together and preserve its good fundament."

India's Prime Minister Nehru called Hammarskjold's death a "special tragedy" and said solidage might have been involved.

"We have sometimes criticized him," Nehru said, "but we have not doubted his loyal service to the United Nations and to the cause of peace."

Tributes came from other critics of Hammarskjold's Congo policies.

The Belgian government sent a message to the United Nations deploring his death and saying his service to the UN had gone to "the supreme sacrifice."

Sir Roy Welensky, prime minister of the Central African Federation who had assailed the UN action in Katanga, called Hammarskjold "an indefatigable worker in the cause of world peace."

HOUSE BUILDING

4. Provide another $5,000,000—or a total of $10,000,000—for federal fellowships in research on how to hold a better home more cheaply.

The resolution was approved and the bill given first reading.

J. R. Garland, the Liberals' housing critic, said the proposed legislation points up the degree to which the Conservative government, profess ed "champions" of the free enterprise system, has taken over from the private sector in house financing.

SAYS RATES IGNORED

Mr. Garland, member for Nipissing, said the high cost of housing results from "the high interest rates maintained by this government"—and the bill ignored this factor. Nevertheless the Liberals were in basic agreement with the principles of the bill.

Mr. Walker said that houses under construction at June 30 this year totalled 71,646 units compared with 63,694 a year earlier. Urban dwelling starts for the first eight months of the year were up 39 per cent on a year earlier. He gave no figures.

Total Housing Act lending activity for the first eight months of the year reached 45,150 dwelling units compared with 18,394 a year earlier. Approved lenders — insurance companies and others—accounted for 36,102 of these compared with 10,448 for 1960 up to Aug. 31.

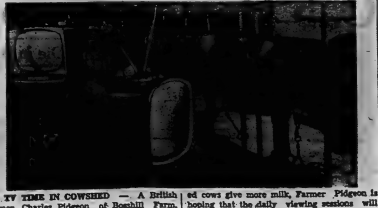
The balance between supply and demand for new housing was reflected in a lower inventory. In February, 4,813 dwellings were completed and unoccupied. At Aug. 31, the figure was down to 3,903.

It had been rightly assumed that a very real need for good housing still exists — especially for the low-income groups — and will continue to exist for many years to come.

Mr. Walker said another $300,000,000 in lending funds should be made available to CMHC because as of Aug. 8, commitments totalled $1,260,000,000 of the $1,500,000,000 kitty. Indications were that present funds would be taken up by the end of this year.

QUESTIONS AIMS

Mr. Garland questioned whether this government actually intends to land the additional $300,000,000 provided for housing, or is merely "seeking to provide election insurance."



He claimed that over - all house building activity this year "really shows marginal improvement over last year, when starts were the lowest since 1953."

Murdo Martin (CCF — Timmins) said he is happy to see that the government has abandoned the free-enterprise policy in the housing field.

"I hope the government will continue to apply these good socialist principles," he said. He said the government's housing program still falls short in the matter of helping the young who must get a fairly good home, those in low income groups.

PARACHUTIST DROWNS

NEWBURY, Mass. (AP)—A sports parachutist intending to land with a birthday cake among a group of socially-prominent Bostonians at a birthday party on Plum Island fell in the ocean and was drowned Sunday. George K. Dolloff, 31, of Newburyport, father of three daughters, was pulled 150 yards to shore and mouth-to-mouth respiration failed to revive him.

TV TIME IN COWSHED — A British farmer, Charles Pidgeon of Bonhill Farm, Axmouth, Devon, is trying a treatment of providing television sets for his dairy cows, which he hopes will result in higher milk yields.

Working on the assumption that contented cows give more milk, Farmer Pidgeon is hoping that the daily viewing sessions will keep his cows happy down on the farm. He claims that the experiment is already showing results, after having the sets installed for four days the milk yield increased by two gallons a day.

'Just Having Fun' Says Editor Publishing Frontier Paper in Frontier Community

By JIM PEACOCK

FORT NELSON, B.C. (CP)—Editor - publisher Bob Angus bangs blandly through the editorial columns of his weekly Fort Nelson News.

"What is hell are you stalling for?" he once asked the provincial government in an argument for a liquor store here.

When court proceedings in make-shift quarters were interrupted by traffic noise, he suggested either a proper building be constructed or "let the court conduct its trials in some quiet corner of the outdoors."

And in launching a campaign for camp sites along the Alaska Highway he became poetic to say "there should be more facilities than shady trails and people trees."

But Bob Angus, publishing a frontier paper in a frontier community, doesn't look upon himself as a crusading editor.

"I'm just having fun," he said in an interview in his house-trailer office 100 yards off the Alaska Highway, where he and assistant Mrs. Gladys Graham compile news and advertising copy for the paper, printed on facilities of the Alaska Highway News in Fort St. John, 250 miles south of here.

FORMER SAILOR

"We try to get the people here to take some pride in their own community and to get the government to return a little of the money they're taking out of this by-passed ocean every year," he said.

Born in Medicine Hat, Alta., 35 years ago, Mr. Angus is a jack of many trades. He came to this centre, in northeastern British Columbia to take over The News from Margaret (Mrs) Murray, noted northern weekly publisher who launched the paper here in October, 1958, when the oil boom began in Fort Nelson.

Before that, Mr. Angus had spent some time as a sailor, motel operator, farmer and[illegible] partner with Mrs. Murray on the News in Fort St. John. He'd just completed a motor-scooter tour of Europe and still has the scooter parked outside his house trailer, which serves as his home as well as The News office.

"I didn't know much about the newspaper business when I started," he said, "and I'm still learning every day."

SCATTERED READERS

Nonetheless, his paper is meeting with success, with circulation of about 1,000—half of it in this centre of 3,000 population and the other half to subscribers spread across the continent who have come in contact with The News while visiting or working here.

"We don't go out and sell advertising," Mr. Angus said. "People just keep bringing it in to us."

The paper runs to six or eight pages a week, filled with area news and admonitions from the publisher. "All it is is work, but it's a little work," he wrote recently in urging residents to return up their property.

"At first," said Mr. Angus, "a lot of people looked on us with some suspicion, but we're being accepted more all the time."

The paper still draws frequent reactions — and descriptions— from its readers, however.

"One guy called it refreshing," said Mrs. Graham, a 15-year resident here who had no newspaper experience before she pitched in to help Mrs. Murray when The News began.

"I can't get over that," she said "I thought refreshing was something you drank."

"I don't know any paper," said Mr. Angus, "that's damned so much, but wanted so badly."

SEIZE JAP BOAT

TOKYO (AP)—The maritime safety board said today an 83-ton Japanese fishing boat was seized by the U.S. Navy Sunday for fishing within the territorial waters of the U.S.-administered Bonin Islands. The board said the No. 25 Takoshima Maru, with 21 seamen, was taken to Chichi Jima, one of the Bonin chain.

Defence Buildup Indicated in Bits, Pieces

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—In bits and pieces of Commons debate, Defence Minister Harkness has outlined a fairly broad defence buildup for Canada.

Taken together, these plans represent expenditures of hundreds of millions of dollars in the next few years.

All are in addition to programs previously announced for a new jet interceptor for home air defence, a low - level jet bomber for the RCAF Air Division in Europe, an armoured personnel carrier for the army; modernization of destroyers to accommodate anti - submarine helicopters; and a manpower increase of 13,000 in the regular armed forces.

MANY INCLUDE SUBS

Here is a rundown of the new plans:

1. New naval construction. This may involve building of conventional submarines in Canada. Engineering studies of anti-submarine hydrofoil craft have begun.

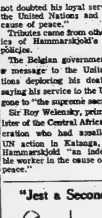
2. A ship-to-air guided missile to replace the navy's Bonshee jet fighters.

3. Heavy transport helicopters and anti-tank missiles for the army.

4. A new national defence headquarters building.

5. More planes for RCAF Air Transport Command.

6. More industrial defence research and development.



THINKING CHANGES

The fact that Mr. Harkness referred publicly to these plans before the government has provided for their financing demonstrates how fundamentally the administration thinking has changed since mid-summer because of the Berlin crisis.

In July, Mr. Harkness was saying the government had no intention at that time of increasing Canadian forces in Europe.

By the end of this week, the first of an initial contingent for the infantry brigade and air division in France and West Germany will be on their way to Europe.

RARE, MEDIUM, —WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Two down and three to go!

That's the word as the Bigger M of the Yankee twin barrels nears the wire.

That is, if he is to tie or break the Ruthian record of 60 homers in 154 games. He should make it over the schedule route of 162.

But Mr. Prick had edicted that the Rajah or the Mick or anyone for that matter, must break 60 homers in 154 games to claim a new home run record.

If Maris does break sixty in 162 games it will go as a record but will be marked in the archieves with an asterisk. (Sorry, this is a Model T typewriter. There is no asterisk on the keyboard.)

That also is an edict of Mr. Prick. What the asterisk denotes, I do not know unless it is "He tried Samuel Ward but just failed to make it."

Sportswriter—Maris is the most-talked-of athlete in the United States, and along baseball lines in Canada. With the Yankees having the bustling nearly folded, and tucked away ready for staffing, no one seems to give a hoot whether they win or lose. The big question is "Did he (Maris) get another?"

If Maris does beat the Babe's 154-game record—and it is extremely doubtful—he will in no way rob the Babe of the glory and glamor that was his. Nor will he, by any strength of imagination ever exceed the prodigious record of four-baggers that is the Babe's alone, all of them.

Both Mantle and Maris and any other potential home-run record breaker, for that matter, had the Babe's mark of circuit smashes as an incentive. The Babe had his own mark, 59, a forty-year record that still stands.

Babe hit the 59 homers in 1921, six years before his famous "called shot." Four times he exceeded 50 home runs. Seven times he did better than 40.

There is an illustrious array of sluggers at the top of the home-run page of achievement. Well back but in second place is Jimmy Foxx with 534. Then Mr. Splendid Splitter, the one and only Ted Williams, is next with 521. Then comes Mel Ott with 511. Lou Gehrig, Ruth's only opposition in the home run derby for that time, is the fifth greatest four-bag clouter with 493.

But destiny may hold something for Mickey Mantle, who has bogged down in the 1961 Four-Base Stakes at 53. The Mick, at that, has risen to seventh place in the diamond circle of homer heroes with a current mark of 372.

If the injury gremlins and other occupational hazards give him a clear course the Mick could rise to second place, a niche behind the immortal Babe. To crash that he needs 163 homers which would put him one in front of Foxx. He will be 30 next month. All Mantle needs is 23 homers each season for the next five years. But he hasn't a chance of attaining the Babe's high tower of 714.

Maris, on the other hand, has 183 home runs in five major league seasons and will need another big season next year to climb to fiftieth place in the All-Time Homer. He is 27 years of age and has more of good seasons ahead of him. He could, with his ability, reach the top ten.

Right now he is undergoing terrific strain. The pressure is immense. Opposing teams are tossing left-handers at him. The sportwriting sportwriters are hounding him for copy. They hurl questions at him. Some of them have been repeated a hundred times. Every time he walks to the batter's box, an army of photographers swarm out from nowhere like ants from a hill. Long-snouted cameras point at him. Of late he has taken to the training room, a help of bullet wheels movement and less Lakes are taken after each game.

They say he stands to make an extra million if he breaks the Babe's record, through advertising, endorsements, public appearances, radio, TV, and whatnot. It seems to me he has already earned it.

Cub Homers Snap Dodger Win String

Trail Reds By Four

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Staff Writer

Los Angeles Dodgers are four games behind the leading Cincinnati Reds and may be out of the National League pennant picture for 1961.

Unable to put together a sustained drive in an attempt to overtake the Reds, the Dodgers had their latest win string snapped at four games Monday night when sixth - inning home runs by former teammate Don Zimmer and George Altman gave Chicago Cubs a 5-3 victory.

It was a big loss for the Dodgers and reduced the Reds' magic number to seven to clinch their first pennant since 1940.

The third - place San Francisco Giants edged Milwaukee Braves 3-2 on Orlando Cepeda's two - run homer in the ninth inning and Pittsburgh Pirates beat St. Louis Cardinals 8-6.

STARTS SCORING

In order to rest a pitching staff, depleted by the absence of Johnny Podres, who was bedridden of his ailing father, the Dodgers started rookie righthander Phil Ortega.

Ortega gave up three homers before departing after 5 1-3 innings.

The bid to get by with Ortega against the seventh - place Cubs, losers of eight straight games, fell apart when Cubs starter Don Cardwell checked the Dodgers on four hits over the final seven innings, one short of a personal six - game losing streak against Los Angeles.

Cardwell (14-13) gave up three runs in the first inning on Maury Wills' single, a walk to Wally Moon, Duke Snider's run-producing double and a two-run single by Norm Larker. Thus he shut the door while his teammates scored all their runs on homers.

Ed Bouchee tied the game with a three - run clout in the second inning after Bill Williams singled and Ron Santo walked. In the sixth, Zimmer took off with his 12th homer of the year and, after Cardwell had struck out, Altman chased Ortega with his 8th home run.

Cepeda's last homer, with Felipe Alou on base, gave reliever Bob Miller (13-4) the victory. The Giants won their ninth in 11 games and Milwaukee lost its fifth in a row. Alou and Cepeda had accounted for the Giants' first run with consecutive singles in the second inning. Alou scoring when Jim Davenport grounded into a doubleplay. Bob Hendley (5-6) was the loser.

Dick Groat accounted for three runs with a pair of singles and a double while Dick Stuart smashed a two - run homer, his 31st of the campaign, in the Pirates' five - run seventh inning. Rookie Larry Foss, making his major league debut a winner, needed relief help in the eight inning from Harvey Haddix and Elroy Face. Bob Gibson (11-12) took the loss.

Just Another Home Run For The Babe

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — Nobody was impressed much — the mighty Bambino least of all — that cool autumn day 34 years ago that Babe Ruth hit his 60th home run. Commissioner Ford Frick recalls.

"It was just another home run for the Babe and I don't remember that there was any great excitement, either from the fans or from the sports writers," Frick said Monday. "Because it was a record, it is called for a few paragraphs box in the papers."

The commissioner, then a young sports writer, witnessed the record - homer from the Yankee Stadium press box where he was covering the game for the New York Journal. He said the record - setter made little impact that night on the details remained fuzzy in his mind.

Frick said: "I don't remember exactly what the Babe said afterward when I caught up with him. I think it was something like this: 'I really got my timing into that one.' That's what he usually said. He also might have said, 'Really got the ball on the nut tomorrow.' He had supreme confidence."

Ruth's 60th came on Sept. 30, 1927, in the 154th—but, because of a rainout late in the season, he ended up having played in 155 games. Frick said Ruth was a born showman.

Frick said Ruth was a born extrovert, impervious to the kind of pressures which now seem to be gnawing away at Roger Maris, who has 58 homers, and Mickey Mantle, with his 53.

"He loved crowds and attention and the commissioner added. "He was a big, overgrown kid, a real showboat. I never knew Miller (13-4) the victory. The Giants won their ninth in 11 games and Milwaukee lost its fifth in a row. Alou and Cepeda had accounted for the Giants' first run with consecutive singles in the second inning. Alou scoring when Jim Davenport grounded into a doubleplay. Bob Hendley (5-6) was the loser.

Dick Groat accounted for three runs with a pair of singles and a double while Dick Stuart smashed a two - run homer, his 31st of the campaign, in the Pirates' five - run seventh inning. Rookie Larry Foss, making his major league debut a winner, needed relief help in the eight inning from Harvey Haddix and Elroy Face. Bob Gibson (11-12) took the loss.

Wings Nip Bisons In Opener

BUFFALO N.Y. (AP) — The Rochester Americans rallied Monday night. Buffalo was depleted three men as the Red Wings posted a 5-4 11 - inning victory in the opener of the final title round in a 5-of-7 American League playoff round.

Rochester's Fred Loodeke, third Red Wing pitcher was the winner of Rochester's fifth straight playoff victory after the team eliminated league champion Columbus in five games. Loodeke pitched one inning — ended jam in the eighth inning after replacing Art Kay and allowed two hits the rest of the way.

For Buffalo, it was the first setback in five playoff games. The Bisons had won four straight from Charleston in the semi - final round.

Oriole Nest Tough For Maris

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Staff Writer

Roger Maris of New York Yankees, held to a pair of singles in 18 official at - bats at Baltimore's Memorial Stadium, must tag two home runs in three games at the Orioles' park Tuesday night to tie Babe Ruth's homer record.

The stadium's hard-to-scale walls, a Baltimore pitching staff that has allowed Maris only one homer during the American League season and the possibility of a visit from hurricane Esther all bar Roger's way to the Bambino's record, set in 1927.

Maris, with 58 home runs and a one - game edge over Ruth's record 60 - homer pace, begins the final "official" assault on the mark in a doubleheader tonight, then winds it up in a single game Wednesday under the 154 - decision allotment decreed by baseball commissioner Ford Frick.

HOMER OFF ESTRADA

The Orioles' mound corps and the stadium's distinct home run territory have combined to limit opposing sluggers to 43 homers in 75 games. His lone homer against Baltimore, off Chuck Estrada, came Thursday night as Yankee Stadium May 21.

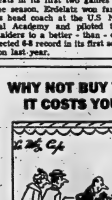
Baltimore Esther may approach the eastern seaboard by night with high winds and heavy rain.

The doubleheader, in which Maris will face left - handers Steve Barber (15-11) and righthander Skinny Brown (10-4), plus Esther, on Wednesday and Thursday night close the Yankees' schedule at Baltimore and Boston's Fenway Park.

The major threat to Maris' chances of catching Ruth, even when the games are played, remains the challenging park where he has gone-leading 16 taters. Fenway is the second-leading 410 feet from home plate.

BATTERS WITH BUTCUTS

Batters with seven shutouts this year, and Brown have allowed only 12 homers each this season, while righthanders Milt Pappas (13-8), slatted to start game No. 1 for the Orioles has permitted only 13 gopher balls.



Whitey Ford (24-3) and Bud Daley (11-7) will go for New York tonight, with the Yankees 10½ games ahead of the second-place Detroit Tigers and their pennant - clinching magic number standing at four.

Any combination of two New York victories and-or Detroit defeats will give the Yanks the pennant. Both clubs were idle Monday as the American League took a day off.

COACH FIRED

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Oakland Raiders Monday fired Eddie Erdelatz as head coach and appointed his assistant, Marty Feldman to succeed him after the American Football League team dropped a 43-0 decision to Houston in its first two games of the season. Erdelatz won fame as coach of the U.S. Naval Academy and piloted the Raiders to a better - than - expected 4-9 record in its first season last year.

"What's Wrong With Riders?"

Ottawa Fans Alarmed!

OTTAWA (CP)—At the end of last November, the capital was languidly calculating how many consecutive Grey Cups Ottawa Rough Riders would win.

Now it's a question whether the defending cup champions will make the Eastern Football Conference playoffs this season.

All over town, the cry is "What's wrong with the Riders?" It hadn't been heard since Ottawa lost five consecutive games in 1957 to finish last. It has lost three of seven this year.

Ottawa sports writers had plenty to say Monday about what's wrong with the Riders.

"Age, indifference, injury and inexperience have conspired to strike at the same time," wrote Citizen columnist Jack Kinsella.

Journal football writer Eddie MacCabe described the champs in Saturday's 36-13 loss to Montreal Alouettes as "lifeless, listless and indolent." Journal sports editor Bill Westwick said Riders were "spiritless, lethargic and dolphied."

Citizen sports editor Jack Koffman said the Riders have become "fat with press clippings."

"We could drop two or three more at this rate," said coach Frank Clair. "The boys have lost their desire."

Kinsella reports that an important player — unidentified — "may have conceived to strike at the same time," wrote Citizen columnist Jack Kinsella.

Clark Tops Big Four

TORONTO (CP)—Don Clark, Montreal Alouettes' fullback from Ohio State, had another big day Saturday and moved to the quarterback-scoring leadership in the Eastern Football Conference.

Clark rushed 97 yards as the Als downed Ottawa Rough Riders 36-12 and now has a total of 613 yards on 94 carries for a 6.5-yard average, offered league statistics show. The figures include Saturday's games.

Fullback Cookie Gilchrist of Toronto Argonauts was second with 540 yards on 95 carries. His 8.3-yard average is the league's best.

Quarterback Bernie Faloney of Hamilton Tiger-Cats has a total-adjusted leadership of the forward - passing department. His 12-game total is 10.3-yard average gain and completion percentage of 58.4 are second in the league. He has thrown 135 times, second only to 174 attempted made by Toronto's Tobin Rote.

OTTAWA FAIR RECORD

Ottawa Fair's backfield Ron Lancaster and Russ Jackson follow Faloney in average gains with 8.5 and 8.1-yards respectively. Lancaster has a .625 completion ratio on 25 attempts for 218 yards and Jackson is .486 on 72 attempts for 353 yards.

Rote has a .500 completion average, as eight-yard average gain. He has thrown for 1,391.

Dave Mann, Toronto halfback, leads pass-receivers with the most catches—30—for the most yards—427. Gerry McDougall of Hamilton has picked up 356 yards on 23 catches.

Tickin' defense halfback Don Sutherin has eight interceptions, followed by Ottawa's Joe Poirier and George Brancato and Toronto's Jim Rountree, all of them have three.

BEAT TRACK RECORD

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Three lucky bettors picked up a $2,340.40 record daily double Monday at nearby Beulah Park. Snatches paid $103.80 to win the first race and May Not Run took the second to pay $55.80 The former record was $1,-391.20.

Redmen Pin Hopes On Quarter

Skypeck, a 210-pounder from Cornell University, brought McGill its first championship since 1958 last year by directing a 21-0 victory over Queen's University Gaels in a sudden-death playoff.

The following week he passed for 330 yards and ran a McGill offence that rolled up 351 yards in crushing University of Alberta Golden Bears, 42-7, to win the Churchill Cup, emblematic of the Canadian college crown.

There was some speculation that Skypeck would have to sit this year because of scholastic requirements, but he successfully wrote a series of supplementary exams and is back with the team.

The Redmen, who play their first exhibition game Thursday against Verdun Shamrocks, Quebec intermediate champions, expect to use another American in a starting offensive halfback slot—Whitey Reimer, from Syracuse, All-star halfback Willie Lambert will be back this season.

Coach Bruce Coulter rates his team "not quite as strong as last year right now. . . . But I would say we have as good a chance as anyone to take the championship again."

Junior 'A' Loops Won't Interlock

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Hockey Association's Junior A Council Monday night reaffirmed its stand against an interlocking schedule with the newly-formed Metropolitan Toronto League.

The five-team league had previously asked for an interlocking schedule and been turned down. It includes Toronto St. Michael's College Majors and Toronto Marlboros, who dropped out of the OHA Junior A series last season.

It was learned that some Toronto - area players drafted by OHA clubs before the new Metro League was formed have decided they want to play for Metro teams.

OHA rules say junior players can play for the club nearest their home. But the OHA draft was taken before the new league was organized and OHA officials say the Metro clubs have been told to live the drafted players away.

CAN'T SEE WHY

OHA president Lloyd Pollock of Windsor told council meeting he couldn't see why the OHA Junior A series, whose teams are sponsored by National Hockey League clubs, should benefit from the draft rules while the Metro League, with some financial help from Toronto Maple Leafs, is left out.

"If just the pro clubs have draft privileges the draft should be thrown out," Pollock said. "I think all clubs of Junior A status should have equal rights."

It was announced that players on Medalist Junior Canadiens, seeking to enter the OHA Junior A series, will not be protected by the NHL Montreal Canadiens from drafting.

The other five teams in the OHA Junior A series — Hamilton, Guelph, St. Catharines, Peterborough and Niagara Falls—have agreed not to tamper with Junior Canadiens players.

Toronto Argonauts and Hamilton Tiger-Cats are tied for first position but came up with victories in Canadian Football League games against western clubs Saturday night.

Toronto de-emphasized its potent passing attack to beat British Columbia Lions 15-7 in Vancouver.

Hamilton Tiger - Cats, unbeaten leaders in the Eastern Conference, defeated Saskatchewan Roughriders 22-15 at Regina before a crowd of 10,620.

Quarterback Tobin Rote attempted only nine passes for Argonauts and completed seven for 69 yards. Halfback Dick Shatto tossed two more, completing one, and that was the Toronto passing attack.

The loss for the Lions before a 24,428 fans, left them in last place in the Western Conference with one point on a record of eight losses and a tie. Saskatchewan retained third spot with three wins and six losses.

Toronto also stayed in third place in the Eastern Conference with seven points, but moved up to within one point of the second - place Ottawa Rough Riders.

With regular quarterback Bernie Faloney on the sidelines with an injury, Hamilton was led by Jerry Dubbinski and Frank Cosentino.

Dubbinski started Hamilton scoring the first time the club got the ball. He lateralled the ball to Cosentino, who passed to and Paul Dekker in the clear. Dekker went over for the touchdown.

Defensive halfback Bob Pitacek got his one back for Saskatchewan in the second quarter, by intercepting a Dubbinski pass on the Hamilton 30-yard line and going all the way for a touchdown.

Pitacek, who played as alert game on defence, intercepted a Cosentino pass later in the quarter to halt another Hamilton march.

Saskatchewan had an 8-7 lead at the half, but lost it when Bill Gray took a pass from quarterback Dave Cross and fumbled the ball into the arms of Hamilton's Garney Henley. Henley ran 26 yards for a touchdown.

The final Hamilton score came midway through the second quarter with the clubs tied 15-15.

Dubbinski passed from his own 36 - yard line to George Scott, who caught the ball on the Saskatchewan 40 and went over from there.

Reg Whitehouse kicked two field goals and a single and Ferd Burket kicked a single to round out the Saskatchewan scoring.

Cam Fraser kicked two singles and Don Sutherin added two converts for the Tiger-Cats.

Players were hampered by 45-miles - an - hour winds and 30-degree temperature.

Dubbinski and Cosentino completed seven of 19 passes for 114 yards. Grosz and Pitacek completed five of 15 for 39 yards. Saskatchewan outrushed Hamilton 161 yards to 121.

Tunney Asks Suspension

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto boxing promoter Frank Tunney asked Monday night for the suspension of Canada's heavyweight champion Bob Cleroux of Montreal.

At the same time, he said arrangements have been completed for the Erskine of England, former British and Empire heavyweight champ, to meet George Chuvalo of Toronto Oct. 2 in Maple Leaf Gardens.

Tunney had said previously he would ask for Cleroux's suspension if he failed to fulfil terms of a contract calling for a rematch here Sept. 18 between Cleroux and Chuvalo. He had heard nothing from Cleroux or his manager, Al Bachman, Monday night.

Tunney said he is asking for suspension of both Cleroux and Bachman by the Canadian Boxing Federation and the National Boxing Association.

Cleroux dropped Chuvalo for the heavyweight title in a Montreal bout last month Tunney said Cleroux must submit a certified cheque for $5,000, posted by the Cleroux management as a guarantee of the return bout.

Cobourg, Joyces Tonight!

Joyce Real Estate will play host to the Cobourg Merchants at the Algonquin Park this night at 8.15 in the third game of their best-of-seven Billeville and District softball league finals.

Joyces lead the series, for the Bill Ott Trophy, two games to none. The fourth game is scheduled for Cobourg Saturday night.

Doug Ellis will likely get the starting pitching assignment for Joyces while Cobourg will go with either Bob Smith or "Sleepy" Dave or - Rolly Cockburn, Cobourg.

The team managements have been battling, along with the league executive, in meetings and via phone, for the past two weeks, over the time to take the game back to the diamond, where it belongs.

The league president Bill Burtch has ordered the Cobourg club to be here for tonight's game or forfeit the series. The Merchants have kindly promised to be here.

There never has been any love lost between these two clubs but after what has happened of late, there should be plenty of action tonight.—C.A.

Swede or Swiss?

Ingy Sued for Million

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Is former heavyweight boxing champion Ingemar Johansson's home in Sweden or Switzerland?

That was a point of contention as a hearing of the U.S. government's suit to collect $1,000,000 in income taxes from Johansson opened Monday.

Special internal revenue investigator Clarence W. Knipp Jr., of Washington testified that last June he saw a new brick cowboy home, built by Johansson near Gothorg, Sweden. He also testified that he found in Geneva, Switzerland, that the fighter had an apartment in a commercial district.

Eugene Myers of Washington, internal revenue service attorney, admitted on cross examination by Johansson's attorney that Swiss officials had informed the U.S. government that the boxer is a Swiss resident as far as tax purposes are concerned. He said, however, that this referred to Swiss taxes."

Johansson was not present at the hearing.

The Training Camps

While two National Hockey League teams nursed bruises following a weekend exhibition games, a third team was buried into a stepped-up training program Monday but its was happy coach.

"If it's work the club needs, they'll get it," said coach Rudy Pilous of Chicago Black Hawks, last year's Stanley Cup champions, at the training camp in St. Catharines.

Pilous was upset by Hawks' 1-1 tie against their farm team, Buffalo Bisons of the American League, in an exhibition tilt. They meet Buffalo again tonight.

"We seemed to slow down in the third period, which can only mean we're not yet in sound physical condition," Pilous commented.

At Peterborough, coach Punch Imlach of Toronto Maple Leafs reported "a rash of minor injuries" after a pair of weekend games.

The Leafs meet New York in Peterborough tonight and Imlach said Toronto will be minus Larry Keenan, Dave Keon, Bob Pulford and Billy Harris, all out with knee injuries, pulled muscles or the like.

Leafs opened their first outs since they started training. Sent to Pittsburgh Hornets of the AHL were goalkeeper Ed Chadwick, defencemen Paul Jackson, Jim Wilson and Gerry Ehman, and forwards Ken Girard, Gene Ubriaco, Earl Johnson, Jack Bownass and Larry Cahan.

Three New York players injured during a game Monday should be ready for tonight's game, Rangers playing coach Doug Harvey said. At his Guelph training camp, Dean Prentice has a leg injury, Camille Henry, Hannigan a pulled side muscle and Andy Bathgate a pulled chest ligament.

Bob Kabel, with Springfield of the AHL and Sandy MacGregor and Ed Hoekstra of Kitchener - Waterloo Beavers of the Eastern Hockey League will see their first action Tuesday night.

Commenting on his debut as a playing coach, Harvey said: "It's typical that both but it'll get easier as we go along and I get into shape. Right now it's tough enough just playing."

Ed Meadows came to Canada this year to play for Montreal Alouettes and some folks dug up old press clippings that said he was a rough, tough guy. The idea was that opposing players in the East would therefore be better keep their heads up or they'd get it from 215-pound bone-rattling defensive end.

Meadows claims he's not as much an ogre as he has been depicted. And he gets support from Ed (Big Mo) Modzelewski, who played against him for years in the National Football League.

"That's a lot of guff," Modzelewski said in an interview in Toronto the other day. "He wasn't a tough guy at all.

"Meadows got a big reputation when he slugged Bobby Layne of the Detroit Lions back in 1956. And that's all it is—just a reputation. I don't want to spoil the fun, but there are, and always have been, a lot of tougher guys in the NFL."

Big Mo should know. He was a big hard-hitting fullback with Pittsburgh Steelers in 1952 and then from 1953 to 1959 was a star on Paul Brown's backfield until Jimmy Brown showed up. He played briefly with Chicago Bears, Pittsburgh and Washington Redskins from 1952 to 1956. In 1959 he was traded or reported to the Als this summer.

It's only natural that his reputation as a bad egg on the football field should follow him to Canada.

In a Chicago-Detroit game at Detroit five years ago American newspapers devoted a lot of sports-page space to the Layne clubs but after what has happened of late, there should be plenty of action tonight.—C.A.

dirty play and that he deliberately slugged Layne.

The Detroit quarter was forced to leave the field during the second period and Meadows followed him to the sidelines in the clubhouse. He was ushered out by game officials called "unsportsmanlike conduct" against another Detroit player.

"That incident made Meadows a national figure," Modzelewski said.

Modzelewski, one of the best-known players in NFL history, was on hand to kick off the announcement that Big Mo's game this year would be televised across Canada. He can't understand why sports writers refer to him as Big Mo.

"I only weigh 220 pounds in my playing days and my younger brother, Dick, who is still playing football for the Giants, was a couple of inches taller and 40 pounds heavier. So he's called Little Mo."

Meadows hasn't had much chance to prove himself as a tough guy on the field. He has been laid up with a shoulder injury for most of the first few games and due to return when the Als meet the Tiger-Cats at Hamilton Sept. 23.

Tiger-Cats are no patsies. They can also be tough as the next fellow, including Meadows.

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP) — A field of 17, matching the record for the event, loomed Monday for Delaware's $70,000 Little Brown Jug Pace for three-year-olds. Indications are that enough will be named to require two divisions and a three-heat race.

20 Shoestring Promoters Get Rich Filming Nudes

Following in the second of three stories on Hollywood's nude wave in movies.

By BOB THOMAS

The Immoral Mr. Teas is billed with more justice as "the big daddy of them all." A ploddless procession of nudes, it started the first big splash of the nude wave.

It was filmed around Hollywood for about $25,000. It has run in Los Angeles and San Francisco for three years and holds the long-run record in Seattle, playing Seattle for 18 months—almost a return of $1,800,000.

Mel Tuchler, Henry, was put together for $75,000. A 30-week run in Hollywood brought a re- turn of $112,000, tilted by a police raid and court acquittal. It's eventual profit in the United States alone is estimated as high as $600,000.

Who makes these films?

Teas was directed by Russ Meyers, a magazine photographer. He had produced the Teas Decensies, who has operated burlesque and read shows. Henry was the work of Ted Paramore, who ran a film mail order business. Nearly all the nude-film makers are first-time producers.

The films their bare spice in apartments and offices, as nudist camp teachers, sell coon in a studio. Nudes are recruited from the ranks of professional models, strippers and prostitutes.

Only one of the nudies was filmed under a contract with the Screen Actors Guild. It was Nudes on Parade, and the Guild officials presumed it was a routine venture.

The Guild has since refused a contract with a nudie producer, asserting that such films reflect ill on the movie industry.

Tomorrow: Pros and cons of the nudies.

Place for General Education In Senior Years of BA Course Says McGill University Dean

By RUSS PREDON

MONTREAL (CP) — Students entering the arts course at McGill University this fall will follow a new curriculum based on Dean H. N. Fieldhouse's conviction that the place for a "general education" is in the senior years of a BA course rather than the junior years.

The McGill dean of arts and science has drafted a program at courses embracing the first year and introducing more articulation and direction into the senior years."

The change from usual North American practice, Dean Fieldhouse explains, was made for two reasons when some of the courses from a "swelling curriculum" and thereby make improved specialization more effective.

The general BA course, he says, can be "one of the stiffest, and one of the easiest courses in the university."

"A candidate who has selected certain combinations of courses has been subject to the limit to a well - articulated and demanding program. A student who selected other combinations had had a very easy passage indeed."

LOADS OF OPTIONS

And there was almost unlimited choice. Outlines of optional courses filled hundreds of pages in many university calendars.

Dean Fieldhouse cited the widespread use of the freshman year for remedial courses to correct deficiencies in the student's pre - university preparation. This, he says, means the use of university resources to do work which is not the university's business."

But what is wrong with giving introductory "survey" and "orientation" courses in the junior years?

Says Dean Fieldhouse: "It can be only out of 40 years of teaching in universities had convinced me that this type of addition has the results which are proposed for it."

Students were said to develop "a resistance which defeats anything but the most gifted and devoted teachers."

An engineering student, forced to take a certain number of English courses in his first two years before being allowed to concentrate on his special interest, usually developed a hardened "sales resistance" and discarded his English studies forever once his compulsory courses were completed.

ESPECIALTY AT START

The same would apply to an English student who found he had to contend with a certain minimum of mathematics and science.

"If, on the other hand, you will to him here his BA, as a junior, of his special interests he will, as a senior, ask you to help him find the things which, as a junior, he discounted."

Beginning this fall, the freshman will have three options when he enters the BA course at McGill: he can enter the social sciences, the humanities, or a course designed to lead into medicine.

Instead of the usual minimum of work in foreign languages and natural science—described by the dean as "sufficient to act as an irritant but not substantial enough to be real"—the freshman will be required to pursue a chosen language language to, a point "well above the elementary level."

This does not mean, Dean Fieldhouse stressed, that the "general" year has been made easier, but "it has been made different, and necessarily to demonstrate that he has the capacity for university work."

The student's time will be divided between his two chosen courses and the usual two prescribed faculty courses, dealing "with the successive conceptions of the nature of man and the world in which he lives; with the relation between these conceptions and actual institutions, economic, political and religious."

Auto Workers Think Ford Beating Tariffs

PORT ELGIN (CP)—Canadian leaders of the United Auto Workers Union called on Justice Minister Fulton during the latter's meeting here to discuss what the union described as a Ford Motor Company "veto" on special tariff regulations on automotive parts.

The demand came from the 140-man Canadian UAW council, representing the union's 85,000 Canadian members, which met in quarterly session here.

A statement issued by Canadian director George Burt said the council also protested the Labor Minister Starr about an order from the National Employment Service in Oakville.

The council, in a telegram to Mr. Fulton, asked the justice minister to plug a loophole it said Ford has found in the tariff law by setting up a purchasing office in Jamaica. The telegram said Ford is bringing in 2,690 different part-model service parts from 326 United States suppliers through the Jamaica office, thus escaping a 50-per-cent dumping duty which the Canadian government put on such parts in the fall of 1960.

Comedian Alan King Made Many New Friends in Show

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Comedian Alan King made friends and influenced ratings last season on The Garry Moore Show. This season the Moore production staff to develop a separate Alan King Show. After all, the system worked with Candid Camera, once a Moore feature.

Monday night, with most of this season's new shows still to make their debuts, CBS presented Alan King in a one-shot, half-hour special with the unsurprised idea that if the public liked it it might turn up as a regular feature later this year in the event of some program casualties, or next season.

King is a pretty funny stand-up comedy monologist and his specialty is a wry assault on the joys of suburban family life. As the show turned out, King proved to be funnier just talking about his problems than trying to act them out in a situation comedy.

Speaking of situation comedy, the Pete and Gladys people are certainly crazy about I Love Lucy. The CBS hit returned to Monday night with Cara Williams looking and acting even more like Lucille Ball than ever. The Pete Porters have even acquired a couple-of-twelve-year-olds, and the plot certainly reminded one of the good old Lucy days. Unhappily, it lacks the spirit and verve of the original.

In a last-minute switch, CBS has moved its Tuesday night Red Skelton Show into a 9-9:30 p.m. spot, and will follow it with its new Ichabod and Me comedy series when the show returns to make their season debuts next week.

Apparently the move was made to put the fledgling Ichabod and Me in the strongest possible time spot (9 p.m. is considered the peak viewing hour in terms of large audiences) in the network's established comedy lineup that night.

Fall Wheat Yield Higher Than Last Year

TORONTO (CP) — The fall wheat yield in Ontario has survived bad weather in both growing and harvesting seasons and will surpass in quantity last year's crop, the Ontario agriculture department said Friday.

The department's monthly crop and livestock report says the 1961 crop has been estimated at 19,300,000 bushels compared with last year's 17,570,000.

Root said a higher moisture content resulting from the wet weather have reduced the quality of the 1961 crop, the report said. Much of the grain will be useful only as livestock feed, since the grade is too low for milling.

The fall's seeding is expected to run about 15 per cent below last fall. The per-acre yield for 1961 is about 25.2 bushels an acre, up from the 1960 figure of 23.5 bushels.

The department report said hay has set a production record of 3½ tons an acre on the acreage.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Wednesday, September 20, 1961

General Tendencies: The day is excellent for all kinds of new and improved projects that require a certain flair and that have to do with very progressive situations, interests or outlets. But the evening finds some very confusing conditions in effect and you would be wise to make no committments unless you fully understand every singe factor involved.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Important that you get in touch with enterprising friends who can help you to have a more satisfying social life until 4 p.m. after that be most co-operative with partners and be very good to best source of supply. P.M. have fun.

Taurus (April 21 to May 20) An ideal day for taking care of your credit and then handling civic affairs wisely. Take care in the evening that you act circumspectly so that you don't take away from your good name and the good will so laboriously built up in the past.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) If you look into your paper this morning, you will find many ideas and items that pertain to your own life and spheres of endeavor. Make new contacts before 4 p.m., too. Then put all in order about you. Be sure you keep out of drafts.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) — Contact that fine personal advisor for the ideas that you need at this time in order to get important matters in best order. Exercise care in dealing with the one you love after 4 p.m. since you are tired and not thinking very sharply.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Important you know what your true position is with others by 4 p.m. Ask pointed questions, but do so with a charming smile. Take the time to cement better relations with partners after that by being very co-operative and attentive.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Get new gadgets or install new system that will make your daily work more efficient in every way. Later, be most careful while out driving and also be sure you think before you speak or you can easily alienate those you like. Be kind.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — You are tempted to forget all duties and get out for fun until this evening. You return by 4 p.m. and get to work with vim. Work and drive carefully in p.m.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be an inspiration to others today by showing great thought and devotion to family ties. Buy little gifts that please, too. Don't be forceful with anyone in p.m. Relax at home, then be sure to get to bed early.

Sagittaries (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Every opportunity is yours now to shop wisely and also to set up appointments, plan trips, etc. Take it easy in p.m. and do nothing that will irritate family ties. Quietly watch television or read a good book. Be happy.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Important you impress key people with your good common sense where money is concerned and then you can get future planned along more practical lines with their co-operation. Don't go out and spend money foolishly in p.m.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You can do much to improve health and appearance until 4 p.m. Then find out and do what is important to your welfare. Evening is best spent at home and away from gay social whirl. Read your paper for good ideas, data.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) If you can get your personal and business affairs well organized, this can be a most worthwhile and progressive day. Concentrate upon more modern systems of operating in p.m. Then curl up in front of TV for quiet, happy enjoyment.

If your child is born today—he, or she, will be one of those highly talented individuals who thrive best if surrounded by persons in every walk of life from earliest years, since the success in this chart stems mainly from the ideas picked up here and there and elaborated upon cleverly. Also, by forming partnerships, revenue can be forthcoming from several sources at the same time. Give good spiritual training early and there is a quasi-genius here.

Grey County Farmer Held, Shots Fired

MARKDALE (CP) — Provincial police arrested a Grey County farmer Monday after he had stood them off at rifle point for five hours.

The man was taken to jail at Owen Sound, 25 miles northwest of here, but there was no immediate word on what charges were laid.

Police said they went to the farm nine miles east of here in connection with an incident three weeks ago. Euphrasia Township assessor George Seabrook was struck and two pistol shots were fired at a car bearing Seabrook and county assessor Stewart Howey when they attempted to make a property assessment, police said.

A police roadblock was set up Monday in an attempt to intercept the man on his return from a neighbor's harvesting, but police said the farmer crashed the roadblock and reached his home.

Seven provincial police officers armed with machine-guns and tear gas grenades converged on the house and negotiated for the man to surrender quietly.

He was finally persuaded to give in through a telephone call to his father.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive ointment right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, very striking improvement was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

'Progenitor of Americans' National Symbol' Said 'Uncle Sam' Wilson of Troy

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP) — After 169 years, the United States Congress finally has come around to formal recognition that "Uncle Sam" really lived.

The original "Uncle Sam" didn't have a goatee or wear the striped pantaloons and star-studded waistcoat that nowadays convey the impression of the American flag.

But in general pictorial stature personality and name, "Uncle Sam" sprang from the jobs and the character of Samuel Wilson, a pioneering Troy, N.Y., meat packer and liquor manufacturer who packed beef and pork for the American troops in the War of 1812.

That was the war in which Americans learned a sobering lesson. They believed Canadians wanted to belong to the United States and that Canada was ripe for easy conquest. They came away badly bested and sadly disillusioned.

But the War of 1812 helped Americans grow up and, the hard-working, ambitious Samuel Wilson of Troy helped them grow.

He gave them a new symbol of government—the image of a kindly uncle, somewhat uncultured but wise.

CARTOON SYMBOL

The political cartoonists of the day seized on Uncle Sam. It was a welcome change from old and outmoded national symbols of the United States, such as the Indian maiden Pocahontas and the nonexistent uncouth, uneducated "Brother Jonathan" that followed.

As seen in current cartoons, Uncle Sam seldom laughs. He is mostly perplexed and harried with a watchful eye on his pocketbook as the world stampers for his aid. But the Uncle Sam that was evoked by Samuel Wilson, says Congress in a resolution of formal recognition, "still represents the strength and idealism that made up the greatest nation in the world."

The story goes that Wilson, a descendant of Scottish Presbyterians, was given a contract to provide packaged meat for the troops. He stamped his barrels with the initials "U.S." — meaning Elbert Anderson of New York, the prime contractor, and the U.S. government.

WATCHMAN'S STORY

One day a group of new arrivals asked an Irish watchman what the initials meant and with a bit of frivolity he was reported to have replied:

"Why, that's for Elbert Anderson who has a contract to supply the troops and Uncle Sam."

"Uncle Sam? Uncle Sam who?"

"Why, Uncle Sam Wilson. It is he who is feeding the army."

It was true that Wilson, who dealt not only in cattle and liquor but also in brickmaking and other ventures with a brother, became known locally in Troy as Uncle Sam Wilson.

Uncle Sam's fame spread. Products stamped with the initials "U.S." became known as Uncle Sam's products. Meanwhile the cartoons depicting Uncle Sam went through a state of evolution.

In Wilson's day, men were clean-shaven. The newspaper cartoons showed Uncle Sam as such, dressed in typical attire of the day which, for bushels and narrow pantaloons, the swallow-tailed coat, the stiff collar and high hat.

LOOKS CHANGE

Gradually over the decades the dress took on the appearance of the flag with some of the stars showing on the waistcoat and in the hat band. The silver goatee or board became a fixed essential with the rise of the bearded Lincoln whose features became deeply imbedded in the national conscience.

Over the years, members of the Wilson family tried to get the country to recognize that Samuel Wilson, who lived to be 88, had given birth to "Uncle Sam." But several states challenged Troy's claims, maintaining the name came from men of their own states.

Now the controversy is settled, but with some elements still obscure.

Struck out of the congressional resolution saluting Samuel Wilson is the place of his birth and death. Troy maintains he walked over the hills from what now is Arlington, Mass., his birthplace, to New Hampshire and then to Troy, and that he is buried in Troy. But Indiana claims his bones lie in that state.

WHEAT SURPLUS DOWN — The bureau of statistics reports a wheat carryover of 533,900,000 bushels existed at July 31.

This was down 14,400,000 bushels from a year earlier and marked the second decline in two years.

THE CONGO

marshkid and permitted his troops to mistreat and beat up UN personnel.

Some members of the present government were publicly on record as opposing Hammarskjold. Even President Joseph Kasavubu opposed him at times.

CAN'T GRASP

The Congolese mind somehow can't grasp the fact that this white man's motives were of the highest, that his great desire for The Congo was peace, political maturity and prosperity.

Fortunately for The Congo, Dr. Ralph Bunche, another Negro and a man with Hammarskjold's own direct approach, unswerving devotion to the mission and sympathetic attitude, remains in Leopoldville to direct the United Nations operation.

It was ironical that at his death Hammarskjold was flying to a meeting with Tshombe which would have resulted only in failure. Hammarskjold never could have accepted Tshombe's views on Katanga's future in cease-fire discussions to halt the fighting between Katanga and UN forces.

From the beginning of the UN operation in The Congo, the international body's policy has been to treat Katanga as a province of The Congo. Without Katanga, The Congo does not make sense as an economic unit since the province should provide more than half of the central government's revenue.

Everybody Has Unfinished Business in His Life

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Everybody has unfinished business in his life.

It consists of all the things he'd like to do or get—but somehow, for one reason or another, never does.

For example, somewhere also, the way I've wanted to do such things as:

Climb the Empire State Building and the Statue of Liberty.

Understand electricity, and be able to explain it to others.

Attend an informal dinner party at the White House.

Be a bore the just once that didn't look as if it had been assembled by a man with 10 thumbs and the palsy.

Find curer for the common cold and the uncommon hangover.

Talk to Socrates, Voltaire and Emily Dickinson at a spiritualist's seance.

Meet a movie or television star who was humble — and never bragged about it.

GAMBLER'S WISH

Bend the bank at Monte Carlo. (I don't want to break it—just bend it to my needs.)

Learn to carry a tune . . . any tune . . . any tune in the whole wide world.

Become proficient in one other language besides English and Pig Latin.

Find a really satisfying new food that would taste like strawberries, ice cream, corn on the cob, mashed potatoes and gravy and wouldn't have a calorie in a carload.

Find a potion that would make short, baldish, middle-aged, fat men absolutely irresistible to all women under 40. (I wouldn't market it; I'd keep it all for my own use.)

Go bowling and get one perfect game for a 300 score.

Walk through a forest and be able to name every tree, flower, weed, animal and bird I saw.

Write one phrase of line of poetry that would sing in the ages — and forever.

Thousands Flee Coastal Areas In Path Of Storm

Hurricane Esther Gives East Coast a Beating

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The metropolitan areas of the northeastern United States girded today for a battering by winds and floods brought on by hurricane Esther. Thousands already had fled coastal areas in the path of the storm.

Only part of the vicious hurricane is expected to hit the Maritime Provinces, and Canadian weather officials were not alarmed. It was not expected to reach the Maritimes until late Thursday or Friday.

No high winds were expected in the southeastern Ontario area which may get the fringe of light precipitation.

A first forecast indicated that if Esther continues her direction, her downward 120-mile, an-hour winds would point directly at New Jersey and New York, with the Delaware and Maryland coastlines likely to be hit also.

Esther slapped the North Carolina coast with 33 -foot waves and high winds today as she plodded on a course that could bring the storm's centre from the Virginia coast on up.

Regardless of where she lands the deadly punch, the most densely populated area in the path appears certain to take a beating.

POSSIBLE EMERGENCY

City, civil defence and military officials in the New York-New Jersey-Connecticut metropolitan area prepared 600,000 people urged citizens to prepare for a possible emergency.

New York city's mayor Robert F. Wagner called an emergency meeting of a host of city agencies today.

Civil defence officials in the city of 8 million, blanketed and dotted in neighboring and 35 schools were designated as emergency shelters.

New York city, in the midst of the "hurricane season," issued this warning from the weather bureau: Winds up to 40 miles an hour, and stronger than that late today—rain today and Thursday. Tides will range from the cole to three feet above normal Thursday and Friday in the city. A day with some flooding at high tide.

Aircraft at air force bases throughout the threatened area were ordered to leave for inland.

In exposed sections of New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Delaware, Rhode Island and Massachusetts, residents were hardening the battening - down precautions amid warnings that gale winds and tidal floods would smash their shores today.

Preparations on Long Island were the most extensive in memory.

Residents of the 32-mile strip of land on the south shore of New York city were vividly recalled their brush in 1938 with a hurricane named Hazel.

Hazel blew itself out in Canada's East. On the weekend of October 15-16, leaving 83 dead and about $100,000,000 damage in the province.

Find No Signs Hammarskjold's Plane Sabotaged

CP from Reuters-AP

NDOLA—Officials today continued to investigate the nearby plane crash that killed Dag Hammarskjold as plans were made for his body to lie in state in the small Ndola Presbyterian church in this Northern Rhodesian centre.

Preparations also were being completed for officials of the United Nations, Katanga and other governments to place wreaths before the body of the UN secretary-general.

The probe into the crash that killed 14 others including Count Alice Lalonde, a UN secretary from Joliet, Que., Monday so far has turned up no evidence of sabotage or attack, two possibilities raised by UN spokesmen earlier.

Veteran pilots who viewed the crash site 7½ miles north of this city said the pattern was typical of power failure or bad instruments. Col. Bjorn Egge of Norway, UN intelligence chief, said a British pathologist will be flown from London to determine whether the 55 victims died in the air or on the ground. The lone survivor, a UN guard, has been quoted as saying he heard a series of explosions before the crash of the DC-6B.

Eggs said Hammarskjold's body was the only one not burned "and it is broken left leg war his only external injury. "His face wore that same expression of determination of a man who worked himself and others hard."

Hammarskjold's body will be flown to his native Sweden where his countrymen will give him a state funeral, an honor usually reserved for monarchs. The last non-royal Swede to receive a state funeral was Louis de Geer, a 19th century premier who died in 1896.

There has been widespread speculation about the cause of the crash. Rhodesian officials have dismissed suggestions that the plane was shot down.

The Commons completed all but the formality of third reading of a long-range review of the revamped Civil Service Act, being revised for the first time since the 1930s.

A Liberal amendment to give the civil services collective bargaining rights was defeated by a vote of 129 to 76.

Another Liberal move to give limited preference to veterans over other competitors to veterans who served only in Canada, was defeated 127 to 74.

Works Minister Walker told the government will rush to more public money on housing loans in new northern mining centres.

ARMY REPORTED UNHAPPY OVER TRAINING PLAN

Has No Quarrel With Objective

OTTAWA (CP) — Reliable sources say the Canadian Army is unhappy about the government's plan to train 100,000 militiamen this winter on six-week civil defence courses.

They say the army has no quarrel with the objective — it needs and wants men trained for national survival—but it disagrees with the method.

The informants list these objections:

1. The militiamen will be paid $115 a month—to 1964 is attract the type of men the army wants.

2. The government rejected the army's proposal that men enlisting for the 6-week course be guaranteed reinstatement in their civilian jobs.

3. Recruits will be enlisted with the lowest known army medical ratings. For instance a recruit with hearing H-4 (numbers class—unable to hear a telephone) will be admitted. The army contends such men will be handicapped.

4. The militiamen will be outfitted with Second World War uniforms and fittings will be far from custom-made.

5. The intensive training program for the regular army and militia units will be seriously disrupted because nearly all instructors will be teaching the civil defence courses.

6. The present 42,000-member militia will be turned temporary by use of their armories for training.

The summer recruits will have to live at home, they will be drawn mostly from the largest cities in Canada. The army wants its rescue personnel created 30 to 100 miles from target cities.

The recruits may require a host of medical and dental care and a man could join up for six weeks, find he has a toothache and be refused.

One army informant said the government has calculated that the scheme may help avoid paying out about $200,000,000 in unemployment insurance benefits this winter.

He also has noted that the militia pay—about $40 a week—is about $4 a week more than the maximum weekly unemployment insurance benefit. The courses will start Nov. 14.

No Decision Yet On Nuclear Arms Fo Canada--PM

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today no decision has been made by the government's decision on whether to acquire nuclear warheads for Bomarc missiles in Canada.

He added in the Commons that no decision has been taken by the government and that speculation to the contrary is based on nothing more than the views of those who want the government to take a final stand.

This speculation did not take into full regard the international situation.

Mr. Diefenbaker also said important Western disarmament proposals will be laid before the United Nations General Assembly by the United States.

He was hoped these proposals would lead to about a new attitude in the disarmament field, he added.

UN Withdrawal Only Way To Avoid Massacre, Claim

CP from AP-Reuters

Tshombe said he would leave his Northern Rhodesia confinement centre tonight to return to Elizabethville, his capital.

The Katanga leader, battling efforts to force the mineral-rich land under the rule of the Congo's central government, issued a wreath of white lilies before the coffin of UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold as it lay in state in a Ndola church.

Then he talked with reporters after a morning session with the UN delegation trying to arrange a Katanga cease-fire.

"We have made counter proposals which the UN side has transmitted to New York," Tshombe said. "Now we await their reply.

"We consider that in the interests of the United Nations and of the entire world UN forces should be withdrawn at once.

Meanwhile, Radio Free Katanga said today UN troops at Elizabethville abandoned their headquarters under attack and withdrew outside that capital.

Katangan police and Swedish UN soldiers clashed near the Baluba refugees camp at Elisabethville Tuesday, the radio said.

The broadcast claimed a large number of refugees left the camp in answer to Tshombe's appeal to place themselves under his protection, and were shot at by Swedish soldiers.

Today, armed police guards were thrown around the control tower of the airport here, where the two sides were meeting. All access to the tower and the airport administration buildings was sealed off.

Tshombe left for more than five hours Tuesday with Maurice Khiari, a Tunisian who heads the civilian operations in The Congo. Khiari who had conferred with Tshombe before in his capital of Elisabethville, took over the peace mission that Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold died trying to fulfil.

The scene of the talks was the closely guarded Ndola airport building. The two arrived and left separately with police escorts. Following Hammarskjold's tradition of quiet diplomacy, the talks were held in strictest secrecy.

Informed sources said the negotiations probably covered two points—talks on a "stand still" inthe-fighting, a week old truce, and further negotiations on the whole question of the Congo.

Treated Wood Foundations Will Assist Home Building

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal Works Minister Walker said today, treated wood foundations, if permitted practically, may have "far-reaching consequences" on Canada's home construction industry.

The Forest Service is conducting investigations into the use of treated wood foundations for basements of other homes, he told the Commons.

Mr. Monteith said more reliable information can be obtained from milk powder and radioactive fallout than that based on air samples. It was too early to anticipate what levels would be recorded in these tests.

The international commission on radiological protection has set the safe permissible radioactivity level at 0.6 disintegrations a minute per cubic metre but this figure is based on continuous exposure throughout a lifetime.

'Sharp Increases' in Radiation Health Minister Tells Commons

OTTAWA (CP)—"Very sharp increases" in radiation levels were recorded in central and eastern Canada the weekend of Sept. 10-11, Health Minister Monteith reported today to the Commons.

A reading of 470 disintegrations per minute per cubic metre of air was recorded at Toronto, the highest ever recorded since the health department began its present sampling program in August, 1959.

Mr. Monteith said knowledge is incomplete concerning high levels of radiation from short-lived fission products.

They "might" constitute a health hazard if continuing for a sufficient length of time.

The high readings were made last weekend at Fredericton,

CIVIL SERVICE LEGISLATION IS COMPLETED

Major Overhaul Affects 135,000

OTTAWA (CP)—Third and final reading was scheduled to be given today in the Commons to a new Civil Service Act, affecting some 135,000 federal employees across Canada.

The act, representing the first major overhaul of civil service legislation since 1938, sailed through clause-by-clause study Tuesday night in committee of the whole House. It had already been given second reading—approval in principle.

The only sticking point was the Commons pass amendments to the national housing act providing more money for loans, housing, sewage projects and university residences, and put the bill setting up the machinery for planning the centennial celebrations in 1967.

Opposition support of the new Civil Service Act followed defeat of a long series of amendments moved by the Liberal Opposition dealing with, among others, a bargaining rights for civil service veterans' preference in job competitions, and a plan whereby blind persons should be given an advantage in competitive candidates for federal positions.

CCF BACKS

CCF members backed most of the Liberal amendments, which were snowed under by the top-heavy government majority.

However, when the CCF proposed an amendment calculated to prohibit "all forms of political activity by civil servants,

Power Company Requests Govt. To Take Action

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Power Corporation has called on the provincial and Social Credit government to take it to court over the transfer of $800,000 in a bank account to a number of senior executives.

The corporation's president, A. Bruce Robertson, indicated Tuesday night that the former board of directors of the recently expropriated B.C. Electric Company would be involved.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett has called for an investigation into the dealings of the former B.C. Electric funds on the eve of the government takeover.

Mr. Robertson said in an interview the premier's disclosure that the transfer was intended to divert attention from the sale of the company to government treated shareholders of the company.

Mr. Robertson says there is nothing improper about the fund agreement. The Bennett Cabinet told government officials about it. He said the agreement was designed to encourage greater incentive by gearing part of their remuneration to their retiring allowances to the profits of the company.

MAN UGANDA BORDER

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP)—Troops and special police are manning the entire Uganda-Ruanda border because of fighting, looting, cattle-murdering and arson in Ruanda, police said today. The report said 400 African refugees, many of them women and children, have streamed the border from Ruanda in the last two days. Ruanda is to hold a plebiscite Monday on the monarchy under which the ruler was deposed last January.

Russia Threatens To Kill Plan For Interim Head

'Troika' Secretariat Wanted by Kremlin

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Russia threatened today to kill a stop-gap plan for a temporary secretary - general who would succeed Dag Hammarskjold and keep the United Nations machinery functioning at the top.

Andrei Gromyko, Soviet foreign minister, indicated that the Kremlin will settle for nothing less than a three-man "troika" secretariat to run the world organization. The West says such a body would paralyze the UN.

Under the stopgap plan the UN assembly would name an interim secretary-general to fill the post—now the position is vacant by Hammarskjold's death. The West and many neutrals rallied to the support of the proposal.

External Affairs Minister Green, who headed the Canadian delegation at a brief opening of the 16th assembly, on Tuesday with U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk and Foreign Secretary Lord Home of Britain.

There was no announcement on what they discussed, but presumably Hammarskjold's successor was the problem of the secretariat.

FEAR DEADLOCK

Soviet opposition heightened fears that the assembly's deadlock which defeats what I believe will be the only safe road for Jamaica."

In another radio address, Bustamante said he "was also determined to safe-ourselves." Calling that Jamaica might turn to a Cuban type of government, he said: "A fantastic lie," he said "We are going to have a democratic government."

Seaton will allow Jamaica to seek membership as an independent state in the British Commonwealth. The West Indian federation is scheduled to become independent as a member of the Commonwealth by next May 31.

Jamaica Votes To Withdraw From Federation

KINGSTON (CP) — The new West Indies federation, created by British to form a chain of free islands in the Caribbean, lost its largest and wealthiest member today after Jamaica voted to withdraw.

The vote in a referendum Tuesday was 251,776 in favor of withdrawal and 216,371 against.

This weakened the position of Prime Minister Norman Manley of Jamaica, who campaigned for federation with the other British islands stretching down to the coast of South America. His argument against federation, led by Premier Bustamante's opposition Labor party, was that it would lower Jamaica's standard of living.

He also said Jamaica would be inadequately represented in the new federation government.

Jamaica's 1,700,000 people comprise about 36 per cent of the federation's population. Jamaica's bauxite mining and rising industrialization make it the federation's most prosperous.

In a radio address, Manley expressed disappointed. He declared "which defeats what I believe will be the only safe road for Jamaica."

Castro Tightens Anti-Catholic Regulations

CP from AP-Reuters

HAVANA—Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro said Tuesday night that any priests, whether Cuban or foreign, who are accused of "counter-revolution" against the government would be expelled from the country.

He also declared that no further permits would be given for building religious structures in Cuba.

The new order followed clashes here on Sept. 10 between 3,000 Roman Catholics marching in procession and Castro militiamen. One youth was killed in the clashes.

Former Officer Says He Was Offered Bribe in Rape Case

BRAMPTON (CP)—A former Georgetown police constable testified here Tuesday he was offered $100 to make statements for the defendant in an attempted rape charge.

Murray Jones said he said the offer was made by defendant Paul Young a week ago at a Georgetown hotel where Robertson is employed as a beverage room waiter. He testified that Young said it was worth $100 for him to say the charge was a frame-up and that a 16-year-old girl had been drinking in Robertson's room. Jones said MacDonald asked whether Young had offered to pay expenses if Robertson would visit his lawyer in New Toronto. Jones said Robertson but said he was away on the appointed day.

Jones, 25, said he was alone in the car on a country lane with Young and the 14-year-old girl when Young said he managed to have taken place. She said the girl became intoxicated on drinks of wine and whisky which she accepted without protest.

Young denied making advances. "All I might have been different if we had been alone," he added.

Young's wife told the court that his father died Tuesday from a heart attack.

Aim to Settle 22-Week Strike At Royal York

TORONTO (CP) — Representatives of the Royal York Hotel and the Catering Hotel and Club Employees Union (CLC) met Tuesday for talks aimed at settling the 22-week strike.

The meeting was the result of a request by Premier Frost, who has been offering his services since the strike started.

There was no comment on progress of the talks.

The union struck after refusing an offer from the hotel, largest in the Commonwealth, of a 2½-cent-an-hour wage increase. The number of other issues are also at stake.

The hotel has been operating with replacements augmented by about 500 of the original 1,188 strikers.

Commence Reconstruction Of Carmel Road in Thurlow

One of the rare township development road projects in the south part of Hastings County, reconstruction of a section of of the 9th Concession of Thurlow township, Carmel west of No. 37 Highway, was commenced this week.

Department of Highway allotment for the work being done by the township with hired equipment is $22,000, with the township spending approximately $8,000 to purchase required right of way and erect new fences.

Township clerk Earl Defoe said this was the first development road undertaken by the municipality. The highways department will rebuild the roadway and then turn it back to the township for maintenance.

The new right of way will be 66 feet instead of the former 40 feet, while the grade, including shoulders, will be 34 feet.

Although this year's program takes in only the sections between the tracks and Highway 37, the completed project will see the entire stretch of roadway between No. 37 and No. 14 highways rebuilt. The section of road between the railway and No. 14 Highway is expected to be done next year.

There is no provision in the agreement for doing anything with Fairfield's Bridge over the Moira River, although it is expected this structure will eventually be replaced.

Legion Members Hear Zone Head At First Meet

TRENTON—The local branch of the Canadian Legion held its first meeting of the fall season Monday night and a capacity crowd of 200 members and their wives turned out. President Ken Craddock opened the meeting by calling for the dedication of the new mural that makes a backdrop for the stage. This mural was used at the recent provincial convention at Hamilton. It was purchased by Comrade Pat Wannamaker and presented to Branch 110. The dedication was performed by Capt. Ab. Robinson of the Salvation Army.

Ten new members were presented for initiation by membership chairman Earl Donaldson. The new members are Lawrence Lefebvre, Frank Archer, Samuel Horsell, William Dawson, Gil Sullivan, Mark Hyde, Johnson, Oroliff Mounteney, Max Davis, James Woolfe, Keith Barnard and D. Watson.

ZONE HEAD SPEAKS

Deputy Zone Commander W. Lawson introduced the speaker, Zone Commander Jack Hall, son of Brighton. The zone commander commended the branch on being the first to invite the members' wives to attend a meeting and he felt that many other branches would be following the lead of Branch 110 after witnessing all of this new innovation. The zone commander reminded the gathering that when President Ken Craddock assumed office he took as his motto, "Let's Go to It" and looking around the hall, he said, it certainly has been done. For example, a new floor has been laid downstairs, the Ladies' Auxiliary room repaired, air conditioning installed in the upper auditorium, a death benefit fund established and a $500 bursary fund set up for children in grades 11 and 13.

Secretary Lou Knack presented the minutes of previous meetings and the treasurer Wm McLaren presented the financial report and stated that 60 bonds with a value of $6,000 had been redeemed so far this year.

First vice-president Robt. Wright presented the report on the new death benefit fund which will pay $100 to the family of any paid up member of branch 110. This report was adopted unanimously.

INCREASE FEES

Second vice president Orval Smith presented a short report on the provincial convention. It was moved by O. D. Smith and seconded by Stan Birkett that the death fee be raised to $200 per member and this motion was carried by the general body.

The president then introduced all members of the executive committee and outlined their respective duties.

Comrades Ross Brummell, Norbrand Sprague and Ernest Cunnell were elected as nominating committee for the coming year.

President Jean Wright of the Ladies Auxiliary thanked the members for inviting the ladies to be present at the meeting and invited the branch with a cheque for $1,300 to help pay for the new air conditioning unit.

Junior C Head Carries Case To Council

TRENTON — Howard Weese of Carrying Place, the newly-elected president of the newly-formed Trenton Junior Hockey Association, has carried his fight for better treatment for his 1961 Trenton Junior "C" hockey team to Trenton council.

Mr. Weese told council Monday night that the Trenton Community Gardens Commission had turned down a request that the Junior C team be allowed to use the arena ice for $6 an hour, half the price charged to all but minor hockey groups.

Mr. Weese asked council to direct the commission to enter upon some sort of a "share" agreement with the association where Junior C activities are concerned.

A committee comprised of Councillors Graham, Fraser and Bortt will study the matter and act as liaison between the association and the commission.

However, Mayor James MacDonald told Mr. Weese that council could not very well "direct" or commit the commission in a course of action.

Mr. Weese told the councillors that members of the association were selling canvassing to raise $2,000 to help the Junior membership tickets, hop Junior team.

South African Defends Record Of Nationalists

TRENTON — "The world is never told what really happens in South Africa." This was the contention of Peter Held, a South African of European extraction, who was born in Capetown and educated in Johannesburg. Mr. Held is a chartered accountant with a Trenton firm.

Mr. Held told the members of the Trenton Rotary Club Monday night that there had been many misleading reports of recent happenings in South Africa in European and Canadian newspapers.

He said that there are 13 million people in South Africa and that nine and a half million of these are Negroes, three million are Europeans and the remaining half million of other origins. Of the three million persons with a European background, 1,800,000 are Afrikaaners, descendants of the original Dutch settlers who won the country from the Zulus and then were forced to yield to the British rule. At the present time, the Afrikaaner Nationalist party is in power.

"The whole history of South Africa is blamed by critics throughout the world," said Mr. Held, "but no other government could do any better."

MAJORITY UNEDUCATED

Mr. Held went on to say that to give the native a vote would be meaningless as the majority of the natives are uneducated and think only of feeding their children out to work, in spite of the government's efforts to educate them. The government has succeeded in stamping out many diseases that took the natives and has built homes for them. But even this has been misinterpreted by the outside world, said Mr. Held

He said that the native is given the land, his bed, his clothing and a small salary, but that the educated native class cannot, and will not, give him the right to vote and sit in parliament.

"We would have a worse situation than that in the Congo if we gave the native equal power with the whites," the speaker said.

150 SEPARATE TRIBES

Mr. Held explained that the natives are divided into approximately 150 separate tribes, and that each tribe has its own customs and traditions. Many tribes rely on the word of their witch doctors and keep them in ritual murder as a solution to their problems. Recently, the natives from the outlying districts have attempted to flock into the city for the lure of work. In order to prevent them from starving to death in the cities, the government has devised a system of passes, whereby a native cannot enter a city unless another native has a job for him. This law, said Mr. Held, has been misunderstood by the outside world.

"If you give the native an inch," said Mr. Held, "he'll take a foot. What people don't realize is that every native is out for himself; even the educated native, the tribes would never get together."

Mr. Held described the beauties and natural resources of his country for the club members. He said that Europeans led a very uneasy life as a minority group in the midst of a hostile majority, criticized and boycotted by a hostile outside world.

"People should acquaint themselves with the country before they attempt to criticize the South African government," Mr. Held said.

Pensioners' Apartments To Be Studied

TRENTON — President Ken Craddock of Branch 110 of the Canadian Legion has announced that he has established a special committee under the chairmanship of Earl Donaldson to study the possibility of building an apartment block for pensioners in Trenton. The members of the committee will be Wm. Lawson and Wm. Monahan with the president an ex-officio member. Mr. Donaldson hopes to arrange a meeting with CMHC officials in Kingston next week, to obtain all the necessary information and stated that he would be in contact with First Vice-President Art Adams of Ontario Command, who is an authority on this subject. Mr. Donaldson stated that the CMHC supplies 90 per cent of the funds for a project of this nature and that the other ten per cent could be borrowed from the Ontario Canteen Fund. The Provincial Government provides grants up to $500 per unit after the building is completed, and there is no reason why this cannot shouldn't be completed at no cost to the branch, he said.

Mr. Lawson stated that a project of this nature had been suggested to him by one of the Senior RCAF officers at Station Trenton.

Mr. Menzies reported that Frank Miron of the firm of Miron & Lemay had designed an apartment building that was ideally suited for a project of this nature and had offered to provide the committee with any technical advice that it might require.

Mr. Donaldson hopes to have his report ready for the branch by Remembrance Day.

Several Inquire About Shelters

TRENTON—Trenton citizens are slowly but surely becoming civil defence conscious.

One Trenton contractor told the Ontario Intelligencer reporter today that several people had asked him about details concerning the construction of fall-out shelters on their property. Most of these inquiries centred around the cellar seems to be the logical location for such a shelter.

One Trenton housewife has asked her husband to erect a shelter and he is the back yard.

"The children can use it for a playhouse," she said "and let's hope we won't ever have to use it for anything else."

Yesterday, officials from the department of national defence approved suggested plans for the installation of three air raid sirens. Following acceptance work in connection with the installation, the sirens will be erected by the department.

... 'L YOU HEAR THIS!
... would like to know why the local ... of the Young Men's Christian Association is an agency of the Belleville United Appeal

Well, to carry out their dedicated work in our Community, that of building Christian Personalities and a Christian Society, the Belleville Y.M.C.A. requires some public assistance in order to balance their annual budgets. Income from fees and other sources is by no means sufficient to meet operating expenses.

Under the leadership of a competent professional staff, the Association provides, to both children and adults, a full program of physical and social activities. In addition, some 40 community groups use the "Y" as their headquarters and a place to hold meetings.

Membership, carrying a modest fee, is open to all regardless of race, colour, creed or means. While members are asked to pay a small part of the cost of their membership, no deserving boy or girl is excluded from membership for lack of the usual fee.

Through United Appeal, our Community is able to support the Association's good work and at the same time have one less money raising campaign to contend with. Everyone benefits, the donor, the community and the agency.

Constable Dale Ashbury was released from the civil action launched by him and two other Belleville police officers.

Constables Robert Begile and Donald Kenneth Stevenson and Thomas Anthony Woodward were defendants sitting out of a police action on August 30th, 1960, at about 11.25 p.m., during which Constable Ashbury was shot in the leg. The action was brought by Mr. Justice J. L. MacLennan at the Fall Assizes of the Supreme Court of Ontario. The case commenced yesterday morning in the Hastings County court house with Robert Temple representing the plaintiff and Donald Cass appearing on behalf of the defendants.

Early questioning by the plaintiff, Thomas Woodward, by Mr. Temple established the fact that he had been in the area where the action took place, a vacant field between Rosewood Avenue and the then dead-end of Victoria Ave. a description of which Woodward was provided through maps introduced as exhibits by both Mr. Cass and Mr. Temple and verified by Charles Mott, planning engineer for the city.

The plaintiff, under questioning by counsel, stated that he had been taking a walk through the field when he noticed the flashlight moving about on the Wolloy property adjacent to the field. He was unable to distinguish the people using the flashlights and bolted when they converged towards the spot where he was crouched over. While running he heard only some curses followed by three shots, one of which hit his leg, following which he collided with a person who turned out to be a police constable, the plaintiff said.

Following this he had been handcuffed, struck twice, and taken to a police cruiser, and although he told the police officers that he had been shot, nothing was done about it until he was taken to the police station, he said.

The plaintiff stated that he was in hospital for seven days and had been examined twice by his personal physician. Upon release from hospital he found that he had been "laid off" from his job at the Steward-Warner firm but had not been able to resume work until about six to seven weeks after the shooting, he added. His leg was painful for three months and he experienced trouble with it for about two months. Mr. Woodward as

RA... ECAUSE SCARED

When questioned by Mr. Justice MacLennan the plaintiff stated that he had been struck by the police officer he had collided with, identified as Constable Stevenson.

Under cross examination by Mr. Cass, the plaintiff denied hearing any shouts of "Stop, we are police," and stated that affect and admitted that he had run because he was scared.

He answered in the negative when questioned by Mr. Justice MacLennan as to whether or not there was anything "sinister" about the movements of the flashlight.

Mr. Woodward stated that although he had not been able to distinguish that the people involved were police officers there had been enough light to see a "spurt of dirt" when the shots were being fired. He was questioned extensively by Mr. Cass as to the buildings in the immediate area and the nature of the field he was in. The plaintiff was also questioned as to a number of answers he had given during discovery following the incident.

During the afternoon session Mr. Cass questioned the plaintiff or not the plaintiff had been drinking prior to the shooting, whether the latter denied. He admitted that he had been near or on the Molloy property on the previous evening, August 29th, but had not looked for the window under questioning by Mr. Justice MacLennan. During further questioning by Mr. Cass the plaintiff admitted seeing a figure in the window on the occasion in question.

During the ensuing questions, during which Mr. Cass followed various lines Mr. Justice MacLennan requested that questions be put directly rather than beating about the bush. The questioning by Mr. Cass as to his duration in goal after having been sentenced due to being found guilty of window peeping his earnings and employment after his release when he gained permanent employment and when he felt physically fit to resume work.

During questioning by Mr. Cass, Mr. Woodward admitted that he had been warned about window peeping in 1957.

GAVE INFORMATION

Also called during the afternoon session was Harold Keller of the Stewart Warner firm who stated that records showed the plaintiff had not been at work the day that the shooting took place, and gave information on his earnings when an employee at the firm.

Dr. Thomas Woodley, Mr. Woodward's personal physician, gave testimony concerning the nature of the wound and verified the fact that he had treated his patient on two occasions regarding the same.

At this point in the proceedings Robert Temple read into the record a number of answers to questions and answers taken during discovery by Robert Begile, Donald Yearwood and Dale Ashbury. It was followed that Ashbury was the first witness that Mr. Cass requested that Ashbury be produced from the action since he was not carrying a weapon and had not used one during the incident. Mr. Temple concurred with this request.

Inspector Robert McLauchlan of the city police gave testimony to the effect that there had been a number of complaints of voyeurism in the Rosewood area immediately preceding the incident concerned and that the police had been devised to act quickly when any future report was received.

Police Sgt. Douglas Ellis testified that there was unanimity of the constables involved was amongst the best of the force.

During questioning of these two witnesses by Mr. Justice MacLennan it was revealed that the calibre and make of the service revolvers on the police force were all similar. Officers were given instruction to be very careful in examining revolvers and in approaching unknown persons suspected of a crime. The various types of firing practice and accuracy of various methods was also questioned by Mr. Justice MacLennan.

Alexander Molloy, owner of the property adjacent to the field in which Mr. Woodward was found was introduced as defence witness and questioned briefly by Mr. Cass as to the sequence of events leading up to and after the arrival of the police officers at the scene. He stated that he had heard shouts of "Stop, police," or words to that effect when officers closed in on the figure he had pointed out.

AREA "WELL LIT"

He also testified that the area to the rear of his house was well lit but under cross examination by Mr. Temple admitted that the lights being on beyond two 60-watt bulbs in a room and the garage did not warm house.

Before questioning by Mr. Justice MacLennan he stated that he was unable to identify the plaintiff, Mr. Begile or Mr. Stevenson as the police officers he had seen in the area.

He also stated that he had first seen the police officers "only when they passed by the window he was watching."

Constable Donald Yearwood stated a plan of action had been jointly arranged involving five officers who were to approach the area from different directions in the event of a suspicious person being reported and that this plan had been put into effect when the call from Molloy was received, under questioning by Mr. Cass.

He stated that he had attempted to tackle the plaintiff when he started to run away and had yelled "halt" and fired a shot in an effort to change the course or direction of Mr. Woodward when he felt that he was going in the wrong direction where no officer could be expected to be located.

He answered in the affirmative to Mr. Justice MacLennan as to whether he felt a shot was necessary. He also stated that he was not under the sights of his revolver in order to aim due to the poor light.

Mr. Justice MacLennan queried the witness as to the calibre of his weapon and the shooting technique which he used.

Mr. Temple questioned Yearwood on the time interval between his leaving his cruiser and that of the two other officers who were to approach from the opposite direction leaving their car.

The hearing resumed this morning.

Two Teen-agers Will Be Taken To Their Homes

Two Toronto teen-agers missing from their homes since early last evening, will be returned safe and sound today.

Valerie Middleton, 14, and Nancy Paxton, 14, apparently decided to leave home and hitch-hike east.

Shortly after seven o'clock this morning they were in Alex.

Three Belleville youths, Kent Gray, 20 Donald Street; Mickey Whitmore, 18 Moira and Larry Phillips, 32 Wilkins Street were driving home when they saw the girls.

They stopped, picked them up and brought them to Belleville.

City police contacted Toronto officers and learned the girls had been reported missing since seven o'clock last night.

A Toronto police officer and Robert Middleton, brother of one of the girls, will arrive here today to return the young ladies to their homes.

Police departments of the city are having a respite from untoward incidents. Both the city police and the Ontario Provincial Police reported today that all was quiet on all fronts.

province's future status in the Congo Republic.

CLAIMS UN BASE

The cease-fire talks continued to be wide open as Tshombe claim Tuesday night that it had been given base facilities at United Nations base at Kamina after a three-day siege.

However UN military officers at Leopoldville denied this. He reported that, far from having fallen, the base now had an additional shortwave radio contact with the UN in the Congolese capital.

Another report from Leopoldville Tuesday night said authoritative sources as saying the UN was willing to withdraw its military personnel. UN representative in the Katanga capital of Elisabethville, to help ease the situation in the secessionist province.

O'Brien has been assailed since fighting broke out when the UN moved in to disarm Tshombe's white-led army. The UN acted at the request of the Leopoldville central government in Leopoldville in a bid to bring Katanga back under its rule.

After a week of bloodshed, Katanga government inform ed Secretary General U Thant that the UN force would surrender in a few days. On Monday Tshombe's forces captured an Irish-bred UN base at Jadotville, 70 miles from Elisabethville, and also launched a furious three-hour attack on Kamina base holding the Elisabethville post office.

Col. Bjorn Egge of Norway, UN intelligence chief who was in Elisabethville last week, said UN casualties in Katanga totalled 11 dead and about 40 wounded. On the Katanga side a total of 1,000 Katangans killed was a gross exaggeration but Katanga's casualties were high.

72 High School Students Receive Hunter Certificates At Fish and Game Meeting

By GEO. H CARVER
Sports Editor

Hunter safety, a topic as timely as the clock, spotlighted the opening fall meeting of the Belleville District Fish and Game Club last night.

The highlight was the presentation of hunter safety badges and certificates to 72 city secondary school students.

Presentations were made by instructors Bob Phillip, Ross Isaacs, and Dave Buchanan assisted by William Bittle, chief biologist of the Tweed headquarters, Department of Lands and Forests.

President Gordon MaGee said the club which boppered into 300-plus members last year now has a membership of 378. Well on 200 were in attendance last night at the Club Canada.

Mr. Bittle, the guest speaker, gave a highly informative address on "Hunter Safety", the gran and tyro hunter alike listened with keen interest.

"The use of firearms is a serious business" Mr. Bittle said directing his remarks to the "graduates". Each instructor had this in mind and the course was given with graveness and sincerity. It will do you well to live by it, and always when handling firearms or just being present where firearms are being handled"

"Most so-called accidents," said, "are caused by shootings caused by thoughtlessness, greed, carelessness bravery, ignorance and stupidity. Be ever watchful of these symptoms for they inevitably lead to a casualty. Learn to see danger threatening."

He advised the right choice of hunting partners. Careful responsible hunters will choose one with the same standards.

"If you are a careless carousing yahoo"who differs up the sport of hunting, hunt with other yahoos. This will keep accidents away from safe hunters."

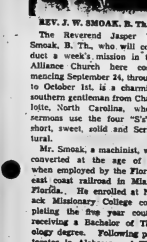
"If you meet a yahoo, don't hesitate to tell him so. Embarrass him, if necessary, into becoming a safe hunter.

CAN BE AVOIDED

Mr. Bittle pointed out that the majority of accident victims were people who shot themselves. A great many accidents are caused by hunting partners rather than by stray bullets.

Other accidents, he said, were accidental discharge, ricochets, a careless hunter, a hunter meant to fire at something, and mechanical failure of the weapon.

Genuine accidents, Mr. Bittle said, are bound to happen. But 90 per cent of hunting accidents can be avoided. Many ways have been suggested: eye tests, sportsmanship tests, aptitude tests, weapon restrictions, use of licensed gunsmiths, rifles, rifles, etc.



The most reasonable approach to hunter safety," Mr. Bittle pointed out, "is through education. Not with the training that you received during your course alone, but using that as a foundation to build up gunhandling experience by ever mindful of the deadly weapon you and others have and how easy it is to kill."

Mr. Bittle's address was followed by a fine motion picture on "Hunter Safety." Another film on muskrat fishing is now on them latest ones greatly enjoyed.

Many door prizes were given away. Bill Grimson, 37 Cider Street, a high school student and junior member of the club won the 12-gauge lightweight shotgun.

President MaGee drew attention to the club's fishing contest. He urged members to forward their entries to secretary Ken Yorke at the Hastings County Home for the Aged.

The Whole World is Loser

There may be no such thing as an indispensable man—but the death of Dag Hammarskjold is likely to put this assertion to a stern test.

The United Nations faces much more than the task of selecting a man with equal talents to take over as Secretary-General. It is also confronted, a year and a half earlier than had been anticipated, with the necessity of reaching some decision as to the nature of its directorate, whether this should be under a single head, as in the past; whether it should follow the East man "troika" pattern advocated by Russia; or whether some other system should be adopted.

Under these circumstances the UN cannot help to be weakened, just at the time when its good offices may be needed most desperately, to avoid the outbreak of a major war over Berlin.

Even if there were another man of Hammarskjold's calibre waiting in the wings to take up the terrific burden he had shouldered, there would have been an unavoidable period of slackness attendant upon the change of command.

But not only does the unique nature of Hammarskjold's talents, character and temperament make it impossible to suggest where his equal can be found but there also arises the necessity of settling today a controversy over the form of the supervision of UN work.

The inevitable result of his tragic death is to increase world tensions. But there is to be any single profit to offset the obvious and numerous losses the UN suffers, it can only come as a result of the member nations closing ranks and acting with speed and firmness to bring a just settlement in the dispute which cost him his life, the secessionist ambitions of Katanga in the Congo. The danger here is that this will be the first of many places where lack of Hammarskjold's firm hand will make insurmountable problems which his patience and perseverence might have solved. The next few days may give us the answer to the future course of events in the Congo—but it is to be hardly hoped, at the best, before the UN will be as powerful a force for world peace as it was under his guidance.

Russell Gets Results

Judging from the number of persons the British police were forced to arrest for civil disobedience in the campaign against nuclear weapons, Earl Russell achieved his objective when he refused to be bound over to keep the peace and was sentenced to jail for seven days.

There have been suggestions that the 89-year-old philosopher's aim was martyrdom and he has been criticized on that account. Russell, though, as anybody who has read his books could not fail to realize, has no interest in personal aggrandisement. His sole objective, we can be sure, was to call public attention to the cause in which he believes. That he succeeded appears evident from the scope of the demonstrations. Police have stated it may take months to deal with all those arrested.

Whether this method of endeavoring to influence government policy is justifiable; and whether the change in policy which Earl Russell and his colleagues desire are wise, are entirely different questions. Meanwhile, though, his decision to go to jail appears to have been justified by events, not because the public has considered him a martyr but because a great many fellow Englishmen have been moved actively to support him in his campaign.

German Stalemate

There has been a suggestion that German domestic politics have played a minor, but nevertheless troublesome, role in the jockeying over the future of West Berlin. If this is so, Sunday's West German elections have had the worst possible result, settling nothing.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democrats have lost their 12-year control of the Bundestag, or lower house, but remain the largest party. Under these circumstances, a coalition government of some kind is inevitable. The natural solution would be for a coalition headed by Adenauer, but both Willy Brandt's Social Democrats and the Free Democrats have stated they will not participate in any government of which Adenauer is the head. This may result in the formation of a government under one of Adenauer's former lieutenants, with Ludwig Erhard, economics expert, favored for the post of chancellor in such an event. Meanwhile, though, until the Bundestag meets on Oct. 17, West Germany will be, for all intents and purposes, leaderless. This is not a situation which tends to make any simpler the already difficult task of assuring that the Western allies present a common front in their dealings with Khrushchev.

Model Home? Don't You Believe It

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

The only thing wrong with those new "model homes" is that they don't come fully equipped with model children. After a few weeks, those lovely places for "comfortable living space" might as well have been drawn in vanishing ink.

My own menage has spacious quarters. The little ones have their own rooms, with a connecting bathroom. Everything is in good place. Alas, Mama and Papa have a separate wing: bedroom, study, ball and two bathrooms "for grownups only."

And where do you suppose Michael and Barbara park their treasures all day long? Naturally —in Mama's bedroom. Lo Daddy's study and in the bathrooms that don't belong to them.

I have yet to learn, in the morning without two little ones howling because we found mystery legs, tossing a sailboat in my washbasin, tangling themselves in the sheets—that's cool.

In our "private" hall, I continually stumble over drums, tractors and pull toys. Is that a study, when I look for a copy of Fowler's Modern English Usage, I have to wade through Chicken-Licken, The Rattle-Battle Jamp-Truck, and an assorted mound of coloring books?

You would think that the children's own rooms were perpetually quarantined. Nothing is duller to them than what is there: it is not inhabited by adults. "Go to your room and play" sounds to them like a death knell; they would much rather punch holes in my kid gloves and climb the draperies in the living room.

And there are, on the whole, fewer accidents with children. But, good as they are, they are human beings, and the fact that these is a severely repressed, there's no business like the old folks' business.

If the phone in my study rings, Barbara is there to perform her incoherent answering service. If the doorbell rings, Michael the Butler is out in the hall (usually trouserless) to greet the startled visitor.

If we had put them into airless dungeons, with prison bars and snarling dragons ready to leap out at them, the children couldn't be more disinclined to stay in their rooms. On the rare occasions when they do, we immediately suspect the motor; illness has set in.

This is just a friendly note to Project inexperienced parents about to make delicious plans for a "model home." Don't believe it. Until the kids have reached the adolescent stage of being utterly bored by all adults, there won't be an inch of space in the house you can call your own. I'm writing this while sitting in the children's bathroom.

Misery Rife In Calcutta

New York Herald Tribune.

Any one who takes a steamer up the muddy Hooghly River to the teeming banks of Calcutta soon comes away on a note perhaps unmatched in all of Asia.

This sprawling port, where tens of thousands of educated unemployed roam the streets for a few thousands of jobs, forgoes sleep on the sidewalks at night, is the ripe focal point of agitation as it is for Communist penetration.

So great is the shadow thrown by Calcutta across the Indian subcontinent that a restoration of the city has been called essential to the well-being of the entire country. Failure to restore it to health, could jeopardize the hopes for economic growth in India, despite billions of dollars spent there on other causes than urban renewal.

When a trim and able Canadian corvette which is now being completed at an Ontario shipbuilding plant, sails for duty with the Royal Canadian Navy in the near future she will have at least one Belleville sailor on board. He is Walter McVeiley, who prior to his enlistment was employed with the Hotel Quinte for six years.

Music lovers of the city, especially those who enjoy military band music, will be due for a treat here on Thursday evening, when the band of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals by kind permission of Colonel Prof. of Kingston, will give a concert on the Armouries lawn. The "Signals" Band is recognized as one of the best standing bands in Ontario; and has in its ranks three Belleville musicians, Messrs. Jack Sills, John Mitchell and Adolf Elliott.

Planned by the Trenton Public Utilities Commission for the conservation of the town's water supply, a new concrete dam on Stinson's Creek on the Wooler road is scheduled for construction in the near future. The proposed dam will be 85ft. on the Walter Fox farm, on a site where a dam was erected many years ago to divert the flow of water into the turbine wheels of the Stinson's grist mill.

The ice shortage prevalent in many other centres in Ontario has at last caught up with Belleville. One dealer in the city states that his ice house is depleted to the extent that purchases from outside points are necessary, while the second is reported his supplies with no new customers being taken on.

Explains Feat Of Ulysses

San Francisco Chronicle

One of the qualities we admire in The Times of London is its fearlessness about events like the Oxford meeting of the Classical Societies. Many newspapers would not have felt bound to acquaint their readers with the burden of Professor Dunn Pagh's paper. "The Arrow and the Axes."

The Times did. Its report was, as always, fair, penetrating and comprehensive. And we were pleased to be able to relay Professor Page's illuminating contribution to Californian knowledge.

How Ulysses could manage to shoot a narrow shaft through 12 axes, instead of, as even with Penelope's favors at stake, has mystified all readers of Homer's Odyssey.

Was Homer talking about the arrowslits in the battle-axe blades? He couldn't have been; the blades were unbreakable, even for a high-powered bullet.

Through the 12 axe handles then? Also conceivable; but how ever bent by the hand of man, even a modern Texan, would mean Ulysses was to send an arrow through 12 axe handles.

Professor Page's solution is enchanting; the axes were the kind that hung on walls of houses as an element of worship and decor.

They hung suspended by rings at the end of the handles. When stood upright on the double gilted heads, they formed 12 bloodcop ring targets for Ulysses to shoot through.

This explanation makes it no longer necessary for classroom teachers to fake him out as Superman with a super bow; he is the doddering old man, the clever Ulysses that Homer intended he should be.

And his feat, whereby he identified himself to Penelope as her loving husband, gone these 30 years, was scarcely more difficult than shooting ducks in a gallery.

That, sons to think of it, is quite in the character of Ulysses; he was a fellow who could have made it really big with the Mafia and the flowering of his skills at Whitney's-at-the-Beach.

Man Collects Primitive Art

BBC London Letter

The Bille Sussex town of Arundel, dreaming comfortably under the turrets and battlements of Arundel Castle, is an unexpected place to find what is probably the most important collection of primitive arts in Britain. But there it is, in the Tolem Museum of Mankind, the collection made over forty-five years by Mr. James Hooper.

In a recent BBC broadcast, Jeremy Jacques commented on the fact that, despite the variety and range of this unique collection, Mr. Hooper had never left Europe to obtain any piece in it.

"His interest in primitive art was inspired unwittingly by his father, who when a boy used to be picked up in a junk shop for a shilling or so. James Hooper was intrigued by the way he went on what might almost be termed a pilgrimage throughout the length and breadth of Britain in pursuit of the primitive. He found pieces in Scotch antique shops and in old houses - pieces that have been brought to this country from the Pacific islands as Captain Cook, and John Williams, the first missionary to go to Polynesia.

"The most Mr.-Hooper paid for any one item was £5 for a feather cloak that belonged to a nineteenth-century Hawaiian chief. For the carvings he bought a rare club from Easter Island, Whatever their original cost, most of the items - and certainly the whole of the exhibition - are priceless. There's a witch-doctor's hut complete with a stuffed witch-doctor There's a shrine with carved idols headed that belonged to a Maori chieftain. There are native spears, harpoons, necklaces ritual masks, skulls, scalps, and tools, and each one of them is as beautiful as it is unnerving.

"Only once has Mr. Hooper declined an object. He was offered a two-headed mask covered with human skin, but in his own words, it 'made him feel queer', and he refused it. Later he said the mask was recognized in London as a ritual object common from Nigeria, and now it's been returned to its tribe."

Population Figures Rise

Manchester Guardian

The news that London has been relegated to the tenth position in the list of the world's largest cities is not the only point of interest in the United Nations Demographic Yearbook, 1960. The authors of the yearbook also make the interesting admission that the true size of the world's population is known within wide limits of about 50 millions either way.

Figures of the rise in world numbers are much beloved by the statistically minded, anxious to demonstrate how many more mouths there are to feed, and the yearbook obligingly comes up with an estimate of 2,907 millions living mid-1959, as against 2,754 millions in mid-1958, an increase of 413 millions during the decade for mid-1950. But it goes on to say that the reliability of the estimates varies greatly. The different countries "is not definitely known."

National censuses vary greatly in accuracy; and the statistical life of births and of migration used to bring the figures up to date are not always equally sound. Allowing for the likely errors in computation, that the world population at mid-1959 lay somewhere between 2,853 millions and 2,961 millions — a range of 11 millions. But they cannot be sure of it. Even the higher one is not even greater than that.

About a half of the world population is contained in four countries — China, India, the Soviet Union, and the United States. Of the world statistics depends largely on the accuracy with which the populations of these four countries are known. The census takers of India, Russia and the United States all win high praise from experts on the UN experts, who are prepared to accept their figures as accurate within quite small margins. The really big question mark is set against the estimate presented for China. The first (and so far the only) modern census, taken in 1953, left room for considerable doubts and the UN statisticians are not inclined to put much trust in the methods used to keep the figures up to date. Nevertheless, they say, the fact that China's population at mid-1959 probably lay between 650 millions and 697 millions — an error range which, at 92 millions, accounts for much the greater part of the uncertainty that surrounds the world total.

Aspirin Valuable Treatment For Ordinary Arthritis

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What is the best treatment for arthritis? Will diet help? I am taking 12 aspirin per day, five at a time. When I first went to the doctor I could hardly walk. Now I am much better. Mrs. M. H."

The best treatment for arthritis is the one that does you the most good. However, it may not be the best for somebody else.

The fact that you have improved is evidence that you have a treatment that suits you.

There are all degrees of rheumatoid arthritis, from mild to severe. Some cases develop gradually, and are readily arrested and begin to improve. Other cases (especially among younger people) develop suddenly, progress at a furious rate, and not only cause great pain and pain, but also deform joints badly.

A sudden, fulminating case doesn't respond to the treatment that would be best for an ordinary case. The patient may might require cortisone, bed rest, splints, physiotherapy.

But an ordinary, garden-variety case can do much better with aspirin and reasonable activity — but not bed rest. There's quite a difference between aspirin, as to whether aspirin isn't the superior of all other drugs for such cases. I wouldn't doubt that we yet know enough to give a positive answer to such a broad question, but we certainly do know that aspirin, for all its "aging" old, common and inexpensive drug, still ranks as an excellent one. In there are hundreds of drugs that respond to cortisone or related steroids, or other drugs, so be it. Aspirin still holds up its head in any company.

What to do or not to do, for arthritis: First, keep a balanced diet. No "trick diet" has a shown itself to be helpful. If a patient is overweight, or is gaining weight, this puts added strain on the joints, so controlling reducing is important. But special foods aren't needed.

Reasonable activity is necessary. Using an arthritic joint keeps it operative. Not using it breaks it down. Nevertheless, in most cases a rule of thumb is use a joint up to the point of pain. A twinge, or some stiffness, is not "pain."

If contracture (tightening) of muscles is threatening, a splint worn at night will do much to prevent deformity.

Heat is always good: hot water soaks, infra-red, hot water bottle or electric pad. Don't of course, risk burning the skin, but let the heat soak in.

Mental attitude is also important, It's not unusual (nor is it surprising) to find arthritic patients who have had mental tenseness doesn't help and it may be harmful. So sometimes sedatives are really useful to get a patient to relax.

"Don't" is a part of arthritis are: Don't give in to the allpervading fear that nothing don't try every remedy that anyone suggests.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I've been told that onions will cause arthritis. Is that true? Mrs. J. R."

No. There is absolutely no credible evidence that onions will cause anemia. I often wonder who dreams up pointless notions like this, when there are so many serious problems that need attention. I wish better devote their brainpower.

Note to J. J.—Yes, it is quite feasible to reduce the prostate gland, or remove part of it, surgically. Just what should be done depends on the individual case, of course.

RELIGION AND THE STARS

What of the stars? Yes, what of them? They are indeed practically without number. One of the world's greatest astronomers declares that the number of heavenly bodies is a hundred thousand million billion. Try to write that on a long blackboard, but keep out of the way of the falling chalk they will crowd you out of the room. And remember that most of these bodies are suns and perhaps — probably — have planetary systems revolving about them. We have nine planets in our system. For every solar system that number the heavenly bodies would indeed be without number.

Some people would have us believe that those bodies came into being by accident. It took us in like a well-planned scientific job with a Master Mind behind it. But the fact that the universe keeps going with other worlds and galaxies apparently in the making adds up to a bigger picture than our little minds can comprehend.

The Bible answers seem the most simple and satisfying: "In the beginning, God created the heaven and the earth." "God is love." "For heavenly Father knoweth what things ye have need of." "For with God nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him."

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

HERE AND THERE

A rut is the worst place in this world to get into. Ask the driver of any car. Ruts ruffle me. A man isn't a philosopher who gets into them — and stays there.

Yet what a countless number of folks get into ruts. Some have no inclination to get out of them. Others are so hampered a rut is to travel. Another is to talk to as many different kinds of people as possible. Another is to do things your way and not the other fellow's. There are ruts in the manner in which you think and act as well.

We should keep track of the fact that we are human beings "straying in a world of gloom," as some writer put it. I would say, rather, that we are straying in a world of sunshine and beauty. No one need stay long in a rut.

By traveling around you pick up golden nuggets that other people have lost through holes in their pockets.

Here and there are inspirations and cheer for all. Everything real that we span I have talked with great authors, great artists, men high in government, scores of editors, famous actors, lecturers of note, and scoreous local managers. I learned something from each.

I have the habit upon the light of broad Western fields, growing cities, and found a great upin new books.

Here and there you will find all things. Walk around. Observe. Ask questions. Do the unusual thing every once in a while. Think!

THE PACKSACK

The highest honor and reward that was paid the second Russian rocket man by Khrushchev during the celebration of his flight was his being allowed to ship a couple of letters. By his progress towards becoming a member of what is called The Party. This makes one wonder what other people have to do to become members of The Party. It must be a very select and exclusive association. It is what is called a "club."

When the communist countries refer to "people" meeting, meet, or a "people's republic," they don't mean all the people. People, in Russia, China, Hungary and so forth, are members of The Party. Sales and Ad Club Holds First Meeting

The fall term of the Sales and Ad Club was opened last night at the Columbus Hall with a large attendance and if the meeting is any criterion, of those to come the members are in for an excellent season. On Wednesday evening, Mr. Joe Connell, (secretary of the Kitchener-Waterloo, Y.M.C.A. was the principal speaker and his subject was "You and Your Personality." It was a real down-to-earth talk that the members thoroughly enjoyed the thoughts that were presented.

Mr. Connell said that the old saying "Be Yourself" is wrong because you and you alone can change your personality and everyone must be aware of the need for a change. He stated that everyone was being measured, by competitors, friends and those around and it was necessary to be on guard.

Don Barrett, the newly-elected president of the club, conducted his first meeting in a most capable manner and in the business section of the meeting full co-operation was given to Plowing Match committee who are holding the contest in this district early next month.

Before the meeting was convened the members enjoyed a social half hour meeting new friends and recounting experiences of the summer recess.

PLOW JOCKEY GOLFERS — Members of the Belleville Sales and Ad Club are out to prove that plowing can be done on the golf course as well as in a farmer's field. Sharing the plow holding chores are Jerry O'Connor and Don Barrett while David Lunn and Jim Walker hoist the plow jockey sign.

Municipal Board Approves Construction of Two Sewers, Start of Disposal Project

With final approval on the two separate projects being granted yesterday by the Ontario Municipal Board, construction work on two trunk sewer lines in the city is expected to commence within the next two weeks.

Alderman Jack Ellis, chairman of the city public works committee, said work on the two sewers would commence by the Beaver Construction Company of Montreal as soon as the necessary agreements were signed.

The two trunk sewers, Dundas East, and the Fahey sewer, are the first two phases of the city's two and a half million dollar sewage disposal project. Tenders for the sewage treatment plant, and for several smaller lines such as the disposal line into the bay and pumping stations, are expected to be called within the next few weeks.

COST BELOW ESTIMATE

Cost of the Dundas Street East sewer and the Fahey sewer running north to College Street, is $583,043.10. This is approximately $281,000 below the original estimates by consulting engineers Gore and Storrie.

"We have no guarantee that future contracts for remaining phases of the sewage plant will continue to run below estimates,but it will certainly help us in the over-all picture of our capital expenditures," Ald. Ellis said.

Municipal Board officials yesterday said if remaining contracts continued to follow the same trend there would be no question of the project, being continued.

However, until all sewage project contracts were in, final approval for the city's proposed new overhead bridge on North Front Street would not be given.

This, said Ald. Ellis, precluded the possibility of a start being made on the North Front Street bridge this year.

Work on the two sewer projects was expected to commence within two weeks.

Beaver Construction officials say they will start the East Dundas sewer, the Fahey Street sewer between Moira and College and the Moira River crossing this fall.

Attending yesterday's meeting with the Ontario Municipal Board with Alderman Ellis were City Engineer Malcolm Turnbull and City Manager J. R. Reynolds.

TREATED WOOD

Mortgage and Housing Corporation has been making grants to the Ontario Research Foundation to evolve an autonomous sewage disposal unit for individual households. A model of the unit for the disposal of human waste is being tested in the Mark III house.

The operating principle of the system is to recirculate a given quantity of water which is used for flushing purposes and also to support the bacteria required to destroy the human waste.

"The development of this principle can have a great impact on our housing future," said S. A. Gitterman, the project's technical director.

MAY END SEWERS

"If the operation can be extended to destroy all organic matter this would ultimately eliminate the need of a sewage line and sewage disposal plant. In addition, by reconditioning the water used, it may be possible to make the household completely autonomous by eliminating the need for a water line as well as the sewer line."

Mr. Gitterman said he feels the Mark III experimental house, the theory of the system of which he worked out, has been occasional mechanical breakdowns. There is little or no odors.

During the field test, the house is being occupied by RCAF Sgt. F. N. Turner, his wife, Joan, and children, Mary, 8, and Derek, 14. At today's ceremony a plaque was given to the Turner family by their assistance in research project.

Tests of Mr. Walker's and Mr. Gitterman's speeches were released to the press in advance of delivery.

Alvin Hamilton Will Open Plowing Match

TORONTO (CP)—Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton will officially open this year's international plowing match at Belleville Oct. 4-7, Floyd A. Lashley, secretary-manager, announced today.

Mr. Lashley said also that every inch of available exhibit space has been taken up, indicating that the 1961 match may break all previous records.

GM at Oshawa Lays off 1,000

OSHAWA (CP) — A spokesman for General Motors of Canada here said today even if the threat of a GM in the United States were settled today, production in Oshawa plants could not return to normal for another week.

He said about 1,000 employees —59 per cent of the work force in one plant—would be laid off today and the plant would be forced to close by the end of the week.

Layoffs in the company's second plant here would start Monday and the plant would have a 50-per-cent layoff by Friday.

Theatre Guild Parties Now Being Arranged

As the fall season progresses the pace of theatrical activities in Belleville will be accelerated as the Belleville Theatre Guild prepares for its first production of the season. But it is also interesting to note that unlike previous years, the Guild has been active over the summer in their Campbell Street workshop headquarters. Latest activity was a lecture and readings from William Shakespeare under the direction of Mrs. David Jardine.

Outlines of the plots of "Loves Labors Lost" and "Coriolanus" were given as an aid to members who were to attend performances in Stratford. Excellent recordings were heard of speeches by Sir John Geulguid from "Loves Labors Lost". Members found this evening particularly enjoyable as a prelude to the bus tour to Stratford which was sponsored by the Theatre Guild. Upon returning from their day spent attending the Festival Theatre, patrons of the tour expressed their delight with the arrangements managed by Mrs. Charles Wilson, business manager of the Theatre Guild.

During the theatrical season, a series of theatre parties has been arranged to attend performances at the O'Keefe Centre and the Royal Alexandra Theatre. These tours will be open to the public as well as Theatre Guild members. Through their sponsorship of this series the Belleville

Greek House Is Dissolved

ATHENS (Reuters) — The Greek parliament was dissolved today and new elections were called for Oct. 29.

Caramanlis' four-year term of office does not expire until next May. Political sources said he decided to call the election earlier in order to have a government with a fresh mandate from the people to free up to the tense international situation.

Theatre Guild hopes to encourage renewed interest in their own amateur productions taking place in the area.

NO SMALLPOX

Canada has had no cases of smallpox since 1945 when five were recorded.

Moments in History

1928 was an important year in Belleville's history for that was the year it was declared an ocean port. The first ocean-going ship to arrive was the steamship 'Sien' which had sailed from Glasgow with a cargo of Scotch coal in its hold. The arrival date was May 8th. At this time, Moira-Schuster Limited had had its roots firmly planted in Belleville for almost thirty years. It was around the turn of the century that the predecessors of the Schuster company first began supplying coal and wood to Belleville's homes and factories.

Today, Moira - Schuster still supplies coal and has become Belleville's major supplier of fuel oil. Why don't you let Moira - Schuster attend to your heating needs this winter? Fuel oil will be delivered to you on your automatic "Degree Day" system and our efficient Service Department is on call 24 hours every day. Call WO 2-4504 or drop in next time you're downtown.

International Nurses' Meeting Detailed at B. P. W. Club

The lovely home of Mrs. Georgina Rendell at 36 Crestview Avenue, was the scene of the September meeting of the Belleville Business and Professional Women's Club, on Monday evening with the president, Mrs. Irene Haig, presiding.

Club members were treated to a delicious buffet dinner, and served themselves from an attractive dining table centred by cool-looking watermelon filled with ivy and lon balls of varying hues that helped provide an appropriate setting for the tempting array of delicious food that heaped many hours of painstaking preparation from the delicious salads and cold cuts to the tasty and beautiful deserts that were enjoyed by everyone.

During the business session that followed the dinner, president Irene Haig spoke to all those present in extending the greatest thanks of the club to Georgina for her kindness and hospitality.

BUSINESS WOMEN'S WEEK

Chairman of the coming Business Women's Week to be held from October 16-23rd, Miss Evelyn Fitzgerald, reported to club members on preparations for observance of this event which were well underway.

Guest speaker of the evening, Miss Doris Smith, Director of Nursing at Belleville General Hospital was introduced to the meeting by Miss Evelyn Byers. Miss Smith is a graduate of the Class of '46 at Belleville General, and after some time spent on staff position at Belleville, attended the University of Western Ontario at London, where she obtained her Bachelor of Nursing Science Degree and was appointed to her present position in 1959.

Miss Smith entertained her listeners by a vivid account of her trip to the International Council of Nurses which was held at, Melbourne, Australia, in the month of January, last year.

She was part of a Canadian delegation of some 23 members from all parts of Canada and spent a total of six weeks touring the Pacific and Orient.

Miss Smith helped her listeners visualize the beauties of the Hawaiian Islands, and the tropical beauty of Fiji. She continued her journey from that lovely island to New Zealand, where she found the people not as friendly as in other regions, although there were many points of interest in the country, which is apparently one place in the world where unemployment is not a problem.

The conference at Melbourne was, of course, the focal point of the trip, and Miss Smith found it a thrilling and inspiring thing to be a part of such a large conference, which was composed of 2000 nurses from all parts of the world. The International Council of Nurses was founded in 1899, and has grown to include a present total membership of 480,000, of which 37,000 are Canadians.

Miss Smith found it particularly inspiring to have a close contact of participation, and told her listeners it was becoming more and more important for nations to begin to live harmoniously, especially in modern times when distances are becoming so short in view of quicker methods of transportation.

GREAT WEALTH—POVERTY

Following the conference, the group continued on its tour, which included Singapore and its tropical heat; Thailand and Hong Kong, where the group was impressed with the contrasts which were extreme between great wealth and great poverty. Shopping was very easy there, and goods were generally much less expensive, and bags-ages allowances had to be watched very carefully.

The picturesque beauty of Japan and its beautiful mountain region were also in memory shared by the speaker, and the ancient and traditional Japanese Tea Ceremony was a memorable occasion. In all, ten days were spent in this lovely country, and it provided a fitting conclusion to what had been a very exciting tour.

Thanks of the club for Miss Smith's interesting address were expressed by Hazel Smith.

Members were asked forthwith to have some idea of what participation in an international conference could be, and the speaker urged all members who possibly could, to take advantage of any opportunity to attend the International Conference of the B. and P.W. Clubs.

PROVINCIAL CONFERENCE

A number of members expressed their intention of attending the provincial conference to be held in Hamilton during October; Belleville having been the site of the conference of last year.

Ont. Diocesan W.A. Enjoys Trip, Talk

A beautiful September day and a pleasant drive along the St. Lawrence River to Cardinal provided the ideal combination for the first monthly meeting of the Ontario Diocesan Women's Auxiliary after the summer recess.

The Rector of St. Paul's, the Rev. Charles Staples and members of the W.A. extended a warm welcome to the visitors from other parishes.

BEAUTIFUL BANNER

Ontario Diocesan W.A. is now the proud possessor of a beautiful banner; the motif being a Trillium' centred on the Winchester Cross, the background of grey taffeta. This banner was embroidered in Pakistan by Pakistani women under the direction of Miss Peter, one of the missionaries. The banner will be carried by the president, Mrs. W.H.T. Mitchell, when she attends the service of Communion at St. Paul's Pro-Cathedral, Regina, during the W.A. annual meeting in that city in September.

Quite fitting, that, with the arrival of the banner, the W.A. should have as its guest speaker Mrs. C.H.H. Wilkinson wife of the former Bishop of Amritsar. (Amritsar is in India.) Mrs. A. McCallum introduced the speaker, stating that she was the daughter of the late Archbishop Stringer of the Yukon, having been born there and having spent some of her childhood in the Canadian North-West.

WORK IN INDIA

Mrs. Wilkinson, dressed in pretty pink and white flowered sari, spoke of the work being done in India and of the progress being made. Of a population of 400,000,000 only 12,000,000 are Christians. Illiteracy is appalling and of great concern to the Church. Clergy and catechists are needed for the utmost, whether among the teeming millions in the large cities or in the remote areas. Literature is needed to help combat the influence of Communism and good movies are also taught, making life better for all concerned.

There are now training schools for nurses, one being established at Vellore, Madras and some excellent schools for boys and girls, all conducted greatly to a better basis. Much remains to be done and Mrs. Wilkinson asked that all members pray that God may bless their efforts and bless to the great cause.

Mrs. G. Armstrong, Grenville Deanery president thanked the speaker.

The Rev. A. F. Dowdell of Oxford Mills, closed the meeting with the benediction.

Weddings

POPE—PARSONS

A very pretty fall wedding was solemnized on Saturday, September 9, at 2.30 p.m., in Bethel Chapel, Belleville, when Joan Lee Parsons of Carrying Place, Ontario, became the bride of Robert Stephen Pope of Belleville. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Parsons, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pope of Belleville. Pastel gladioli and chrysanthemums formed a lovely background for the ceremony performed by Mr. Ernest Belch, of Belleville.

Mr. Roy Brooks presided at the piano, and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Barry Daniels, who sang "Because" before the ceremony, and "Blessed Jesus" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the charming bride wore a white Chantilly lace over satin bridal gown in floor-length featuring a Sweetheart neckline and three-tier bustle back. Her short nylon tulle veil was held by a sequin-studded tiara, and she carried a semi-cascade bouquet of red roses.

Mrs. Douglas Davidson, of Sudbury, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, attired in white satin, featuring a full skirt in street-length and fitted bodice having a Peter Pan collar of Chantilly lace and three-quarter-length sleeves trimmed with lace, and accented by a pale green cummerbund, bow-veil headdress, and green and white lace gloves.

Miss Donna Faye Parsons of Carrying Place, also sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, wearing white satin in street length with full skirt and lace collar, three-quarter sleeves trimmed with lace, and cummerbund and bow of mauve with mauve bow veil headdress and white lace gloves.

Little Miss Janice Pope, sister of the bridegroom, as flower girl, wore a white printed nylon over satin with full skirt and matching headdress. All carried flowers complementing their gowns.

Mr. Carl Thompson, of Belleville, attended the bridegroom and Mr. John Peoples and Mr. Paul Henry, of Belleville, ushered the guests.

The reception was held in the Belmont Banquet Room, where the bridal table was appointed with the traditional three - tier wedding cake, with the bridal flowers adding a delightful nuptial theme. The unique wedding cake, made by the bridegroom's aunt, Mrs. M. Large, of Belleville, depicted a church complete with steeple on the top tier while the full bridal party was spaced on the lower tiers.

Receiving the guests was the bride's mother, in blue lace with beige accessories and corsage of pink carnations. Assisting her in the receiving line was the bridegroom's mother, who wore a gown of magenta shade French silk-pean de soie, with beige accessories and white carnation corsage.

For travelling to the Muskoka district, the bride wore a brocaded sheath dress with three-quarter coat in turquoise shade, beige accessories, and corsage of pink 'mums. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Pope will reside at 44 Highland Ave., in Belleville.

A shower honoring the bride was given by the young people of Bethel Chapel. She was also presented with gifts from the office staff of Trudeau Motors.

Successful Living

By Doris Clark

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Bachelor Boy Friend

After raising my own family, as a widow, I now live alone. Two years ago I began going out with a single man. He had had me meet his sisters and gives me nice gifts. He is very jealous of me, although I give him no cause. I am very fond of him and when I am with him I have complete contentment and peace.

DORIS CLARK

My problem is, once in a while he stops out. It never lasts too long and when he is seeing her he will take her home after a night out, then come to see me. This is breaking me down.

He lives with his mother and she has bragged that the time she can get from him the less he will have to spend. He feels responsible for her and doesn't want to hurt her, yet is not happy living with her. . .

For fifteen years he has been a district welfare officer and should know people but he seems to be at a loss about himself. I have asked him if he would like to break our friendship but he says no. Yet I have neglected making friends in order to be with him when he is free from work.

Doris, should I start building a life of my own, is there some way to work this out?—PATSY.

DEAR PATSY—Cherchez la Femme—and you don't have to look very far. Mama means no good to you when she encourages him to take out another girl—and You can bet your bottom dollar she does. She knows there is safety in numbers—safety to the single blessedness of her son. If he marries, she loses him.

Don't be so available. Have dates yourself and build a life of your own. If this doesn't bring him to a point of making some choices of his own, he would make a poor husband anyway.

DEAR DORIS:—My husband is drinking to excess, and it is getting worse. He drives the car without a license, when drunk, but has not been caught. He is rude, irresponsible yet thinks he is doing fine. When I ask him to take some interest in his home, he curses and walks out. He is always threatening to throw me out.

I helped buy the house and we own it jointly. I bought most of the furniture. If I hired a lawyer could I force him to get out, since he is creating such a disturbance and threatening my life?—BRAD.

DEAR BRAD—I doubt if there is any way you could force your husband to get out, even if you do own half the house. But there are laws to provide for your support by him if you are forced to leave due to physical or mental abuse.

DEAR DORIS:—I have a problem that I can't seem to solve alone. I'm in love with three boys, two of which are the best of friends and live on farms near here. The other is from the city.

I like them all very much but I can't make up my mind which one to stick to. Then there's this other boy who is always asking me to wear his ring. I am 16 years old. I am very mixed up. So could you please . . . . HELP.

DEAR HELP:—You don't need help—they do. What is this fatal charm?

You are in love with love—not with boys. From where you sit they are all wonderful. Sit tight; be friends with all of them. Gradually you will sort them out. Time will do wonders for you.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Ralph C.—32 she'd only grow up, we could be married.

Alice R. — He can't understand how wonderful my parents are. . . .

Ralph C. — I'm 36, a government worker, and in love with a charming divorcee of 25. She has two young children. I would marry her tomorrow except for one problem — her parents.

They approve of me, but I don't approve of the hold they have on Alice. I'm convinced that's one of the things that broke up her first marriage. She's an only child and they've spoiled her all her...

Her mother is a busybody who thinks she knows everything about housekeeping and babies than anyone in the world. And her father is retired. He's plenty of time to hand around, called the kids and run errands for Alice. And Alice likes it. When I suggest marrying and moving away, she says she can't do that to her folks.

How can I help her see what her parents are doing to her?

Alice R. — Ralph has made the past year the happiest of my life, except for when he picks on my parents. I'm all they have. And they are absolutely selfless when it comes to me.

When I'm happy, they're happy. And they suffer when I suffer.

My marriage at 17 to a neighbour boy for us all. In my first year at college I fell for the man I married. He was a male out student, and both our fathers chipped in to support us. We were divorced when the second baby was only a year old. My husband had quit his studying and was stingy, abusive and unfaithful to me.

I don't know what I would have done without my parents. They like Ralph and would be glad to see me settled as his wife, with a father for the children. But he wants me to turn my back on them.

The Council — While it's hard to say who is responsible for Alice's slavish response to strong personalities, it's easy to suggest where she should start firming things up — with herself. She holds the key to a more wholesome life for all the characters mentioned above, except perhaps her former husband who found his own key.

Ralph wants to alert Alice to what her parents are doing to her. But he admits Alice "likes it." So the entire onus of this stalemate may not be placed on these grandparents who "mean well, call it all the way from help by infant who manipulates as an adult."

Here is a girl who has never seen herself as a person, only as a daughter. The wrenching and it must be two-way of divorce, has been long delayed. Alice's parents, like Ralph, recoiled that outside counselling might be necessary. Even psychiatric attention — in order for her to establish a sound relationship with her parents if not with Ralph or anyone else.

Then Alice must be able to handle her parents, who up to now have handled her like a softball. This may not change them, nor will she stop loving them. But she will stop them from using her, and her children, to fill their lives completely. Normally parents relinquish active mothering and fathering when their children "grow up." Alice's parents have intensified and prolonged it by not letting go. Alice's under-conscious delight, here never growing up, "I'm all they have," is an indictment. It's about time they discovered a few other things.

In pulling up stakes and making a new and less-dependent life, Alice would not only be another man, Alice would not be hurting her back on her parents. She'd be turning her back on childish helplessness. Ralph is wise to insist upon this. No man can be happily wed to a puppet.

Contact Club Plans Future Bazaar

On Monday evening 25 members of Christ Church Cathedral Contact Club gathered for a buffet supper in the absence of President Miss Joyce Wagstaffe, Trudy Sands was in charge of the meeting. Jean Woodland moved that a "husband and wife" party be held in October. This was seconded by Mrs. Pringle. The remainder of the evening was turned over to Florence Lemoine, the happy convener, and work was immediately begun on items for the Christmas bazaar.

A parcel post sale, a white elephant table will be included as well as fish pond, dolls' clothes, Christmas decorations and home making, to mention a few of the attractions already planned.

Another new member, Miss Grant, was introduced.

As the girls worked around a big table, a tasty lunch was served by Mary Duck, Betty Carr and Myra Woodland.

Next week will be a work night for making doll clothes for the bazaar.

PASSENGER DEATHS

The International Civil Aviation Organization listed 857 passenger deaths on scheduled air services in 1960.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

VICTORIA SMITH

BEHAVE OF UNDERSTUDY HELL-RAISERS!

For the fun of it, I recently took a survey of manners in my own area to find out how they rate about unexpected calls.

Since you're generally a privileged guest, you may be surprised to find that the majority was dead set against drop-in-guests. Plan occasionally but as a yearly affair on your birthday.

Many child problems probably arise with those of young homes who are in need healthier: isolation of privacy and lack of vision.

Most of the group I queried were blunter usual on the first score. One complained that the dreaded always seemed to ring when it was about to put into a warm bath or a current novel. Another resented being called dinner was in the works or underway. They also definitely agreed that anyone who phones in without warning should bow right out if it's obvious that her visit is badly-timed or inopportune.

In short: Anyone who has time on her hands should keep them out of anyone's busy schedule.

Present Three Scene Play at W.M.S. Meet

RAWDON — The September meeting of Mount Pleasant-Rawdon Woman's Missionary Society convened at the church hall Wednesday with 28 ladies and three children in attendance. The hostesses at the door were Mrs. Will Jeffs and Mrs. W. G. Fletcher. A bouquet of asters graced the president's table. Mrs. Burton Sharpe was pianist and the president Mrs. John Mollerson opened with "Praise My Soul the King of Heaven".

Mrs. Herbert Smith offered prayer for the missionary Miss Verna M. Crook, Children's Home, Lachine, Quebec. Mrs. Percy Macmullen presented the report of the August meeting and 13 members answered roll call and told of visits made during the month. Mrs. Grant Hubble reported a total of assets 24. In the bank.

The Rev. W. G. Fletcher gave a short message re the new organization, "The United Church Women". The program was arranged by Mrs. Donald Knight and Mrs. Stanley Williams. Mrs. Knight was in charge of the devotional based on faith giving the meditation and prayer. All sang "Faith Looks Up to Thee." Mrs. Scott had just arrived from England and Mrs. Ross Jeffs paid a hearted visit on behalf of the W.M.S. which was certainly not the proper procedure in which to make church calls. In answer two, Mrs. Herbert Smith and Mrs. Ernest Spencer called on Mrs. Scott and explained how the W.M.S. organization was trying to help those in need all over the world.

Scene three portrayed a W.M.S. meeting in progress with Mrs. Herbert Smith as president Mrs. Grant Hubble, Mrs. Raymond McConnell, Mrs. Ernest Spencer, and Mrs. W. G. Fletcher each having a part and it was stressed the value of visiting the homes of "Faith of Our Fathers". PLAYETTE IN THREE SCENES

The stage was nicely arranged with modern furniture to represent a living room with a bouquet of autumn blooms on the one table an den the other was a setting for a meeting. Mrs. Stanley Williams directed the cast and the scenes, one, Mrs. Clarence Scott had just arrived from England and Mrs. Ross Jeffs paid a hearted visit on behalf of the W.M.S. which was certainly not the proper procedure announcements and giving a special prayer for those who are visited.

The group was given the theme and the progress reports were tendered special thanks for their efforts by Mrs. John Holmes. In place of the study book, a film entitled "Beyond the Salt" was shown by the Rev. W. G. Fletcher. The pictures outlined many phases of church work throughout Canada and emphasized the responsibility of the church everywhere.

The president spoke briefly re the allocation of $468. plus the extra 60 cents for each of the six life members and 13 annual members, a total of $670.60 for the W.M.S. Mission Band and Baby Band for 1966. She urged that faith is kept with these women who pioneered the organization in 1906. The service closed with all reading in unison, "Father of Men in Whom are One".

Mrs. Raymond McConnell, president of the W.A. conducted its business. Letters of thanks were read, also invitations to Wallbase and Springbrook.

The hostess Mrs. Earl Dunlop and Mrs. Max Sharpe served light refreshments and a social half hour was enjoyed.

A Smoked Picnic Ham

By Mary Moore

The Backbone of a Week's Meals for a Small Family

Because my daughter-in-law Marcy was unfamiliar with the possibilities and the potential of a smoked picnic ham (shoulder), I am thinking that there are plenty of this year's brides who would welcome this lesson.

We carefully counted the number of people I served, one way and another, from a smoked ham costing less than $5.00 and weighing about 6 pounds. I served beauty generously. It was a weekend "special".

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

WEDNESDAY (Oneata)

Watermelon Ball Fruit Cup in Pineapple Juice; Baked Smoked Picnic Ham; Mustard Beans; Egg Plant Casserole with Tomato Sauce; Green Beans with Shredded Almonds; Fine Cole Slaw; Orange Layer Cake; Coffee.

At the first dinner I served it hot for six after baking. Next day it was sliced cold for three. Once it was made into lunch sandwiches for two. Next time I ground it and made Ham Pie (Guiche Lorraine — see below) which I served hot to three and cold sent day to three. What I had left was the bone and about ½ cup fat. I had trimmed off. With this I made old-fashioned pea soup (see below) which will serve four or six — depending on whether it is used as a main course for supper — or not. This works out to less than 15c per serving of meat for a person. Anyone interested?

GUICHE LORRAINE (Ham Pie — using ground meat from Picnic Ham):

Pastry: One cup flour, 1-3 cup shortening, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons cold water. Cut shortening into flour and salt and add water gradually, mixing lightly with fork until dough may be pressed into ball. Roll out to fit 9" pie plate and bake 5 minutes at 450 deg. Fahr.

Grind enough cooked ham to make 2 cups, well-packed. To it add 2 eggs, 1½ cups milk (or ¾ cup each milk and cream), ¼ teaspoon prepared mustard, 1 teaspoon minced onion. Beat to mix well and pour into partially baked crust. Reduce heat to 250 and bake 45 minutes. Ten minutes before baking time is up sprinkle top with 1 cup grated old Cheddar cheese. Raise pie to upper shelf of oven and raise heat to 375 deg. Fahr. to brown top.

SPLIT PEA SOUP (using picnic ham bone and fat):

Soak one pound split green or yellow dried peas in 8 cups cold water overnight in cool place. (Note: On a hot night soaking peas have been known to ferment before morning so be sure your peas are kept cool in basement or refrigerator.) In the morning add 1 bay leaf, 1 chopped onion, ¼ teaspoon dry mustard, 2 slices lemon with rind, 1 cup chopped celery leaves, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ½ teaspoon salt. Simmer 2 or 3 hours or until it is reduced to a puree. You may wash it thinner. If so add water. It may need more salt if the ham bone and fat did not impart enough. We served this with melba toast followed by a cottage-cheese stuffed tomato salad.

RUSSIA

soft approach to Gromyko, centered on an appeal for co-operation in working out the world's problems, might do more harm than good to hopes for a peaceful settlement.

London press reports today said that Prime Minister Macmillan was ready to fly here from London for the UN meeting if he feels he can save the situation from disaster.

The Daily Mail reported that before the death of Hammarskjold, Macmillan "was examining the possibility of a British initiative to break the East-West deadlock."

News of the Soviet troika stand plunged delegates into gloom as the 99-country assembly got down to business Tuesday.

The assembly met for only four minutes in tribute to Hammarskjold.

Today, elects Tunisia's Mongi Slim as president and chooses other officers for the current session.

The battle lines were drawn Tuesday night when Gromyko told reporters his government would not agree to any one man serving as secretary-general even in an interim capacity.

"Any one person would not be good. We must have three secretaries-general."

Asked about a move to name Slim as interim secretary-general in addition to the post of assembly president, he stood firm.

U.S. ambassador Adlai Stevenson accused the Russians of using blocking tactics.

Western powers had hoped Slim would get the post, but the Tunisian delegate was reported to have bowed out when he heard of the Russian opposition. Without at least Soviet acquiescence, his job would be one of great difficulty and probably constant harassment.

The Western powers, determined that UN authority remain centred in one man, are reported sounding out Ireland's Frederick Boland, president of the last assembly, to see if he will accept the temporary post.

A brand new roofline, almost identical in appearance to that of the convertible, is a striking style feature of the 1962 Pontiac Parisienne and Laurentian two-door hardtops. Pontiac features a new lighter-weight automatic transmission with the optional Astro Flame 250 h.p. engine. The 1962 Pontiac—Canadian-built series will be the Parisienne, Laurentian and Strato-Chief offering 13 models. Overall length of the Canadian Pontiacs is 211.6 inches. Width is 78.6 inches. Pontiac's wheelbase is 119 inches. In addition to the Canadian models, Pontiac will be available in the imported Bonneville (two- and four-door hardtops, four-door station wagon and convertible), a new sports model, Grand Prix, Star Chief (four-door hardtop and four-door sedan), Catalina (two-door hardtop, six and nine passenger Safaris and convertible), and the smaller-sized four-cylinder Tempest. For the first time, Tempest is available in a convertible model.

CIVIL SERVICE

It was opposed by the Liberals as well as the Conservatives.

George McCrath (L—Ottawa West) said the prohibition protects civil servants against political pressures.

Frank Howard (CCF — Skeena), sponsor of the amendment, said retention of the ban makes "political second-class citizens" out of civil servants. The Commons was being asked to condone "apathy by statute" among the nation's largest single group of employees.

The vote was 35 to 3 against the amendment, with only CCF members voting in favor.

Another brisk debate took place on an amendment proposed by Alexis Caron (L—Bold) which would have given extra marks to bilingual candidates in civil service job competitions.

Richard A. Bell (PC—Carleton), parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Fleming, argued in opposing the amendment that the problem was one for administrative rather than legislative action — "in legislative action it might well be that you create a strait jacket which will not achieve the purpose which the member for Bold proposes to have in mind."

HURDO MARTIN FAVORS

Murdo Martin (CCF — Timmins) spoke in support of the amendment.

"Throughout this country we have a great and growing need for people, not only in the civil service but elsewhere, to be able to speak the two languages," he said. "I think anything to encourage this, such as is suggested in the amendment, is very worthwhile."

However, the amendment was defeated, 43 to 18.

Mr. Caron, whose Quebec riding across the Ottawa River from the capital contains thousands of federal civil servants, also proposed an amendment whereby veterans who served in Canada during the war would be given limited preference in filling federal positions.

It was defeated 37 to 11.

Mr. Caron's proposal would not affect the general preference given overseas veterans—and retained in the present act—but would simply offer "a slight advantage in the case of those who enlisted with the intention of going overseas but never had the chance to go."

Mr. Bell, who piloted the act through the House—and whose riding takes in part of Ottawa and hence like Mr. Caron's contains many civil servants—said the government took the view there should be no change in veterans preferences unless recommended by the House veterans affairs committee.

CAN TALK OVER PAY

While the bill does not go so far as to provide for arbitration, it does, for the first time, spell out the right of staff associations to initiate discussions with the government on the Civil Service Commission on pay and conditions.

The act also reaffirms the principle of the merit system in selecting and classifying government employees through the commission.

The revised act makes deputy ministers masters in their own houses where departmental organization is concerned. The Civil Service Commission no longer has the responsibility of approving departmental organization.

Fall Fashion Opening

Fashion tells the story of a beautiful fall . . . tells flattery and feminine charm, with the fluid flair and the curve-conscious silhouette very much in the news. Color, cued to fall; fabrics, more interesting than ever; furs, lavished on everything, share in the excitement of autumn '61.

For every member of the family, the big story is fashions that are becoming, practical, a pleasure to wear. For the home, there's news in livable, lovely furniture and furnishings of great variety. Read the whole story in the pages of The Ontario Intelligencer . . . preview the news from your Belleville Stores.

Furs Have Timely Silhouettes, With Elegance and Luxury, Too

"Handled like fabric" is the fashion message for fur this fall. It's stated in terms of all the current style trends — plus, of course, the elegance and luxury of fur.

Timely important silhouettes translated into fur include fit and flare, P.H. as in fabric fashions; bi demi or semi, taking account of feminine curves with field ease. Flare develops from the shoulders. Even a natural or lowered waistline, while trumpet flares represent the "A" approach to the Twenties influence. Cone silhouettes, widespread pyramided and A - lines have interest.

Real capes, full length and shorter, and full-sweeping coats with the cape look constitute another newsworthy group. Cape-back coats with straight or lightly curving fronts, belong in this group, too.

Lowered waistlines are marked by self-fur sashes or belts, and still another view of the long-torso look uses soft shirring developing from a straight line top.

Blousing, achieved through ingeniously worked skins, distinguishes the tops of coats, the backs of jackets.

Fur-upon-fur holds its high fashion position, with new emphasis this season on fur banding for hem. Collar and cuff treatments make bold use of contrasting furs. Reversibles — broadtail to mink, for example — carry the two - furs-in-one concept to the ultimate of opulence.

Understanding opulence is a favorite theme of many designers, as furs are styled so casually they might almost be sweater-jackets or sports coats, it is wrong for the supreme elegance of the furs. Cardigan necklines, off-centre closings, easy belting are notable.

From mink to mouton, every fur is important. Russian broadtail and American broadtail-processed lamb take new styling —notably the cossack look.

Alaska fur seal, including the sheared versions; beaver in fresh colors and styles; river otter, often in new pearly tones; dashing spotted furs; beige opossum; sable and mink with the skins handled in deft, unusual ways; fox and lynx for magnificent trims — the list is seemingly endless, and all-either lovely.

BIGGER AND BOLDER

Buttons stand out on fall suits and coats. They're chunkier, deeper, more decorative.

Crepe dress in fall pastels is dressy for evening with wide bare neckline, spaghetti shoulder straps, and demure for day with sleeves overblouse. In Avisco rayon.

Fabrics Know How To Please Everyone

Every taste in home decoration is easy to satisfy, with the almost limitless variety present in new fabrics for the home.

Natural and man-made fibres vie to produce a wealth of textures. There are new flame-proof fabrics, sheer fabrics, slubbed and silky fabrics.

Colors outdo the rainbow — yellow greens and olive greens, chocolate and ginger browns, burnt-orange, lemony yellow, blue - red, electric blue, lavender and turquoise.

Patterns abound — florals, abstracts, bold stripes and designs to complement every furnisher style or period.

Match-making of drapery fabrics to wallpaper continues, making effective decorating easier than ever for the homemaker to achieve. Complementary patterns, to pair with fabrics, can also be found in carpeting and even in vinyl tile.

Long, Slim Is Look of Gloves

Current fashions hand it to gloves again, giving them even more than the usual responsibility for completing a costume effectively.

Coats and suits with elbow-length or short, belled sleeves call for longer and longer gloves. Result appears in gloves that rise to the elbow or beyond, and even shorter gloves edge well past the wrist.

When coat and suit sleeves are longer, they are usually also narrower and that means gloves with slim elegance. Gloves therefore have not only a longer but a slimmer look, and for elegance, trims are kept to a minimum.

Need for elegance also means that glovemakers are devoting more and more of their delight to styles in leather. This is not to say that fabric gloves have been eased out of the fashion picture. New effects, such as nylon that emulates pigskin, are seen in glove fabrics.

Ideal for young careerists is this dress in muted checks, with soft, easy lines. Single gold button adds neckline interest. With a change of accessories, the dress can go from desk to date. The fabric is blended with Creslan acrylic fibre.

Dresses Show Many Moods

Many are the moods, graceful are the airs of new fall dresses.

There's shapeliness, in styles that move closer to the body. There's ease, in dresses with unpressed bodices that finish off with a flounce or a flare.

There's the flare itself, created by bias cuts, pleats, godets. There's more relaxed styling, in dresses with bloused tops and slim or gathered skirts.

There's fit - and - flare combined, in dresses with deftly shaped tops and cone skirts.

Not to be forgotten are the shirtwaist and the sheath, enlivened by new styling, new fabrics and colors.

The two-part dress, or the dress that looks two-piece, joins the fall array most often with a long-line top and low belting.

"Costume" is the word for many of fall's dresses, with collarless coats and cutaway jackets the favorite accompaniments.

Dressy fabrics reflect the ease and grace of dress silhouettes. Lightweight wools in enticing textures, knits and other knits, silk or rayon and acetate crepes and many other silks and silk look-alikes adapt to relaxed or not-quite-fitted lines.

Color news highlights such hues as greens from olive and moss to emerald, the magenta family, gold, orange, turquoise, with black, brown, beige and putty the important neutrals.

Rainwear Forecasts Fur Weather, With Emphasis on Lavish Look

Rainwear fashion forecast is for fur weather this fall. New water-repellent coats strengthen their claim to fair weather importance with fur or fake-fur linings and trim.

When the lining and/or collar isn't fur or fake fur, it's likely to be pile. Simulated shearling and the new pile that looks like curly lamb lead the way, lining and trimming cotton suede, poplin, corduroy and wool.

Lavish look continues in rain-repellent coats of velvet or velveteen. These are designed for sun and stars, too.

Such classic styles as the trench coat and officer's coat are joined by cape shapes and fit-and-flare silhouettes.

Laminated, or foam - backed, coats move up a notch in the rainwear field since lamination makes more fabrics adaptable to flare shaping.

Evening Scene Has Glittering Elegance

Romantic or sophisticated, fall's fashions for late day and evening display sumptuous fabrics and generous helpings of glitter. Taffetas, silk damasks, brocades, velvets, tapestry wools, crepes, chiffons and laces are elegantly on the scene, and beading, sequins, metallics contribute the glitter.

Fall Hats Show Wide Variety

The new heads-up look in men's headwear, plus a greater than ever variety of shapes for all occasions, will make fall 1961 the hat-wearingest season in many a year.

Adding fresh interest is the frank and open acceptance of British styling influences in hats, marked by crowns more tapered than ever and sharply upturned brims of all sizes.

Brims continue to be narrow, mostly in a width range of 1¼ to 3 inches, flatteringly youthful for all ages.

Colors, too, are in great variety. Among headliners for the new season are blues, along with olive and greens that compete with classic grays and black.

Cloth hats, brought to the hale world's attention by actor Rex Harrison as "My Fair Lady" fame, join traditional felts as a staple wardrobe item this fall for both town and country wear. Centre crease models, in plaids, checks and solid colors, are taking bows from an applauding audience of wearers.

Fi fall or cloth, many models of the season are snubbable—a new convenience for the travelling man.

Many a northern college campus is sprouting with fur or simulated fur hats, first popularized by British Prime Minister Macmillan on a winry visit to Moscow. Tyrolean models in velour, tweed or other eye-catching fabrics team up with caps for casual and sports wear.

Dress and formal occasions call for dark bombinges and modified toppers.

STRIPES ALL THE WAY

Many a well-dressed man will follow British fashion this season and wear complementing striped ties with stylish striped shirts.

Important Fabric Adding Appeal to Wide Variety Of Capes, Curves, Flares

New Styles Win Favor With Girls

Although the traditional little girl look continues much in evidence for fall, there is a decided turn toward "little high fashion" in girls' apparel. It's a trend toward the simple, uncluttered line, placing more emphasis on the fabric and cut rather than ornamentation.

Newest-looking girls' dresses have lowered waistlines underscored by pleats, ruffles or a swingy flare. Sleeves are often longer and unpuffed. The tent-shaped dress and the princess line are expected to win fall plaudits.

CORDUROY NEWS

Knits are big news, and there is a greater choice of yarn and pattern variety than ever before. Corduroy, long a favorite with little girls, has been given new spark in vivid colors of green, red and blue, and richly colored floral patterns and plaids.

In contrast, party dresses show the mood is still traditional styling, with velveteen the favorite fabric and lots of trimming — floral embroidery, ribbon and the eyelet touch everywhere.

JUMPER WINS

Girl's sportswear finds the jumper in cotton, silk or corduroy a classic that wins more popularity every season. The blouse picture has its ins and outs, for while tucked-in or tucked-in styles each have staunch supporters.

Pleats, pleats, pleats please is the word in skirts, and sweaters are bulkier and longer this fall, with added collar interest. The brighter the hue the better the sweater for fall —bright blue, green, rusty orange and magenta among the leaders.

Stretch pants now come the small size range and can be obtained in every imaginable color.

COATS RELAXED

Wool is king in girls' coats this fall, with the new fashionable tweed the newsmakers. The boy coat continues important.

Big trend noted is the straight-off-the-ski slopes look for warmer outerwear for young snow bunnies. Usually hooded and of plushy synthetic pile fabric, many of these coats and jackets are washable.

Fake fur is used lavishly in linings and trimmings — curly lamb is a great pretender for fall.

Slip-on Is Top Shoe For Autumn

Men step feet first into fashion this fall in a pair of lightweight leather slip-ons.

Once almost exclusively a casual shoe, the slip-on has been trimmed down and styled up into the season's leading dress shoe, reports Shoe Fashion Service of Leather Industries of America.

The addition of a "boxer-top" — a half-inch of elastic running around the entire top of the shoe — gives the slip-on its slim, no-gap look, even as its friction-free grip hugs the foot.

More men are wearing dress moccasins this year than ever before. Slip-on moccasins have grown in popularity, while the two- and three-eyelet lace moc-front blucher holds its own. Low-riding seams and braiding add smartness to the hand-crafted look of the moccasin. Interpretation of this traditional masculine favorite in grained, smooth and brushed leather textures—and sometimes in two different textures —gives men a wider shoe choice this fall.

Even the brogue, stronghold of the conservative male, has been trimmed down this year. The development of lighter-weight but sturdy leather soles permit the use of a single sole instead of the heavy, double-sole formerly used.

Among younger men, the elongated look of shoes is underscored by sharper points and, occasionally, by higher heel — about one-eighth of an inch higher.

The movement to slimmer lines and more refined detailing has given greater emphasis to smooth and finely textured leathers in all styles and to more subtle color gradations.

Shopping for a fall and winter coat promises to be an especially rewarding experience this season, so much so that even women whose preliminary wardrobe plans haven't included a new coat are likely to exercise their fashion mind-changing privileges, after the first glimpse of the real excitement that is offered in autumn coat styles, fabrics and colors.

Everything is fashionable — the flare, the A line, the pyramid, the cone, the curvy-conscious coat (including the princess), the cape and all its relations, and, between the wide sweep of the flare and the curve, a handsome selection of slim, line styles. Whatever the silhouette, tempting fabrics, colors and details result in new-this-fall distinction.

Flares are most often modified, as fall styles trend toward more awareness of fit, but capes swish out dramatically. There's the real cape, with little sleeves set in discreetly. Other coats are almost-capes, or have cape backs with straight or shaped fronts. Wide capeless collars carry out the theme, although fabric collars generally are on the modest side — rings, bands or narrow with trim lapels.

Fur coats take a bolder approach, trending to the large and luxurious. Fur linings, reversible or not, fur cuffs and warm handfuls add to the important look of coats.

Fabrics are as varied and interesting as silhouettes. Shaggy, lacy wools and blends; furry wool-and-mohairs; lush and plush fabrics, synthetic piles and fake furs; rich mellons; ribbed and corded fabrics such as ottoman; tweeds; worsteds — all are represented.

Coat colors glow, in solids and bold plaids. There's a big family of purply reds or reddish purples — white, plum, eggplant, black grape, magenta, wisteria. Important, too, are gold, deepening into mustard; greens from forest hues to bright emerald and kelly; blues both pale, deep and bright; and blue-greens.

The neutrals are by no means neglected — black, of course, and a noticeable increase in the number of grays and browns.

Often, the character of the coat determines its color and fabric. For example, a dressy town coat with dural - fit lines might be executed in smooth, glossy black, while a sporty casual coat might have an A silhouette, in bold plaid and long-haired texture.

COLLARED

Collars are smaller — or not there at all — on fall blouses. One little collar is called the Bermuda. Cardigan style blouses and back - buttoned overblouses appear most often without collars.

FASHION'S STRETCH

Stretch gloves, longer and more style conscious, make their mark in co-ordinated sets, consisting of gloves paired to hats, hatlets, handbags, caps, belts and/or boots.

Perfect example of the "suit being all" this fall is this ensemble, with three-quarter length, tie-collared sleeveless cape, worn over a collarless matching suit with yoke back. Fabric is stone beige, soft-textured English furrow tweed.

Boys Finding More To Copy From Dad

It's a well-known fact that little boys like to look like their Dads, and fall styles take note of this.

For example, boys like to wear "long pants," and nowadays they also accept sports shirts in "walk" lengths, because Dad goes for them, too. They approve knitted shirts, fashion-collar shirts and boat neck types along with button-down collar models, the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear reports.

Some very popular sports shirts feature a poncho bottom, adding a seasonal note to the Ivy styles long favored by little boys.

ABOUT SLEEVES

While three - quarter funnel sleeves and even shorter bell sleeves appear in fall suits and coats, there's a trend to the longer, slimmer sleeve.

Move Is to More Up-to-Date Styling In Maternity Wear

Perhaps it's because there are more young mothers in their early twenties or even late teens. Perhaps it's because women, always fashion conscious, are becoming even more so.

Whatever the cause, there seems no doubt that mothers-to-be are increasingly interested in having maternity wear that attractively reflects the latest style trends.

Designers have taken full advantage of the excellent adaptability of fall '61 silhouettes to the mother-to-be's needs. Flared and flounced styles, pleated skirts, tunics, casual two-piece knits, coat-dresses, fluid crepes all are suited to the maternity wardrobe, and all are present in fall lines.

Collar and sleeve interest, long a standby of maternity styling, now is joined by back interest — especially apparent in draped black crepes with back panels, streamers, fringe trims.

For leisure wear, stretch pants look newest, and are joined by other types of tapered pants.

Blouson dress in printed matte jersey has fashionable, flattering gathered skirt. Fabric combines Eastman Estron acetate and nylon.

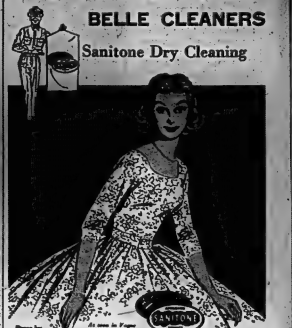
Girls' Shoes Have Slimmer, Tapered Look for Autumn

Girls skip down new fashion paths in shoes fetchingly styled in a variety of autumn colors and elegant leather textures. Slimmer and more tapered from toe to heel, young girls' shoes are no carbon copies of adult footwear, notes Shoe Fashion Service of Leather Industries of America.

Straps and handsome vamp treatments mark the girls' shoes. The toe and ball area of the shoes curves in gently, giving adequate room to growing feet. Supple leather uppers provide free moving comfort, and lightweight, sturdy leather soles assure needed support.

The dress shoe, basically a shell outline, falls into two groups — Ingenious styling with straps for little girls and sophisticated pumps with heightened, shaped heels for sub-teens.

Many dress shoes feature a bow. Others are either unadorned classics or display integrated patterning. Much of the elegance of girls' shoes depends on the sheen of smooth leather, the mat suede or the gloss of black patent leather.



TOPPING FALL

Topper-length coats enter the picture for fall — in response to a demand from women who feel more comfortable in a shorter coat, especially early in the season.

Suits Reflect Great Trend To Costumes

Suits for fall follow the costume concept, reflecting every favorite silhouette in ways that add up to a complete wardrobe look. A goodly number of suits have many components—matching coat, co-ordinated blouse and perhaps a detachable ascot or stole, as well as the basic of shirt and jacket.

Even when the suit consists of "only" a skirt and jacket, the two are so skillfully mated that the wardrobe look is definitely present.

Dominant suit style, on which there are many variations, is the curve-conscious jacket and fluid and flared skirt, sometimes in partnership with a capey coat. Cutaway jackets and modified versions that arch slightly in front, dip slightly in back, bid for top popularity.

Newest of all is the demi-fit jacket, short and with a suggestion of the high Empire waistline. In counterpoint to this appears the longer jacket, sometimes sashed, which may reach down to meet a flurry of low-placed pleats.

Skirts-in-motion feature pleats, godets, bias cuts, gathers. Cone shape derives from the flare. Even a seemingly - straight skirt widens slightly at the hemline, in accordance with the fluid-and-flared fashion dictates of fall '61.

Cardigan necklines, small ring collars, collarless necklines with detachable scarves are notable. When fur forms the collar, however, it's used lavishly, in big circles or shawls.

The side swept effect is carried out in off-centre buttoning and trims.

Fabric takes the limelight, in textures that vary from smooth and suedy to airy and lacy to long-haired and furry. Color gamut offers the season's choice of earth tones and neutrals on one hand, and on the other the greens and blues and blued and blackened reds.

Blue Is Big Color In Ties for Fall

In neckwear, the swing in color is toward the blue family —blues in a host of shades and tones, blues in combination with other color accents. Olive and olive mixtures are running well up front, too.

Patterns continue to be muted for simplicity and neatness, with the British influence showing up in club and regimental stripings, Macclesfields and Spitalfields. Iridescent treatments in silky foulards are strongly favored. So, too, is the slim tie, dictated in part by the narrower tie space in shirt collars. Wool challis and repp join foulards as favorites, many in solid colors, others featuring small print patterns and paisleys.

Two style trends for fall are highlighted here. At left, suit in dark grey British worsted with natural shoulders and slightly nipped waist; at right, easy-fitting sports jacket in glen plaid grey and black Scottish worsted with lap seams and centre vent.

Topcoats for Town, Country Wear Set the Pace for Autumn

The town and country theme most men live by these days demands at least two different types of topcoat in the wardrobe — one for city or business wear, the other for casual sub-urbia.

Topcoats for the upcoming fall 1961 season present a profusion of handsome models for both these patterns of living.

Basic for town wear is the season's new natural shoulder, single-breasted topcoat, hoyed to the British Look by such features as a slight waist suppression, medium lapels and a modest flare. Many new models are featuring push-up Tyrolean sleeves and shoulders, some with a novel, open under-arm treatment.

An increasing number of men are turning to tapeseam and overcoated that flaunt the popular satrichon collar, for dressy effect and warmth.

The country gentleman goes in for double-breasted guard coats, the classic guide for the knee-length British warms.

Among other standouts of the new season are the oxemoster coats which combine key touches of the raincoat and British warm — topcoat adaptations of the mackinaw for sur wear, and the tie-belted, double-breasted American International topcoat.

The raincoat story brings to the fore new leatherette-treated models with lightweight poly-urethane foam bonded in a shell. Handsome classics also abound, including the over-shrewd bahamasan poplins in oyster, natural or tan shades. Many of the latter incorporate zip-in liners for cold weather wear.

NEWS FOR BRIDES

Along with classic and traditional bridal gowns, some fashion-news designs are represented. These include a low-waisted dress with flounce skirt and an overblouse dress with easy, low waistline.

Overblouse for suit or skirt enters fall in a printed matte jersey. It's styled with a roucli neck, three-quarter sleeves and a shaf tlevel at the waist. It is 90 per cent Eastman Estron acetate and 10 per cent nylon.

Wearable Styles Appear In Many Textures, Hues; Costume Look Continues

Flare, fit and fluidity capture fashion's favor for fall. Flare swings out in dresses, coats, suits and separate skirts. Curve-conscious styling influences the entire range of fashion, with fit that varies from demi to wall-paper — the latter usually in after-sundown apparel. Waist-skimming, low-belted dresses project the ultimate in ease.

Whether dull, swift or staid, silhouettes are simple, eminently wearable and interpreted in spectacular fabrics. On the one face, fabrics may be anything from smooth to shaggy, with spongy and plushy textures included. For the who would be elegant after dark, evening fabrics are particularly opulent — beaded, bastafia, velvety, brocaded.

Colors are controversial, but attractively so. There are two groups — the neutrals and accents, including such shades as moss and mushroom, and in direct contrast, the vivid and vibrant hues. The magenta family, embracing a number of shades, leads on the colorful side. Choice between muted and vivid is up to the fashionables. Since both groups are plentifully represented. Probably, most women will want some of both in their wardrobes.

Fashion achieves flare in multiple ways. Straight - line dresses link up with flounced hems. Other dresses and suits make use of gores, godets, flounces and bias cuts to create the flared look.

Cap and cape - back coats show both flare and fluidity. Another way to the flare for coats is the A - line, with flare starting from the shoulders.

PLEATS PROMOTE FLARE

From Sa Hare, many designers have gone on to develop a significant number of styles with controlled skirt fullness, and there are some out-and-out dirndls.

The easy, fluid look often incorporates the flare. Top blousing is important here, along with the two - piece or two-piece look dress. Belts or relaxed sashes mark low waists, smooth hipline. Pleats of every variety spring from natural or lowered waistlines for still more ease.

Rounding out the silhouette news, curved or almost-curved lines appear in coats and suit jackets with lightly - shaped fronts and straight or loose backs and in dcnl-fitted, feminine dresses. The princess in a nonetlines united with flare offers another version of curve-consciouneks in dresses and coats.

Between the cape and the curve-conscious coat are many attractive slim-line coats.

COSTUME EMBRACES ALL

Costume concept is all embracing. A wardrobe in itself, the costume offers many combinations — suit and blouse, suit with jacket, full - length coat or topper and dress with jacket or coat. Dressy overblouses for some suits extend the costume's usefulness into evening.

Handsomely enough, each of the parts may be worn singly or as a completed costume, carefully in key.

These costumes have variety of silhouettes. Some have nappy, almost tubular silhouettes, while others have cape shapes that flare and ripple with graceful bias or constructed so that they avoid bulkiness.

Fur moves in this fore, in coats, jackets and other "little furs" that use current style trends to exceptional advantage. As a dramatic punctuation for fabric fashions, fur not only encircles necklines and sleeves but also bands the hems of coats and jackets. Sable, mink, broadtail processed lamb and fur are favorite trims.

Leather Goes Around Home

New fashion colors and styling mate with old-fashioned comfort and practicality in leather furniture, and the result is more versatility in use. Now, leather furniture goes into new places in the home.

Leather-upholstered pieces can turn up in living room, bedroom, den or powder room. Even floors, walls and ceilings can be decorated with unusual leather hides, according to Leather Industries of America.

Leather sofas and chairs in new dull-finish leathers are interpreted in American versions of Scandinavian modern. There's a greater lightness of form and feeling, and colors range widely from boudoir pink to jet black.

Deep armchairs and full-length couches are completely covered with leather, and love-seats and occasional chairs show attractive contrasts of leather and blond wood.

Adding a touch of charm are leather TV cushions, pouffs and ottomans. Some of these are Oriental in design, such as the huge square floor pillows covered in leather in rich tones of olive green, Chinese red or tangerine and often adorned with gold tooling or little silk tassels that dangle from each corner.

In the bedroom, leather head-boards add elegance. Some are simply designed with little or no detailing, while others are tooled in gold or tufted.

Subteens Get Bigger Share Of Fall News

Who is a pre-teen? A few years ago, the automatic answer used to be, "A girl 10 to 13 years old." Today, girls start wearing pre-teen or subteen fashions at younger and younger ages—as early as eight—and they never let her age, the preteen expects more fashion-conscious styling in her clothing—a touch of "sophistication," more of what the teens and juniors are wearing.

These young fashionables can greet fall with pleasure, for certain key dates and pleats, the tunic and lowered waistlines are perfect for subteen figures and are exactly what older girls will be wearing, too. The longer, bulkier look in sweaters is flattering to young figures, and stretch pants, big news in sportswear, give a sleeker line.

Young good looks will be complemented by the big splash of colors for fall. Predominant in the color kaleidoscope are misty greens, emerald green, bright blues and burnished orange—in everything from foam-backed and fleece coats to knee-tickler skirts.

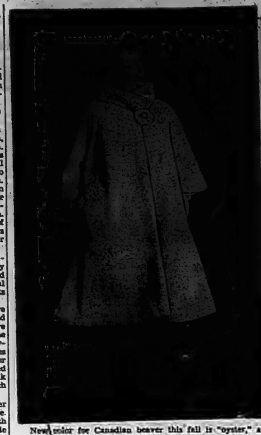
Jewelry Goes From Antique To Modern to Oriental for Fall

For design inspiration, fall fashion jewelry goes from antique to ultra modern, then voyages, in spirit, to the Orient for still another important look.

Among all styles, expert fakers of semi-precious and precious stones is notable. Turquoises, amber, jade doodlers decorate necklaces and pins, earrings and bracelets, and dissections of diamonds and emeralds are big in size, bold in shape, especially for after-dark jewelry.

Another trend evident in each of the three — antique, modern, Oriental — principal styles of fall jewelry is the liking for pendants and drops. Earrings employ the long drop dramatically, sometimes in lengths that brush the shoulder. Pendants dangle from necklaces, and both earrings and pins have their own forms of dazzling danglers.

Beads, enjoying continued popularity, attain new effects in partnership with stones and metals, intricately used.



Antique types of fashion jewelry use chains, mesh and tassels to create delicate effects with an old-war air. Stone and bead overlays enhance most jewelry of this type.

FINE VARY

Pins in the antique category vary from small to medium and are adaptable to grouping — two or more pins worn together. Bracelets range from the slim bangle to wide mesh types.

Modern jewelry takes its cue from modern art, in free-form and abstract designs. High bracelets, mammoth pins and intricate necklaces are among the characteristics of this group.

The Far East is far from mysterious, at least in jewelry reflecting this design inspiration. Trend is to bold and brilliant interpretations of Oriental patterns.

Elegance Seen In Lady-Like Fall Handbags

Subtle elegance characterizes the smaller, more feminine proportions and new shapes and colors of fall handbags. The tendency is to simple closings, self-handles and underplayed ornamentation, reports Leather Industries of America.

Distinguished afternoon and evening bags are seen in smooth, waxy or grained leathers or kitten-soft suedes. Shaped to adorn any costume, handbags are available in slim flat squares, slim graceful oblongs and an occasional oval clutch.

Daytime styles are designed to hold all the necessities that go into a woman's handbag. Yet they're not bulky — not even the leather box bag. Most daytime bags are on the flat side, with soft contours.

Colors are darkened — deep golden brown leathers, bright blues and greens, mauve and plums, and smart reddened browns.

Elegant simplicity is repeated in other accessories. Extra-wide leather belts in smooth leather or satiny suede stress the high waist look, even though worn at ordinary waistline level.

Crushed leather cummerbunds are seen on late-day costumes. For evening wear, occasional jewels relieve the simplicity of black suede or kid circlets.

"Purse brighteners" carry out the new leather colors, too. Wallets, coin purses, cigarette cases and lighters, eyeglass cases are all calculated to individualize fall handbags.

Color Wheel Turns Two Ways, With Vibrant or Muted Hues

The color wheel turns two ways in fall fashion. One direction is toward the well-established, still booming interest in bold, vibrant colors. The other is toward new developments in "no colors" — moss, mushroom and many muted hues of green, gold and rust.

On the lively side are colors grouped under the name, "magenta" — which actually covers, as well, fuchsia, wine and a diversity of other blood-reds. This group bids fair to take the feminine place held last spring by pink, and last fall by purple.

Bright, bluish greens such as jade and emerald; darker forest green; deep or bright gold and bluish tones; orange and russet gain even colorful new fashions.

Allied with the no-colors, which are neutral in decision but not quite neutral in hue, are the neutrals themselves. Fog and smoke grays and earth tones earn fashion attention.

Reversis, blackened or reddened, gain prominence and are the inspiration for a family of spice colors, such as pimento. Black, the fashion indispensable, makes ultra-elegant in its fall '64 appearance.

Color combinations call forth plaids, and more plaids, from discreet plans to big, bold and bright versions. Richly colored stripes, distinctive checks and a variety of interesting prints contribute to the colorful or no-colorful look of fall.

There's Lightness Afoot for the Boys

Boys' shoes have a lighter look, and a lighter feel about this fall. Raised stitching, tapered lines and long-tongued slip-ons contribute to the lightweight leathers cut down on the weight of footwear.

For both dress and school wear boys favor slip-ons, chiefly moccasin-styled. The wider use of elastic goring pioneered on men's shoes has been applied to boys' footwear, too. Texture of the elastic teams well with smooth, grained or brushed leathers.

Most tie shoppers are in the two- and three-eyelet family, with an occasional buckle or "shoelock" closing.

Boys' colder weather choices are ankle-high leather chukkas or calf-high boots.

More daring than their Dads when it comes to color, boys can choose from a whole range of tan to brown and black leather shoes — and antique brass and burnished olive shades, too. Brown and grey leathers appear in casuals.

Patterns Are News on Floor, With Texture

Pattern, color and texture make fall floor covering news, with both carpets and area rugs opposites in patterns to complement traditional and contemporary furnishings.

Multi-colored carpets with a braided look, stripes, geometrics, Oriental and floral patterns are some of the other choices.

Very often, texture and color are used so skilfully that a patterned effect is created. Shadings that give color new importance include the use of cut and uncut nubbed yarns in the same carpet, for a tone-on-tone look, and multi-level pile designs, with two or three levels of pile yarn for a "watermark" type of pattern.

Color is notable for its variety. One line of carpets and rugs includes 47 colors. Noteworthy are a wide choice of blues, gold and tawny tones and many greens.

Beiges and browns continue as carpet classics, while the return of gray extends the range of neutrals. Gray goes from pale, off-white tones to colorful blue-gray and charcoal tones.

Long Lines, Fluid Flare Are Themes

Plenty of variety in style, plenty of color, plenty of fun — these are the ingredients of a fashionable fall, as seen in new apparel for campus and career.

Flare and fluidity, the keynotes of fall fashion, are prominently represented in clothes with a young, vital look. Tops of dresses are often easily bloused, often lengthened to meet low - placed pleats or flares.

Demi-fit and princess styles make their appearance, as part of the fashion drift toward a more fitted silhouette.

Characteristic coats, especially on campus, are the full-length camel hair and the raglan-sleeved Chesterfield. Along with these classics go dressier coat styles which highlight such things as demi-fit, flare, fluid and collarless necklines, and bolled sleeves. Barrel-shape and cardigan coats continue.

SHORT COATS LEAD

Short coats rank high in favor with the young set. The news here can be summed up in the words "cotton suede" and "curly lamb." Plushy cotton suede forms the outer shells of some of the most exciting short coats around, and curly lambs — real or synthetic — trims and lines them.

Synthetic pile is another short - coat favorite. Fur fakery takes to the jungle and rounds up a new zoo - full of spotted cat looks for young short coats.

Sportswear and separates, always a lively part of the campus-career wardrobe, abound this year. Skirts and pants spire just - for - fun separates. For instance, kelly, magenta and orange are combined with abandon, but with eye-pleasing results.

Capes and ponchos appear to be headed for popularity as fun tops, and for active-sportswear they're loom-laminated to provide warmth.

SWEATERS IN DEMAND

Short - short skirts, often pleated plaid, pair with long tops. In addition to the knee-tickers, for leisure wear there are knee pants, knickers and some culottes. Skinny pants, full - length and in stretch fabrics, get a large share of fashion attention.

Sweaters, ever in demand with campus and career girls, expand the range and diversity of their styling. Symbolic of the season is the great sweater, longer and bulkier, often with a turtle neck. The cost sweater that doubles as a jacket is important in young wardrobes.

Hosiery Is Ready To Shine for Fall

When fashions show more leg, and shoes show more new shapes, hosiery has a chance to shine. That's the case this fall, as skirts get shorter and shoes more varied.

Hosiery fashion is keyed to color — color that flatters and is never glaringly bright. Maroons and plum shades, an important part of the fall spectrum, lead in hosiery, too.

Taupes, olives and other interesting "no-colors" adorn the leg. Pale or wine reds, spicy golden or deep browns, charcoal, off-blacks are news.

Teens on Their Toes to Wear Three Fall Silhouettes in Shoes

Redesigned from toe to heel, three fall's teen shoes feature not one, but two, but three leading silhouettes set on a variety of heels, according to Shoe Fashion Service of Leather Industries of America. In the shoe wardrobe, new square and crescent toe flats, pumps and moccasins join the still "hip" pointed toe shoes.

Handsome textures — smooth, grain, lustre, black patent and brushed leathers pick up autumn's bright tones and subtle darkened hues.

The softly rounded crescent toe is chiefly found on dressy, jet heel pumps, while the squared-off, sloping toe looks its best in a flat or with a low square heel. The pointed-toe is teamed with every variety of heel — low, medium or high.

Among the favored colors in the shoe wardrobe are darkened blue, blackened and amber-rusts. Interpreted in smooth and brushed leather footwear. In casual shoes, patent and classic sandals sport bright colors.

Bodies — pebbled and squashed of toe and flat of heel — are newspaper's choice in neutral smooth and brushed leathers. Brand new fad is the vamp strap which crosses a high-riding tongue to accentuate the boot look in a flat. Straps on teen shoes are very wide this year.

The airy leather fat is the year's answer to school shoe wardrobe problems. Moccasins — both slip-ons and ties — come in dozens of leather colors for school and after-school.

Newest Trends Highlight Beautiful Use of Woods, Color, Contrast Are Taps

Lovely and livable furniture, as an exceptional variety of new styles, offers the homemaker greater scope in refurnishing her home this fall — with the prospect of rewarding results. Ready for a lifetime of happy use is furniture that not only looks new, but looks right, fabulous dial and comfortable as well.

Traditional furniture styles are out. Casual styles gain greater grace and distinction, traditional becomes less formal, modern more restive — and all mixed in a trend to classic simplicity.

Contemporary furniture reflects American life, in designs that are called "mature modern," "haute," "nostalgic" or, simply, "American." Italian classic, early American and Colonial, French and Italian Provincial and 18th and 19th century English styles influence much of the new furniture.

EFFECT IS RELAXED

Whatever the style, there's a minimum of matching within furniture groups. Eye-pleasing contrasts help to create a more relaxed effect, instead of the rigid "suite" look.

Imaginative use of wood is probably the biggest furniture news, followed closely by color. Beautiful wood grains are displayed in a variety of ways — for instance, combinations of two or more woods in contrasting grains or finishes.

While walnut, cherry, maple and mahogany lead in popularity, many more woods get their share of use and attention — woods such as birch, pecan, butternut, rosewood, teak and oak. Burls such as myrtle and other decorative woods are used for inlay, overlay and parquetry. Other designs combine wood with cane, metal, ceramics, leather or plastics. Cane, especially loved, is seen in both close and lacy weaves.

Wood forms the entire outside surface of many upholstered pieces, while many other upholstered sofas and chairs have elaborately carved wood frames and bases.

Color appears in brightly painted accent pieces, but more often in the upholstery fabrics. The palette ranges widely, including avocado and other greens, persimmon, peacock, brown-gold, turquoise.

FABRIC USE CHANGES

As furniture styles are modified toward classic simplicity, the use of upholstery fabrics is changing, too. Textured modern fabrics now appear on traditional pieces, while modern styles are upholstered in velvets and damasks.

To carry out the idea of effective contrast, there's variety in size and height of furniture. Though the new short sofas and loveseats continue to gain, extra long sofas get their share of design interest, too. Cabinets come in miniatures or are bigger than ever, and chairs have very high or very low backs.

DESIGNS IN CHAIRS

Weighty and lightly-scaled pieces balance each other within the same furniture groups.

Dining room chairs are designed for increased usefulness. Usually either half or fully upholstered, they can serve as occasional chairs, too.

Predictably, rocking chairs are numerous in fall furniture lines. Since President John F. Kennedy's rocker came into the news, both upholstered and Boston-type rockers have won bi-partisan popularity.

ABOUT JACKETS

Jackets often follow classic lines this fall. They are frequently longer, with easy cardigan neckline. New shape is the lightly-fitted jacket.

Little jackets for fall reflect the trend to a hint of fit. Simple lines are enlivened by interesting fabrics.

Mouton-collared coat with fall-fashionable flaring lines is lined in matching pile, and foam-laminated for more warmth.

Simple But Courtly Gowns Are Leading Fall Bridal March

Bridal march for fall is toward a continued simplicity of line, in step with rich fabrics. Brides will be coming down the aisle in courtly, elegant gowns fashioned of silk or rayon peau de soie, a variety of silks and satins, brocade or taffeta.

Though outlines are simple, skirts are often intricately cut and draped. Flat fronts sweep out for side width, and back interest is provided by pouts, bows, rosettes, bustles, streamers and fabric flowers.

There are dome and bell skirts, sheath and princess line. Victorian look is important — high necklines and long, buttoned sleeves. High neckline and sleeves long, slim and pointed appear in still other styles, but bateau or scoop necklines lead.

Shoulder trains usually detachable, look new in combinations of two fabrics — velvet borne on silk, for example.

Stability is exercised in trimmings. Self fabric trims are frequent, in the form of leaves, flowers or cording.

WELL SHAMED

Adroit use of contrasting enhances the simple lines of fall fashions. Seams define yokes. Darts, tapered effects.

Football Scoring Races

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ottawa halfback Ron Stewart, returning after two games on the sidelines with a leg injury, grabbed a share of the Eastern Football Conference scoring race over the weekend as he scored all the points in the Rough Riders' 36-12 loss to Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

Bracketed with the Riders' Canadian halfback at 36 points each, Gerry McGee of Hamilton Tiger Cats, who also scored two touchdowns in his club's 37-36 victory over Calgary Stampeders.

Cookie Gilchrist, Toronto Argonauts' 240-pound fullback, who has been leading this last year and has set the pace most of the way this year, was held to a single point on an unsuccessful field-goal attempt in two starts against Edmonton Eskimos and British Columbia Lions. His wee one point behind his leaders at 35.

Three more Tiger - Cats scored the pace-setters. Don Sutherin kicked six converts and a field goal to take over fourth place at 33. George Scott and Paul Dekker were next at 30 points apiece. Dekker picking up three touchdowns during the week.

The Training Camps

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two goals fired in the first period by Jim Pappin and Pete Panagabko were enough to give Toronto Maple Leafs a 2-1 victory over New York Rangers in one of the two National Hockey League exhibition games Tuesday night.

At Welland, Chicago Black Hawks suffered a 3-2 loss to Buffalo Bisons in another National League farm club. They were three minutes of each other in the second and Stan Mikita shot Chicago's final goal minutes later.

Back in their training camp at Niagara Falls, Ont., after a weekend trip to Peterborough and Bell, Que., Boston Bruins drilled for their exhibition game with the team.

Brampton Drops Opener

By LARRY ROSE
VANCOUVER (CP) — Coach Bruce McClure, while handling his Brampton Rambleer were outclassed last night, is far from conceding the best soccer in Canada, senior lacrosse final to Vancouver Carlings.

The fast-breaking Vancouver club trounced Brampton, making its first appearance in a Mann Cup final in 20 years, 14-6 before 2,300 fans to take a 1-0 lead in the series.

Second game will be played Thursday night with the third scheduled for Saturday. The fourth game is set for Monday.

Vancouver blunted the Colts' No. champions with a six-goal outburst in the first quarter. Despite the defeat, McClure was optimistic.

"We let them get the jump on us and could never get back into the game. The game doesn't mean that much, we're glad to give them a two run for it."

McClure said he plans to fly to Vancouver for the second game. Naylor for the third and fourth games. Naylor is a school teacher and cannot leave his job until Friday.

Thursday night against Detroit Red Wings.

Arbe Hooking at the Red Wing scoop, coach Phil Watson of the Bruins said "This will be our first real NHL test."

Bruins were down to 21 men after posting their hopefuls. These included forwards Tom Williams, Rabon Leclair, Randall Miller, Bob Letter and Marcel Tessier, all sent to Kingston.

OWNER ARRIVES

Owner Bruce Norris arrived in Niagara Falls Tuesday for his first look at the Wings and found the lineup nearly complete.

New York Mets have one more practice before heading for Miami Falls, Ont., to play Pittsburgh against the AFL Cleveland Bearcats. They begin their eight-game tour of Western Canada Sunday.

Training sessions in Montreal Canadiens' camp at Victoria, B.C., are following the traditional pattern, with the veterans slowly skating themselves into shape while the newcomers give it everything they have in an attempt to grab berths on the team.

Backdrop for Maris Drama

'Babe' Haunts Baltimore

BALTIMORE (AP) — The backdrop for the last act to night of Roger Maris in his saga of the home run is Memorial of Broadway of Hollywood.

For what fiction writer would be overlook the chance to stage it elsewhere than in the native city of the immortal holder of the endangered record — Baltimore's Babe Ruth.

Beyond that, it is a city steeped in more than a century of baseball lore.

Walter Maris, who now has 58, a New York Yankee like Ruth, fails or breaks Ruth's record of 60 homers, it will be a deserving chapter in a baseball history.

Baltimore's first organized team was formed in 1859, 30 years after Abner Doubleday is credited with inventing the sport.

Eight leagues and 102 years later, the city has left indelible marks in record books and memories.

Ruth, ironically is best remembered for being the forerunner of today's style of play — the big, scoreless ex ferred to as "outside baseball."

It is "inside baseball," the game of strategy, for which Baltimore is best known among baseball historians.

Ruth made his professional debut in Baltimore by pitching a 6-0 shutout as a 19-year-old southpaw in 1914. He hit no homers in his only season with Baltimore in the International League that year.

Twenty - four years before that, a 19-year-old named Matt Kilroy struck out 505 batters in a season while pitching for Baltimore, still a record.

The individual names among the old Orioles are a Who's Who baseball roll-call. John McGraw, who later managed New York Giants to 10 pennants; Wilbert Robinson, twice a pennant winner as manager of Brooklyn Dodgers; Willie Keeler, for whom it was then where they ain't"; Dennis Brouthers, who had a lifetime batting average of .342; Hughey Jennings, who managed Detroit to three pennants.

It was 1954 before the city returned to the same league with the franchise of St. Louis Browns.

This is the rich background for Maris in his last official crack at Ruth's record of 60 home runs in a season of 154 scheduled games. Maris needs two to tie.

Turns Down Bruin Contract

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP)—Defenceman Doug Mohns, native of Kamloops, has rejected a contract offered by Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League.

Mohns claimed the 200-pound rearguard in the annual NHL draft and told him to report to training in Niagara Falls, Ont.

However, Tuesday, who announced he'd signed recently, is reported to have returned the Bruins for a two-year, $30,000 contract, plus the cost of university education.

Bruins offered a one-year contract for $8,000. Teasley rejected it and went back to college. He played last season with Seattle Totems of the Western League.

Final scores: Australians 3rd and 235 for 8 declared; Ireland 76 and 185.

Sport Slices...

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The senior hockey situation is still hanging fire with no definite word from the "Hi-Ho" entry Oshawa. At the last meeting of the group here it was stated Oshawa was all ready to go with a sponsor, players, etc. All that was necessary was the ironing out of a few minor wrinkles.

Now it appears the picture has changed. Word has it the Oshawa sponsor has moved from the city. However, OHA member Mail Leyden of Oshawa in a last-ditch effort to produce an entry has called a meeting of the Oshawa players for next Friday night, and will endeavor to straighten the matter out.

If Oshawa fails to produce an entry it is extremely doubtful the league will materialize. Kingston's Harold Lamport and fellow delegates to the meeting here stated definitely they would not enter a four-team loop. They were not exactly thrilled with the proposal that the team interlock with the Lakeshore Intermediate League.

In the meantime the arena commission, apparently tired of waiting for a hockey decision has gone ahead with ice schedules. After all they cannot be blamed. Manager Jack Dickens has been putting off certain ice dates pending word from the hockey organization—and none has been forthcoming.

City-wise, word of the local hockey set-up has been conspicuous by its absence. At the last meeting Jean Paul Lamirande definitely entered a Belleville team and he told this department he was ready to go.

Be that as it may. It seems the whole thing hinges on the Oshawa decision and from this corner prospects do not show any particular brightness for the formation and operation of a senior hockey league in the east this season. However, it could happen. I hope it does. Friday night or Saturday morning should bring a decision.

WRESTLING

—They've scheduled the Battle of the Bulge (and we buddy) for Friday night at Memorial Arena. This brings together that sweatshirting pair of bashers, the Great Kudo and his beddie biddy-beddy Stanley Stasiak. Opposing them and wearing the togas of the Lord Jeepy gladiators are that Maid and Jeff of the east, Gino Marello and Tony Marino.

Frank Tunney's Double-M for Mayhem, aided and abetted by one Tony Manous, a likely Grecian lad, teamed up last Friday night to administer a sound three-ply thumping to the Kudo and Stan the Stasiak after Marino had Kudo on the verge of saying "uncle" and Stasiak rushed to the aid of his economy-size playmate.

Stasiak and the Kudo took a severe bashing. They went down like virgins with almost monotonous regularity as the Gino-Gimelli-Marino trio flew up from left-field to connect solidly. It was a real battle. Finally the Stasiak-Kudo team figured two bad guys can't lick three good ones so they called it a night and high-tailed it for the showers.

So Friday night's tussle will be a grudge battle. There will be no quarter shown nor given and the Double M's had better be on the alert for this Kudo and Stasiak are vengeance bound—and if they get the chance somebody's fur will fly.

THE SALMON

The trout season closed the other day and as a tribute to a fighting fish, we pass along the following:

I hesitate to be unkind
But the salmon has a one-track mind.
Once every season full of fire,
He swims upstream, higher and higher,
From dawn to dusk, and dusk to dawn,
From noon to night and night to morn,
Up rocks and rills,
Up streams and hills
Up high cascades,
Up grassy glades,
Up canyons steep,
Through water deep,
Up stones and rocks,
Up dams and locks,
From day to night,
From dark to light,
Until at last, on one bright dawn,
He gets there—just in time to spawn.
Now, having done his salmon duty,
Now, having wooed his salmon cutie,
And weary from the trip uptown,
In quiet shallows he will drown,
Pondering, with his dying bubble,
Just why is sex so damn much trouble?

Yanks Split With Birds

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Staff Writer

An asterisk looms large in Roger Maris' baseball destiny.

Held to an infield single while New York Yankees clinched at least a tie for the American League pennant Tuesday night by splitting a doubleheader with Baltimore Orioles, Maris must hit two home runs against the Orioles tonight to officially tie Babe Ruth's record of 60 home runs.

If he doesn't, he'll have eight more regularly - scheduled games in which to tie or surpass the Bambino's record of 1927, but will have to take the asterisk along with any record under an edict handed down by commissioner Ford Frick.

That's the prospect facing Maris, who has 58 homers despite failing to connect in nine tries against the Orioles' sharp pitchers, as he prepares to take his final official shots against righthander Milt Pappas (12-8) while the Yanks go with Ralph Terry (14-3).

The honor of clinching the tie for the Yankees' 26th pennant, the first under rookie manager Ralph Houk, went to lefthander Bud Daley, who beat the Orioles 3-2 in the nightcap with a five-hitter.

WINS OPENER

Steve Barber won the opener for the Birds 1-0 with a four-hitter for his eighth shutout, tops in the major leagues. The whitewash also checked Maris, who walked in the first, then failed to get a hit in three other at-bats.

In the second game, Maris fouled out in the first inning, got an infield single in the third, grounded out in the fourth, hit a long foul in the seventh before flying out to center and struck out in the ninth for a 3-for-36 performance at Baltimore this season. Baltimore Stadium is the only park in which Maris has not hit a homer this year.

Frick has ruled that if Ruth's hallowed homer mark is equalled or broken, it must be done in 154 decisions. That was the number of games which constituted a season in 1927, when the Babe set his record with the Yankees. The American League season now runs 162 games.

Maris, 27 - year - old right-fielder, said that he had a bad night Tuesday night.

"And when I'm bad, I'm really lousy. I've got nobody to blame but myself. I was overanxious. I had some good pitches to hit at, but I also swung at some bad ones."

"I've got to be a Houdini now to do it in 154 games."

Bill Skowron took up the homer slack for the Yankees, cracking his 22th of the season with a man on in the fourth inning for a 3-1 New York lead that stood up as Lefebvre held the Yanks' magic number to one over the second-place Detroit Tigers.

The Tigers, who play an afternoon game against Los Angeles Angels today and can wrap up the pennant for the Yanks if they lose, maintained a mathematical chance for a tie by beating the Angels 8-2.

Cleveland Indians and Kansas City Athletics split a doubleheader, the Athletics winning the opener 6-0 and losing the nightcap 9-2. Chicago White Sox whipped Boston Red Sox 5-1 and Minnesota Twins defeated Washington Senators 3-1.

Skowron's homer, with Elston Howard on base against Brown (10-6), gave Daley his 13th win against 11 defeats this year. The loss Baltimore run came on Ron Hansen's homer leading off the third inning.

In the opener, Barber (17-11) had the Yankees in control while Baltimore's first - inning run stood up and made Whitey Ford (24 - 4) the loser. The Orioles scored when Brooks Robinson singled, reached second on the ball got by Rec Lopez and scored on Jerry Adair's double.

The Tigers scored four runs in the first inning on singles by Billy Bruton and Norm Cash, doubles by Al Kaline and Rocky Colavito plus two wild pitches by Don Mitchell to Kaline and an error. That was enough for Don Mossi (15-7), although he was tagged for homers by Eddie Yost and Steve Bilko in four-hit pitching performance.

Jim Archer (9-15), loser of six games in a row, beat the Indians and Dick Stigman (2-5) with a six-hitter in the opener. The Pittsburgh ace got a bases-loaded single in the second inning off Bob Shaw (11-13) and a run-scoring triple by Ty Cline and Francona's squeeze bunt in the fourth gave the Indians' Gary Bell (11-15) all the margin he needed to subdue the Athletics in the nightcap.

Juan Pizarro (14-6) hurled a three-hitter against the Red Sox while the White Sox scored three in the second off Tracy Stallard (4-6) to win it.

The Twins defeated the Senators behind the six-hit pitching of Jim Kaat (9-15.) Joe McClain (8-18) was the loser.

Trudeau's scored their lone run in the sixth but that was it.

Smith struck out four and walked three in going the route for the Lightfoots.

Junior Day started but gave way to Powers in the third. Day was the loser, allowing three runs and four of the winners' five hits. He fanned two and walked none, Powers whiffed two and passed two.

Chuck Rowbotham, with a double and Jack Caddick, with a double, topped the Lightfoot hitters. Singles went to Don Wood, Don Smith and Rusty Garvin.

Joyces Shade Cobourg

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Writer

Jackie Elliott, who didn't survive at the ball park until the eighth inning, slammed a long drive over the centre fielder's head in the bottom of the tenth here last night to drive in the winning run as Joyce Real Estate nosed by the Cobourg Merchants 5-4.

The victory gave Joyces a commanding 3-1 lead in their Belleville and District softball league finals series. The fourth game is slated for Cobourg Saturday night.

Last night's game was a see-saw affair from start to finish. Cobourg scored twice in the first but Joyces opened up a 3-2 lead by the fourth inning. Cobourg tied it 5-5 with two unearned runs in the eighth and went down in order in the ninth. Joyces tied the score 4-4 on a walk and a tremendous two-out home run blast by Gary Goyer in the bottom of the frame.

Back in the first, a walk, O'Brien's double and Campbell's single gave Cobourg its 2-0 lead. Carr homered to lead off the Joyce first and in the third an error, Faulkner's triple and another error put Joyces in front 3-2. Carr drove in two more runs in the fourth with a bases-loaded double.

O'Brien's bloop double to right and Lisgard's single scored one for Cobourg in the sixth. Turpin's single got Cobourg going in the eighth. O'Brien also singled to right and the ball got through the fielder, allowing both runs to score for a 5-5 count.

In the ninth a walk to Ouiahen and Turpin's hit put two on. O'Brien hoisted out to right but the throw to third base got past Kellar and both runners crossed the plate.

Joyces played the game under protest after it was learned that Cobourg team manager Charlie Oulahen is not signed to a player's certificate. He played left field last night.

Doug Ellis celebrated his 18th birthday by pitching the win. He gave up 11 hits in all but six of them were in the last three frames. He fanned six and walked three.

Rolly Campbell gave up 14 hits in defeat. He struck out seven and passed two.

Gary Goyer hammered a home run and two singles for Joyces. Claude Carr had a homer and a double, Chuck Kingston, Pete Weston and Doug Soule two singles each. Bert Faulkner tripled, Jackie Elliott doubled and also made the key fielding play of the game with a great leaping spear of Hart's line shot in the ninth, while Ellis singled.

Leo O'Brien, with two doubles and a single, and Stu Lisgard, with three one-baggers, paced the Merchant hitters. Dick Turpin singled twice, Rolly Campbell, Bob Thompson and Brien Hart once each.

Coburg: Turpin ss, O'Brien 3b, Campbell p, Thompson 2b, Lisgard lb, Sharpe cf, Church c, Hart rf, Oulahen lf.

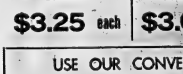
Babe Hit 14 Per Cent Of Homers

NEW YORK (AP) — Babe Ruth hit 60 home runs in 1927 he accounted for about 14 per cent of the homers hit in the entire American League, which totalled 430.



Going into the Baltimore series, Roger Maris' 58 homers were only four per cent of the 10-club American League total of 1,462 in games through Monday.

In 1927 only two clubs, the Yanks with 158 and New York Giants with 156, hit as many as 100 home runs. In 1961 the only American League team that has not hit 100 homers is Kansas City with 85.

Philadelphia with 96 and St. Louis with 95 are the only sub-100 teams in the National League which has 1,117 homers.

Up Lead to Five Games

Redlegs Ride Flag-Bound Express

By MIKE NATHIEV
Associated Press Staff Writer

The rambunctious Reds of Cincinnati are riding a pennant-bound express to their first National League flag in 21 years.

They increased their lead to five games over Los Angeles' Dodgers Tuesday night by walloping Pittsburgh Pirates 15-3 for their seventh victory in the last eight games.

The triumph, coupled with Los Angeles' 4-3 straight loss to the seventh-place Chicago Cubs, 7-3, rejoined the Reds' magic number to five. Any combination of five Cincinnati victories and-or Dodger defeats will give the Reds their first pennant since 1940.

Gene Freese of the Reds hit two homers, including a key three-run shot in a seven-run fourth inning, and 24-year-old Jim O'Toole boosted his pitching record to 17-9 with his 15th win in a row.

San Francisco Giants and Milwaukee Braves hit four homers each before Ed Bailey's ninth-inning single drove in the winning run to give the Giants an 11-10 victory. St. Louis Cardinals blasted Philadelphia Phillies 9-0 as Curt Simmons held his former teammates to five hits.

O'Toole stopped the Pirates on seven hits, allowing their only run in the fifth inning on Hal Smith's single, a double by Bill Mazeroski and an infield out.

The Reds got to Pittsburgh starter Bob Friend (14-13) for seven runs in the fourth inning. Freese's solo shot in the seventh, his 30th homer of the year, closed out the scoring for the Reds, who pounded Friend and three successors for 15 hits.

Bob Anderson (7 - 9), who hadn't completed a game in 10 previous starts, went the route for the Cubs and knocked in the winning runs with a two-run homer in the fourth inning as Chicago went ahead to stay. Glenn Williams (13-10), beaten by the Cubs for the first time since he joined the Dodgers in 1958, absorbed the defeat.

Bailey's single settled a slugfest battle that saw Willie Mays, who smashed a grand-slammer, Orlando Cepeda, Jimmy Davenport and Bailey connect for the Giants. Joe Adcock, Roy McMillan, Ed Mathews and Frank Bolling homered for the Braves.

Lew Burdette (15-10) and Curt Flood's single in the fifth inning of Stan Musial's two-run homer in the sixth. Simmons (9-10) is 9-0 against his former mates.

Casey May Manage N.Y. Mets

BALTIMORE (AP)—If Casey Stengel gives the word, he can have the New York Mets managing job for 1962 with Cookie Lavagetto as his first lieutenant and help appeared.

That was the proposition George Weiss, president of the new National League club, tried to sell the 72-year-old baseball genius when the two former New York Yankee officials conferred at Stengel's home in Glendale, Calif.

It is understood Stengel was receptive but he is torn, many say, between the idea to his wife, Edna.

Weiss is said to be anxious to have Stengel as manager not only because of Casey's ability, but because the Old Professor would stimulate attendance at the Polo Grounds, the Mets' home in 1962, and also in the club's rivalry with the Yankees for local fan support.

As manager of the Yankees, from 1949 to 1960, Casey won 10 pennants and seven world championships in 12 years. Casey teamed up with Weiss during that spectacular era of success.

Weiss serving as general manager, Two weeks following the release of Stengel as manager last October, Weiss handed in his resignation.

Bisons Wings All Even

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) Buffalo Bisons, all even with Rochester after snapping the Red Wings' 6-game playoff winning streak, move into Rochester tonight for the third game of the International League playoff final.

Buffalo squared the best-of-seven series at one game apiece Tuesday night with a 9-3 victory. The Bisons clobbered four Red Wing pitchers for 12 hits, including two home runs by Don Mincher. Jim Street was the beneficiary of this solid support as he coasted to his second playoff victory.

It marked the third time Mincher slammed two home runs in one game this season. His first blast came off reliever R. G. Smith in the 5th inning with a mate aboard. The second drew

'Cain's Hundred' Is Tough, Bloody Gang-Buster Series

By CYNTHIA LOWEY

NEW YORK (AP)—If you enjoyed the tasty Untouchables,—and a lot of people did—you'll like Dick's Hundred, the tough, fast-paced and bloody gang-buster series that moved into NBC-TV schedule Tuesday night.

Although hero Nick Cain is hunting down and destroying remnants of syndicated crime in contemporary settings (the bosses wear Ivy League clothes and their henchmen have tail fins), comparisons between the two series are inevitable.

Paul Monash, who wrote the original, savage two-part show that launched Eliot Ness two years ago, also created Nick. Mark Richman — Nick, and Robert Black—Elliot — play the same sort of driven character.

But where Eliot is a dedicated federal agent intent on wiping out evil, Cain is the crime syndicate mouthpiece turned avenger when a plot to kill him results in the death of his fiancee.

Nudies Face Formidable Opposition From Groups

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Is the flood of nude movies out of Hollywood a menace to morals? Or are the films a harmless result of a more broad-minded view of sex?

The nudies face formidable opposition: officials, law officers, club women, churchmen, veterans' groups.

Says the Most Rev. John J. Devlin, a director of the Roman Catholic Legion of Decency: "The legion has always condemned nudity in films as in magazines."

The Los Angeles county board of supervisors has named a committee of film, civic, church and newspaper leaders to seek means to "nip it in the bud" and halt the nude films.

Lawyer Stanley Fleischman, who has defended films on obscenity charges before the Supreme Court and in several states, argues that freedom of the screen is necessary "to protect what the majority doesn't like."

He added: "It is clear to me that nudity on the screen does no harm. Unreasonable repression is harmful. These films provide an outlet. They are mere entertainment, and you can be bored or amused according to your tastes."

Peter Decanies, who has produced three nudies, agreed: "They are made for entertainment — adult entertainment. Theatres are fighting for their lives nowadays, and we've kept a lot of them open.

"You can't sim movies at the kids and say more. The only one who can make the kid audience pay off is Walt Disney. Our films are strictly adult back to the theatres because they offer carefree entertainment."

Horse 'Dopers' Suspended

MONTREAL (CP) — Officials of Blue Bonnets race track announced Tuesday that two owner-trainers have been suspended indefinitely in an investigation into horse-doping at the track Sept. 14.

The stewards suspended E. L. Brown, owner - trainer of Advancement, winner of the sixth race, and J. Tavicchi, whose Woodscrunner won the fifth race. The track announcement said morphine analysis of urine samples taken from all winners produced positive tests on both horses.

Both incidents involved claiming races of three-year-olds and up. The purses—$1,200 in the fifth and $1,100 in the sixth—are to be re-distributed.

Woodscrunner paid $4.40, $3.30 and $2.80. Advancement paid $3.50, $2.80 and $2.70.

The two races were referred to the board of directors of the Mount Royal Jockey Club Inc., scheduled to meet late today.

Thursday, September 21, 1961

General — Until noon this is one of the most annoying of days and harsh and hard conditions can follow forcing anything, so be very careful and cautious. Although conditions do not entirely release their gloominess, nevertheless the afternoon and evening and night you find that you can accomplish a great deal by your own cleverness and adroitness.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Ah sort of delay and annoyances disturb you until 3 p.m., so be patient. After that you will get the support and co-operation of the right people to help you start an upswing in your affairs. Be very sociable tonight.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Until 3 p.m. you find it almost impossible to get the assistance of key people, but right after that everything opens up for you and you gain prestige, benefits, support, etc. Be alert to every opportunity and seize it quickly.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Be sure you don't run out to some worthless activity in a.m. Seek the data you need to improve conditions about you instead. Afternoon and evening are fine for going after what you want and getting it. Be on the qui vive — Grow.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Until after lunch you intuition is not working accurately so be sure you don't follow it. Later discuss matters with most valuable ally and get the future planned more wisely and in a practical fashion. Be cooperative, not belligerent.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Better get chores done quietly in a.m. since there is little associates will do for you before noon. After lunch is then fine for all sort of activity and better understanding with them. P.M. get out with good friends and have a ball.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Until 3 p.m. others are very busy and can't co-operate with you, so be sure you labor diligently at some important work before you. Partners will later show their loyalty and pay attention to your ideas — make the most of it.

Libra (Sept. 22 to Oct. 22) — Be sure not to be forceful with anyone during a.m. Plod along quietly. Misfortunes then become beneficial for you since the power of the planets is with you. P.M. treat loved one with kid gloves.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — An ideal day to show real devotion to family. Don't be forceful in any way, or lose your temper either. A gentle manner will win everyone over, and you also avoid arguments, learn to smile more and you have harmony far into the future.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Until after lunch you must exercise great care while driving and also be sure not to spend more than you can afford. Plan to spend the evening with fascinating new friends and have a most wonderful time. Make appointments early.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Don't be forceful with anyone until 3 p.m. and be sure you do nothing that will take away from your good name. Late afternoon and evening are fine for planning how to increase your income and knowing just what your financial standing is.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Keep out of trouble's way today and think out ways to commercialize on special talents you possess. Get out into the world of business early. Assert yourself if you know yourself to be right and others wrong. Be alert, alert!

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — This morning is not good for forcing your will upon others in order to benefit thereby. Keep busily occupied at regular work and await a better day to discuss important issues with others. Relax at radio or TV in p.m.

If your child is born today, there will be many and varied talents in this chart, but it is imperative that a fine formal education be given, otherwise they may be put to wrong use in adult life. Give a fine spiritual training, too. The best professions here are those that have to do with trouble-shooting or government, of where the greatest good can be done for humanity in general. A most interesting youngster — full of vitality and imagination.

IMPORTANT STATUTE

The Statute of Westminster, which established the legislative equality of the Parliament of Canada with that of Britain, was passed in 1931.

Bones in Neck Were Fractured Says Doctor

OTTAWA (CP) — An Ottawa doctor testified Tuesday that force could have been used against Kenneth Turner, of suburban Eastview, whose body was found on the national defence headquarters parking lot here June 30.

Dr. Max Klotz made the statement at the preliminary hearing of Alfred Madden, of no fixed address, charged with murder in connection with the death.

Dr. Klotz said bones in Turner's neck had been fractured. He said there must have been repeated application of force because of indentations like those of finger or thumbnails on the neck.

He said the death was by asphyxiation, and also testified a blood test showed the dead man had been in an advanced state of intoxication.

The hearing continues.

Kitchen Worker Lives It up, On the Cuff

NEW YORK (AP)—A 36-year-old hotel kitchen worker was packed off to jail a second time Tuesday for living it up—on the cuff—as a fake ambassador from Africa.

William Constantine, a Negro with a small goatee and moustache, told Magistrate Edward J. Chapman he thought his kitchen job at a Catskill mountain resort last Wednesday and signed into New York's Plaza Commodore as ambassador from Ghana.

Previously, Constantine admitted, he was jailed for four months for fleecing the Waldorf-Astoria by representing himself as an envoy from Ethiopia.

Police said he carried no luggage as he moved into the Commodore, but got royal treatment from bowing functionaries with an questions asked. Thereupon he began to flee in high style in his $25-a-day suite.

He made phone calls to Washington, arranged for a limousine to be held and hired a young woman as receptionist.

Then he went fine until some cheques belonging to the young woman bounced. The ensuing investigation brought to light Constantine's lack of diplomatic credentials.

Constantine pleaded guilty to a charge of defrauding a hotel and a young woman as receptionist.

Judge Bernard S. Meyer told him: "Ambassador, I guess you'll be holding court in jail very shortly." Six months, he added.

People Jumping Out of Windows Into West Berlin

Berlin (AP)—West Berlin police said the Communists today closed the last gap in the sector sealed by armored cars, to clear the last border apartment house where people have been jumping out of windows into West Berlin.

Nine successful jumps were recorded Tuesday night.

Along several miles of the 25-mile border between East and West Berlin, hoards of one side of the street belong to the East and the street to the West. The Communists have bricked up ground floor doors and windows, but upper floors are still open.

West Berlin police reported three other escapes Tuesday night, including a Communist policeman and a customs official.

Meanwhile, an American spokesman today denied reports that two Russian MIG jet fighter planes have entered the Pan American airlcorr flying Gen. Lucius Clay to West Berlin Tuesday.

The reports, published by mass circulation newspapers, said one of the fighters flew at the airlcorr's side and the other beneath it at a "dangerously close distance."

Clay flew here as President Kennedy's personal representative in West Berlin.

Roads Minister Of B.C. Fined, Pleads Guilty

VICTORIA (CP) — Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi of British Columbia was fined $25 in Saanich police court Tuesday after pleading guilty to a charge of passing vehicles on the right-hand side on the Patricia Bay highway July 11.

The original charge of careless driving was withdrawn by the Crown when prosecutor Ken Murphy said he was not convinced there was sufficient proof of the infraction.

Mr. Gaglardi did not appear in court. His counsel, T. P. O'Grady told the court Mr. Gaglardi had received only one ticket since 1958, that being for making a illegal right - hand turn in Vancouver last year. He was fined $10.

The highways minister had had three previous speeding convictions since 1957 until 1959, paying a total of $80 in fines and $5 costs.

How to Treat an ACHING BACK

Reunification of Germany Out Window by Election

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The outcome of the West German elections increases the possibility the Berlin crisis may be resolved with Western acknowledgment of the existence of East Germany as a separate entity under Communist control.

The sense of West German disillusionment with the dream of eventual German reunification is seen in some diplomatic quarters as being reflected by the voters' declining confidence in the leadership of Konrad Adenauer.

American diplomats for example, have watched the election closely to determine to what extent West Germans cling to the hope of reunification and what the impact on morale would be if some form of de facto recognition of the East German regime was accepted to resolve the current East-West crisis.

Among tentative conclusions is the view that hopes of reunification, personified by previous Chancellor Adenauer, have been sharply modified by the hard reality of the wall cutting off East Berlin.

WALL IS SYMBOL

Western powers claimed the wall remains a symbol of the Berlin and German division which West Germans are bitterly keening to overcome. Adenauer was unable to remove the wall and apparently was unable to persuade his U.S., British and French friends to remove it.

The indication is that while the Allies would fight to keep West Berliners free, they will not fight to prevent the hardening of the physical division of Germany.

Thus if Premier Khrushchev treads warily, and doesn't demand too much word-eating and humiliation from the West, he may have his way. In terms of fact, though perhaps not in the official form of de jure recognition, the Western powers may finally accept the premise that Walter Ulbricht's Communists run East Germany.

But that kind of acknowledgment, nailing down the division of Germany would undoubtedly be conditioned on a full guarantee of the freedom of West Berlin and its access routes.

MAY MODIFY DEMAND

Khrushchev wants West Berlin turned into a free city under international guarantees. He may have to modify this demand though there is growing support in U.S. quarters for giving West Berlin increasing international flavor by the location there of some elements of the United Nations.

Prime Minister John Diefenbaker has proposed internationalizing Berlin, although he didn't make clear whether he meant all of Berlin or just the Western part. Khrushchev is reported by former French Premier Paul Reynaud as saying he would agree to making West Berlin the seat of the UN, providing it was a free city and no longer merely occupied by the Western powers.

American diplomats are studying the Reynaud report with interest. There is no immediate likelihood the United States would agree to transfer the UN headquarters to West Berlin, but there is a view West Berlin could be made a permanent site for a number of UN meetings requiring permanent UN structures. The existence of such edifices might tend to emphasize the freedom of West Berlin.

NOT RESPONSIBLE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. state department announced Tuesday it will rewrite a historical pamphlet on Berlin, to make clear that former president Eisenhower was not responsible for the way Germany was divided after the Second World War. The original verbion set off a storm of Republican protests and a statement from Eisenhower that the issue was decided at a level above his office as Allied commissioner.

Husband Denies Being Father Of Third Child

TORONTO (CP)—Duncan Lavern White, 46, of Toronto, using Betty Forbes, a 32 - year - old Lion's Head, Ont., farmer as her alienating the affections of his wife, decided in court Tuesday that he is the father of the couple's third child.

He told the court he first met Forbes when his wife-to-be took him to Lion's Head in Bruce Peninsula in 1956. He said Mrs. White told him Forbes was "very much" in love with her and wanted to marry her. At the time she said she was divorced. He said he was married in 1958 and spent their summer holidays from 1940 to 1956 at Lion's Head. On one occasion he said he heard his wife ask Forbes: "What do you think of your new son?"

White claims Forbes and Mrs. White committed adultery in 1946 and that Forbes persuaded her to go to Ohio to obtain a divorce. An Ohio lawyer, Anthony R. Fiorette, said in his opinion the 1950 divorces was not valid because Mr. and Mrs. White were reconciled briefly before the Ohio divorce hearing.

White is asking custody of their 15-year-old son. The others are 14 and 8.

The case continues.

Great Hopeful Foundation Laid For Arms Talks

Welcomes Eight-Point Statement by U.S., Reds

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—External Affairs Minister Howard Green says a new agreement on principles of disarmament by the United States and the Soviet Union could constitute a "foundation" for negotiations.

The Canadian foreign minister made this comment Wednesday after the U.S. and Russia reported to the 18th United Nations General Assembly they have agreed on an eight-point statement of principles for future disarmament talks.

Mr. Green said the principles said the aim of disarmament talks should be to develop a program of "general and complete disarmament" to be carried out in a three-year "strict and effective international control" that would be accompanied by increased measures to settle disputes peacefully under the United Nations and eventually to form a UN police force.

But the two great powers failed to agree on the precise meaning of reopening full-scale East - West disarmament negotiations.

These collapsed in Geneva in June, 1960, amid worsening relations between the U.S. and Russia following the U-2 spy plane incident.

HERALDS DEBATE

The statement of principles probably will open the way for the latest procedure in a detailed disarmament debate in the assembly.

Such a debate was sidestepped last year by U.S.-Soviet agreement that a 10-nation group be composed of three numerically-equal groups of nations—Western, Communist and neutral—instead of East-West as in the past.

Canada was a member of the 10-nation group that discussed disarmament committees which broke up in Geneva and Lt.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, Canadian chief-of-staff of the United Nations Emergency Force in the Middle East, have been in constant touch with efforts to get them reopened, like in a conference of the Canadian delegation here.

Kennedy Will Address UN On Monday

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy will address the United Nations General Assembly next Monday, the White House announced today.

Kennedy is expected to set forth the United States position on disarmament and a nuclear test ban.

He is certain to express U.S. policy toward the organization of the United Nations Head in the wake of the death of Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjold.

The White House said the UN and schedule of a Kennedy speech for Monday morning and the president would appear at that time unless something unforseen interferes.

Alaska Bush Pilot Sighted Russian Blast

NOME (AP)—An Alaska bush pilot says he sighted a mushroom-like cloud rising in the direction of northern Siberia last Thursday afternoon.

That was the day the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission reported the Russians had set off a nuclear test blast, apparently of several megatons, in the Arctic Ocean north of the island of Novaya Semlya. It was the 26th since the Soviets resumed testing.

The cloud sighting report caused Nome Mayor Dennis Sheldon, veteran pilot for West Alaska Airlines, to:

"I noticed it," Sehulz said Wednesday, "because of its unusual shape. It looked like a rectangular pillar. In 30 minutes it changed into a complete mushroom."

2,000 Attacked 158-Man Irish Battalion

ELISABETHVILLE (Reuters) Commandant Patrick Quinlan of Ireland's battalion of 158 men who have surrendered his troops at Jadotville if he had been fighting for Ireland, it was reported here.

Quinlan, who commanded the captured Irish United Nations company, said the men had behaved "magnificently" and would have fought to the last drop of their ammunition if prepared to let them die.

He said he thought the Jadotville action had no connection with the mission assigned to the Irish force when it left Dublin in The Congo.

Quinlan disclosed that 2,000 Katanga troops attacked while the Irish were attending mass on Sept. 13. The 158-man battalion was under continuous attack from that time until the surrender four days later.

Quinlan said he considered any action against the Irish battalion a Katangan police action when reinforcements failed to get through.

Quinlan said his troops killed one white officer leading the Katangans and one Negro. No Irish were killed but there were five wounded.

UNEMPLOYMENT UP FOR DEBATE AGAIN IN HOUSE

Essex East Member Attacks Policy

OTTAWA (CP) — Unemployment, the most recurrent theme in this marathon parliamentary session, comes up for merry-go-round review in the Commons today.

The issue got a thorough going-over by opposition spokesmen Wednesday with Liberal critic Paul Martin assailing the government for its decision to have a special commission study the problem of unemployment insurance fund.

Mr. Martin charged that the government, after repeated promises to do something which would bolster the fund, had abdicated its responsibilities and held Parliament "in utter contempt."

The Liberal member for Essex East attacked the government's unemployment policies in a caustic, hard-hitting speech which told of Liberal make job policies and ranged from the Diefenbaker era through the golden years of Liberal-created job opportunity.

The Liberal member for Skeena, opening the CCF arguments on the issue, joined with Mr. Martin in criticizing the new commission on unemployment insurance.

Labor Minister Starr, who opened the debate with details his department's estimates first came up for study earlier in the session, is expected to immediately reply.

DEFENDS RECORD

But Associate Defence Minister sevigny moved to the defence of the government, saying it is proud of its accomplishments despite the Liberal party prophets of doom and gloom.

The economic outlook was "encouraging, very potent and very rich."

In other business, Health Minister Monteith expected "very sharp" increase in radiation fallout in Canada during the weekend of Sept. 16 17 as a result of Russian nuclear blasts in the atmosphere.

He and officials of the health department were aware of what the levels are not considered a peril to public health.

Defence Minister Diefenbaker, making a statement on nuclear blasts, said the government's decision on this matter will be based entirely on the needs of the Canadian people.

He added that no decision has been made on nuclear arms since that recent speculation to the contrary does not take into regard the international situation.

Today, as has been usual the 18th sitting day of the session, the Commons will establish a record for parliamentary sessions. This is the 18th sitting day of the current session, compared to the 18th sitting day of 1958 and 1960 and the modern mark of 152 days in 1956.

Thousands of Heartaches Line Wall Separating Two Cities

BERLIN (AP) — No matter how you see it this city of 2½ million people is unbelievable.

This ugly line of concrete and barbed wire that is ripping a jagged wound through the heart of a great city, is growing more formidable every day.

The absolute priority of political convictions over human considerations is never more clearly shown. The wall is lined with thousands of heartaches.

Old friends can no longer talk to each other, but must wave handkerchiefs across the wall if they can reach it. Lovers look at each other through binoculars. A father shouts up to his little son in a third - storey window overlooking the wall: "We gehts, Hans?"

Old mothers wait in vain for visits from their sons and daughters they will never see again. Others turn up in their finery at the wall so parents can take a look. An old man sits in a second-floor window on Waldemarstrasse, watching tirelessly all of friends. He is too old to contemplate escape.

The wall, with all its tragedies, attracts Berliners by the thousands. They turn up nightly to look at the wall. The East German police across the wall, in watchtowers and Goebbels once ripped here. Perhaps the wall does not rival the tragedies of Auschwitz. But the sheer contempt for human dignity implied in its planning, construction and maintenance has made a deep impression on Germans on both sides of the wall.

The East German Communists, backed by Moscow, hardly could have demonstrated anything more faithfully the true pattern of communism as pictured by the West.

Hurricane Esther Threatens Populous New England Area

BOSTON (AP) — Hurricane Esther, packing winds up to 115 miles an hour, bore down on the populous southeastern New England coast today, well east of the New York metropolitan area.

The hurricane, described by the weather bureau as "capricious and dangerous," speeded up early today and its forward winds increased to about 15 miles an hour, increased to 18.

At 4 a.m. the centre was located by radar 225 miles south of Block Island, R.I.

There were no reports of loss of life and no known heavy damage, although Rhode Island was battering with the edge of hurricane's effects. Flooding was reported in Narragansett, and Brenton Reef lighthouse off Newport reported swells of 12 feet.

Hurricane warnings flew from Eastern Long Island to Eastport, Maine, and a hurricane watch was in effect from northern New Jersey to Long Island and Connecticut.

The weather bureau estimated winds in the centre of the hurricane at 115 m.p.h. with hurricane force winds—75 m.p.h. and higher—prevailing 100 miles to the east and 75 miles to the west. Gale winds extended out beyond 350 miles to the east and 200 miles on the west.

The weather bureau predicted the size and intensity of the storm would remain about the same for the next 18 to 24 hours.

The hurricane's edge flicked New York City with winds reaching 36 m.p.h. in gusts.

U.S. Speeds Effort to Learn Fallout Effects on Health

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. atomic energy agency is speeding efforts to determine whether any significant health damage has expected from Russia's nuclear tests in the atmosphere, it was learned today.

So far, the agency is about reports told a reporter even the most sensitive tests show only a insignificant radiation reported in some parts of the United States and that nearly all of the radioactivity measured today came without necessarily posing a significant health hazard.

They said it all boils down to this:

Regardless of what the atmospheric readings show, any threat to health would come in the water and food—or are inhaled. So far, the agency is finding not made sufficient tests to permit estimates on these latter factors—but more new tests are designed to help speed such assessments.

According to the latest available information, levels of strontium-90 in milk are still well to higher than 500 micro-microcuries a cubic metre of were have been reported in areas of Florida, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia.

The rise in the southern states is believed to be related to fallout northern and eastern states and in Eastern Canada.

Fallout experts of the U.S. weather bureau attribute this to the movement of warm moist air masses from the southern states. They say the polar air mass—carry little fallout—has moved over the northeastern states, and then, under the influence of the high pressure area in the south, curved inward.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker told the Commons Wednesday that air sampling stations will be set up in fallout levels in Toronto, Winnipeg, Ottawa, Windsor and Fredericton but these increases did not pose an immediate health hazard to Canadians.

Convicted Murderer Found Hanged in Cell at Kingston

KINGSTON (CP)—Keith Baybutt, convicted murderer who made a spectacular bolt short time ago, was found hanged by a few weeks ago, was found hanged in his cell at the Kingston penitentiary.

Coroner Dr. P. M. McDonell of Ottawa was due to order a detailed investigation.

Penitentiary authorities said a bed sheet was found around the cord of the earphone with which Baybutt and other prisoners may hear piped-in radio broadcasts.

Baybutt was in semi-segregated area of the penitentiary at the time.

Prison authorities said he was checked by the officer on duty at 9:30 a.m. and nothing was found normal. At the next check at 10:30 a.m. he was found hanging.

Prison Warden D. M. MacLean announced his death after getting in touch with Baybutt's parents in Ottawa.

Baybutt, described as a psychopath, was in the sixth year of a life term when he attacked a prison guard at Ashlepstot Aug. 10 and fled by car to Toronto.

Although the public was warned he was dangerous during a brief but intensive manhunt, he surrendered meekly when Toronto policemen closed in on him on west-end Bayshore boardwalk with drawn guns.

Baybutt was convicted Feb. 7, 1957, of the car-flogging murder of a Toronto loan company manager during an abortive holdup attempt.

The Supreme Court of Ontario later brought in a recommendation for mercy because of his mental condition and the sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

Baybutt was part of an eighman work gang picking tomatoes on a prison farm at Smithfield, 10 miles from Kingston, when he made his bid for freedom.

He went to the station wagon of guard John Dobson, the only guard supervising the party, and fatigued Sheets. When Dobson turned, Baybutt grabbed a pistole and ordered him to drive to Toronto.

Dobson was ordered to stop the car on a secluded road in Scarborough Twp. Then Baybutt fled after taking some money from the guard.

Baybtt had thrown away the knife when police caught up with him hours later in predawn darkness.

Warden MacLean said artificial respiration was attempted when the body was found this morning and a physician doctor was called. Baybtt was pronounced dead at 2:30 a.m.

UN. TSHOMBE SIGN AGREEMENT FOR CEASE-FIRE

No Concessions By Katanga Leader

Tshombe chatted and joked with reporters before boarding a plane on the way back to Elisabethville.

The cease - fire agreement reached Wednesday night between the UN and the leader of the breakaway province was considered a partial victory by Tshombe.

He has made no concessions on his insistence that Katanga should remain independent from the rest of The Congo. Mahmoud Khiari, the Tunisian member of the UN delegation at the talks, said he hoped negotiations would be resumed within 48 hours to settle the secession problem.

Tshombe left behind a swelling instructions from the UN secretariat in New York on the next step in the negotiations.

SEEKS UN RETREAT

Tshombe said that pending creation of a federal army, representation of the Katanga gendarmerie in the UN Secretariat during the discussions that he could have to refer this question to New York.

Under the terms of the agreement, the two sides have not yet achieved their declared object of withdrawing all UN troops from their territory.

The provisional cease - fire line was drawn up in all military operations in Katanga was reported to be a civil but cool atmosphere.

Tshombe and Khiari agreed to the withdrawal Katanga of all troop movements and set up machinery to supervise the cease-fire and implement the plans for an exchange of prisoners.

In Leopoldville, a UN spokesman said UN troops had suffered 13 killed and 63 wounded during the week of clashes in Katanga.

Congo Premier Cyrille Adoula said in Leopoldville yesterday he would "spare no effort to end Katanga's secession."

Spaak in Leopoldville before the cease - fire was announced. Adula warned his government "will reply to force with force."

Leaderless UN Awaits Outcome Of Big 2 Meet

Rusk, Gromyko Lunch, Berlin, UN on Menue

UNITED NATIONS (CP)

The leaderless United Nations watched with hope — but not great optimism — today for the outcome of a luncheon meeting between the foreign secretaries of the United States and the Soviet Union to discuss "the void."

The "void" term was used Wednesday night by India's V. K. Krishna Menon to describe the situation caused at the 16th UN General Assembly by the death of Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold in an African plane crash Monday.

U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko originally scheduled their meeting to study the Berlin crisis but the problem of Hammarskjold's succession now has been thrust upon them.

Rusk and Gromyko are trying to pave the way to East-West negotiations, but Rusk failed to find out first whether the Russian was willing to talk about mutual concessions or simply want to force Western approval of the Soviet stand on Berlin.

WON'T ACCEPT TROIKA

Russia's demand that the secretary-general's job be scrapped for a "troika" directorate, with three men, is wholly unacceptable to the West which sees it as a sure way of throwing the UN into confusion.

Canadian External Affairs Minister Howard Green arrived after a meeting of the 13 Commonwealth member countries of the UN Wednesday they had turned down the troika idea of a three-member directorate representing the East, West and neutrals.

French indicated the 98-member assembly would need to select a temporary executive director of the UN to arrange until agreement can be reached on a permanent secretary-general succession.

The Russians countered by circulating warnings that they would challenge any attempt by the assembly to appoint even an interim successor to Hammarskjold. They at the moment the problem be decided on the Security Council, where the Soviet Union has veto power.

Tunisia's Mongi Slim was elected as assembly president Wednesday by acclamation. Ireland's Frederick Boland but the world organization's top executive and executive officer to implement decisions.

India's Menon called for wisdom in meeting the problem of succession and indicated the government is not convinced Hammarskjold's death was accidental.

"If it was an accident, it was an act of negligence," he said. Menon said, "If it was anything else, it was a great international crime."

Canada's Green remarked on the somber air at UN headquarters in New York and added: "During the last few days I've visited the capitals of scores of all countries could be said to be in a state of shock at the death of the secretary-general.

De Gaulle Starts Speaking Tour Despite Danger of Assassination

VILLEFRANCHE (Reuters)—President Charles de Gaulle began a four-day provincial speaking tour today amid exhaustive security precautions to prevent any attempt on his life.

More than 3,000 persons lined the route to greet the president and there was no evidence that "stay-away" orders by the Secret Army Group were pressing for higher prices, were being observed.

De Gaulle, target of a bomb assassination attempt 13 days ago, was spending four days in parts of France's "Cinderella" provinces—the departments of Languedoc, Roussillon and Provence—which are relatively poor in industrial resources and sparsely populated.

In the first speech of his tour, de Gaulle said France and the free world must not retreat before Soviet threats.

"To do so would be the worst thing that could happen," he said, "would start by surrendering our bases and then our coasts and then our shirts and then our soul, finally our very soul, and we do not want to do this.

"We are a peaceful people but we stand firm and upright, in union with our allies, who are both numerous and powerful."

De Gaulle said that everybody recognizes this, there seems to be a chance.

During his tour, de Gaulle was expecting to get a hostile but non-violent—reception from farmers angry at falling investments.

However, there was also a real threat of another attempt on his life by the right-wing secret army organization.

His tour came in the wake of an announcement on Wednesday night that the president was relinquishing some of his executive powers to Premier Georges Pompidou.

The announcement indicated that de Gaulle is satisfied with the stability of his government and its ability to crush any attempt to overthrow it. The president has held the emergency powers since the abortive generals' revolt in Algeria last April.

De Gaulle said he would relinquish the powers at the end of this month.

Paper in Ghana Accuses Britain Of Killing Dag

ACCRA (Reuters) — Britain strongly protested Wednesday against "disgraceful allegations" in the Ghanaian Times which laid responsibility for "the murder" of United Nation Secretary General Dag Ham marskjold on Sept. 18 in Africa.

The pro-government newspaper said in an editorial that Britain was responsible for "history's No. 1 international murder."

The British High Commissioner, Sir Arthur Snelling, made the protest "in the strongest possible terms" in a letter handed to Ghana's acting foreign minister, Tawia Adamafio.

The Ghana government later announced it completely dissociated itself from the allegations.

The editorial said: "We declare with the greatest conviction that Hammarskjold was the victim of deliberate attack engineered by Harry Oppenheimer and that African traitor, (President) Moise Tshombe of Katanga."

Cereal Harvest Nearly Over On Prairies

Judgment Reserved in Civil Action Against 2 Constables

Mr. Cass Campbell, counsel for the plaintiff, summed up his argument by submitting that the evidence presented proved that the plaintiff had been shot on the premises of Woodward's store, due to the action of the police officers involved and that, in firing in the direction of the plaintiff, such action was liable to cause death or grievous bodily harm.

He suggested that a less violent method of trying to apprehend the plaintiff could have been effected as was the case when he was actually made prisoner and that more force had been used than was necessary for the occasion.

It was submitted by Mr. Temple that the force actually involved was not an indictable one and that since the officers were constables they were justified engaged in the act of committing the offence. Mr. Temple was counsel for the defendant for his arrest, that certain sections of the Criminal Code respecting and governing the use of force in making an arrest were applicable in this instance.

Donald Cass, Q.C., in summarizing the case for the defendants requested that the medical aid of a doctor be called to assist at the time be considered since they were anxious to apprehend the person that they were responsible for an act of voyeurism in a neighborhood where a great number of such complaints had been received. He also suggested that such an act was continuing when they arrived upon the scene although Woodward was on private private property at the time and that the evidence was sufficient to show that the plaintiff had had ample warning that the defendants were constables.

Mr. Cass indicated that he felt questioning of the plaintiff and the agent that where a conflict of testimony occurred the evidence of the police witnesses should be accepted. He submitted that the officers had no other force to use to apprehend the plaintiff and that they had the right to use the force that they had used under the provisions of the Criminal Code of Canada.

JUDGE INTERJECTS

Mr. Justice McLennan interjected to offer the observation that perhaps the provisions of the Criminal Code in respect to this matter were only to protect the officers against civil law proceedings being instituted against them and not civil proceedings.

Mr. Cass submitted that evidence showed that the officers had not intended to hit the plaintiff and that they were being fired upon, including Mr. Justice McLennan.

In reply to Mr. Cass's summary Mr. Temple pointed out that the actual costs of hospital and doctor's fees plus compensation for loss of work on a basis of $90 a week and some compensation for the damage to Mr. Woodward's leg be considered.

On the witness stand during Wednesday's testimony was Constable Begley who admitted to the firing of two shots, the first of which was in the air, with his service revolver. The second shot was aimed into the ground in front of Woodward, he said, and was fired double action. He explained that in his testimony that he thought he was chasing a fleeing suspect. This observation and that he knew where constables Davis and Stevenson lived was questioned at this time.

Mrs. James E. Neiles of Rosewood Drive testified that she had come across slashed screens and a pair of pants in her backyard on two occasions during the period prior to the date of the shooting.

Constable Lyle Davis stated that there had been a report after Woodward had collided with Constable Stevenson and that the plaintiff had drawn up his knees and covered his face as far as he could in an instinctive pose for a wounded person to take. Constable Davis said that he recognized the plaintiff as also acted as a witness and was questioned by both counsels and Mr. Justice McLennan on ricocheting bullets, the type of wound they inflicted and the effect of a bullet after launched off an object.

The formals then presented their summaries following which Mr. Justice McLennan announced that he was reserving judgment.

U.S. and U.K. Experts Visit Trenton Electronics Plant

TRENTON—Yesterday, the management of Trenton Electronics Corporation of Canada Ltd., manufacturers in Trenton, played host to a group of distinguished visitors from the United Kingdom and the United States.

This group of research scientists in the field of electronics was accompanied on the tour of the Trenton plant by four members of the Canadian Defence Research Board.

The visiting scientists included Paul Darnell, chairman of the U.S. advisory group on electronic parts; Brigadier General Fetzing and A. M. Hadley, secretary and deputy secretary of this group; D. Hill, a representative of Hughes Aircraft Company; E. Mroz, Bureau of Ships, Washington; V. Kublis, U.S. Army Signal Corps Laboratories; Major Van Horn, Electronics Systems Division of the U. G. Hanscom Field, U.S.A.F.; and F. E. Wenger of Wright Air Development Division, U.S.A.F.

From the United Kingdom were R. Eades, U.K. representative in Washington; G.W.S. Dunmore, Air Commodore-in-Chief; J. W. Underhill and G. G. Bennett, U.K. government personnel.

Canadian visitors were H. Belcher, G. F. Carr and H. H. Lywns. The group was welcomed to the plant by Mr. and Mrs. George F. Kempf, vice-president and general manager of the Canadian corporation.

FINISH ONE PROGRAM

Geoffrey Robinson, project engineer at the Trenton plant, told the visitors that Eria had completed one program along the lines of a three-year, $4½ research and had embarked upon a second three-year study. Both programs have to do with electronic components for military purposes.

James Walsh, manager of the engineering department at Erie outlined his company's past achievements in the field of electronics and spoke briefly of future plans.

During a round-long tour of the plant the group was shown each process involved in the manufacture of electronic capacitors, from the initial silvering of the components to the final testing for capacity.

The guests evinced much interest in the Trenton area "line where a great deal of the components designed for military applications are made.

Following the tour, the visitors were the guests of the management at a luncheon at the Trenton Country Club.

During the discussion period which followed the luncheon, Mr. Kempf gave his guests a brief "overview" of the town and the nearby RCAF station.

Mr. Kempf said that the informal meetings were not only "in the interests of research" but, in the light of present world unrest, could be regarded as being "in the interests of survival."

Hans Reiche, conducting a brief question and answer period, said that Erie had taken a "major step in this area," in the research and development in the field of electronics.

Will Attend Convention In Vancouver

TRENTON — Mrs. Bobbie Reid of Trenton, one of the founders of the Trenton-Brighton and District Association for Retarded Children, will leave Trenton on Saturday for Vancouver, where she will attend a Canadian Association for Retarded Children convention. Mrs. Reid has served as membership chairman on the national committee for the past two years. She is retiring this year to become a life member with the international committee. It is hoped that eventually, there will be an international branch, on which every country which has an active retarded children's program, will be represented. The nucleus of such an organization will be established at the convention.

Meanwhile, the local association is proceeding with plans to start construction on the new building to house the special class. A contractor will be chosen from the three sets of tenderers for the work this week. Tonight, a general meeting of the association will be held in College St. School, starting at 8.30 p.m.

348 ADMITTED

According to a report released this week, by Miss B. O. Hamilton-Smith, R.N., Director Memorial Hospital, during the month of August, 348 persons were admitted to the hospital. There were 71 births.

Deaths numbered 16.

Forty-nine major operations and 2 obstetrical and 81 minor operations were recorded.

The average daily population was 82 (adults and children) and 14.7 newborn.

Swimming Pool Decision Delays School Program

TRENTON — Plans for Trenton's new composite school have been approved by the Department of Education, but the provincial and federal governments have approved no plans for grant purposes. The more than $1,300,000 cost of erecting and equipping the school, to seat 948 ton High School, will be shared on a 75-25 per cent basis by the two governments.

The one remaining factor to be settled before tenders for the actual construction are called is whether or not a swimming pool is to be included in the plans.

A few weeks ago, town council turned down a request of the Trenton Board of Education that the town pay for the pool.

Following the decision of council the board decided to "go it alone."

This would involve the board's upping its annual budget request to the town for the next two years (until the debt is paid for).

Town council has written to the Ontario Municipal Board protesting the Trenton board's action and asking if it has a legal right to over-ride a decision of council.

The final result of the failure of council and the board of education to see eye to eye on the matter, is that all negotiations for the construction of the school must hang fire until the Ontario Municipal Board rules on the legality of the board being located in the school against the wishes of the town fathers.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Late Dofasco, Hollinger, the little Geneva mining company which moved ahead wildly on the stock market yesterday, continued to feature action again today.

The stock, which advanced $2.03 in price Wednesday to $2.39 a share on 602,980 shares on rumor of a rich copper strike in Quebec's Rouyn - Noranda area, was fairly actively traded.

This morning, the stock dropped rapidly to $1.95, shot back up $2.30 a half an hour later and at 11 a.m. was down to $2.02 a share on a volume of 1,000 shares.

The fact that the industrial market was moving ahead in a strong pattern was overlooked by action in the little mines.

Gains on the industrial board ranged from 3¼ by US Ford to ⅛ by Algoma Steel. General Motors followed Ford in the motors group with a gain of ¼.

On the exchange index, industrials gained .36 at 201.31, base metals .16 at 208.16. Golds dropped .07 at 86.67 and western oils .18 at 95.47.

Senior metals were moving ahead slowly and mainly on the strength on the junior issues. Noranda and Hudson Bay each gained ¼ and Ventures ⅝.

Western oils were quiet and down in a fractional range.

The company also stole the limelight from Wednesday.

Lak Dufault Mines, a company usually showing little or no trade, churned over 802,980 shares — more than one - third of the day's total volume — and advanced in price from 48 cents to 87 cents, a gain of 39 cents. The stock began moving on rumor that a copper strike had been made in Bellevue Township in the Rouyn - Noranda area.

The industrial market was pulled down by a general weakness in liquors, financial and base metals issues. Labatt's Class A and B each dropped 1½, Mic Sterling Trusts 1¼, Canadian Breweries 1 and a host of two points. Canada Malting had the biggest liquor drop, off 1¼ at 73½.

Gains were few with motors and rubbers. Ford of Canada was ahead 1% at 195½.

Base metal issues were weak but were pulled onto the plus side of the index by the strength in junior issues. Falconbridge was down ⅜, Geco and Noranda miscellaneous and Molly Porcupine led golds down, both off ⅛.

On index, industrials dropped 1.30 at 609.95, golds .11 at 86.56 and western oils .18 at 95.47. Base metals advanced .09 at 201.85. Volume was 2,232,000 shares, compared with 1,449,000 Tuesday.

Short Agenda For Meeting Of Council

DESERONTO — All available members of the council were on hand for the regular meeting on Monday night and Roger Sweetman was in the chair.

A letter from J. K. Pearce on behalf of Mrs. Pelkey, concerning the business tax on the property now occupied was returned to Mr. Pearce with the advice that such communications should be addressed to the Court of Revision. Apparently the property is not being used for business purposes and Mrs. Pelkey feels she should not be assessed business tax.

A letter from Mrs. L. Thorney complaining of the weed and bushes along Mcolsmie St. was read. The chairman said the streets advised council the weeds had now been cut.

Letters were received from several residents complaining of trees on or adjoining their properties which were in bad shape and should be removed. All of these were referred to the streets committee, Councillor Ward. The Rev. Muddy Company gave thirty days' notice of the removal of advertising signs in the town.

The Canadian Legion Advised that construction would soon begin on their new hall and asked concerning the roadway into the property their lot on Main St. The mayor advised that there was no provision for road allowance and what was used for a road was only a private driveway. Council moved that the lotter be filed and the Legion advised that council will not interfere with the closing of the driveway.

The streets committee were given power to act in connection with the drain on the Fraser property.

The rental of the hall being used at the Memorial Park was again introduced. Councillor Alford felt the rental should be reduced to $25 per month. On a recorded vote the motion was lost and the rental will remain at $35 per month as the Legion had free rent until August 1st.

Rev. W. McEwen of the Pentecostal Church came to the council regarding a letter he had received about the church using the park for meetings every Saturday night. Mr. McEwen wondered if there was any idea or religious persecution in the move and was advised by several council members in no uncertain terms that the only objection was to the use of the amplifying outfit at high volume. The mayor stated that requests for the use of the park should be in letter form for the consideration of the whole council.

Mr. Neill 'Flips Lid'

Another Cobourg Blast-Off

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Writer

Bob Neill, president of the Cobourg Merchant softball club, and the sports department of the Ontario Intelligencer shortly before noon today that "Cobourg is all through with the Belleville and District Softball League."

Neill said: "We will never again have anything to do with that Jim Cliff Belch and Bill Shaw. They are two-faced so and so's and you can also tell them not to phone me because I will not accept a phone call from them.

"I will not have anything to do with a game being played here Saturday night. I will not let our good fans come to the ball park expecting to see a ball game and have them (Joyce) protest as soon as Charlie Ouderkirk takes the field," he raved on.

"First them Cobourg will not be back next year and that's final," he continued.

"Why, who is running that league down there," he added. "the president of the league, Bill Shaw, or Jim Cliff, his own mouth that he did not know anything about that Tuesday night game but at the meeting it was a different story. Belch would say one thing and then deny it.

"Joyces are just mad because we won that protest and they are doing this terrible thing for Fay, your own good men, Bob Temple and that fellow from the airport (Don McAuliffe) made the decision and the protest meeting but the fact of them won't let it stop there."

He said that Joyces would do anything to win the series. He was reminded that Joyces seemed to be doing a pretty good job of that right on the field, but replied, "well, they won't anymore because we will never play them again."

"Your own fans booed the other night when the protest was announced," he said, "and that is going bad."

Neill raved on on the telephone for ten minutes and was unwilling to listen to any replies from this end of the line. He gained many other sentences to ask "if this was all being taken down," and kept repeating, "I don't want to even talk to me."

He said he had notified no one else in Belleville because he "would not talk to men like Belch and Shaw."

He said that the Joyce club consisted of a bunch of poor sportsmen. He was asked just what he considered his own club to be when they came down here with only nine men, at least one of whom was in no shape to play, for the first game and then did not show up at all for the third game of the series. Neill kept saying "that's not so," and then would blast off in the next direction, all condemning the league executive and Bill Shaw.

Neither Belch, Hurst nor Shaw was available for comment at press time today.

In review, Joyces lead the best-of-seven series by defeating games to none and the fourth is scheduled for Cobourg Saturday night.

There was some question here as to whether the cages Mr. Neill was trying to get the Joyce club to stay away from the ball park Saturday night and then file a protest.

It was pointed out to Neill that in nine out of ten leagues his club would have been sussed and thrown out of the series for their actions to date which has tended the entire show into a farce. This brought another denial.

What happens next?

In this series, no one knows.

Senior Citizens Hold Meeting For Business

The semi-monthly meeting of the Belleville Senior Citizens' Club was held in the club rooms on Dundas Street Wednesday evening.

The president, Mr. C. L. Hyde, opened the meeting with the Lord's Prayer, followed by the club theme song.

A letter from past president Harry Scales was read in which he expressed his thanks to the members for their kindness during his illness and hoping to be with the members again soon.

A moment's silence was observed out of respect to the passing of a member, Mrs. Ada Ketcheson.

The president announced that through the courtesy of Mr. William Bateman, manager of the Bowl-O-Drome, that all members of the club would be his welcome guests on any Monday or Friday afternoon. Members should wear their badges for identification and also all members are invited to the Belle Theatre on any occasion at students' rate on Tuesday, Wednesday and George Forbes.

Mrs. Hall decided to be relieved of the chairmanship of the visiting committee, because of not feeling well and Mrs. H. Murphy kindly consented to fill the vacancy.

A motion was carried that the club invite members of the Trenton club as a return visit nine next month and a committee, Mrs. Agricultural Workers' Union, the Hastings Junior Farmers' Junior Farmer Clubs, as well as many private enterprises donated extra prizes, the total prizes installed approximately $1,200; a quantity of merchandise was also donated. Oshawa Plant Hit by Shortage Of U.S. Parts

OSHAWA (CP) — About 1,000 workers at General Motors Canada plant were laid off Wednesday and an estimated 10,000 more will be out of work by Friday.

The Oshawa plant has been hit by a shortage of parts from the United States, where key supplier Chrysler Corp. has been stricken.

The layoff comes despite agreement reached Wednesday between the company and the United Auto Workers Union (CLC) in the U.S. on a three - year contract.

The company spokesman said it will be a week before production at the Oshawa plant returns to normal. The unemployment insurance commission office here said it expects that by Wednesday to take care of workers registering for unemployment benefits.

AOTS Hears Review of Conference

The AOTS Men's Club of the Tabernacle United Church met for its first supper meeting of the season on September 19th in the church basement.

Attendance for this first meeting was considered low, due to the fact that many men have not yet returned to the city from their cottages, and who can blame them?

A wonderful turkey supper was served by the ladies of the W.A.

An inspiring devotional period was conducted by Bill Smith, followed by a minute's silence in honor of a departed member, Harry Taylor, who passed away earlier in the month. Art is greatly missed by all the men, of the church, for he was one of those people who always could be turned down an opportunity to do a favor to his church and the Men's Club.

Jack Pitts gave an account of his experiences at Geneva in Men's Conference in June, and to those who were unable to attend the conference, a most best thing well, to hear Jack's account of "Jack" on his trip.

Plans are being finalized for Laymen's Sunday when the Men's Club will take charge of the regular church service; also for the all-church bazaar to be held in December, and for an old-fashioned box social, possibly in November.

This is a growing club, where it is easy to make a friend, but difficult to lose one.

W. McInroy, G. Burkitt Win Farm Improvement Contest Sponsored by Plowing Body

Wallace McInroy of West Huntingdon and George Burkitt of R.R. 2 Frankford are the overall winners in Class 1 and 2 respectively of the Hastings County Farmstead Improvement Contest sponsored last spring by the local committee of the Ontario Plowmen's Association.

Seventy-five Hastings County farmers entered the contest. Class 1 was for farmstead planning to make improvements this year, while Class II was for farmsteads already attractive because of previous improvements and care through the years.

Purpose of the contest was to encourage farmers of the county to tidy up their homesteads, giving the owners more pride and in turn presenting a more pleasing picture. The contest was in charge of Miss Lucy of Ivanhoe as chairman of the farmstead improvement committee.

MANY ASSISTED

To encourage the farmers to participate, local Junior Farmers' Association initially sponsored the contest, however, so that the judging could be done on a township basis, the Junior Farmers' Association's area project was dropped.

Bancroft Police Release Three Belleville Men

Three young Belleville men, Rodney Shaver, Ronald Ward and C. McKenzie, arrested in Coe Hill yesterday following breakin at the David Wannamaker General Store, have been released from custody by Bancroft Provincial Police.

The local men were apprehended a short distance from the Wannamaker store early Wednesday morning after police were alerted that suspicious acting persons were in the area.

It was said there was nothing to connect the trio with the attempted break-in and they were allowed their freedom after being charged with drunkenness.

Teller on Survival

Alton Blakeslee, the distinguished science writer of the Associated Press, has presented in this newspaper the opinions of Dr. Edward Teller, father of the H-bomb, on survival in a nuclear war.

Teller believes that nine-tenths of America can could survive such a war, provided adequate preparations are made.

As an expert, Teller deserves to have his views heard. It is not so certain that he deserves to be believed. There are other scientists, with equally impressive credentials, who differ violently with him.

The layman is not qualified to judge between such experts, but in such a situation, if feasible, action ought to be based on Teller's predictions. At least the precautions he advises can do no harm, and might do inestimable good, in the event of a nuclear war.

The question is whether the measures which Teller advocates are feasible. They involve the diversion of a tremendous proportion of our resources to the provision of safeguards against a war which may never come. The beneficial results which he predicts from such precautions are almost certainly too optimistic — not in the realm of the saving of lives, regarding which the layman is not equipped to judge, but in his view that the material damage wrought by a nuclear war could be repaired in three or four years.

There is also to be considered the psychological effects of the provision of shelters and other precautions designed to save 90 per cent of the people. The possession of nuclear weapons of tremendous power is today not only a threat but also a deterrent to their use. If there were only one chance in ten of the war of annihilation, would not a prolonged period of Cold War create an almost irresistible urge to end the tension by taking the plunge?

Of one thing we can be certain; if either the U.S. or Russia embarks on a comprehensive program of shelters such as Dr. Teller advocates, the other will be faced with the alternative of copying its rival or starting the nuclear war right then. To permit its rival to create a situation in which it believed it was certain to survive a nuclear war, while its enemy was without any such protection, would be to invite destruction.

If both sides believe they could escape total destruction there would be no more reason to regard nuclear weapons as a deterrent to war than any other of the increasingly deadly means of destruction man has invented since the days when he fought with stones and clubs.

U.S. Considers Space Platform

The U.S. may revise its space exploration program.

Instead of endeavoring to catch up with the Russians by building more powerful rockets, it may try to reduce the power needed for trips to the moon and nearby planets.

This could be accomplished by building a space platform from which the space ships could be launched.

James E. Webb, head of the National Aeronautics and Space Council, recently told the National Press Club in Washington that this technique was under study.

Thus another dream-child of the cartoonist and science fiction writer may soon become a simple fact.

It is not so certain, though, that this will place the U.S. on an even footing with the Russians.

To assemble such an orbital platform, numerous rockets would have to be accurately fired, so that their payloads would float around the world in close proximity to one another. Men would also have to be placed in orbit to unload these rockets and place together the parts of the space station.

On the basis of past performances, the Russians are at least as capable of doing this as the Americans.

Possessing more powerful rockets, the Russians are not under the same pressing need as the U.S. of resorting to this technique. They could probably place a man on the moon without the use of such a platform.

But, in the very nature of things, there will arrive a day in space exploration when the distances it is desired to travel will be beyond the fuel-carrying capacity of available rockets. Since a space platform would accomplish one feat, by saving that amount needed to accelerate a rocket to orbital speed, such a platform will eventually be useful, if not essential.

There is nothing in the Russian record of space experiments which suggests that those in charge are so short-sighted as not to avail themselves of these advantages of a space platform at the earliest moment that the construction of such a station becomes feasible.

Role of MRA Hard to Judge

Washington Post

Theologically speaking, there was nothing new or radical about the teachings of Dr. Buchman which are now known as "Moral Rearmament."

The notion that society can be reformed and regenerated only be reform on the part of the individuals who constitute society is as ancient, at least, as St. Augustine.

Christians of any persuasion cannot find much quarrel with his definition of the regenerative virtues as being "purity, unselfishness and love," although some (including Paul) might be inclined to reverse the order in which he expounded them.

What Dr. Buchman's adversaries really disapproved most in his efforts was not any of all, his techniques of conversion; necessarily, his special appeal to the well-to-do classes and his avidity to flaunt endorsements of the high and mighty, by unquestioning in terms of absolutes and to inquire into the motives of those who disagreed; and finally the disposition, after such adulation, to set up disciples, to meddle in politics.

Dr. Buchman's experiences were at Oxford University in the 1930s. Thus Buchmanism became known as the "Oxford Movement," although it had very little relationship to the earlier movement associated with the names of Newman, Keble, Pusey and Hurrell Froude.

The usual apparatus of conversion was the "house party," commonly given by the most prominent member of a group at which, after a comfortable dinner, the guests were told about the fireside and confessed their sins.

Another device of Dr. Buchman's was the "quiet time," or that portion of the day in which the convert was to make himself receptive to the celestial instruction from the Almighty.

It is to Dr. Buchman's credit, of course, that he recognized early the menace of communism and its appeal to the wicked him almost to the embrace of another form of totalitarianism. He has been widely quoted as having said it was his hope to establish "a God-inspired fascist dictatorship, through the conversion of Adolf Hitler."

It was during one of Dr. Buchman's own "quiet times" that the term "Moral Rearmament" came to be, by what he half-jokingly called inspiration.

Yet with this revelation Buchmanism ceased to be a purely Christian movement. Today its membership includes among non-Christian people many Buddhists, Christian clerics who had once approved and welcomed it have long since withdrawn their support.

Even so, it has become a force to be reckoned with, especially in the Near East, Asia and Africa; but whether for good or ill, history must decide.

RICHES

"He is richest that has fewest wants," says an old proverb. In the truest sense of richest, this proverb is true. For to be rich is to be free from pressure for money, and to have the means to spend generously for those things which one considers important.

Some people who are rich to the income tax collector are not really rich at all. They have a great deal of money, but they worry about it all the time, lest they should lose some of it, or even last they should not make more fast enough. Their sense of their own position makes them live on a scale which even they can hardly afford. And so they find that despite their great income they have hardly enough money to get along, and never quite enough for the little extra things they often want.

We know another man who is truly rich on the small income of a college professor. For years he lived and died in a little house in an inexpensive neighborhood. His car is always old, and his clothes simple. Yet he has given many students a few hundred dollars to make the difference between their having college and graduating. The college library is indebted to him for some rare books. His friends always find him generous.

He is richest that has fewest wants." It's not what we have but what has us that counts.

Thief Saves Policeman

Windsor Star

That there is some good in the worst of us (along with some bad in the best of us) was illustrated by a recent occurrence in Detroit. The criminal, when being arrested, saved the police officer who was apprehending him from serious injuries.

The constable was arresting the culprit for theft. He stepped to step back on a glass portion of it collapsed. The thief did not run away. Rather he held onto the police. man's coat to prevent him falling through the glass roof.

It is true the culprit is likely to be dealt with more leniently because of this action. That, however, was not his reason for it. His instinctive reaction was to save a man from possible death, or at least serious injuries, even through this man was his captor.

Human actions so often are instinctive, despite all the advances of education and the learning disseminated in our modern civilization. And so often these instincts are decent and good.

Pen-Wipers Once Common

Windsor Star

An old-timer recently came upon an item in his desk drawer which once was commonplace but which he hadn't seen for years. It was a bunch of pen-wipers.

In the days before the fountain pens, when the writing implements consisted of wooden holders and metal nibs, the good penman was careful of them. He would wipe the nib after each using so it would not become corroded, impeding the free distribution of ink over his strokes.

These neat little bits of cloth could be purchased by the bunch. Flannel or other soft absorbent cloth was best. They would be kept in the desk along with the bottle of ink, the penholder and the packet of spare nibs.

These implements now may be curiosities. Yet it is a fact that penmanship in those days was generally much better than now. The pen-wiper was an essential adjunct of it.

Well OK, How Do You Reply To Hindu?

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I couldn't answer the Hindu. Maybe you can. Maybe you can make a better defence of so-called Western civilization than I could.

"Since travelling in the Christian world of the West," he said in dinner, "I have been appalled by my readings in the New Testament. How do you people interpret the words of Jesus?

"What do you mean?" I asked, afraid of what was coming.

"I mean," he said patiently, "how do you reconcile His plain doctrine of non-resistance with your guns and your police and your wars every few decades? Which Christian nation has ever turned the other cheek? Who among you are willing to return good for evil? How can people who share in the good news of His message continually kill one another, while both sides are praying to Him?"

I tried to explain, "after all, that's a doctrine of perfection, that Jesus preached. Ordinary men can't always live up to it."

"That I understand," he pointed out, "but it should be a goal — and I can only see that you go in the opposite direction. Gandhi was not a Christian, and yet it seems to me he practised the New Testament more than Westerners do."

"Perhaps Gandhi was a saint," I protested. "Surely the mass of Indian people are not better, or more Christian, than the rest of Westerners are."

"Perhaps not," he said. "All the same, I do not claim to have a special revelation from God, and I only try to read and strict that we follow the Prince of Peace, and then follow the rules He laid down."

"Not everybody agrees that Jesus was the Prince of Peace," I said. "some people point to his scourging the money-changers out of the temple."

"Ah, but there is a difference between anger and evil. You might a disobedient child out of love for him — and wantonly killing millions of innocent men and women and children, all in the name of God. You are commanded to love your neighbors — and today, in this shrunken world, your neighbors are all men of money. He is a collector of it.

"What had you in mind?" he asked the younger man.

"Well, I thought about a thousand a year," said my friend. "Business has been good. I've put in two years of good steady work that I feel has contributed to the business."

"Do you need a raise?" asked the older man. "Are you living within your income? You're not over your head, or anything?"

"Oh, no," said the younger man. "It's not that I need more money. I don't want it to keep. I just want it to spend."

The old man was so flabbergasted that he upped here five hundred, and compromised on fifteen hundred.

"That's what I'm after," he said, as he accompanied the younger man to his office door, "if someone will give me a dozen of mine when I was your age."

Some Children Are Destined To Be Naturally Tall

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

There are other endocrine glands which will help confirm the decision. Not being an endocrinologist, I would just as soon skip trying to describe a higher standard procedure which is outside my own experience. Let's hold it down to this: There are ways, not simple, but accurate, of determining which youngsters are destined to be tall naturally, and which are being influenced by some endocrine disturbance to be influenced unnaturally.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Lately I've noticed that my perspiration leaves a yellow stain although I use a deodorant at all times. Is this unusual? — B.J."

Not very common. It's called chromhidrosis.

The color (which may be yellow, blue or black) is due to an organism, certain bacteria or fungus that live ahead or upward. The upper lid on my eye is drooping a little and I'm exercising the eyes like mad. It's a bit painful, but worth checking. How don't jump to conclusions — this is not a diagnosis, but a suggestion.

"Well, I thought about a thousand a year," said my friend. "Business has been good. I've put in two years of good steady work that I feel has contributed to the business."

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

BRAVE WITHOUT FEAR

Life is mostly an accumulation of background. Without this the strongest heart would often stumble and fall.

I have always wondered at the moral and physical courage some men possess. I used to speculate as to where they got it. I have since learned that it comes mainly from a spiritual source. For I have come across people who had physical courage but who revealed at times weaknesses when a great life emergency arrived.

The fact is that as we grow in spiritual power we become more peaceful and what is left of fear is eliminated. Brave men have no fear of loss when a great idea or ideal is at stake. They stand ready to sacrifice everything for that honor.

This is one reason why so many of our national heroes have had to wait so long for mankind's acknowledgement of their real worth. The real test is to measure them by every-day standards of ordinary men, whereas extraordinary men have the capacity to understand a man who will give up friends, position, money, even life itself may win.

The petty things of character point out the eternal greatness of great truth and world love of the unselfish.

Were a man is spiritually brave all fear is eliminated. He has no enemies to defeat in time, but no man need give him pity. He is atmosphere in which he breathes is clear and clean.

By exercise a man gets more and more spiritual and he feels this newly acquired strength he obtains in the challenge. It is the same when a man acquires moral and spiritual courage. He welcomes battle when his courage is questioned. He fights transcendent truth and love with all of devotion.

Do the brave thing over and over again and fear will evaporate.

OAC Grads Shun Farms

Hamilton Spectator

It comes as something of a shock to learn that only three per cent of the graduates of the Ontario Agricultural College can be enticed into actual farming. It is more of a shock to find that only 40 per cent have entered government services.

We can accept the statement of President C. D. Maclachan that the first figure reflects only the change to large scale industrial farming in Canada. The decline in Canada's farm labor force from 1,136,000 in 1946 to 975,000 in 1961 and the corresponding drop in farm production. Observers in Canada as well as some of our overseas customers might be the first to question the figures. In fact, productivity on the farm over the period of 1946 to 1959 increased by 48 per cent compared with a 39 per cent increase for all industry.

We will also accept his contrast that many of those entering the government service will be serving agriculture. Some will be consulting agricultural research and in so doing increase productivity per man hour and cut still further the farm labor force. But a good many others are afraid, are swelling a huge bureaucracy of federal and provincial civil servants that now controls, regulates, subsidizes and supports farm prices. We wonder how long it will be at this rate before there are more civil servants in departments of agriculture than there are farmers on the farm.

Missile Bty. Demonstrates Launching of 'Honest John'

PICTON — The youngest unit in the Canadian Army gave an almost full scale demonstration of "Honest John" rocket launching at Camp Picton, Tuesday. The accepted version was that a rocket was not fired.

With a dozen high-ranking army officers, including Major-General J. M. Rockingham, and representatives of the press in attendance, members of the Surface-to-Surface Guided Weapons Missile Battery, RCA (methodically) fired two long-range artillery rockets in firing position. The "dry-run" demonstration illustrated the fact that men of the unit, in the brief training period of the Battery's existence, have become quite capable of handling this weapon, which can be armed with atomic or conventional warheads.

The First Field Battery celebrated its first birthday last Friday. Soon to proceed to Germany as part of Canada's NATO Brigade, the unit has a strength of more than 200, the men are mostly former anti-aircraft gunners and many received training with the "Honest John" at Fort Sill, Oklahoma.

The Battery is commanded by Major C. R. Davidson of Winnipeg. At present the unit has four self-propelled rocket launchers. The "Honest John" rocket, which is 26 feet high, has 1300 lb. warhead weight and is used tactically, to provide close fire support in ground combat operations.

Among the army officials present at the demonstration were Col. F. S. Todd, Commander Royal Regiment of Artillery; Brigadier A. J. B. Bailey, Commander Eastern Ontario Area; and Col. E. G. Brooks, Director of Artillery at Army Headquarters, Ottawa.

Masons Attend Divine Service At Frankford

FRANKFORD —The members of Franck Lodge No. 127 A.F. and A.M., wearing full regalia, worshipped in Frankford United Church on Sunday morning and Worshipful Brother Gilbert Gilmour, Master of the Lodge, took part in the service with the Minister. The Masons were reminded that the solid foundation of the craft of Masonry was established on a belief in God, the Bible and a future life.

The Minister quoted Dr. Harold Young, addressing 30,000 Masons at the Grand Lodge Centennial Anniversary in the Canadian National Exhibition, "Faith in God and belief in the brotherhood of man are the basic principles of Free-masonry." Most Worshipful Brother W. J. Dunlop, past Grandmaster of the Order declared, "Our Order is the Handmaid of the Church. For our own sake, for the safety of the next generation, for the welfare of the world, each Mason should do his share toward making effective the work of our churches". The Minister's sermon was an interpretation of the 12th. chapter of Ecclesiastes, which is over 3,000 years old and a landmark of Freemasonry.

Special music was arranged by Mrs. Jean Austin, choir director, and a number of Masons joined with the United Church Choir and led the congregation in enthusiastic and inspirational singing. The Church was filled to capacity. Next Sunday, Sept. 24th is anniversary Sunday in this church, with services at 11.15 and 7.30 and guest preachers Mrs. H. C. Burkholder, general secretary Ontario Council of Christian Education, Toronto.

Miss Patsy Hubble was soloist, and the choir, under the direction of Mrs. P. Hubble contributed a Rally Day anthem. Sonia Peck read the Scripture. During the service the minister, Rev. Charles R. Dept. Plane Capsizes on Lingham Lake TWEED (Special) — A Department of Lands and Forests aircraft capsized in a lake north of this village, throwing its four occupants into the water. No one was injured.

The aircraft, piloted by Doug Calvar, had landed in Lingham Lake, 17 miles north of here to pick up two forest rangers.

Taxi-ing for the takeoff one of the planes pontoons struck an underwater obstacle causing it to turn turtle.

Aboard heading Calver were radio operator William Lee, Deputy Chief Ranger L. Wright of Gilmour and Forest Ranger J. Yeomans.

The four men were thrown into the water. They clung to the plane for some time before being rescued unharmed.

Lee managed to radio another department plane for help. It arrived some two hours later.

An official of the Tweed headquarters of the department said this morning the plane had upset in twelve feet of the plane's pontoons struck calm and there was no wind.

Damage to the plane has not been estimated but it is believed that due to the weather and water conditions it will not be extensive.

Secretary-Treasurer Tells Of Work Involved in Plans To Make Good County Fair

By PHIL DODDS

PICTON — During the past few weeks, many have headed the call, "Come to the Fair." There is still a number of excellent fairs yet to be held . . . in fact they run through Thanksgiving Day . . . and even though you have attended one or more, we suggest you plan to attend others. As secretary - treasurer of Prince Edward County Fair at Picton, which opens Thursday and continues through Saturday, we have first-hand knowledge of the great amount of time and effort which go into the staging of these events . . . time, expense and effort few fairgoers realize.

In fact, preparations start in January, when at the annual convention in Toronto, there is opportunity to secure a midway and special entertainment.

Then in the spring, there is the preparation of prize lists, and the collecting of special prizes which are generously donated by merchants and firms. These are a real help in the Society in making lists sufficiently attractive to secure exhibitors.

Then prize lists are mailed to prospective exhibitors and then they send in their lists of exhibits, a tag for each must be made out in the case of Picton, some 7,000 tags are used.

Judges must be secured, spaces sold for commercial exhibits, advertising prepared for press and radio, labor engaged for ticket selling and other work on Fair days, sheets prepared for judges.

While the secretary is giving the fair his main building of carrying out a multitude of tasks, he still must direct these.

BUILD POINT BARN

Picton fair grounds has been busy building up improvements at weeks, just preparing places to put the exhibits and improvements to the grounds generally. A good instance of co-operative effort has been the building of a pony barn at a cost of $300. Used materials were used and it is valued at $4,000. The horsemen undertook this project which will serve the purpose of how or not with 100 or more horses.

Others have been riding grandstars and tractors preparing the track for Saturday's horse races and the parking facilities. Mowers and scythes have removed the tall grass.

Evenings have seen paint brushes being wielded everywhere. Those are a real help in the Society in making lists sufficiently attractive to secure exhibitors.

Pioneers Seek Early History Of Telephone

As part of their 80th anniversary celebration, the Telephone Pioneers are attempting to gather as much information as possible about the early history of telephones in various communities.

Many details are already known, but there are many more people have already contributed to this fund of knowledge, however, the Pioneers are aware that much valuable history has been lost and are most anxious to hear of it. It would be very useful to know who were responsible for building the early telephone lines in a community, also how they started and got their system built. Some of this information may be remembered by first hand, perhaps it will be known to descendents of those responsible for organizing the first telephone systems.

It could well be that old telephones and other items of equipment are lying about, of which the Pioneers collections of early equipment are most acceptable and contribute to the history and interest of the first systems operated. Old telephones and other telegraphy are very desirable, and if the owner does not wish to part with them, they will be preserved and the original returned.

The Pioneers would very much like to hear stories of anything unusual that happened or events such as the following in which imaginary names have been used.

—Jim Parks farmed a few miles out of Belleville and had two great interests, listening to others talking on the rural telephone line and playing Junior "A" sparking horse. The last was a fine animal and probably justified Jim's belief that it was the fastest bit of horseflesh in the community. The habit of overhearing telephone conversations was a source of annoyance to Jim's neighbors and two of them decided to catch him at it. They waited until they figured Jim was listening, and the one remarked: "I was coming home across the line from Milltown today and caught up with Jim Parks. He thought he would have one of his self-span

Christ Church W.A. Plans Fall Bazaar

On Monday evening members of the Evening Branch of the Women's Auxiliary met in the Parish Hall for their first business meeting of the fall season.

The meeting was opened with a short devotional period, conducted by the president, Mrs. L. Donnely, assisted by Mrs. H. Stevens with Mrs. S. Beggs as pianist.

The correspondence was read by the secretary, Mrs. T. Burton, and the treasurer's report was given by Mrs. F. Goodfellow, and convenors of the various committees gave their reports. The possibility of holding a rummage sale later in September was discussed.

Two new members, Mrs. R. MacInnis and Mrs. F. Ingraham were introduced and welcomed to the W.A.

Plans for the fall bazaar were then discussed, and the bazaar will be held in November. Convenors for this occasion are: Mrs. J. Ling and Mrs. A. Summers.

After the meeting closed, refreshments were served by Mrs. A. Bongard and Mrs. A. Summers.

TEA HOLDS OWN

LONDON (CP)—People in the United Kingdom are drinking three times as much coffee as they did before the Second World War, says the board of trade. But the tea pot still is holding its own and there seems a little danger of coffee becoming the national drink.

Women Teachers Do Not Want to be Principals

VANCOUVER (CP)—School board chairman William Burnett says women school teachers don't want to become principals because they like a man to be the boss.

The Vancouver school board chief said in an interview:

"The school board has listed all kinds of top positions in elementary and secondary schools, but we just can't get women to apply for them.

"I don't think women want to undertake the responsibility of a principal's job.

"They are much happier working under the direction of a man."

Vancouver school trustees—four of them are women—are continually puzzled by the lack of applications from women for principal's jobs, he said.

"I think another reason is that women with the qualifications for principalship are getting well paid now and are quite happy with their present jobs.

"They also like to be free to travel for two months in the summer. A principal is pretty well tied down to his school even during the holidays."

Trustee Mrs. Jean Crowley, a former board chairman, says she thinks women may be deterred from trying for principals' jobs because they feel they wouldn't have a chance competing against men.

"This isn't the case at all, we would welcome applications from women."

Mrs. Crowley said quite a few women teachers are heads of departments in secondary schools. "I feel this is a good indication of their ability."

WOMEN PLAY RUGGER

LEEDS, England (CP)—Girls from Ripper, Yorkshire, have invaded a stronghold of manly sport — Rugger. They have formed an all-woman team for a charity exhibition game. Chief problem is that there isn't another girls' rugger team in the country.

V.O.N. Gives Report, Plans United Appeal

The fall meetings for the Victorian Order of Nurses began Monday night at the YMCA, with Mr. John Lennox presiding. Miss L. Burnside read the minutes of the June meeting, followed by the treasurer's report read by Mr. A. Gignac.

Everyone was urged to visit the VON office with its new seat of paint and furniture. Mrs. J. Wallace asked for permission to order six mobiles for the purpose of advertising the local VON. Permission was granted and they are to be obtained from head office.

VON NEWS

The VON News, the publication to replace the Quarterly, will be issued in December. Comments on this are to be sent in to head office following its distribution. Mrs. Lennox received to order 12 copies of this booklet.

Mr. A. Gignac was asked to enquire into the possibility of receiving a discount for the meals utilized by the relief nurse. The advantage of renting a car was also discussed.

In a letter from Mr. E. Davis, chairman of the United Appeal, he stated that instead of using time and energy in reorganizing the canvassers, agency board members would be asked to canvass. This year there will be a canvass night blitz, on October 30. The members of the board were requested to obtain three canvassers for the West Hill by October 30. Mr. Davis also said the United Appeal must have the support of the organizations.

NURSE'S REPORT

Miss D. Connor gave the nurse's report which showed that during June, July and August a total of 161 patients were cared for by the VON. The nurses made 1,375 home visits for nursing care and health teaching in the home, in comparing a summary of VON statistics for June, July and August this year to the same period a year ago, there has been an increase in service to patients in the home and regions and a small decrease in service to mothers and babies.

Miss Connor said in summer, the Child Health Conferences at the Kiwanis Centre, which are conducted under the Belleville Department of Health, continued on Tuesday and third Fridays of the month. During June, two visits each week were made by the Hamilton-Cootsville School and Douglas Akins clinics.

Miss Mary Lou McArthur, a graduate of the Toronto West-ern Hospital, Toronto, is completing her B.N. Sc. degree at Queen's University this year, is spending the month of September with the Belleville and District Chapter of the Victorian Order of Nurses.

Mother's Helper

A VARIATION on that good old peanut bread—for a girls' party—is to bake many kinds instead of one. Give each guest a small paper bag in which to put the loaves as she finds them, and give a prize to the one who can make the largest necklace when the feast is over. Seeds also serve as favors, and you'll want one or two on hand to add to short rations.

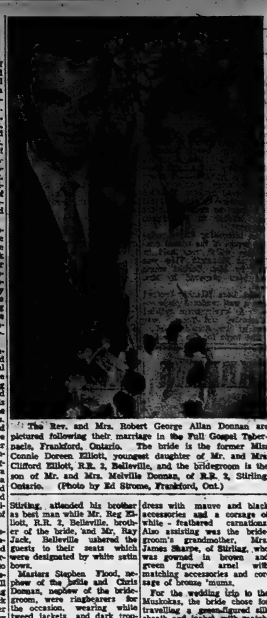
DONNAN - ELLIOTT

FRANKFORD — Baskets of pink and white gladioli adorned the altar of the Full Gospel Tabernacle, Frankford, where a lovely double-ring wedding ceremony was solemnized at 3 p.m. on Saturday, September 2, 1961, when Connie Doreen Elliott, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Elliott, R.R. 2, Belleville, became the bride of Rev. Robert George Allan Donnan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Malville Donnan, R.R. 2, Stirling. The Rev. Mac Wilson of Elmira, Ontario, brother-in-law of the bride, officiated at the ceremony, assisted by the Rev. Fred Sperling of Frankford.

Mr. Mervin Saunders of Prescott, Ontario, presided at the organ and accompanied the soloist, Miss Bessie Sarenchuk of Toronto, who sang "Perfect Love Is Then" before the ceremony, and "Together With Jesus We'll Pathway That Tread" during the signing of the register and also "A Wedding Prayer" as the bride and the bridegroom knelt on a white satin cushion during the last prayer of dedication.



Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant and lovely in her full-length bridal gown of white Chantilly lace and net over satin, featuring a scalloped neckline and fitted bodice trimmed with seed pearls and crystallized sequins with the long sleeves ending in lily-points. The skirt featured front and back panels of Chantilly lace and net, trimmed with lace. Her shoulder-length tulle veil, accented by embroidered white edging, was held in place by a halo of rhinestones. She carried a heart-shaped bouquet of red and white Sweetheart roses, centered by a white leather-bound Amplified New Testament, gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Douglas Flood of Belleville attended her sister as matron of honor. She was gowned in mauve peau de soie featuring a boat neckline tapered to a "V" in the back with three-quarter-length sleeves and full skirt. A cummerbund flowing into a large bow in the back complemented her gown. Her headdress was a band topped by large bow of matching peau de soie.

Miss Doris Donnan, Reg. N., of Hay River, N.W.T., sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Gordon Smith, of Frankford, a friend of the bride, were bridesmaids. They wore similar gowns to that of the matron of honor in mint-green peau de soie and matching headdresses. All carried fan-shaped bouquets of pink feathered carnations, minidaisy with fandem. The bride's gifts to her attendants were single strands of crystal beads, which completed their ensembles.

Little Misses Sharon Elliott and Mary Lou Sine, nieces of the bride, were flowergirls. They were gowned in white flocked nylon with a cummerbund flowing into a large bow in the back of mint green peau de soie, the same as the bridesmaids' dresses.

The bride's mother received the guests, wearing a dusty-rose lace sheath and jacket with navy accessories and a corsage of white and tinted blue feathered carnations. Assisting her in the receiving line was the mother of the bridegroom, gowned in a mauve figured

Stirling, attended his brother as best man while Mr. Reg Elliot, R.R. 2, Belleville, brother of the bride, and Mr. Ray Jack, Belleville ushered the guests to their seats which were sprinkled by white satin bows.

Masters Stephen Flood, nephew of the bride and Chris Donnan, nephew of the bridegroom, were ringbearers for the occasion, wearing white tweed jackets and dark trousers, and carrying the satin white satin pillows, bearing the rings in the altar.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Masonic Temple, Frankford, for approximately 100 guests. The bridal table was attractively appointed with white linen damask cloth, centred by a three-tier wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom beneath an half-arch of flowers and wedding bell. Pink and white candles, along with the bridal bouquets completed this lovely nuptial picture.

Misses Marlene Wilson and Carol Sine, nieces of the bride were waitresses at the bridal table, wearing white nylon with cummerbund flowing into a large bow in the back of mint green peau de soie, the same as the bridesmaids' dresses.

The bride's mother received the guests, wearing a dusty-rose lace sheath and jacket with navy accessories and a corsage of white and tinted blue feathered carnations. Assisting her in the receiving line was the mother of the bridegroom, gowned in a mauve figured dress with mauve and black accessories and a corsage of white - feathered carnations. Miss Alan assisting was the bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. James Sharpe, of Stirling, who was gowned in a navy lace over-green figured ariel with matching accessories and corsage of bronze mums.

For the wedding trip to the Muskokas, the bride chose for travelling a three-piece silk sheath and jacket, with matching three-piece accessories and having tweed accessories with a corsage of bronze mums.

Guests from out-of-town were from Belleville; Stirling; Keene; Renfrew; Elmira; Gaspe; Paris; Castleton; Adolphustown; Peterborough and Hay River, N.W.T.

The happy couple will be residing at 12 Elizabeth Street, Stirling, where the bridegroom is a pastor of the Pentecostal Church.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was the honored guest at a linen shower held at the home of Mrs. Gerald Curry in Frankford and a miscellaneous shower in the home of Mrs. Gordon Smith, with Mrs. Keith Helm as co-hostess. Also a kitchen shower was given by the lady co-workers of the Children's Aid Society, Belleville.

The Experts Say

Housewife Gives Hints Buying Vacuum Cleaner

By JANET WILSON

MONTREAL (CP) — Buying a vacuum cleaner can be a bewildering experience but, it isn't necessary to go into it blind.

Jane Wachenfeld, a graduate of Ohio University in home management and equipment, has sorted and conveniently tagged all the types available.

Her study, published in the Canadian Association of Consumers bulletin, was the result of research she did during her three years in the kitchen planning department of the Ohio Fuel and Gas Company.

And she has had practical experience as a homemaker since her marriage to Ben Warkentin, Vancouver, now assistant professor of physics at Macdonald College near Montreal. The couple have one young son and a home with lots of cleaning surface.

First, she says, there are four types of vacuum cleaners—cylindrical tank, round or rectangular canisters, uprights and small hand cleaners.

CORT LIKE TANK

The hand models are comparatively inexpensive and good for cleaning stairways and car interiors.

"In general, the tanks and canisters are substantially better for cleaning hard floor surfaces, drapes, upholstered furniture and basecards, which is half the cleaning job in many households.

But if the largest cleaning areas are rug-surfaced, "the upright with a rug color-selectivity faster than the tank and canister models."

Among features Mrs. Warkentin advises prospective buyers to look for are a guide of the rug nozzle. It should be low enough to go under furniture; it should not have sharp edges that mar furniture, and brushes should be adjustable to suit a rug of rug pile.

In the tank and canister types, a revolving brush does not guarantee superior rug - cleaning. It may cause pickup of surface litter but not deeply embedded dirt.

SPILL-PROOF BAG

Simple lock-together assembly of both these types should be found in small, of the models, conveniability and ease in carrying.

Other features to check for: a small-mouthed dust bag that doesn't spill easily; a stay-on reach switch, a power cord 15 to 20 feet long and a single stream air exhaust to avoid blowing dust about.

"It is not necessary to buy the highest priced cleaner in order to get the best one. The net price of cleaners is relatively fictitious . . . and with careful shopping one can find a variation in price for the same brand of model.

"Discounts may range from 10 to 25 per cent from store to store. If you buy a mail order brand or one sold at your door, a discount is not customary."

Women's Activities

FRONT ROAD W. A.

The monthly meeting of Front Road United Church W.A. was held at the home of Mrs. Giddes Bradshaw.

The president, Mrs. Clifford Reid, opened the meeting by reading a poem.

Mrs. Reid thanked Mrs. Bradshaw for opening her home and welcomed the members.

There were 12 ladies and one child present.

The devotional was in charge of Mrs. Clinton Brown, who opened by reading "The Things That Count".

Mrs. Hugh McMullen read Matthew 6:24 "No man can serve two masters". The theme centred around opposing forces in Christianity is materialism; man becomes the slave to money — possessions—when these take first place there is little room for God. Jesus saw this so clearly, and He warned of the danger. Therefore, let us come before Almighty God, ask Him to make clear our hearts, giving Him first place in our hearts and minds. Let us place Him upon the "throne" serving Him single-mindedness and gladness. Let us say with Joshua: "As for me and my house, we will serve the Lord."

Mrs. Roy Clarke, the "First Womans' Auxiliary" by Lois Bradshaw, "A Housewife's Prayer," by Mrs. Roy Clarke. An interesting reading "What Happens to God During the Summer" was given by Mrs. Brown who closed by reading a poem, "I Am Your Church".

Business session followed; letters were read; plans were made for the bazaar which is to be held in October.

Mrs. Ray Jack gave an interesting reading.

Mrs. Bradshaw served dainty refreshments.

Next meeting will be held October 12th at Mrs. Ernest Preston's.

SHARE PROBLEMS

WINNIPEG (CP) — Farm problems are not solely a men's domain, said a woman delegate to the recent National Farmers' Union convention here. "Economic problems of our livelihood are just as important to women as men," said Mrs. R. J. Allen of Glenella, Man., president of the women's branch of the Manitoba section.

Question — My mother-in-law made a critical remark recently to the effect that water glasses on the dinner table should be filled after everyone's seated and not before, which is my custom. It's trivial, but it nettled. Is my system so oafish? — Mrs A. P. Wilmington, Del.

Answer — When maids were in fashion, it was the custom to fill glasses as soon as everyone sat down. In do-it-yourself households, it's a chore that's easier done in advance. No need to apologize.

In-Laws Rule Roost!

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—My husband and I have two boys and we are a happy family except for the interference of my husband's parents. He's their only child and their only interest in life, and since our marriage they have clashed with him terribly.

My father-in-law's shouting is uncouth and sometimes deafening; when I asked him and my mother-in-law not to argue with Bob and about in my home, her answer was "This isn't your home. Plus it's Bob's home."

One night my husband was late coming home from the office when my father-in-law was visiting us and his father yelled and screamed at him, saying his son was trying to avoid him. They even resent him having friends of his own.

My children are scared of the shouting and the quarrels upset my husband and me. Could I suggest they cut down their visits to once in two weeks? Now they visit twice a week.

Do I have any right to say anything, or is it just my husband's privilege?—JUST FLO.

DEAR JUST FLO:—You have every right; but to your in-laws you are an interloper, still.

Such actions about the need for more things for senior members of the family to do. Bowling clubs, church groups, volunteer help in hospitals, writing memoirs, collecting coins; any of these can open up a new world of interest. Your overbearing, uncontrolled parents-in-law would do well to find something for some new fun; something just as self-indulgent but more constructive than the rages which terrify small boys.

Help your husband stand up to them. Take a stand and don't let nonsense about "home" and "who is put you off. You fear to hurt them, but childish behaviour calls for discipline and you and your husband are joint bosses.

DEAR DORIS:—I am a girl 14 years old. I have a terrible problem. I am very self-conscious and no matter how my girl friends tell me I'm okay I keep running myself down. I have quite a number of friends and am not bad looking.

Everybody seems to like me but while all my girl friends are dating, I just sit at home. Please tell me how to overcome my feeling sorry for myself and my self-consciousness. —SELF-CONSCIOUS.

DEAR SELF-CONSCIOUS:— The way to stop thinking about yourself is to start thinking about something else.

Is there something you do well? Play the piano, make a cake, dance, draw pictures? When you find your own strong point you can lose yourself in developing it. Then you can entertain your friends with it.

If it's cooking, have a party and serve your best dessert. If it's music, start a sing 'song. If you are at your best at an outdoor fire, have a wiener roast. Get your best friend to help you.

Meanwhile acquire the habit of thinking about the other person—boy or girl. No one at fourteen or fifteen is as comfortable as he looks, so reach out with a helping hand. Someone will grasp it with thanks—and you'll have a new friend!

DEAR DORIS:—I am going steady with a most wonderful boy. I know he likes me because my sister says that he looks at me with adoration. But when boys I used to associate with give me a friendly call on the telephone he gets moody. Please tell me if I'm doing something wrong. When he talks to other girls on the street, I'm not jealous.

Now we are going to the same college. Should he walk me home every day? He is close to the college and I am five blocks further away. If he takes me out at night and we come home by bus, should he pay my fare? Should he get off at his place or go all the way with me and come back?—BOTHERED.

DEAR BOTHERED:—How can he help it if he wants you all to himself? There seem to be degrees of going steady. Could you come to some agreement about when and if either one of you should speak to a member of the opposite sex?

He has no call to escort you home from college daily. When he takes you out for the evening he pays your way on the bus, to the show or dance or dinner or whatever. On such occasions he most certainly takes you all the way home and sees you inside your own door before he takes himself home.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Mrs. G. W. — Does it pay to have a daughter?

Natalie A. — She never acted like a mother.

Mrs. G. W. — I am an 39-year-old widow in fair health. I live alone and aided by a paid companion. My problem is that my daughter, who is 35 and also widowed, never comes to see me although she lives but a few blocks away. The embarrassment of it all in front of the neighbors adds to my sorrow at being treated this way.

It's true I never seemed able to hit it off right with Natalie. She was convinced I favored her brothers. She blames me for all her disappointments, and is very bitter.

When her husband died three years ago, all I said was "Poor Henry! He had a hard life." She took that as an insult, stormed out of my apartment and told me to forget I ever had a daughter. She has never returned.

Natalie F. — I don't feel I ever had a real mother; none one to take my side, and to depend on when I was in trouble or down in the dumps.

She always liked to brag and there wasn't much to brag about with me. It was her sons who were good-looking, brilliant, successful. The only smiles I've ever remember getting from her were when I told about my age and went out and got a hard job, and when I got Henry to propose to me. That meant she was glad I wouldn't be a burden to her.

I see other mothers and daughters. There's a real closeness. It takes two. But she can't see me for dust. Why should I take any more of her sarcasm, criticism and digs? She's sorry for my late husband for marrying me. It so happens we had a very happy marriage.

The Council — Natalie seems frozen into an unchangeable emotional mold where her mother is concerned. If it was a case an excess of self-pity, she is more than a bit sorry for mother for the cause of anything that displeases her. And now when you might expect her to have mellowed a bit, she's rigid about "getting even." In punishing her mother, what is Natalie achieving? A small gloating, yes, but at what price? At the cost of precious years during which two foolish ladies could begin to act sensibly toward each other. Mrs. W. seems eager to try. But Natalie wants to sulk.

Granted that Mrs. W. made mistakes. Let's agree that she may have been blind to the desperate needs of an unattractive little girl. She did little to warm the cockles of a child's frightened heart. Yet, even worms mothers have been forgiven in their old age, and received elemental kindness from a child they cared for, however inadequately.

It's time now for Natalie to stop blaming her mother for past grievances, "dies" and to use the shrinking future for understanding her and getting reacquainted. She should be able to see the older woman as just another human being with her own ration of good, as well as bad, qualities. Each is, in a sense, a victim of forces beyond control. But each still has small power to change what is ugly in her life.

Natalie's power is the greatest there's little Mrs. W. can do at this point. Whatever she might say to her daughter — even "How do you do" — could be twisted, turned and colored emotionally as fuel for an argument. As long as Natalie seeks reasons to be angry, this sad impasse will remain.

We urge Natalie, to resume her visits. Talk can be impersonal. She can help with some mending or read a magazine story to her mother. But a needless barrier will be transcended.

"BELLEVILLE'S LEADING INDEPENDENT GROCER"

79 Year-Old Lady Attends Reid Reunion

On Sunday the Orange Hall at St. Ola saw a double family reunion, celebrating the climax of a week's visit by Mrs. George Reid of Birch River, Man., Don Campbell and Beatrice, her daughter, of Flin Flon, Man.

Mrs. Reid is the former Mary Carrol, daughter of the late Bert and Mary Carrol of Mesqua.

The Carrols came from St. Catharines, Broomfield, Bellville and surrounding territory. The Reids were from Hamilton, Wellington, Trenton, Belleville and sundry areas.

Mrs. Reid arrived in Coe Hill on September 9 at noon, after a 48-year absence. A week did not give her enough time to visit half a fraction of the relatives she found here on her return. Mrs. Charity Reid and family of Coe Hill, have hosted her sister during her short stay. They managed about four visits a day to brothers and sisters, brothers- and sisters-in-law, and nieces and nephews.

Ninety-six relatives sat down to well-laden tables and a happy spirit prevailed the hall to pay tribute to this 79-year-old young lady who had travelled so far to see everyone.

All wish them "God speed" on their return journey to the west.

Those attending from Belleville were Mrs. Joy Sharp, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Yakeman, who were married the preceding day; Mr. and Mrs. James Sharpe; the complete family of the late Eric Reid of Foxboro; Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert VanAllan and family, Mrs. Emma Reid, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Reid, Arthur Reid and his daughter, Helen, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lusk and family.

Vacation Cottage Built By Sisters of Order

MOOSE JAW, Sask. (CP)—A 20-room vacation cottage has been built by the Western Canadian province of Sisters of St. Louis on Buffalo Pound Lake, 25 miles north of here.

The two - storey structure, built for $15,000 to $20,000 with money contributed by sisters of the Roman Catholic order, will house up to 40 to 30 nuns at a time.

Sister Anne, superior of St. Louis College here, was in charge of the project and pitched in with the work herself. The order has 75 sisters in British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan who will use the cottage.

"The lake was chosen as it is the most central for the majority of us," said Sister Anne. "We believe it is the first house of its kind in Western Canada."

The two floors are almost identical, with large living rooms, dining room, kitchen and bedrooms. The lower floor has a combination living room-chapel with a cement patio for outdoor services.

Panelling is hardboard, knotty pine and redwood and the downstairs living room has a solid stone fireplace.

Teamwork Necessary to Attack Arthritis Successfully, States Director of Social Work

"Teamwork is the key to the successful attack on arthritis," So stated Miss Winnifred Heritage, director of Social Work, Ontario Division, as she addressed the Quinte Branch of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, yesterday afternoon in Bridgewater Hall, Nurses' Residence, Belleville General Hospital.

Prior to the meeting slides were shown depicting various arthritic patients, their conditions and the successful effects of physiotherapy.

Mrs. J. A. Jarvis, president of the society, spoke briefly and warmly welcomed all those present, after which Mrs. J. A. Layton introduced the speaker.

CONGRATULATES W.A.

Miss Herington expressed her pleasure at being in this district and congratulated the Women's Auxiliary for its fine accomplishments in this area. She discussed the teamwork involved in dealing with the chronically all patients with particular reference to the role of the volunteer in the Society's program, and dealt in particular with the reasons for organizing C.A.R.S. and stated that three per cent of the population of Ontario are with some evidence of rheumatism or arthritis and this in itself proved the great need for those interested to help these people.

C.A.R.S. was organized in 1948 with four particular functions—to help in research for the many types of arthritis; to develop researchers and to finance their endeavors; to inform the general public in regards to these diseases, and also to provide the best possible treatment to patients, either through mobile therapy or patient care services.

MOVIE SHOWN

A movie was shown entitled "Never Surrender" which clearly illustrated these four functions. It also showed the different age groups that are stricken and that, along with physiotherapy, there are three treatments necessary — rest, heat and proper exercise. Distressed hobbies such as knitting, basket and rug weaving, are most important in the rehabilitation program and the volunteer social worker can do much for the morale of a patient, so that now with the aid of cars —hope and encouragement have taken the place of apathy and superstition.

The speaker went on to explain the social worker's help in a patient's personal problems and stated that the social contacts of these patients are very limited,—a great deal of patience is needed so that they will not feel that they are a burden. Miss Herrington concluded her talk by saying, "C.A.R.S. can only do so much for you and your neighbor as you in the community will help it to do."

PICTON PHYSIOTHERAPY DEPT.

Miss B. Dracup, physiotherapist from the Kingston district, spoke briefly, enlarging upon the film previously shown and also reported that the Picton Hospital has now acquired a physiotherapy department, similar to that in Belleville, but does need some assistance in providing equipment.

She explained that the therapist provides the physical means of overcoming problems, but with the help of the volunteer worker, social problems can also be overcome. These patients are referred to the society by the family doctor or interested volunteers.

APPRECIATION EXPRESSED

Miss Hilda Collier expressed sincere appreciation on behalf of the members of the Quinte Branch to Miss Herington for her most informative talk and also mentioned that anyone who might care to volunteer their services for such a worthwhile cause, could contact Mrs. D. A. McKinney or Mrs. E. Bradshaw, who also receives memberships at the door.

Mrs. Enos Davis and Miss G. MacDonald, received the guests and following the meeting, refreshments were served by Mrs. G.E. Warnboldt and her committee.

C.W.L. Plans Fall Bazaar, Rummage Sale

DESERONTO — The Catholic Women's League held its first meeting of the fall season at the home of Mrs. M. Wilkowski. There was a good attendance.

A discussion took place on the plans for the fall bazaar and for a rummage sale which will be held in the near future.

After the meeting closed refreshments were served by the hostess and a social half hour was enjoyed by the members.

Hastings Co. W.A. Visits Home for Aged

Mrs. M. McLean presided for the September meeting of the Home for the Aged W.A. on Monday with 18 members present.

Reports were given by the convenors of each committee.

Mrs. Day, corresponding secretary, had sent 19 birthday cards to the residents for August and September. Mrs. E. Ray, visiting convener, reported calls to the Home during the two summer months.

There was some discussion about the bazaar to be held in October with Mrs. C. Holmes appointed as convener for the tea room; Mrs. W. Watson for the elephant table and Mrs. R. Wallbridge for homecooking and candy. Anyone wishing to donate toward these tables could leave same at the Home or call conveners.

After the meeting adjourned, everyone went to the dining room to join 14 residents for the usual birthday party.

Mrs. A. Daniels, pianist, led in singing favorite selections. Mr. Joseph Dontator, 91, cut the beautiful cake and Mrs. M. Boyd and Mrs. Hilchon poured tea while the ladies served cake and fancy cookies.

Women's Institutes

CHATTERTON W.I.

The September meeting of the Chatterton W.I was held at the church hall, with Mrs. Lorne Reid, president, in the chair, and 16 members and six visitors present.

Mrs. Doug Prest entertained with two vocal numbers, accompanying herself on the guitar, and Mrs Cy Gardner led the group in a sing-song.

Mrs. Irven read a poem relating the "joy" of a summer cottage where the kids go swimming and the husband goes fishing, while mother has the same routine, only more so.

Mrs. Gardner gave a report on the October meeting, stating that she had written invitations to all the W.I.s in the district, all the 4-H Clubs and several other groups and individuals in the area who might be interested. It is to be hoped that the members will advertise the event to their friends and acquaintances.

Mrs. Reid closed the meeting with the benediction and the ladies served a lovely lunch, and enjoyed several contests.

The prizes were won by Mrs. Tanner, a guest from Pine Grove, for the best drawing, and Mrs. Barlow guessed the names of radio and TV spoonors, while Mrs. Lorne Reid, in spite of her hay fever, was able to name the most mystery spices.

Everyone was disappointed that Miss Gay was unable to attend.

— ST. MARK'S W.S.

DESERONTO — St. Mark's Evening Guild held its September meeting in the parish hall on September 11th.

The president welcomed Mrs. Soutter and introduced her to the meeting. The Reverend J. Soutter was appointed to the parish of St. Mark's as of September 1st.

The next meeting will be held on October 16th with Mrs. William Jackson and Mrs. Alex Miller as hostesses.

Following the meeting a delicious lunch was served by Mrs. Reg Cork and Mrs. Walter Joyce.

SYMBOL OF QUALITY — The Rolls-Royce Silver Ghost, a 48-horsepower automobile, made its debut at the Paris Salon in 1906 and was an immediate hit. To this day the R-R insignia remains a symbol of British quality and craftsmanship.

Rolls-Royce Car Remains Unchanging Quality Symbol In World of Mass Production

By CAROL KENNEDY

LONDON (CP)—Britannia no longer rules the waves but one of her products still is monarch of the roads.

No matter how ancient the model behind it, from Royal Tangham to Bangkok the aristocratic square-cut radiator of the Rolls-Royce car commands a unique respect.

In a world of mass production, if remains an unchanging symbol of quality and craftsmanship, a never-changing more than half a century as simply "The Best Car in the World."

At a rallying point of national pride, the Rolls probably ranks second only to the Royal Family. Last April when a rumor, later denied, struck the land that a budget clause restricting tax-free expenses on company cars might drive the £8,000 Rolls out of existence, newspapers of left and right protested.

In the stridently plebian Daily Mirror, William Connor wrote in his Cassandra column: "The disappearance of the Rolls-Royce is akin to abolishing the Monarch or turning Salisbury Cathedral into a supermarket."

STARTED IN 1904

The Rolls - Royce mystique was born in 1904 when Charles Rolls, a 27-year-old mass-about-town and amateur balloonist was killed in die in one of the earliest air accidents, confided to a railway - carriage companion: "I've bought me a toy and have his name associated with a motor." "Like Diamond Jim with pianos or Chubb with safes."

But the time he was on his way to Manchester to join his partner, the wiry mechanical genius with the engineering talent of Henry Royce, the dour, bearded son of a Lincolnshire miller who had just turned from making generators to automobiles. Spurred by exasperation with a noisy, temperamental French machine, Royce he had bought, Royce determined to build an engine that would run as noiselessly as a sewing machine or a Swiss watch and still be the most powerful the world had yet seen.

When the 48 h.p. Silver Ghost made its debut at the Paris Salon of 1906, the magazine Autocar exclaimed: "There is no realization of driving propulsion—the feeling is one of being motor - boating in the air."

SOUND OF CLOCK

It was an astonishing assertion for the period and still it Rolls ... Royce's biggest selling point.

A few years ago an advertisement in the United States proudly announced: "At 60 m.p.h. the loudest noise in the new Rolls-Royce comes from the electric clock." Instantly the story went round that at 60 Rolls-Royce owners were saying worriedly: "We must do something about that damn clock."

Royce was a hard-driving perfectionist whose personal slogan was "whatever is rightly done, however humble, is noble." When he died in 1933 even the cars went into mourning. From that day the R-R radiator on the radiator has been black instead of red.

He left behind a legend of mechanical perfection and custap service that soon produced a host of dinner-table stories. Best known is the one about the motorist stranded in Spain with a broken rear axle.

CAN'T HAPPEN

He cabled the factory. Within hours a plane landed with two mechanics and a new axle. They repaired the car and left. Months later, when no account appeared, the puzzled owner wrote to Rolls-Royce.

"Dear Sir," came back the dignified reply. "We are unable to understand your letter. Our axles never break."

Only 45,000 cars have been made by the company since it began. They had been bought by Indian princes, the Nizam of Hyderabad has 50; the wife of Egypt's King Farouk ordered one pailed to match her still polish. The last Czar of Russia and his Communist successor, Lenin, were Rolls owners.

Today customers come from a wider social scale than before the war. And for the difficult ones there is the Bentley, identical in design except for the shape of the grill.

Bodies now are largely made to standardize designs, though the hand-work is detailed as ever—14 layers of paint.

Park Ward, the family-run coachbuilders in north London, still make an occasional special-order model such as the Queen's limousine with its transparent plastic top. They get a kick out of such challenges; out of installing wine coolers and television sets, tailoring a seat to the driver's physique or matching a color scheme to his favorite pullover.

In 1939 there were 30 celebrated names of coachbuilders for Rolls - Royce and Bentley bodies. Today there are only three.

But whether coachbuilt of factory made, one thing still defies automation. The famous radiator in the shape of a Greek temple can't be made by machine. To appear that it is, it must be microscopically curved, and every one is painstakingly beaten out by hand.

The two plants will use natural uranium as a fuel and heavy water as moderator to make the chain-reaction process possible and also to transfer heat from the reactor to raise steam to drive electric turbines.

Dr. Pon said that in the fogcooled reactor the steam or fog will take the place of the heavy water coolant. In other words fog would be used to take heat from the reactor to generate steam.

Quebec to Open London Office

LONDON (CP)—Premier Jean Lesage of Quebec, seeking a "new deal with Europe," said here his province will open a London office early in 1962.

Lesage is here on the first leg of a European visit that will take him to Rome, possibly Milan and Brussels and finally to Paris where he will open Quebec House, the first official home-away-from-home Quebec has maintained in French capital.

The official opening is Oct. 5. In an interview, Lesage was quite briskly of his plans for drawing Quebec closer to Britain and Europe, of his hopes for developing an "integrated steel complex" in the province partly through European investment and of the "sympathetic" reception he has had in London.

Lesage said he has had a number of talks already with British investors about his hope for the Quebec steel industry. He has announced the setting up of a $100,000,000 investment corporation, in which the Quebec government would have a minority interest.

New Nuclear Power Plant Cooled by Fog

CHALK RIVER, Ont. (CP)—Preliminary work has been launched at Canada's atomic energy project here on the design on a new type of nuclear power plant cooled by fog.

Dr. G. A. Pon, of the nuclear engineering branch of Atomic Energy of Canada Limited, told a symposium on atomic power Tuesday that a fog-cooled power plant may prove to be cheaper to build and operate than systems now under construction in this country.

Canada at present is building an experimental power plant at Rolphton, Ont., 150 miles northwest of Ottawa, and a large-scale station nine miles north

Harkness Critical of Story About Method Adopted by Govt. for CD Militiamen

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Minister Harkness Wednesday criticized a Canadian Press story that said the army is uneasy about the method adopted by the government to train 100,000 militiamen in civil defence this winter.

He began his criticism in the Commons in reply to a question by a Progressive Conservative member and completed his points in an interview with The Canadian Press outside the Commons.

In the interview the minister said that most of the militiamen recruited for the six-week courses will be young men in good physical condition and that the training will not disrupt the training of the regular army or 42,000-member cadets.

In the story quoted CP's informants were quoted Tuesday as saying the winter training program for regular army and militia would be seriously disrupted because the army structure would be reaching the survival courses.

DENIES ALARM UNHAPPY

In the Commons, Mr. Harkness said the "allegation" that the army is unhappy about the civil defence training scheme is "false."

"The contrary is the situation," he said.

"The army is extremely anxious to secure the 100,000 trained men for the survival of the unions and the militia part of the army is extremely glad to have the field training this week."

He said the "reliable sources" quoted by CP were "very unreliable as far as some of the officers here today are concerned and indicate anything but a complete misunderstanding of what is predicted and what the situation is."

Mr. Harkness then dealt in detail with that part of the CP story which recruiting for the lowest known army medical ratings would be accepted in the militia. This was "completely wrong."

The CP story said men with a smoking rating of four—that is, men unable to keep a telephone conversation going—

ALLOW SOMEBODY ELSE

Mr. Harkness said the basic training required would be three, that is, the ability to hear conversation without difficulty though aided by some electronic device. His said regular soldiers on the base below were low-admitted lower ratings.

In the interview, Mr. Harkness also dealt with the following points that the CP story said were likely to influence recruiting among officers:

Rate of pay was too low to attract the type of men the army wanted; the government had rejected a suggestion that recruits be guaranteed reinstatement in civilian jobs; the men would be confined to base on call. Would War uniforms and fittings were not be of the best; recruits might require a lot of medical and dental care—a man could join up for six weeks and to get his tooth fixed.

Mr. Harkness said the militiamen, to be trained 25,000 at a time starting about Nov. 6, will receive more than the army pay as an unmarried private in the army—$150 a month plus $40 a month subsistence allowance for a total of $173.

SEEK YOUTH RECRUITS

On this pay, the three services were attracting an exceptionally high calibre of recruit.

There was no presumption that a lot of men would leave good regular employment to enlist for six weeks.

It was expected a large proportion of recruits would be in their late teens or early 20s and in good physical condition. They would be youths just out of high school and young men who had had summer jobs but couldn't find winter employment.

Mr. Harkness said joining up for the six weeks would not reduce a man's eligibility for unemployment insurance benefits.

In the Commons, Paul Hellyer (L—Toronto Trinity) asked about part of the CP story that

"Jest a Second"

"Isn't his uppercut a beauty?"

quoted an army source as saying the government has cancelled the training scheme may result in a would involve of about $20,000,000 in unemployment insurance benefits this winter.

"That is a completely erroneous impression," Labor Minister Starr said.

Mr. Hellyer asked what the anticipated figure was.

Mr. Starr did not reply.

In the interview Mr. Harkness said the militiamen will be issued with the same uniforms supplied the regulars. They would train during the day at practically every militia army in the country.

If a worthwhile recruit required a major medical or dental operation, he would not be accepted.

RCMP Officer Appeals Fine

TORONTO (CP)—An RCMP constable appealed Wednesday to the Ontario Supreme Court against an orderly room conviction for behaving scandalously.

Const. Michael Walsh was fined $60 last July by Ins. H. L. Jordan, who recommended that Walsh be dismissed from the force.

His appeal is based on the contention that he was denied a lawyer and that his conduct was not scandalous in the superior officer before the trial that he had been intimate with the girl friend of a constable that summer.

During the appeal, Walsh's counsel argued that the constable's conduct was not "scandalous" because it was only a handful of people were aware of it.

Perhaps his conduct was against the 26th Commandment, but it was not scandalous in the ordinary sense," Mr. Fitzgerson said.

He argued that the 32-year-old married constable was represented at his trial by Walsh by a staff sergeant but that his representative only spoke when he beckoned the service record.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union tested another big nuclear explosion in the atmosphere Wednesday. It was the 14th blast since the Russians resumed testing Sept. 1.

SUGGESTS NEHRU

Country-Wide Strike Against GM Quashed

DETROIT (AP)—The United Auto Workers Union, its threat of a nationwide strike against General Motors quashed, aimed today at a new approach to local problems holding up complete settlement of a new contract with GM.

Walter P. Reuther, UAW president, said Wednesday night the union has "developed a new approach to expedite the settlement of unresolved local issues."

He scheduled a meeting today of the General Motors Council, a union advisory board, to discuss the new approach.

Today's meeting followed a hectic night which saw the council vote to accept a GM-UAW national agreement on the money package and national work rules. A few hours later, however, the council voted to ask the UAW international executive board for authority to strike GM in support of local contract demands.

Less than two hours later, Reuther announced that the board would not authorize a general strike against GM.

Reuther said he and the council are resolved are instructed to strike GM.

Wednesday night's flurry followed a day in which GM and the UAW apparently reached agreement on national contract demands but remained basically progress on various local demands.

Negotiations at GM started June 26 and strikes began a week ago Monday after the union abandoned Chrysler and Ford plants lacking agreement on local demands. More than 290,000 of GM's 350,000 hourly workers were idle at the peak of the strike that involved GM production.

GM said today it had 28 plants unsettled, affecting about 60,000 jobs. Fifty-seven plants out of GM's original 185 have been shut down as a result of the strikes.

Boy Hunted In Big Field

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — A 14-year - old fugitive from the training school for boys at Galt is being hunted by police Wednesday night in fields east of here.

The chase began in the morning when three boys were seen in a field. Two managed to escape into a field alongside the Queen Elizabeth Way.

Two of the boys, one also from the training school and the other a friend from Port Dalhousie, were captured as they hid in the tall grass. One was 12 and the other 13.

The third boy was sighted once by a policeman in a helicopter. About 50 officers were called into the search.

NDP Calls for 'New Deal' In Agriculture, Education, Labor, Health and Welfare

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario committee for the New Democratic Party Wednesday called for a draft program Wednesday calling for a "new deal" in agriculture, education, housing, labor, health and welfare.

The program, along with a draft constitution, will be discussed at the Ontario party's provincial convention Oct. 7-8 at Niagara Falls.

The program calls for legislation to guarantee farmers limitation of tax-dodging and institution of a weight-distance tax against highway carriers. It criticizes the three-per-cent retail sales tax imposed Sept. 1.

In agriculture, the program calls for long-term credit for financing farm improvements and equipment for modern farm operations, lower farm costs by stabilization of energy control over farm machinery and supplies and restrictions on the "middleman" in the marketing process.

Producer control would be restored in the operation of compulsory marketing boards by removing the restrictive powers in the Farm Products Marketing Act in addition, NDP policy will include crop insurance for specialized crops.

School grants would be raised continuously until the province is undertaking two-thirds of the cost of elmentary and secondary education.

The NDP would abolish university fees and expand the program of scholarships, bursaries to underprivileged students.

A housing program will include a capital fund of $100,000,000 which provincial contributions available under existing legislation are a d d would make a total of $400,000,000.

The NDP health program will include a public health insurance covering not only hospital care but also medical, surgical, dental, pharmaceutical and other services.

The NDP would revamp and consolidate Ontario's labor legislation to be a "charter of rights for labor." Minimum standards of working conditions would be established, including a minimum wage of $1.25 an hour for men and women, reduction in the hours of work to 40 hours with-out a reduction in take-home pay and increased vacation time.

An NDP government would establish an automobile accident insurance fund, to which all motorists would contribute and out of which compensation would automatically be paid to accident victims.

The NDP would increase all welfare payments in line with the Ontario Welfare council's suggested minimum income.

Russia, U.S. Agree on Set Of Principles for Talks

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Amid ominous threats of war, Russia and the United States have finally broached one of the myriad obstacles plaguing a troubled world seeking disarmament and peace.

They have agreed on a set of principles to guide future disarmament negotiations, though there is no hint as to when such meetings to agree on the kind of forum in which the negotiations can be resumed.

Western diplomats suggest the fact the two can agree even on the principles of disarmament discussion amid increasing militarizations and the threat of a showdown in Berlin raises some hope that disarmament negotiations may be resumed once the United Nations expresses its views and points to a course of action through fraternity vote.

These diplomats caution against too optimistic a view of what may develop, particularly in the light of 15 years of failure to end the arms race.

But the Russian - American statement of principles, placed before the UN Wednesday, is said to indicate the United States is willing to go a long way to meeting Russian demands and that American good intentions by willingness to adopt the Soviet call for "general and complete disarmament."

For its part, Russia has agreed to the Western demand for stage-by-stage controls to assure were not impressed.

accompany any disarmament negotiated and has eased its proposal that all disarmament be accomplished in four years.

There appeared to be some element of give-and-take between Deputy Soviet Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin and American disarmament chief John J. McCoy in their talks.

At first, the Americans wanted only to discuss a forum for resumption of disarmament talks that collapsed with a Russian walkout last year. But they yielded to some ground on Russian insistence that the Zorin - McCoy talks include an expression of view on Premier Khrushchev's call for general and complete disarmament.

Where the talks ran aground was on the Russian insistence on the "veto" principle for any negotiations forum—a requirement unanimity to replace the previous 10-country body, to which the Soviets objected on the grounds that to yield to the "veto" in one field would encourage the Soviets to believe they could get the same principle in other fields, particularly in the UN secretary-generalship.

The American offered a number of variations—willingness to increase the 10-country membership to 15 or even 20 to give the neutrals representation of a body which previously was reserved only the Western and Communist camps. The Rus-

Negotiators Got Nowhere In Trying to Settle Strike

TORONTO (CP) — Bitterness prevailed on both sides Wednesday after the latest attempt to settle a prolonged strike of employees at the Royal York Hotel.

Hotel management and the Hotel and Club Employees Union (CLC) got nowhere at a meeting between Ontario Premier Frost. No further sessions are planned, he said.

Hotel Manager Angus MacKinnon said the talks were "futile" because the union, on two strike issues April 24, "continued to maintain its unrealistic position."

Archie Johnstone, union vice-president, described the talks as futile but put the blame on the hotel's "ridiculous attempts to impose sanctions on the union for being engaged in a legal strike."

Mr. MacKinnon did not attend Monday's meeting.

He said the union was negotiating as if the strike had not yet happened, while the hotel now has been out five months and the hotel is operating successfully.

Mr. MacKinnon said "all key employees" have been retained by the hotel, but that the union "must also recognize that many of the people still on strike will never return to the Royal York" because some will not be needed and others have had their jobs filled "more efficiently" by new employees.

He said the outlook of the union is indicated by its demand for compulsory check-off of union dues, whether employees are union members or not. The hotel maintains dues must be voluntary.

Mr. Johnstone said it would be "unrealistic of the union to

Sav- Accused Standing With Blood on Hands

TORONTO (CP)—A witness in the murder trial of Ronald Andrews, 23, testified Wednesday he saw Andrews standing with blood on his hands in the hall of a rooming house where Christine Livingstone was killed.

Louis McIsaac, 40, told an Osgoode Hall jury he saw Andrews in the hall when he opened the door of a room where he and friends of the dead woman were drinking.

McIsaac testified that after seeing Andrews in the hall he went to the room where he saw Andrews and carried Mrs. Livingstone after she passed out.

"I saw Christine and she was all blood."

The trial continues.

Union Nationale Party Will Seek to Recapture Reformist Zeal of Which It Was Born

QUEBEC (CP)—Will Quebec's Union Nationale party try to recapture the reformist tone that swept it into power 25 years ago?

It is a fact, sometimes forgotten by party members themselves, that the Union Nationale was born during a frantic wave of reformism, subsequently whipped by the economic unrest of the 1930s.

Delegates to the party's leadership convention gathering for today's opening meeting will see a larger-than-life cutout of the late Maurice Duplessis, the party founder and the man who rode that wave with consummate skill and remarkable success.

In laying down party policy there are more than likely to be heavily influenced by the principles which established his party and kept it in power for five terms.

Basically they boiled down to this:

1. Keep the party tightly knit under strong leadership. Quebec is conservative, aggressive, give it the face of varying situations and the ability to vote for in the success story of the Union Nationale party—the first purely provincial political party in Canada ever to attain power within its own province.

In 1936, the year the party was founded, the party stood for electoral reform. It was credited an archaic system of voting) electrification of rural areas, and credit for the farmers.

More radical elements of the reform movement of the 1930s, which succeeded in riding to power with Mr. Duplessis, were jettisoned.

HAD FARM VOTE

But the Union Nationale in those earlier years established one main cornerstone of the political edifice it was to build on the ensuing 25 years. This cornerstone was the farm vote. It was studiously courted and in fact it still was solid, to a large extent, in 1960.

Development of the Union Nationale's second cornerstone—a fiercely provincial autonomy—was an application of the fundamental that Quebec-minded leadership, aggressive and imaginative, is a prerequisite of political survival in Canada's French - language province.

Provincial autonomy was not a new political idea in Quebec when Mr. Duplessis pulled it up and made it into the vibrant and popular idea it became in his hands. He lampooned Quebec Liberals who had "taken orders" from federal Liberals during the war years and who had signed a taxation agreement.

Mr. Duplessis fought all cycles of labor strife in the 1950s, was strong, well entrenched, and always gained support in the cities.

MADE QUEBEC PLEA

His imaginative leadership, always Quebec - minded, produced a distinct Quebec flag. It was systematic opposition to tax agreements, to national conferences and to the encroachments of the Imperial Privy Council's decision awarding Labrador to Newfoundland and it was a thinly veiled criticism of institutions such as the United Nations and Canada gave his party a strong provincial flavor.

When he died in 1959, his successor, the late Paul Sauve, succeeded in creating a party reform system opposite

Whale Pass, Alaska, Built On 17 Big Floats Fashioned From Giant Alaskan Logs

By WARD SIMS

WHALE PASS, Alaska (AP)—Little Barbara Gildersleeve has spent most of her six years riding the waves of southeast Alaska's waterways and loves it.

"It's fun living on a raft, she says. "We play on the beach. We play on the floats. We fish in the bay."

"I fall in more during the summertime than I do during the winter time. The water is warmer."

Barbara, 97 other children and 73 adults live in Gildersleeve, a community built on 17 big floats fashioned from giant Alaskan logs.

Small, comfortable homes have been constructed on six of the floats and house trailers occupy two more. Other floats carry a converted storage shed equipped with basketball hoops and a volleyball net—the town's new gym. There are a one-room school, storage buildings and two small seaplanes.

The children are happy about it all. They don't even mind the lifejackets they must wear each moment out of doors because, as Barbara puts it, "they keep us from going down in the water when we fall in."

To the adults, life is a little more complicated.

There are no stores within 35 miles. There is no roast office. Trips to the "outside" are rare luxuries.

FOUNDED BY CANADIANS

The town was founded by Murry and Roger Gildersleeve —Barbara's father and uncle—in 1956. That year the brothers, who were born in a floating logging camp in Butedale, B.C., formed a small logging company. They started with a home, a bunkhouse and equipment all on one float.

The rapid growth of Gildersleeve astounds the founders.

"Sometimes it scares me," Roger Gildersleeve says. "But what can you do? If you find a good man, you need a float and a house for him, so you add a little bit more to the town."

The 17 floats are lashed together and occupy an irregular area roughly 200 by 100 feet.

When logging operations shift and Gildersleeve decides to move, the men spend two or three days shifting their waterlines and anchor lines in from sharp and securing all equipment. Then they call a big tugboat to tow the whole works to its new location.

In recent months it was located near shore in a sheltered bay in Whale Pass, on the south side of Thorne Island, some 70 miles northwest of Ketchikan and 35 miles south of Wrangell.

From there six days a week the seven men of Gildersleeve get in motorboats to go to work in the logging operation, approximately a mile away across whale pass.

GOOD PAY

The work is hard but the pay is good. Operating on a share basis, each man takes home about $9,500 for a work-year running from mid-April to December.

The children and their 18-year old teacher, Lee Axmaker, spend their days in the one-room schoolhouse. If things get a little tense in the 36-by-36-foot room, Axmaker starts physical exercises for his charges.

Life is probably most difficult for the women of Gildersleeve.

With no stores around, "we buy most of our groceries in case lots," Mrs. Roger Gildersleeve says. "I will normally have 70 or 80 cases of canned goods on hand to start the winter and our pre-winter grocery bill has gone as high as $1,500."

This business took getting used to, says Mrs. Gildersleeve.

"I'd send a list of what I wanted, but often I wound up with a substitute someone else picked up. They selected my groceries, my paint, my sewing material, even my clothes."

BOATS CARRY MAIL

Mail goes in and out on a government boat which stops at the town every Tuesday. There is only one radiotelephone, in Roger Gildersleeve's home.

Newcomers face the task of adjusting to a life spent in close personal contact, day after day, with the same people.

Still, there is surprisingly little friction. In the opinion of Bob and Carol Harding, parents of four who have been in Gildersleeve three years, religion is the most important factor in keeping peace. Most of Gildersleeve's residents are active members of the Seventh-Day Adventist Church.

Mrs. Harding says, "it ties each and every one of us closer together."

Murray Gildersleeve is the elected church leader of the community and conducts weekly prayer services for the members of the church.

DAYS OF FUN

Summer evenings may be taken up with a community potluck dinner in the gym, a huge beach picnic, a beachcombing trip or a fishing expedition on the bay or the cove of many nearby lakes.

The fishing would make Izaak Walton do handstands.

Huge salmon and halibut can be caught a few hundred feet from the town. Lakes and streams are literally full of trout.

With fall, hunting becomes the major off-duty activity.

Law enforcement has never been a problem. Roger Gildersleeve says, "we haven't had anything we couldn't settle peaceably among ourselves."

HELPS UNDERDOG — David Cowlishaw, 26-year-old Torontonian, has set up an organization to help people who have been "underdogged" by others. David "Underdogs" the group went into action after placing ads in the personal columns of Toronto newspapers offering assistance without charge. —CP Photo

'Underdog' Society Formed To Aid Pushed-Around Folk

By ALAN WALKER

TORONTO (CP)—David Cowlishaw says he thinks too many people in the world are being pushed around. He has formed an organization of Robin Hoods to help them.

The 26-year-old Torontonian placed an advertisement in the personal column of newspapers here describing the group—called "Underdogs"—and says he has received dozens of letters from people who feel they are being wronged.

Mr. Cowlishaw or one of 16 helpers he has enlisted answers the advertisements concerning the dog bylaw and to have Chief Baird engage necessary help for Halloween.

"We tell them we think our client is getting a raw deal and they usually back down."

He got the idea for Underdog during a strike of immigrant construction workers here when "lots of people were being shoved around." He approached a few friends and they were enthusiastic.

They placed this ad: . . . .

"Underdog, an organization to help mistreated people. No charge. PO box 120, Terminal A, Toronto."

One man wrote saying his dog had been ordered destroyed because it had been shaken for another dog that had bitten a child.

Mr. Cowlishaw said one of his people talked with authorities and persuaded them not to kill the pet.

Another woman thought she was being overcharged by her landlord. Underdog took care of that, said.

Several who have written in didn't need help themselves. They were asked as helpers in the organization.

Mr. Cowlishaw said one member is going to Cuba as soon as the group figures out how to get him there with the cheapest possible way.

"Lots of people are being mistreated there."

He would like to make the organization world - wide. With this in mind he plans a trip to Jamaica in response to a letter.

"A couple there was very interested," he said. "I know it seems a long way to go but when you've started something like this you can't back down."

Well, to carry out their dedicated work in our Community, that of building Christian Personalities and a Christian Society, the Belleville Y.M.C.A. requires some public assistance in order to balance their annual budgets. Revenue from fees and other sources is by no means sufficient to meet operating expenses.

Under the leadership of a competent professional staff, the Association provides, to both children and adults, a full program of physical, mental and social activities. In addition, over 40 community groups use the "Y" as their headquarters and a place to hold meetings.

Soldiers Will Not Be Allowed To Take Families

OTTAWA (CP)—None of the married personnel of reinforcement units being sent to Europe will be allowed to take their families with them, informants said Tuesday.

It was explained, however, that the bulk of the reinforcements—1,500 men for the infantry brigade group in West Germany and 250 for the RCAF air division in France and Germany—are married.

It was understood that the Berlin crisis is the reason for the order.

The first reinforcing group of 400 soldiers will leave from Montreal Friday and the next 600 Sept. 28. Sailing dates have been announced for the remaining 300 but they will be around next week.

Married personnel of the brigade and air division have their families with them. Plans exist to move dependents in event of emergency.

The defence department said later the stay-home order for dependents will be rescinded when the situation in Europe changes.

The length of the tour of duty in Europe also would be determined at that time. This means that a man who has to leave his family in Canada will not be eligible for a shorter tour than the normal three-year hitch.

Dependents who had been advised they would be leaving for Europe before Sept. 22 will be allowed to go.

The department added that the dependents now in Europe will not be returned home except with the normal rotation of troops.

Prairie Drought That Cut Wheat Crop by Half May Threaten Water Supply

WINNIPEG (CP)—The same drought that has cut Manitoba's wheat crop by half this year may threaten the winter water supply of many farmers and several communities.

Lake levels are lower and the flow of rivers has slowed. Many creeks and streams have dried up and farm wells are going dry.

Wales heavy rains swell farm dugouts before freeze-up, they will freeze to the bottom and be useless to the farmer.

Brandon city council has been told by its engineer that unless the flow of the Assiniboine River is increased it may freeze to the bottom, cutting the western Manitoba city of its water supply.

The level is being kept up by taking some water from the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Administration storage basin at nearby Rivers by way of the Assiniboine River. The engineer recommended emergency measures, including pumping water near the present pumping station.

BOYNE IS DRY

At Carman, 35 miles southwest of Winnipeg, a storage dam built by residents, at a cost of $100,000 gallons but the Boyne River, which maintains the reservoir at that level, is dry.

The level has dropped more than a foot in a month and estimates are that the water supply in the Boyne channel will be exhausted by Dec. 1.

Gladstone, 100 miles northwest of Winnipeg, faced a similar problem when the Whitemud River stopped flowing. But two beaver dams upstream were destroyed and the release water provided temporary relief.

At Portage la Prairies council passed a resolution requesting construction of a dam on the Assiniboine near the pumping station there.

Mayor R. J. Bell, chief of Souris, 154 miles west of Winnipeg, says the town will seek permission to sandbag the dam on the Souris River to increase local water supply.

SINK WELL

At Minnedosa, 140 miles north-west of Winnipeg, council has approved sinking a deep well.

Livestock men in the Carman and Dauphin areas are hauling water to their herds from town. At Elkhorn, 300 miles west of Winnipeg, the source of farm water is the CPR water tank, used before the railway switched to diesels.

Department of agriculture pumps have filled 46 dugouts in the southwestern municipalities of Edward, Arthur, Albert and Pipestone before moving into the Swan River Valley.

If a farm dugout is within four miles of a water source it can be filled by pumps. But beyond four miles it's not possible. Hundreds of dugouts are beyond this range and most of them, if present conditions continue, will freeze to the bottom.

Opening comments from top sports men around the league:

Jim Hanley, general manager, Montreal Canadiens:

"With the interlocking schedule, everyone expects the Western football clubs to pass more this year, to keep up with the high-powered offences in the East. But I don't see much change in the Western attack. It's personnel that determines the kind of game you play and the Western game is still geared to running.

"Expansion to 10 teams is what has brought on the home run outburst led by Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle in the American League this season. Pitching talent has been diluted. There are at least 20 new pitchers, perhaps only of Class AAA calibre. You'll see the same thing next year when the National League goes to 10 clubs."

Ed Meadows, defensive end with Montreal Alouettes:

"Just Edmonton guy, Jackie Parker, is about the slickest quarterback I've ever seen, across Rose in the National Football League, when a quarterback throws the ball, he watches to see if it's caught before he starts worrying about the rush on him. Parker lets the ball go, looks to see who's coming, and then checks on the receivers."

Lamar Hale, 200 — playing captain of Canada's Davis Cup tennis team:

"I sure was glad to see the Mexicans defeat the United States in five matches before the U.S. won them six. The Mexicans took us in five, too. It doesn't look so bad for us."

Stan Wilson, trainer of Montreal Alouettes:

"I've made it a point to learn as little as possible of football. I couldn't tell you a 3-formation from a single wing. A trainer walks a tightrope. He's between the coaching staff and the players. The less I know about the game, the better."

Ken Mackenzie, publicity director of the National Hockey League:

"Chicago should go all the way again next season. The club finished first and it will be retained. Montreal still has the best forwards in the league. Hungarian.

Lacrosse

POST CREDIT (CP) — The wheel of fortune swung right for Burnaby Norsemen twice Wednesday to lift them from an apparently hopeless position in the Minto Cup lacrosse finals and place them level with the opposing Hamilton Tigers.

The first break came when the Canadian Lacrosse Association upheld a Northern protest and scrubbed Hastings 19-8 triumph in the opener.

Inspired by this, the Norsemen downed Hastings 15-5 to square the series at two wins apiece. Burnaby was trailing 3-1 in games until the CLA backed the protest.

RUSSIAN WINS TITLE

VIENNA (AP) — Russia's Vladimir Stogov Wednesday night won the bantamweight title at the world weight-lifting championships, lifting 397 pounds in the press, 353½ in the snatch, and 368 in the clean and jerk for a total of 1099½ pounds. Hungary's Imre Foldi also lifted 1099½ but Stogov was awarded first place because he weighed a pound less than the Hungarian.

'Lay On The Wood' Team Told

VANCOUVER (CP)—Brampton Rangers plan to lay the wood on Vancouver Carlings when the teams meet here tonight in the second game of the best-of-seven Canadian senior lacrosse final.

Vancouver, a team that will run its opposition into the ground if given half a chance, leads the series 1-0 after defeating the Eastern champions 14-8 in the opening game.

The fast-skating Vancouver club ran wild against a disorganized Brampton defence that threw only a few solid checks during the entire game.

Brampton coach Bruce McClure has ordered his defence—headed by seven who weigh 200 pounds apiece—to hit harder.

DEFECTS TO WEST

MUNICH (AP)—Professor Ernest Bloch, a leading East German Marxist philosopher who spent the Nazi years in exile, has defected to West Germany, friends said Wednesday.

Tiger-Cat Stars Back In Action

HAMILTON (CP)—Four top Hamilton players will definitely see action Saturday when the Tiger-Cats host Montreal Alouettes in A Canadian Football League game, Hamilton coach Jim Trimble said Wednesday night.

Quarterback Bernie Faloney, end Hal Patterson and linebacker Hardman Cureton worked out briefly for the first time" since the Tiger-Cats defeated Calgary 37-36 Saturday, Trimble said.

Faloney and Cureton had mumps ayrulus, Patterson a sore shoulder.

Halfback Ralph Goldston, who injured his toe nine days ago against Edmonton, did not participate in the practice but is expected to join the Tiger-Cats for Saturday's game.

SEEKS FARM AID

CLARENVILLE, Nfld. (CP) — Resources Minister Keough announced Wednesday night he has requested federal aid for Newfoundland's 3,000 farmers, hard hit by the worst two years of drought in 30 years.

'Dopers' Guilty, Suspended

MONTREAL (CP) — Two owner - trainers Wednesday night were suspended from all North American race tracks for 90 days after being found guilty of doping horses at Montreal's west end Blue Bonnet Track.

Joe Threkeld of Shebbian, Mo., and Slade Brown of Toronto were found guilty by the executive committee and stewards of the Canadian Trotting Association of administering drugs to a horse and of failing to protect a horse against the administration of a harmful medication of drug.

The charges were laid when routine urine samples, taken after the Sept. 16 racing card, were analyzed. Threkeld's horse Westbrunner, won the fifth race and Brown's entry, Advancement, the sixth.

RUBLY TO LAST

Some aqueducts built by the ancient Greeks and Romans are still in use.

The Trots

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP) — Some of the favorites have been ousted by injuries, but the biggest field in its 10-year history goes after the $76,000 Little Brown Jug today.

The three-year - old pacing classic, scheduled for at least three heats over the Delaware County Fairgrounds's half-mile track starting at 1 p.m., has attracted 13 starters.

Two go in the first division, nine in the second, and the top five in each return for a third ride. Each heat divides 30 per cent of the $76,000.14 purse among the five leaders.

Should the winner of one of the first two heats triumph in the third, he'd be the champion. If a third horse hits the wire first in the runoff, the three heat winners come back for an extra heat to decide the victor—who also gets the remaining 10 per cent of the purse.

The odds - makers have installed Lady Hanover as the first division favorite at 2 to 1, Nervy Jet Adios, at 3 to 1, is the second-division favorite.

TIME FOR TWO

BLED, Yugoslavia (AP)—Efgran Petrosian of Russia drew with countryman Mikael Ghlom Wednesday and pulled into a tie with Bobby Fischer of the U.S. for first place in an international chess tournament here. The half-point from the draw gave Petrosian eight points for 10 rounds of competition. Fischer, whose match with Peter Trifunovic of Yugoslavia was adjourned, has eight points from 11 rounds in the 19-round tournament.

MARIS CONNECTS FOR 59 — This is Roger Maris of the New York Yankees at the plate as he connected last night in the third inning for his 59th home run of the year. The blow, which cleared the 350-foot mark in right field, came against Baltimore pitcher Milt Pappas. Maris has hit two homers in one game seven times this season. (AP Wirephoto)

Not Mantle and Maris

Team Effort Won Flag

BALTIMORE (AP) — Manager Ralph Houk of New York Yankees wastes no time looking back.

"We're not interested in home runs by Roger Maris or the rest of the schedule," he said after clinching the American League pennant Wednesday night in his first season as a major league manager.

"Cincinnati, or whoever it is in the World Series, is our next worry. In the meantime, we're going to have fun tonight."

This was in the Yankee dressing room where champagne had been chilled and poured freely by one player over another. When the champagne ran out, beer shampoos were in order.

When newspaper men congratulated Houk, he reminded them the 30th Yankee pennant and 13th in 13 seasons was not due entirely to Maris and Mickey Mantle. Maris slugged his 59th home run of the season Wednesday night. Mantle, on the sidelines with the flu, has belted 53.

"This was definitely a team effort," Houk said in clipped tones. "Maris and Mantle didn't win the pennant — 25 players did."

The Training Camps

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A pair of Marlitmers were all the Toronto Maple Leafs needed to handle their scoring Wednesday night as they blanked Ottawa Shall Canadiens of the Eastern Professional Hockey League 5-0 at Hull.

Claude Pauliuse of Bishops Falls, Nfld., trying out for the Leafs, and Dick Gamble, a native of Moncton, N.B., farmer-star with Montreal Canadiens, each scored two goals. Wally Boyer got the other for the National Hockey League team.

In other pre - season hockey news, general manager Tommy Ivan turned the broom on his Stanley Cup champions Wednesday with an improve-or-else ultimatum.

Perturbed by Chicago Black Hawks' loss to their farm club, Buffalo Bisons, Tuesday night, Ivan said: "It's just about time some of our players started to show the hockey they're capable of. They've been working out for 30 days now and some of them don't seem to be taking this game seriously enough."

THREATENS CHANGES

"I don't want to single out any individuals, but if there's no improvement there'll be changes made."

The loss to Buffalo and a preview to with the Bisons, produced a reaction in Chicago's training camp at St. Catharines.

In a morning scrimmage, the players scored 22 goals in 80 minutes, with winger Bobby Hull getting three and his linemates, Red Hay and Murray Balfour, one apiece.

At Guelph, where New York Rangers are training, general manager Muzz Patrick announced the signing of two veterans to contracts. Defenceman Harry Howell will be starting his 10th NHL season, forward Andy Hebenton his seventh.

Ranger veteran Red Sullivan suffered a painful hip bruise Wednesday as the team continued its four workouts a day. He was bolted into the boards by Larry Cahan. Dean Prentice, who has a weakened groin, with a pulled back muscle, remained inactive.

At Detroit, only one vacancy remains to be filled on its Red Wings and three players are guarding for it. The forward slot is being sought by Bowie Glover, Fleming Mackell and Parker MacDonald. Glover signed Wednesday, leaving four regulars unsigned.

Detroit general manager Jack Adams filled two berths by naming Jerry Odrowski, a rookie with Detroit last season, and John McKenzie, a forward who spent most of last season with Hershey of the American League, to the team.

"And they didn't even mention it was close there when you signed a three-year lease for this place!"

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The opening of the duck-hunting season in the central district of Ontario on Saturday brings to mind the regrettable incidents that occurred in the Bay of Quinte area last year.

Avaricious hunters, and there, it was reported, with a yen to make fast bucks from slow ducks, caused the passing closing of certain areas by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

The action of the Mounties sent a wave of indignation through the ranks of the hunters. Not against the law but those who had no respect for the rights of those who lived "by the book", Deliberate illegal hunting had taken place. In one case in a section of the bay front squarely under the noses of the Mounties.

The officers were quick to act—and rightly so. Laws regarding hunting were "in the book" and had been deliberately broken. Some of the most productive areas were closed. And there was nothing the hunters could do about it. A large number of those who hunt for the love of the sport, and private dinners, had to suffer for the sins of a few filled with commercial greed.

Now the warning signs are out!

The RCMP announced yesterday that up to the moment no illegal hunting had been discovered and consequently no areas have been closed.

But, they warn, the deadline for halting fell on Saturday, September 16th. Any baiting that occurs between that date and opening day on Saturday will result in posting and closed areas.

And anyone with any ideas had better reconsider. The Mounties are not fooling. They are on the alert and keeping watchful eyes on all well-known areas, and others as well. They know their job and are determined to defeat the "ages" of bait. Not only will the areas be closed but those found guilty will feel the heavy hand of the law. And sometimes it carries quite a punch.

For hunters' information the Central District includes all Eastern Ontario and the townships of Darlington and Clarke in Durham County.

The duck season opens Saturday, September 23, through December 18... Geese and partridge season have been set for September 23 to November 18, starting at dawn.

Duck limits are five per day exclusive of merganser of which two (one bag) may be wood ducks and not more than one may be a canvasback or redhead.

The season for geese, rails, coots, gallinules, woodcock and Wilson snipe is the same as for ducks. You can shoot five geese per day but the possession limit is ten. The pheasant season for this area is October 7 to 26. The bag limit is two cocks, one a female.

The outlook for duck hunters is good. Green and blue-wing teal, blacks, mallards and wood ducks have had a good breeding year. There was sufficient water in the breeding seasons in the small lakes, beaver ponds and swamps that later produced plentiful aquatic food.

Local duck populations are noticeably improved over the 1960 census. Those have been calculated on foot net from aircraft by Lands and Forests biologists. Early counted their top forecast hunting trends.

Redheads and canvasback ducks, victims last spring of western drought, will be scarce. However, hunters in this district are fortunate that the Central and Mississippi flyways overlap here, bringing the maximum of birds over the blinds.

And remember only shotguns are permitted and those with magazines must have them plugged to contain no more than two shells, giving three shots in rapid succession per loading.

And to repeat a word of warning to the potential "wise guys." Don't do it. The hunting areas are clean and open. Let well enough alone and have some respect for those who want to hunt decently and legally.

If you want to make a fast buck—try going to work.

LAW STILL AILING

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh Pirates reported Wednesday that 2 rays, show pitcher land Vernon Law's right arm and shoulder are not completely healed. Law was scheduled to report to the Pirates special to the camp at Long Beach, Calif., Oct. 16 to test his arm. He'll not pitch now until next spring. a Pirates spokesman said.

BILLS SIGN GUARD

BUFFALO (CP)—John Dittrich, a guard released by Oakland Raiders before the start of the American Football League schedule, has signed with the Buffalo Bills. Dittrich, 25, was released last year, Wednesday was added Bills' roster of the AFL. Bob Forset on waivers.

Maris Blasted 59, But That Was It

Yanks Win The Flag

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Staff Writer

Roger Maris stepped to the plate in the top of the ninth inning, dug in and fouled the first pitch by Baltimore reliever Hoyt Wilhelm back of the plate. Wilhelm wound up again, let go and Maris tried to check his swing. He couldn't.

The ball trickled down the first base line.

On that note Wednesday night ended the most serious threat to Babe Ruth's record of 60 home runs in one season. As Maris, who had hit No. 59 in the third inning, failed in his final chance to tie baseball's most prized record under the 154 - decision edict of commissioner Ford Frick.

All eyes were on Maris while he took his final turn at bat. Babe's mark is Baltimore, where the Yankees clinched their 26th American League pennant by beating the Orioles 5-2.

In the first inning, Maris lined out to right field and there was hardly a stir in the crowd of 21,032. He targed Milt Pappas for No. 59 in the third, sending a vicious line drive into the seats over the 380 - foot mark on a 1-1 pitch.

STRIKES OUT

Maris came up in the fourth inning and Baltimore manager Hank Bauer relieved Dick Hall, then smashed a shot in the seventh off Hall that brought the crowd to its feet as it flew down the right - field line. It went foul.

Maris got good wood on the next pitch, sending a towering fly to deep right - centre that chased right - fielder Earl Robinson back before he grabbed it for the out 20 feet short of the wall. Then came the ninth-inning drama.

"I wanted to get three good swings whether I hit it or not," said Maris. "The way it turned out, I didn't get one. I would have liked to have taken a full swing."

Maris joins a long list of sluggers who have failed to break Ruth's record, set in 1927. Roger tied Ruth's mark of 30 hit in 1927 and became the second man in major league history to hit that many. He still has eight games under the expanded schedule in which to match or surpass Ruth's total.

Maris' quest for matching the Yanks' 11th pennant in the last 23 years went to Ralph Terry (15-10). He did it with a four-hitter that made Ralph Houk the first rookie manager in 15 years to win a major league flag.

Houk, who succeeded Casey Stengel at the Yankee helm this season, became the first rookie field boss to win since Ed Dyer took the National League pennant with the Cubs, St. Louis Cardinals. The last American League first - year manager to do it was Mickey Cochrane of Detroit Tigers in 1934.

WIN IN FOURTH

The Yankees wrapped things up with a three - run rally in the third inning started by Maris' shot off Pappas (13-9). Yogi Berra followed with a homer and a single by Johnny Blanchard and Elston Howard's double finished off the scoring for a 4-0 lead.

The Orioles got to Terry in the sixth inning when consecutive singles by Ron Hansen, Hall and Brooks Robinson scored one run. Hall came home from a second when Bobby Richardson dropped the ball after Jerry Adair hit into a forceout.

Detroit Tigers remained well ahead of the Orioles in the battle for second place by beating Los Angeles Angels and pushing the Tom Bowsfield of Pontiac, B.C., 6-3 when Chico Fernandez hit a bases - loaded double that featured a four - run splurge - breaking rally in the seventh inning.

Bowsfield (18-7) was relieved in the seventh inning after pitching to four batters in that frame. He gave up a total of six runs on six hits, issued three walks and struck out one man.

Ray Herbert of Chicago White Sox defeated Norton Red Sox 3-1 with a seven - hitter. Bobby Del Greco hit a two - run homer in the ninth inning to give Kansas City Athletics a 4-3 win over Cleveland Indians. Minnesota at Washington was rained out.

Would Ban Junior A Sponsorship

Leafs Want Territorial Rights

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Hockey Association Junior A league appeared in jeopardy today after a decision by Toronto Maple Leafs to hold to National Hockey League territorial rights.

Under the NHL constitution barring professional or pro-sponsored team operation within a 50-mile radius of another pro team's home rink without permission, Leafs have refused permission to Marcroad Junior Canadiens to play in the OHA.

The same clause has been used by the Leafs' refusal to renew sponsorship applications for four OHA junior teams from the four American teams in the NHL.

St. Catharines, Guelph, Hamilton and Niagara Falls are all within the Leafs' domain territorial and the Leafs decided not to allow Chicago Black Hawks, Detroit Red Wings, New York Rangers and Boston Bruins to continue working agreements with the Ontario teams.

Stafford Smythe, head of Leafs' hockey committee and co-owner of Toronto Maple Leafs, made the announcement Wednesday night.

CAMPBELL SILENT

He said NHL president Clarence Campbell was made no ruling on the Toronto moves, but expected the whole matter to be settled at a meeting shortly.

"There is a relations committee meeting with the Western Hockey League in Edmonton," Smythe said. "(Frank) Selke will be there so Campbell and (Jack) Adams. We'll have an opportunity to discuss it thoroughly there."

It is understood the four American teams have appealed to Campbell to over - rule the Toronto move. All four had filed earlier this year for renewal or permission granted in previous years for Toronto to operate in the Ontario cities.

The four OHA teams could continue to operate with their NHL sponsors however, if Campbell so decided, sponsorships have been conducted in this with the constitution.

Campbell said the only grounds on which he could support Toronto's request would be if Leafs proved the clubs had not "produced their sponsorships for the good of hockey generally."

Ball Struck Bat

'Glad It's Over,' - Maris

By JOE REICHLER

BALTIMORE (AP) — Roger Maris' assault on Babe Ruth's home run record ended in defeat Wednesday night, as the 27 - year - old left - handed slugger missed matching the immortal 60 homers in a 154-game season by the narrowest of margins—one.

Trailing by two home runs with just one game remaining, playing in a park which had throttled him in all 29 previous efforts, and facing a Baltimore Oriole pitcher who had yielded only one home run to the entire Yankee team, the sad - eyed slugger walloped his 59th home run of the season, then came breathlessly close to smashing two more.

Had the two he missed been fair instead of barely foul ball, the current Yankee would have achieved the feat of the century.

Only two others have threatened that mark — Jimmy Foxx and Hank Greenberg. As it was, Maris, who only a year ago was wondering if he'd ever make the big leagues, came closer than anyone else in baseball history to Ruth's 1927 record.

CROWD CHEERED HIM

The crowd of 21,032, naturally devoted to Ruth, a native of Baltimore, gave the gallant challenger a standing ovation after he had been retired for the first base line on a checked swing in his last time at bat.

"I tried," he said later. "I didn't quite make it, but I tried."

In the first inning, facing Milt Pappas, Baltimore's ace righthander, he drove a screaming liner to Earl Robinson in deep right.

In the third inning, with Pappas still on the mound, he smashed a 2-1 pitch, a sort of high liner, into the right field bleachers about 380 feet from the plate.

Dick Hall, another righthander was on the mound when Maris came to bat in the fourth. With an 0 - 2 count, Roger clouted a liner which landed in the stands, about eight feet foul.

Again in the seventh, Maris came close when he hit a long drive deep into the right field bleachers, about 30 to 35 feet foul.

Then it was the ninth. There were two out, Hoyt Wilhelm was on the mound. The crafty knuckleball artist had faced Maris in a similar role only the night before and had struck him out on four pitches.

His second pitch struck the bat and dribbled down the first - base line. Wilhelm fielded the ball himself and tagged the dejected Maris off first base.

"I'm glad it's over," Maris said after. "It's a great relief. But I'm disappointed it had to end this way. If I wasn't going to make it, at least I wanted to go down swinging."

Bisons Nip Wings, Lead 2-1

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Buffalo Bisons have called on southpaw Wally Seward to pin against Rochester Red Wings tonight in a bid to take a 3-2 hold on the best-of-seven International League finals. The Wings will ride with star right-hander Herb Moford.

The Bisons grabbed a 2-1 edge in the series Wednesday night as Ted Savage, who won the league batting title, belted a two-run homer in the sixth inning that gave Buffalo a 4-2 victory before 9,220 fans.

Rochester jumped into a 2-0 lead in the third inning on Ron Shetrone's two-run, inside - the - park homer. Bison outfielder Tony Curry fell going after Shetrone's routine fly ball and the speedy Red Wing center fielder circled the bases. Bob Wine's bases - loaded single in the fifth tied the score 2-2.

Refused Senior Entry

Unwanted 'Bulldogs' Growl

CHATHAM (CP) — Windsor Bulldogs, refused entry to the Ontario Hockey Association Senior League, are continuing their battle to play senior hockey this year.

League convenor Pat Patterson of Brampton, here on business, said he informed Windsor officials earlier Wednesday that they had been refused entry into the league in a telephone vote of the eight members' clubs.

But Bulldog officials told Patterson in a phone call later that they had been in touch with representatives of the other clubs and now have enough support to gain admittance.

The clubs had earlier refused entry to Windsor on the grounds it would disrupt the league. If one of the present clubs dropped out, Windsor would be first in line for it.

The Bulldogs operated in the league last season but did not clean at first to return this season.

Koufax Nears Record

Redlegs Eye Bunting, Dodgers Win

By MIKE RATHET

Cincinnati Reds, a question-able product in the National League down the 1961 season began, have gone methodically about the business of trying to nail down their first pennant in 21 years with a knack of winning one a run games.

They did it again Wednesday night, edging Pittsburgh Pirates 3-2 on Wally Post's two - run homer in the eighth inning for their eighth victory in nine games and a 34-14 won-lost record in one - run decisions.

The victory went to right hander Joey Jay (12-6), the only Cincinnati League pitcher with 20 win this year, and reduced the Reds' magic pennant - clinching number to four over the second - place Los Angeles Dodgers. The Dodgers edged Chicago Cubs 3-2 in 13 innings.

Milwaukee Braves beat San Francisco Giants 7-4 and Philadelphia Phillies defeated St. Louis Cardinals 6-4.

MOVE FROM BEHIND

Post's 20th homer of the season came with Vada Pinson on first as a walk and moved the Reds from behind to beat the Pirates and reliever Elroy Face (6-11).

Pinson, who was 1-for-3 on the night, became the first player in either league to reach the 200-hit mark and locked up on Pittsburgh's Roberto Clemente, the league batting leader with a .344 average. Pinson has a .342 mark.

The Reds scored first in the second inning by the seventh consecutive singles by Post, Joe Cardenas and Dick Gernert and Darrell Johnson's sacrifice fly. The Pirates moved in front briefly when two runs in the eighth on singles by Bill Mazeroski, Bill Virdon, Dick Groat and Dick Stuart.

The Dodgers, beaten two nights in a row by the seventh-place Cubs, remained five games behind the first - place Reds by pushing the winning run across in the 13th inning when Wally Moon singled, reached second on a groundout moved to third on a passed ball and scored on Don Zimmer's two-out single.

Sandy Koufax (18-11) went the distance for the victory, striking out 15 men for a 296 total this season, and moved within sight of tying the modern league record of 367 by Christy Mathewson of New York Giants in 1903. Barney Schultz (7-6), third Cubs pitcher, was the loser.

Hank Aaron hit a bases-loaded single in the seventh inning that snapped a 3-3 tie and gave the Braves' eight - game losing streak. Lew Burdette (17-16) won, although Orlando Cepeda tagged him for a double, triple and a homer, his 32nd round - tripper of the year.

Clay Dalrymple and Ruben Amaro drove in two runs each against Ernie Broglio (9-13) for the Phils' victory while Don Ferrarese (3-13) checked the Cards on seven hits.

Canadiens' Boss

Demands Rules Enforced

MONTREAL (CP) — The club owners in the National Hockey League have given backing for referees and linesmen to crack down on violations by players this year and make their calls under the strict letter of the rule book, it was learned Wednesday night.

The move came as a result of an 1,800 - word letter to NHL President Clarence Campbell from Senator Hartland de M. Molson, the brewery magnate who controls Montreal Canadiens.

At the NHL's annual meeting here last June, the board of governors — in effect the team owners — agreed to support a more rigid enforcement of the rules by the officials.

The move came as a result of an 1,800 - word letter to NHL President Clarence Campbell from Senator Hartland de M. Molson, the brewery magnate who controls Montreal Canadiens.

At the NHL's annual meeting here last June, the board of governors — in effect the team owners — agreed to support a more rigid enforcement of the rules by the officials.

Senator Molson said Wednesday night he decided to write Campbell because he felt the game was being spoiled by unnecessary roughness and it was having a detrimental effect on youngsters playing hockey.

"They take it for granted they should play the same way as the pros and the pro game produced heavy injuries through illegal play that was not being called as such," he said in an interview.

BACK OFFICIALS

In his letter, sent to Campbell before the June meeting, led to the decision by the board of governors to give the officials assurance they would be supported in calling play more tightly.

In addition to rough play, the players were getting away with other rule infractions. He cited the trend that has developed among goalkeepers.

"They were holding the puck for more than three seconds and it would lead to a face - off. But the rules clearly state it's a penalty, not a face-off."

(The rules stipulate: "A goalkeeper who holds the puck with his hands for longer than three seconds shall be given a minor penalty.")

The senator's letter placed the onus for "unsatisfactory" officiating on the board of governors.

"Personally I believe that the future of hockey can only be assured if the game is played strictly according to the rules if the referees are told to call every infraction they see and if the players are assured of the complete support of their employers who are, after all, all of us."

New Batch of Commercials Now Coming Into Sight

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — As new shoes wear down, so does television these days, a new batch of commercials are coming into sight, too.

As far as novelty and fresh approaches to salesmanship are concerned, there seems to be little worth mentioning except a stronger trend this season toward serving plots into the pitches.

One soft drink company managed to insert the whole boy-meets - girl sequence into a commercial the other night, with the principals clutching their beloved bottles instead of each other at the smash windup.

The ladies with the fresh shampoos and body cremes-and-ents are still swirling their heads in slow motion as they admire themselves in mirrors (an advertising executive told me that the great sales discovery since hallitosis was slow motion film of swirling heads of hair).

Average housewives still are taking whiteness, softness and cleanliness tests — and I shall spend another season wondering where the sponsors hide the film in which the victim picked the wrong pile of clothes or liked the taste of butter better than that other spread.

THOSE TESTS ARE BACK

It is with keen personal regret that I report we're in for still another season of those impetitious family scenes in which daddy or one of the kids rehash the results of a toothpaste test in a college.

The jolly singing twins are back too, giggling and waving at the viewers — and they're so crazy about chewing gum, why don't they ever chew it in the commercials?

Nobody has come up with a better cigarette commercial. The emphasis continues on closeups of strong, handsome men inhaling with ecstasy and on those wildly romantic scenes in which the right filter plays cupid.

NBC's The Joey Bishop Show got off to a sluggish start Wednesday night with an unlaughable skit about a wife loaded with fake laughter. Bishop, one of the bright young men of comedy, plays a scared underling in a television publicity office. The situation and all the jokes were vintage. If a member of the clan ever needed help, it's Joey — and he needs it now.

Oliver Dies of Cancer

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — Ed (Porky) Oliver, former Ryder Cup player and a leading professional golfer for 20 years, died Wednesday a victim of cancer. He was 45.

Oliver led the pro golf circuit more than a year ago. He underwent two operations and was told by his doctor at that time he had maybe four to six months to live.

Known along the golf circuit as the perennial runner-up in big tournaments, Oliver devoted the last year to aiding cancer research.

The father of four—they range from nine to 18 — helped raise about $30,000 to fight the disease. He did it through various testimonials and other athletes in his honor.

Recently he was appointed honorary captain of the 1961 U.S. Ryder Cup squad which plays in England in October. He said at the time that "It's a great honor. Naturally I'm hoping to go." Oliver played in three Ryder Cup matches—1947, 1951 and 1963. Each year the U.S. won.

Jack Paar Becomes Movie Industry's Hate of Week

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Jack usually willing to make changes Paar is the movie industry's in order to get co-operation. hate of the week, thanks to his performance at the burlone of Berlin.

Paar's penchant for trouble bounced back on the heads of Congress and the Pentagon hit the ceiling at reports of troops being used as extras for Paar's show from Berlin.

Some congressmen aimed their complaints at the use of troops in movies, especially Darryl Zanuck's current The Longest Day. There were calls for a review of the practice of service co-operation with movie makers.

All this pained the producers and no doubt the Pentagon, too. For 20 years, Hollywood and the services have been working together in an alliance that was both smooth and little known. Both sides claim it has been mutually profitable.

The alliance hasn't been noised about for an obvious reason. Too much publicity would cause politicians to question—with some justice—about such use of taxpayers' money. That is exactly what happened in the Paar case.

How does the system operate? A producer sends his script to the Pentagon with a request for service co-operation. A board reviews the script with an eye toward how the service is portrayed. If in a bad light, co-operation is refused. Or the board might point out what it would like changed in order to the producer whether he wanted to make changes.

FORM OF CENSORSHIP

This, of course, is a form of censorship. But producers don't object too loudly. They are

"Most service pictures couldn't be made without Pentagon help," explained a producer. "We couldn't afford to buy for that many extras. And we would have no means of securing the equipment."

Said another producer: "It could be tragic if Paar wiped out Zanuck's picture. Delay is a great chapter in American courage and especially timely today. By ha portrayal of allied co-operation. It deserves to be told."

GENERAL TENDENCIES

You can certainly now tune in on the changes that are wise for you to make as well as understand better how you can expand and extend your interests in other directions. Be sure that you do open up a whole new set of circumstances through studying the information on subjects that truly fascinate you. Listen to your intuitions also.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) The day is ideal for contacting the individuals who are authorities in whatever most interests you at this time. However, do so confidentially. Then tonight be sure to get out for fun or socially, whatever gives you the most pleasure.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) By getting together with good companies and associates, you will find they give fine, valuable ideas that are practical and can be put in operation quickly. Evening is then fine for attending some special social function. Have fun.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) A good day to have a conference with highest hopes that the future becomes more successful, or for yourself coming up with some practical and clever ideas. Also, work efficiently and make a fine impression. Improve your credit, too.

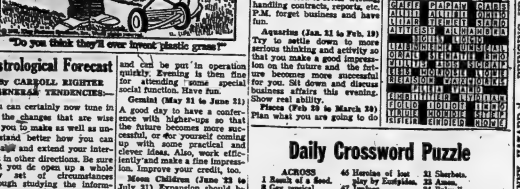
Cancer (June 22 to July 21) Expansion should be your first consideration today, so be on the qui vive for good ideas. Also, don't hesitate to express your ideas in new and influential friends. They will be in a position to help you materially in the early future.

Leo (July 22 to August 21) Every opportunity is yours now to contact that accountant who can save you much with regard to finances, whether in business or personal life. Put in take care you are not jealous of others. Concentrate on having a good time.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) The right day to have long conferences with associates in whatever spheres most interest you and are vital at this time. You can cement far better relations than have been possible in some time. Be cooperative and charming.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Concentrate on getting office or abode in fine order, whether with regard to cleanliness or adding new furniture, bric-a-brac, etc. P.M. meet with friends and show you have a sense of humor.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) This can be a delightful day and evening for you provided you first cement better relations with the one you love. Enjoy the sort of entertainment that most pleases and be sure you delve into creative outlets in which you excel.



Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Close ties may expect you to do much more than you had bargained for, but it behooves you to be particularly devoted at this time or there is trouble ahead. Take it easy at home tonight or have choice friends in for cards, etc.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A fine day to shop for those items that you have been looking for for some time. A.M. by best for this and afternoon can be devoted to letter writing, handling contracts, reports, etc. P.M. forget business and have fun.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Try to settle down to more serious thinking and activity so that you make a good impression on the future and the future becomes more successful for you. Sit down and discuss business affairs this evening. Show real ability.

Pisces (Feb 20 to March 20) Plan what you are going to do with others during the day and evening, then dress in very good taste and make this a most happy and successful period in the old week, or will be able to meet new friends who are influential and charming.

If your child is born today much can be accomplished in this life for the reason that your progeny is alert to the needs about him, or her, and whatever opportunities are about. So, be very sure you early familiarize himdar as playmates are concerned and have only the best around, otherwise your child could be led in the wrong directions. A fine mind here, though, capable of tackling big projects and whittling them down to practical size.

Orthodox Church Leavening Influence in Movement To Unite Christian Bodies

The Orthodox Church, which split with Rome in the second years ago, has been a leavening influence in the unity movement which stirs Christendom today. In the second of three articles, the role of Orthodoxy as the "church in the middle" is discussed.

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—A heady wind is blowing on the Christian landscape today — and in the east.

It comes from the ancient and venerable Orthodox Church and is helping dissolve the once-rigid boundaries between the separate folds of faith.

The promise of re-recognition and mutual respect among the different churches is part of a new ecclesiastical outlook that has spread through the ranking sectors of churchdom—Protestant, Roman Catholic and Orthodox.

In a sense, Orthodoxy has emerged as the church in the middle — between Protestantism and Rome—in matters of the past standoffish reserve. Pope John XXIII earlier called the second Vatican council, now tentatively set for 1962, with efforts at church unity among the purposes, there were some special gestures toward the eastern church.

WANTS EQUALITY

Orthodoxy as a rite is also demanded the fraternal move, but said they could not take part in unity efforts that were not equally open to Protestants, at times including their collective representation in the world council. As it turns out, both Protestant and Orthodox observers likely will be present at Rome's council.

Rome, in turn, is sending official observers to the pan-Orthodox council this month on the Isle of Rhodes and to the world council assembly in New Delhi in November.

All the world bodies are expected to take action regarding the moves for rapprochement. The task is seen as demanded both theologically—by the oneness of Christ himself — and practically — to join church forces against modern threats.

"It is clear that there has been a change of climate," says Rev. Bernard Leeming, a British Roman Catholic consultant to the new Vatican unity secretariat. "On two sides, Catholic sides, things also have changed."

GAIN UNDERSTANDING

Protestant leaders, by association with Orthodoxy in the world council, have indirectly gained more understanding of Rome, which shares many Orthodox concepts—of the sacraments, the historic succession of bishops and other points.

Protestant leaders generally take more interest in the Catholic - Orthodox view that "there is more unity actually one, that all sincere Christians are part of the same undivided church and they need to find means for displaying that unity themselves.

The eastern church pinnacle thus is evident, in each of the major camps.

None of this means, in any sense, that Rome has lessened its certainty that it holds the one true faith, but it has acted to explore problems squarely with other groups.

Forced to Hold Paint Brush Between Teeth But Fine Pieces of Canvas Produced

By KEN PRITCHARD

TORONTO (CP)—A fall from a load of lumber four years ago ended Benny Dupuis' career as a truck driver and almost ended his life.

It left him paralysed, apparently permanently, with no feeling below his collarbone. But above the collarbone portion of his spine, he was an alert human being with an urge to find something useful to do.

About a year ago Benny found a way. He began to paint.

Holding a brush in his teeth, Benny began to apply oil colors to paint-by-numbers sets. He worked his way through some 40 of these, then began to do his own drawings in pencil before applying paint.

Benny's work is strictly representational — he makes pictures of what he sees about him or finds in books. When interviewed he was applying delicate touches of pink to a small piece of art board on which he had sketched a cluster of roses.

Alexander (his Christian name, which he seldom hears) and Benny Dupuis are the only bachelors who grew up in Combermere, 40 miles southwest of Pembroke, Ont.

TWO YEARS IN HOSPITAL

The tall that crippled him occurred in Lindsay, Ont., Oct. 25, 1957. He has lived in hospitals since, supported by workmen's compensation.

After two years in a Peterborough hospital he was transferred to a nursing home in Toronto where he saw another patient painting number sets and became interested.

Because of the echo that develops in his shoulderg and neck—he only parts of his body with feeling—Benny is able to leave his bed only four hours a day. He sits in a wheelchair equipped with a broad working surface. His right arm, suspended in a sling, is useless but he can swing his left arm enough to move things within reach.

CAMPBELLFORD

Dial Exchange To Be Opened Late in 1962

CAMPBELLFORD — Dial telephone service is coming to Campbellford late in 1962, the same time "Direct Distance Dialing" the service which enables telephone users to dial their own long distance calls, will be introduced in Campbellford.

W. Lettau, Bell Telephone manager for this region, said that plans are well underway for the opening of a new dial exchange here late in 1962 at a cost of about $400,000.

Construction of a new modern dial building on River Street, opposite the post office will begin in the spring with completion scheduled for the fall of 1962. The complicated task of installing the "cross-bar" automatic switching equipment is it will begin.

While this part of the program is still months off, Bell crews will be at work throughout the exchange area, renovating the telephone pole, wire and cable network. Also, all telephones will either be replaced or modified for use under the dial system.

The conversion must be carefully co-ordinated so that all Campbellford telephones can be put into operation at the same time with no interruption in service.

"Inauguration of dial service in Campbellford will give residents of the district the telephone system as modern as any in the world," Mr; Lettau said.

When the dial office opens, automatic switching equipment will take the task of connecting all calls, local and long distance, and operators will no longer be working there.

Most of the permanent operators employed at the time will be offered positions with dial offices elsewhere. Meanwhile operators working here for the Bell who may for any reason feel like giving up work before the changeover will be encouraged to remain in the office until that time, and if it is necessary to employ temporary help before the dial office opens, they will be advised of their positions may be temporary ones.

Most Far-Reaching Quest For Unity in Christian Annals Now Going On

By GEORGE CORNELL
AP Religious Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Churches of the world are rallying their scattered forces today in the biggest and most far-reaching quest for unity in Christian annals.

They're re - establishing ties that have been broken for centuries. They're hailing each other as "brother" in a new encouragement. They're concentrating on elements of the past, and voicing regret.

In a turbulent age swept by hostile ideologies, they're acting to force closer bonds of faith.

Over-all, the development is known as the ecumenical movement—meaning the churches of the whole inhabited earth. It takes its mandate from Christ's prayer as recorded in John 17:21—"that they all may be one."

INTEREST GROWS

The gathering reconciliation has already produced a number of precedent-breaking changes, and it is a prime concern of services in the numerous ecumenical Christian conclaves of unsurpassed scope. They are:

The Pan - Orthodox Council Sept. 25 to Oct. 1, on the island of Rhodes in Greece, bringing together representatives of all orthodox church jurisdictions, with a total 200,000,000 members. It is the first such meeting in 30 years.

The general assembly of the World Council of Churches Nov. 19 to Dec. 5 in New Delhi, India, including delegates of 176 Orthodox, Roman Catholic and Protestant denominations with 250,000,000 members in 32 countries. The Roman Catholic delegation will be the first such meeting in 90 years.

The second Vatican Council, now tentatively scheduled for late 1962, convening at the call of six archbishops, bishops and other ecclesiastical superiors of the 550,000,000-member Roman Catholic Church throughout the world. It will be the first such meeting in 92 years, and the biggest of its kind.

Protestant and Orthodox observers are expected to be invited.

For the first time, the Roman Catholic Church also is sending official observers to the Protestant and Orthodox assemblies.

UN Switch Means New Crisis Faces Cabinet In Congo

Cease-Fire in Katanga Seen as UN About-Face

OF from AP-Reuters

LEOPOLDVILLE — The UN Congo command today adopted a posture of military neutrality after its bold stroke to put down Katanga's secession by a show of strength ended in bloodshed and a cease-fire.

The cease-fire in the break-away province caught Premier Cyrille Adoula in a quandary as to how he could create a cabinet crisis in the central government he set up with UN backing to unify the country, Associated Press correspondent Douglas Kent reported.

The 39-year-old Adoula, an anti-Communist nationalist, was under strong pressure from left-wing parliamentarians to bring under his wing to take up the struggle from the UN in moving against Moise Tshombe.

Fresh shouts of defiance came from Minister Jason Sendwe and Gizenga Mpioka, newly appointed military chief of Katanga, who said in broadcasts from the Elisabethville that the truce is only temporary. He charged the UN command intended to break the truce. The United Nations has denied this.

Slade said he gave Rose a cheque for $800 and was to pay the balance after reconditioning the first shipment of supplies. But, he said, he asked for confirmation the deal before getting a ship, instead.

A company representative told him a $300 commission had been paid Rose out of the $800 cheque. Slade then asked for the remainder but was told he would have to wait for a commission from the company's board of directors. He didn't hear from them again, Slade said.

Charged with Slade are Karl Douglas Heath, Russell H. Pickard, Donald F. Carley, William C. Gilchrist, Mr. Justice Arthur Lucas, all of Toronto, Brian Cassidy of Montreal, and Tolvo Nordeman of Ottawa.

The case continues.

Trenton Airman Says He Gave Firm $800

TORONTO (CP)—An airman testified Thursday he gave a Toronto distributing firm a cheque for $800 but didn't know his money back when he did not accept delivery of any goods.

LAC Edward A. Slade, stationed at Trenton RCAF base, testified at the trial of eight men charged with conspiring to defraud the public and conspiring with operating a company which made $34,000 by fraudulent operations in the months of 1957.

Slade said he answered a newspaper advertisement and met Mike, newly appointed military chief of Katanga, who said in broken English capital of Elisabethville that the truce is only temporary. He charged the UN command intended to break the truce. The United Nations has denied this.

OUTLOOK UNCERTAIN

Only sporadic outbursts of gunfire in Katanga broke the quiet in the first 24 hours of the cease-fire, but the outlook was still far from certain.

Tunisian diplomat Mahmoud Khiari, chief UN civilian operations in The Congo who negotiated the cease-fire with President Moise Tshombe of Katanga told reporters Thursday:

"Katanga's secession is purely the internal affair of the Congolese."

Many Western and neutralist diplomats viewed the agreement having eight days of grace as a setback for the UN but Khiari said:

"We could not stop the senseless bloodshed . . . this is the only way that a settlement (between Tshombe and the central government) can be obtained. Without lasting peace the situation could once again deteriorate to hostilities."

Khiari said that the cease-fire was strictly a military agreement and did not touch on the political issues involved.

WAIT FOR TALKS

In Elisabethville, Reuters correspondent Henderson Gelt said life returned slowly to normal today as the 30,000 European residents, waited anxiously for the cease-fire talks on Katanga's future.

Sources close to the UN said the cease-fire agreement was accompanied by a call for a delegation to go to Leopoldville for talks between the UN and Katanga.

Tshombe for his part has said he will go to the capital to talk with Adoula, but he wants the meeting to take place on neutral ground, not central government, local merchant said. Tshombe fears power contrast early today.

The RNC-GH agreed on the terms of the one hundred and one of the six TUC-represented factories, it was announced Monday in Warsaw, Ohio.

The UAW, which represents approximately 1,000,000 U.S. and GH workers, has recently negotiated local agreements with companies and non-economic issues in a new three-year contract.

Local issues, which cover all of 125 factories represented by the UAW also have reached agreement on new at-the-plant working agreements, which supplement the national agreement.

The UAW's international executive board decided Thursday to stop into the local-level disputes that at one time last week closed 92 GM plants and left idle 200,000 workers.

UAW President Walter Reuther said the calling in of local union leaders to confer directly with GM management would give the UAW's international officers act in the interests of maintaining what should be "a sensible and realistic approach" to ending outstanding differences.

Odd Fellows, Rebekahs Hold Re-Institution Meet at Port Hope

On the evening of September 15, the town hall at Port Hope was the scene of a happy occasion as the Oddfellows and Rebekahs of Ontario when Dunham Lodge No 78 was re-instituted by the officers of the Grand Lodge of Ontario.

Twenty-five charter members were introduced among them Brother J. Nesbitt, past Noble Grand of Belleville Lodge No. 31 I.O.O.F.

After the presentation charter, the Grand Master of Grand Lodge of Ontario, Brother Chitwell, addressed the assembly, requesting the branches of the Order to all work together towards a brotherhood of all men and thus to help accomplish an urgent need in the world today.

DISTANCE DECREASED

"In the world as we see it, distances have become less significant and vast powers have been placed in the hands of unpredictable men — even the people of self destruction, if never — of utter chaos at least."

Reaffirming faith in God, the Grand Master testified that he doubts that man can be allowed to destroy God's handiwork.

"In our faith we must acknowledge the need for prudence so that we may hope to overcome misunderstanding and the injustices of this world."

GIFTS PRESENTED

Many beautiful gifts were presented to Durham Lodge by the visitors present, regalia, a P.G., a jewel and a banner. The newly installed Noble Grand, Brother William Roche, expressed thanks for al these on behalf of his lodge.

Brothers present from Cobourg; Bowmanville; Orono; Whitby; Oshawa; Port Perry; Peterborough; Brooklin; Lindsay; Stirling; Trenton; Belleville; Bethel; Millbrook; Brantford; Madoc; Ottawa; Nelson, B.C.; Kapuskasing; Alberta; Port Arthur; Mathieson, and Prettice.

Lunch was served following the open installation of officers.

Last Wednesday evening the Oddfellows and Rebekah Lodges and T. committee (Cancer, Polio and Tuberculosis) held their regular meeting at the I.O.O.F. Hall. Bro. Elgin Harris presided; called the members to order.

Correspondence included a letter, which was read from Mrs. Hattie Vickers with a generous donation to further this great work of C.P. and T.

A special thanks was given to Mrs. Vickers.

The committee reported they have on hand several wheel chairs, hospital beds and crutches at present which will be loaned out, free of charge to anyone who may be in need of them.

Many plans are now under way for the C.P. and T. lunch counter at the plowing match in October.

The big day which the committee had in this district again a great success and thanks go out to all those who worked for the cause.

All business being dealt with, the meeting closed with a feeling among the members that their evening together was a great success.

Fred W. Sprague Dies at Home, Ill Long Time

Former member of the National Revenue Department, choir member for many years and prominent in the civic and social life of this community, Frederick William Sprague, 307 Sidney Street, died at his home Thursday afternoon following almost a year of illness.

Mr. Sprague was born in Ameliasburg township, Prince Edward County, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Sprague, and had been a continuous resident of this city for many years. He was educated in public school of his native township and his secondary education was received in this city. As a young man he entered the National Revenue Department in the Customs and Excise branch and was a valued employee for forty years.

He was stationed at the Corby Distillery as an Excise clerk and worked through the various grades and was Chief Excise Officer at that plant for seventeen years and was Supervisor in 1948. Mr. Sprague enjoyed the confidence of the management and the high regard of his employees under his charge through the years. He retired from active service through his hands during his term of office, all of which was the result of his training. He was a friend to all.

He was a loyal and devout member of Bridge Street United Church and was a member of the Board of Stewards for his death. His beautiful bass voice was a feature of that excellent choir for many years and was a soloist of note and his services were always requested at particular functions. Mr. Sprague also sang in quartets and he was always ready and willing to assist in worthwhile projects. Fraternally, he was a life member of the Belleville Lodge, A.F. & A.M., No. 122.

Mr. Sprague was a devoted friend and enjoyed a wide circle in every walk of life, who will sincerely regret his death. Surviving are his wife, the former Minnie M. Brower; two sons Alan B. Sprague, barrister of this city; Fred M. Sprague, also of this city; one sister, Mrs. James A. (Muriel) Richardson of Winnipeg, and five grandchildren, James, William, Edward, Stewart and Jenny.

The brother, Arthur Sprague, died in 1959.

The funeral will be held on Saturday afternoon from the Pinkston and Luscombe Funeral Home with interment in Belleville cemetery.

Man Charged With Assault, Remanded

George Palmanter of this city faced a charge of common assault causing bodily harm, in city magistrate's court this morning and was remanded to October 17 on $2,000 cash or $2,000 personal bail. The accused is charged with assaulting Freda Jeffers who is in hospital, suffering from severe bruises. Magistrate Wills told the accused he was to stay away from the woman and that he would have to sign a bond to keep the peace. Mr. Pringle said this was the only thing they could do in this case because of the fact that the accused and the woman are joint owners of a house and they could not prohibit her from returning to it.

Two Given Jail Terms For Assault

Ronald J. Sullivan was sentenced to six months in jail this morning by Magistrate T. J. Wills on a charge of common assault to which the accused pleaded guilty. Leon Francis Donoghue, pleaded guilty to the same charge and was sentenced to two months in jail. They had been previously charged with attempted sexual intercourse. They were discharged on this count at their preliminary hearing a few weeks ago. Magistrate Wills said he thought it was the proper penalty in view of their records and the degree of participation in the assault.

Crown Attorney John Pringle said the sentence was not more severe because the damage had already been done by a man in Toronto who is serving 30 years in the penitentiary for rape, by the time Sullivan and Donoghue assaulted her.

MOTORISTS CAN

North Bay police said chalking is the best way to be fair to a motorist. It is carried out mainly in parking areas where there were no meters but where parking is restricted or restricted.

"In this way it discourages downtown workers from parking their cars through the entire day and the chalking up a spot that might be used by many motorists on short trips," Staff Sgt. Robertson said.

And for anyone thinking of taking litterbug to the judge's statement about resisting with force, Chief Constable Carl Farrow of Windsor said he wouldn't advise it with his men.

They have orders to continue marking tires until legal officials study the ruling.

Holloway United A.O.T.S. Plans Coming Events

Last Monday evening, the Holloway St. A.O.T.S. Men's Club held its first meeting of the new season. Sixteen members and four guests were present to enjoy the fine dinner prepared by the W.M.S. group of the church.

Plans were discussed for projects for the coming year, one of the chief ones being the sponsoring of a student from Northern Rhodesia, whose tuition is being paid at Queen's by the 12 AOTS clubs in the Belleville Presbytery.

The annual Ladies Night will be held in October with tickets being sold in advance. A fine program is being prepared, and all members are urged to attend with their wives.

Laymen's Sunday is being observed on October 22 this year, and the club is once again taking charge of the service. All club members are expected to participate in the service in some way.

The devotional period was conducted by Ross Taylor, who gave a fine talk on the hazards of being a minister. The Sgt.-at-Arms was a guest from the Consecon club, the Rev. Donald Pipe and the sing-song was led by Ted Poste.

The program was a do it yourself with each member singing for two minutes, one most embarrassing moment. Some amusing accidents came to light.

Two Sections Closed to Duck Hunters

It was announced today by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police that two areas in the Bay of Quinte have been closed to duck hunters, due to placing bait for ducks, within ten days of the opening of the season which takes place on Saturday morning. Signs have been posted in the areas and any shooting in these sections will bring prosecution.

One area closed is the Belleville Harbor, which extends north from the Bay Bridge to Victoria Park. This includes all of the marsh to the west of the government dock. The other area closed is two miles north of Highway No. 2 at Point Anne and some ponds located north of the CPR tracks and east of the Point Anne Cement plant tracks.

Council Passes 3 By-Laws Outlining Plans to Annex Sidney, Murray Twp. Areas

TRENTON — Yesterday, town council, with the passing of three separate by-laws, made known (officially) its intention to annex certain portions of Sidney and Murray Townships. Last year, Councillor D. R. Fraser headed up a special committee set up by council to survey the town's annexation needs and report back to council. Yesterday, the councillor made his final report to council. Passing of the by-laws was termed "the culmination of a two-year effort involving a tremendous amount of work, and the compiling of endless reports" by Councillor Fraser.

The by-laws will be forwarded to a Toronto solicitor for final inspection and then the town's annexation plans will be placed before the Ontario Municipal Board for approval. Councillor Fraser suggested that the Murray and Sidney township councils, and members of ratepayers' associations from these townships be invited to a special meeting and the town's reasons for wanting to annex the areas designated by the by-laws be explained to them. If the Ontario Municipal Board approves of the plan, the township ratepayers will be given the opportunity to register their opposition, if any, to the annexation. Councillor Fraser said that, all things being considered, he doubted if the annexation would become effective until the early spring of 1963.

The first by-law, concerning annexation intentions in Sidney Township, sets the town's westerly boundary at the Bell road; the northern boundary would follow a line from Dixon Drive along a line south of the Middleton Park area; the western boundary would be the present town limits and the boundary line to the south would be the Bay of Quinte.

The second by-law outlines in detail the town's annexation intentions in a portion of Murray township, directly west of the town. In this case the proposed westerly boundary has been drawn along a natural line from a point approximately 500 feet west of the Stanley Heights western boundary to the Bay of Quinte. The south boundary would be the bay itself. Two "jogs" in the boundary line have been made north and south of the Stanley Heights sub-division itself. At that it was thought that the area bordering on the bay and south of Highway No. 2 might be excluded from the plan but if this plan were carried out, the town would only control one side of the highway. Eyeing directly west of the proposed westerly boundary is property owned by Colin Crews and the Kennedy family. There is some indication that these owners may apply for annexation on their own.

The third by-law concerns portions of Murray township lying in the vicinity of North Trenton. The northerly boundary would be south of the CNR right-of-way and would take in Harry's Furniture and Appliances and "the Redwood Motel. The westerly boundary would follow the Fourth Avenue right-of-way, and the southerly boundary of the annexed area would be at Ferndand St.

In all, the proposed annexation would add more than 750 acres to the town; around 310 acres in Murray township to the west of the town; 80 acres in the North Trenton area and approximately 180 acres in Sidney township.

Councillors, having weighed possible debenture debts which the town would be obliged to assume and other like factors against the added assessment, concluded that annexation was "a good thing" and voted unanimously for the three by-laws.

Does One Eat After Leaving Bomb Shelter?

TRENTON — The Trenton Public Utilities Commission decided at its monthly meeting yesterday to supply power free for Trenton's three air raid sirens, if and when power is needed. A bill for the installation of the sirens will be forwarded to the Department of National Defence.

"Let's hope and pray that we never have to use any power for them," said commission chairman, Clifford A. Baker.

"What I want to know is what we do if they do blow," said Commissioner Charles Hilton. "We've been reading about these fall-out shelters. I know how they're made and I know what you're supposed to take into them, but what do you do when you come out? What are you supposed to eat, for instance? It's confusing, but not amusing."

Commission members appealed to Mayor D. Jean MacDonald, who has attended area civil defence meetings.

"Where are the new raid shelters?" asked the chairman.

Mayor MacDonald said that the committee in charge of area defence would set up a program in the near future.

"We're only concerned about fall-out here," he said.

"Fall-out?" queried Commissioner Hilton. "Have the Russians been using a weapon that they won't drop a bomb here? I'd still like to know what we do if we hear word of a fall-out shelter."

That's the reason I suggested to council that we protect the Sidney Street underground water supply," said Chairman Baker. "Utilities employees should be instructed that the filler plant and the water supply from the ponds should be cut off right away in case of a bomb falling anywhere in this area. I'll speak to do a bit of work to talk about this eventuality."

Weed Killer Being Used In Quinte Bay

TRENTON — For the past two days, T. R. Windsor, from the federal department of public works and C. F. Schenk and P. Fraser of the Ontario Water Resources Commission have been carrying out a program of spraying certain specified areas of the Bay of Quinte with four different kinds of weed killer. Results of the spray will be observed, tabulated and reported to the department officials concerned about the removal of the luxuriant growth which spreads from the bay.

The federal department became interested in the weed killing through the efforts of the Industrial and Economic Committee of the town, headed up by Councillor Lloyd Worrall.

BREAD TO PORCH

The Trenton fire department was called out to the home of William Smith, 187 Ontario Street at 3.47 a.m. today, where a fire of unknown origin which had broken out in the front of the family car, had spread to the front porch of the home. Damage to the porch was estimated at $50 and the car was almost completely ruined. Firemen used a newly-bought extinguisher on the fire with good results.

PUC Wants Land Kept Available For More Wells

TRENTON — At a special meeting of town council Thursday morning, Clifford A. Baker, chairman of Trenton Public Utilities Commission, asked the town to consider turning the land in the immediate vicinity of the Sidney Street well over to the Trenton Parks Board and suggested that the board could use this land for a playground area.

Mr. Baker said that in this way the commission could retain certain rights, including that of being able to sink additional wells on the property if necessary, while the people of the area could benefit from having the land used as a playground or park area.

Mr. Baker said that in the case of an "emergency," specifically naming nuclear warfare, there might be a great need for a source of uncontaminated, "underground water." He said that in the light of world events he considered this a prime factor in the consideration of keeping the Sidney Street well area as "public property." He said that the commission did not wish to own the land but was adverse to the thought of the town selling off the land to individuals.

Mayor James MacDonald assured Mr. Baker that the town was not contemplating the sale of this land and said that the Parks Board had been advised of the commission's suggestion. Clerk-comptroller O. W. Larry told the commission chairman that the land in question had been deemed unfit for building purposes.

Mr. Baker said that the commission was also concerned about the town advertising for sale certain properties in which the commission has interests. He said the commission's water rights be protected in regard to a gore-shaped lot near the Bell Road and Dixon Drive. He was advised that this land is under the jurisdiction of the Parks Board and that he should discuss his problem with this board.

Health Officer Protests Action Of Town Council

TRENTON — Town council was informed yesterday through a letter from H. S. Fraser, chairman of the Trenton Board of Health, that Dr. E.W. Dow, board member and medical health officer for the town, had written to the Air Pollution Branch of the provincial government, in Toronto to protest the action of council in amending the town's smoke and fume by-law by-law to permit town residents to burn leaves on their property.

Council has decided to allow matters to rest for another week. One councillor voiced the hope (sotto voce) that by the time letters had been exchanged that the leaves would have been burned.

Council amended the by-law to forestall a costly suggestion made by the health board that council be responsible for darting away the smoke.

Clerk-comptroller O. W. Larry told council that board member Miss Marjorie Goldard had phoned him to suggest that the amendment to the by-law be rescinded as she was concerned by the effect of the smoke from burning leaves on the town's atmosphere.

TRENTON—Wednesday morning, Ab Gaines, Neil Avery and Art Titmarsh of the North Peterborough Kiwanis Club, set out in a freighter canoe equipped with a 5 h.p. motor, from Peterborough. By Thursday the trio had reached Trenton and were dinner guests of the Trenton Kiwanis Club. They are on their way to a Kiwanis convention in Quebec City. They will drive from Quebec City to Montreal, then resume their canoe trip. The end of the trip should come Sunday when the intrepid canoeists will race Windsor Kiwanians who have set out for the convention in an ancient car and six-jitted Kiwanians from Ottawa who have set sail for Quebec City two hours before the Peterborough canoe is expected to arrive at the end of the course.

Requiem for Rebels

"Everybody just seems to accept injustice or conditions which should not exist at all," complains an 18-year-old girl in a letter to an "advice" column in a daily newspaper. "I am sometimes so depressed when I hear older people say 'Well, there is nothing you can do about it.' Am I going to be like that one day?"

The answer is yes.

Anybody who is depressed by indifference will become indifferent.

The right reaction is rage.

The rebel must be unreasonable. George Bernard Shaw said that the reasonable man adjusts to the world; the unreasonable man tries to make the world adjust to him. Therefore all progress is the product of unreasonable men.

A rebel is an unreasonable man with fire in his guts. The trouble today is not that rebels lack causes but that they lack means.

Marx was the favorite theoretician of revolt. He needs to be rewritten. He is not only out-dated but his recipe was wrong.

One reason there are so many whose revolt has, in the words of this 18-year-old girl, crumbled into resignation and acceptance was the discovery by many of the angriest young men and women that the cure Marx prescribed was worse than the disease.

Many followed Marx into some dank and dismal cul-de-sac, there to perish in body before a Red firing squad, as did many a volunteer to Loyalist cause in Spain, or to have their souls shrivelled by the discovery they were serving a tyranny but little better than Hitler's.

Some who scorned Marx and thus escaped that trap have nevertheless had their rage soured into ulcerating frustration. In only a few countries of the world is there any hope of the rebel winning a fight without bloodshed—and in all these countries the blood is sure to be his own and not that of his foes. As Premier Nehru has pointed out in one of his books, the day when the people can hope to overthrow a regime without the support of the regime's army has long passed.

Maybe, if there is ever general and complete disarmament, to use Khrushchev's pet phrase, the day will return when a rebel can raise an army with some hope of success. When that day comes, Khrushchev may rue it. But there will be other candidates for the tumbrils. Certain people in Algeria, for example, while not probably a black man or two, also, in Africa. The cultured hundreds among Latin America's starving millions.

But not in North America. We are too fat and well-fed. And let's face it, if there were enough rebels they could probably win without resorting to force. The reason why we accept "injustices or conditions which should not exist at all" is because we are indifferent. And we are indifferent because so few of us have ever been rebels, with rage in our hearts. Our teenage determination to stand up for what is right has been watered down by the years into what we call wisdom and tolerance. For we have been reasonable men—and only the unreasonable refuse to bow the knee to the passage of time and to the inertia which makes all mere reformers resigned to accepting little where much was once dreamed.

Time for Action

Now is the time for 99 nations to show a little of that stubborn national pride which is all too often frittered away on unworthy causes.

Dag Hammarskjold put their collective hand to the plow in Katanga, when the UN broke a previous cease fire in an effort to end the secession of that province from the Congo.

Not all of the UN's 99 members approve that course. That, though, is all the more reason for those which do to get to grips with the problem.

To permit its forces to be driven ignominiously from Katanga by a rabble of uncivilized tribesmen, a handful of greedy pawns of a mining monopoly and a rag-tag of mercenaries would be a disgrace for a third-class power—let alone for the international organization of the vast majority of the nations of the world.

Words are always a cheap tribute to a man's selfless devotion to a cause, but sometimes there is no alternative way to pay homage. In Hammarskjold's case, though, surely it is obvious that the best, the only worthwhile, tribute to his memory is to crown with success the project which cost him his life.

If Moise Tshombe and his white collaborators win in Katanga, what UN peace force in the years ahead can ever apply itself to its task with the assurance that it will be given the tools to do the job?

Insurance System Hit

By Ted Trent
in the Windsor Star

There is something basically wrong about the way the insurance companies handle the whole automobile insurance problem. The policies of the companies are morally wrong. They encourage dishonesty on the part of the driver. For the sake of economy, they permit small injustices to flourish.

Perhaps the companies have been too politically sensitive, when they introduced these low, low rates for safe drivers who make no claims. No doubt about it — safe driving pays and most of them millions of dollars. It has cost innocent bystanders millions, as well.

There is the case in which the insured driver whangs into another car in a parking lot. Nobody sees it, so right he disappears. He has insurance to cover the other fellow's damages — but he'll run because he is afraid the claim will bring his rates up. That is not what we meant when we said there is something basically wrong.

There is no lower animal than the person who will damage another's car and then run scene without so much as an "I'm sorry." He not only has caused the driver grief in paying insurance rates to cover any damage or injury he may have done to his neighbor. Else what is car insurance for?

We said also injustices are allowed to flourish. We know of one case where a driver had his car badly smashed up in a parking lot. The criminal — and that's what he is — didn't just run for the hills and left his victim to foot the bill for front-end damages. He had $100 deductible. He paid that. The insurance company paid the rest — and jumped his rates for the next year. Don't imagine, a guy who is sitting in his office when his car is hit has to pay the penalty.

A neighbor reports that last winter, he was driving slowly on an icy road. At a main corner, another car made the turn, went sideways on the road, and rammed into the front of his car. There was nothing this driver could do. The strange thing happened on the settlement. His insurance company paid the claim — then jumped his rate for three years. Again, this was perfectly unfair. Think of the driver, and he was the victim of what to him was an unavoidable accident.

There is a good deal of hanky-panky, too, when adjusters get to settling up claims. Take the case of the guy in tow who is stopped at a traffic light, prepared to make a left turn. Behind him is a driver in effect, waiting for the red to change green. He is slammed into the car he is chauffeuring behind by another.

The two insurance companies dickered over this settlement, and of course the innocent victim is out of the picture. Sometimes he is partly responsible. This is unreasonable. There just is no defense for the driver who is at the end of another car. Yet in order to settle the claim, both adjusters in this case agreed to a saw-off. The claim record is blotched, however, and in some central insurance heaven, will show that the innocent victim of this accident was partly responsible.

Thanks to the generosity of Belleville shoppers, over a ton of canned foods and fruits left the city yesterday when Red Cross headquarters in Toronto to be shipped eventually to the bombed-out people of Britain. The generous shipment was the result of an appeal from "Food for Britain" launched by the young women of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Bridge Street United Church Red Cross groups a few weeks ago. Boards were placed at convenient stores along the main business thoroughfare of the city, and shoppers were appealed to, to place one or more cans or food or fruit therein while doing the family shopping.

Whether or not city fire hall circles are superstitious, or possibly they were not aware of the fact, but today is the thirteenth day since a fire alarm has been sounded at the Belleville fire station. Not since the 7th of September have any of the fire trucks been called out. Could Cash Come Back?

Christian Science Monitor

Connie B. Gay, a Washington broadcaster, is trying to sell the American public on the idea of carrying "cash cards" instead of credit cards. He is convinced (and will probably reap cash) that a good idea.

Under his scheme, instead of charging goods and services to be paid for later, the average consumers would pay cash first to buy their cards and then receive discounts for cash purchase.

According to Mr. Gay's research, the average family in his own area, Washington, spends about $125.40 per week on interest and bookkeeping charges for credit transactions. With a prepaid "cash card" this cost would be eliminated and a 5% cash-purchase bonus in discounts substituted. Stores would retain the advantage of handling less cash, and presumably would rise in the affection of customers because of the cash-card discount.

However successful Mr. Gay's scheme is, it is not likely to wipe out quickly much of the $54,000,000,000 in consumer credit now owed by Americans.

But we hope this and so a plan will receive some impetus. the thinking of Americans family budgeters. Perhaps some of them might even decide to experiment once more with cash.

Paradoxes You Meet Around You

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

The man who is too shy to stand up and talk at a meeting is the same man who stands talking too long; once he does get up, nervousness makes him overly confident in the beginning and overly querulous in the end.

The woman who is too indulgent toward her children is the same woman who treats them too harshly when she at last loses her patience; self-confessing exact a heavy price when the kid is finally lifted.

The employer who is magnanimous about large matters concerning his employees' welfare is often the same man who is needlessly petty about the small matters; in this way he reassures himself that he is still the boss and not the victim of his own generosity.

The entertainer with the schizoid personality in front of an audience is usually the same one whose personality is flat and colorless in the privacy of his own home; for most people, the mask is more perfectly blank except when reflecting some object in front of them.

The patriot who waves the flag most fanatically is often the same who despises the patriotism of other nations, not realizing that he will love no more the hate of aliens than the love of country.

The journalist who publicly assails the sins of the flesh is generally more severe in his approbation of the sins of the spirit. Deep moral indignation which found more repellent among the respectable than among the outcasts.

The young person who considers himself a rebel is often the same impression is the same one who makes the worst impression for nothing eventually defeats its own end so much as the monotony of those who are all of one people's eyes.

The lovers who stay up until all hours talking and moaning about are often the same couple who are bickering at 7 o'clock each other across the dinner table after they are married; for a romance that is hectic and intense tends to burn itself out in the desire to have a home.

The waiter — to strike a light note — who hovers over you in your ears impatiently waiting for the order before you have scrutinized the menu is the same waiter who is nowhere to be seen when you have just finished your meal and are tapping the table top impatiently for the check.

And finally, the writer who is conscious of the richness in human nature is the same one who cannot resolve the paradoxes within himself, and uses his insight as a substitute for a solution.

Doctors Face Hard Choice

The Canadian Doctor

The press criticism of doctors in recent years, whatever its merits, could be taken as a good account — if it were to make doctors think.

There is no smoke without fire, and it could be that we are too preoccupied with the attractive economics of dollars and cents to give thought to the repellent economics of disease.

The interest of the popular press in medical incomes is no accident. Doctors, like most types of professions, are painted with materialism. But while we others can get away with this, the doctor cannot. People do not like to think of him as engaged in any social evil of illness. Many fail to see the doctor's dilemma.

It is certain that many doctors, probably most dislike their financial dependence on their patients' misfortune, but se much as the patients do. But one cannot get a long and expensive education, work long hours and lead a life of constant ing up to the public's ideal of a doctor's dignity and yet ask for a high financial reward.

Let us admit that our conscience is a fairly elastic one. The ordering of expensive beds, the decision to operate these things run from the heavily on a man's conscience, because his fallible human judgment is called upon to be the arbiter, but even more so because the rendering of the judgment in one direction automatically brings him a reward in cash. There is no danger that the modern cult of athletic cynicism has infected the doctor in any respect into the old foundations of Christian charity upon which the profession was built."

One Teen-Ager May Ask Questions Bothering Many

By Joseph C. Hinton, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: The blood vessels in my wrists have become very prominent lately. I am not overly. They are larger, than smaller, than larger and so on. Is there anything I can do? Is anything be done? — M. J. C."

This is nothing to worry about. As veins pass over bone or tendon they become more prominent as the surrounding tissue loses down into the flesh. Don't confuse these with "varicose veins." The pressure is not on them; they aren't varicose. There are various reasons why they may become more prominent. One is that they show more prominently after loss of weight.

"Dear D.R. Molner: Is there any harm in making a boiled dressing for the hair by melting butter in vinegar and adding a beaten egg and cooking until thick? — E. P."

It sounds like an interesting concoction.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What causes my right arm to go to sleep every time I lie on my left side at night? Then I have to lie on my back for quite some time before I get the use of it normal again. I can't sleep on my back because I have two sick flesh wounds pain me too much in that position. What can I do? I am 57 and work every day. — Miss M. A."

This tingling and numbness when lying that is usually due to some position that causes the spine to pinch nerves leading from it. It's fairly common.

The position of the body when you sleep face down? It might alter the position enough so nerves won't be pinched.

An X-ray should substantiate the finding. The use of traction or pulling, to stretch the vertebral bones of the spine cannot pinch together — and sometimes that can be done at home, and it often gives much relief.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

As I was about to step off the curb and make a short cut across the busy downtown street a voice behind me said:

"Eh, ah. Dad!"

It was a young constable, and he was driving me to a reproving smile.

"Sorry," I said, guiltily, and fell in beside him to walk to the corner to make a legal crossing.

"I suppose," I said, "you have a lot of trouble with the older busters. Habits of a life time."

"No," said the constable. "As far as I've observed, there is only one generality I would make about jay walkers."

"And what's that?"

"They're, mostly all get big feet," said the young constable. "It's funny but it's true. Women and men both. I figure about 80 per cent of jay walkers have unusually large feet."

"Would that be," I asked, "because big feet are harder to get and they have short cuts?"

"I don't know the reason," said the constable, "But they've nearly all got big feet."

We saluted, and I crossed over by myself. I may also several very nimble.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS.

THE DELUSION of DULLNESS

There is one thing about this world — it isn't a dull place in which to live. If you think it is, you are certainly hovering under a delusion.

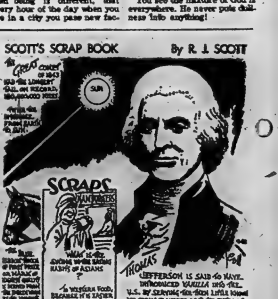
There isn't a spot on this earth that doesn't nurture his wonder and interest. Even a pool hot, beauty sweetness are things that sleep all about us no matter where we go.

It is not for us to close our eyes, clog our ears and nose, to allow our hearts to leap with the enthusiasm of nature's stirring.

Dullness? It can only exist in the mind as an agency of destruction and death.

I have just walked into a new ad city that I have not been thrilled by the many sights I have never seen before. When you stop to think that every human being is different, that every hour of the day when you are in a city you pass new faces that perhaps you will never see again, what riches on which to feed the imagination!

We can glean wonderful material from these people if we have if we only try, each time we go there, to find something new and good in that direction.



I see little dullness in this world, everywhere we go emphasize it to me.

We all make our own world. To meet and man both. I figure about adventure, to others it is something like a desert or a cliff, it is so full of wonder and happiness. There is nothing commonplace about life. Life is full of it. The things we most desire. If only we could look upon each other, our hands work long enough, and our brains are set aright, surgery natural a cure for growth will open its way to us.

You see the nature of God is everywhere. He never puts dullness into anything!

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL I. DOUGLASS

GOD IS EVERYWHERE

The Message of the Book of Jonah, one of the great books of the Bible, has often been forgotten as people have argued as to whether the whale did or did not swallow Jonah.

The narrative tells of a man who failed to live responsibility. God commanded Jonah to go and preach repentance to the wicked city of Nineveh. Like all good Jews, Jonah hated the Ninevites. When Jonah learned what God wanted him to do, he got aboard a ship and started for Tarshish (Spain). The rest of the story is well known to every Bible reader.

The book of Jonah teaches two great lessons. The first is that we can never flee responsibility. No matter how far or how fast we run, we are never outside God's reach. The second lesson taught is that God's loving purpose takes in the wicked Ninevites as well as people we love and serve Him. Just as man cannot flee responsibility and get beyond God's reach, so he cannot cut himself off from the love of God.

We can resist God. He permits us to do so. But His heart is saddened by our resistance and the responsibility rest upon us for our sorrow.

Don't try to flee responsibility. Never believe that you have sinned beyond the reach of the possibility of God's redemption. We can never get beyond the love of God.

Old St. Nick Is Cut to the Quick, Few Care at All if He Pays Call

Jolly Old St. Nicholas could very well pass up Belleville this year on his annual pre-Christmas visits.

In other words unless Belleville residents show a great deal more enthusiasm toward planning for the pre-Christmas Santa Claus parade there might just be no parade.

The local Santa Claus parade committee called a meeting at the No. 3 firehall on Moira Street for last evening and to say the least the turnout was very disappointing.

In fact not enough people turned up to elect a new slate of officers.

Last year's Santa Claus parade chairman George Rutledge said, however, that another try will be made to get people interested.

Another meeting has been called for Wednesday evening, Sept. 27 at the Moira Street firehall.

"Unless more people turn out and show an interest there will just not be a Santa Claus parade this year," stated Mr. Rutledge.

"We've got a bit of money left over from last year, but it takes more than money to run a Santa Claus parade. We have got to have help," he said.

BCI, Moira Split Wins

By JOE CLAPP

Moira and BCI opened a new football season yesterday at Moira with two well-contested games. Moira Juniors downed the BCI Juniors 23-13 in the opener and BCI Seniors blankers the Moira Seniors 14-0.

JUNIOR GAME

BCI kicked off to open the ball game. Moira got rolling in a hurry; they began a march on their own 35 and went all the way in seven plays. Speedster Ron Faulkner went over for the touchdown on a 35-yard end run. Faulkner made the extra point good.

BCI, after taking the kickoff, began a short-lived drive to centre field where they were forced to kick. Moira moved fast but could only penetrate to the opposition's 25 where they were stopped cold. The ball was run back to the BCI 1-yard line and on the first play the BCI quarterback was nailed in the end zone for a safety.

The ball went down at the 20 and neither team could move. Both squads were forced to kick and Moira got a break when Bob Bailey blocked a BCI punt on the BCI 30. Danny Fraser, the Moira quarterback, bootlegged the ball into the end-zone after a 27-yard run. The point after was missed.

The half ended with a fine show of defensive ability by the two teams. The score at half time was Moira 14, BCI 0.

The second half was a good defensive show with BCI getting the edge in offensive. Both teams were forced to kick numerous times and it wasn't until late in the third quarter that Moira got an opportunity to score and they capitalized on it. Fraser again went over for his second major on a 37 yard run. The point after was missed.

Bailey kicked off after the TD, and Mike Mallory, the BCI quarterback went 60 yards on a fine run to the Moira 15. On the first play Mallory found Don McCormick in the end zone for BCI's only touchdown. The point after was missed.

BCI got another break late in the last quarter when Don McCormick picked up a blocked Moira punt and went all the way with the stray ball for his second TD. The convert was missed.

The clock ran out on BCI with Moira in possession playing fine ball. The final score was Moira 21, BCI 13.

SENIOR GAME

The Senior game was a battle of defences with only seven points being scored in each half. Both lines showed their mettle and both quarterbacks were thrown for a loss on a number of occasions. The only real drive in the game was a march by BCI from their own 40 which resulted in a touchdown by Pete Weston on a 17 yard run. Pete missed the try for the extra point. The only other score of the half was a safety touch pulled when Moira went wide. But the Moira receiver was caught in the end zone. Moira's best play of the half was a run by Gerry Jones around the end for 50 yards. The half ended with BCI in front, 7-0.

The second half was filled with fine defensive play, including a Moira fumble which led to a BCI touchdown, and an interception of a BCI pass in the end zone by Rod Turnbull.

BCI drove to the Moira 35 in the third quarter but could not move any farther. A Moira punt was blocked and BCI was in possession on the 30. A Peoples' pass to Adams was good for 15 yards but on the next play Rod Turner picked BCI off a TD with an interception just before the ball fell into the hands of the intended receiver. The ball was put in play on the 19, but Moira fumbled and BCI took over. John Peoples drove up the middle as a keeper for the touchdown, and Pete Weston made the convert good to conclude the scoring.

Moira missed a golden opportunity when they picked up a fumble and drove to the BCI 20 but they could not penetrate the end zone. BCI took possession and killed the last few moments of the game. The final score was 14-0 in favor of BCI.

'Lines on Life'

By Dr. Stuart R. Rosenberg

"1. Be careful when your husband is angry — be neither surly nor cross — just smile and speak softly.

2. Do not keep him waiting for his meals. Hunger is the father of anger.

3. Do not wake him when he is sleeping.

4. Be careful of his money; do not keep any money matters from him.

5. Keep his secrets secret. If he boasts, keep that secret, too.

6. Do not like his enemies or hate his friends.

7. Do not disagree with him or suggest that your advice is better than his.

8. Do not expect the impossible from him.

9. If you heed his requests he will turn out to be your slave.

10. Do not say anything that will hurt him. If you treat him like a king, he will treat you like a queen."

These "Ten Commandments" are taken from a seventeenth-century best-seller, originally written by a Jewish scholar for the benefit of his own daughter, as a guide to successful marriage. But Isaac of Posen, the author, wrote his rules in the procreative age, when men were kings and women were subjects.

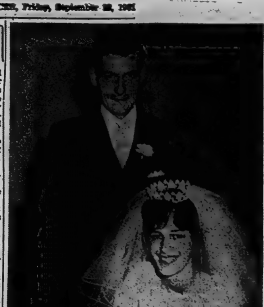
Those were the unsophisticated years when it was assumed that obedient wives produced happy husbands. Moreover, it was safely, if incorrectly believed, that if men were happy, women would necessarily be happy too. Thus, our friend Isaac suggests a royal barter — "treat him like a King, he will treat you like a Queen!"

We now seem to know better. Most women, one suspects, would rather not be treated as queens: they would prefer be-ing women — equal in status with their men, yet respected for their feminine, and yet motherly qualities. Women whose husbands find happiness in dominating them can never be truly and happily wedded. For a marriage of two people, one of whom must rule with flags waving and bands play-ing, results in an incomplete if not a false union.

Two people can never — should never — become one: for this must mean that one of them has become "two": it is impossible to be oneself if one is only half himself.

One plus one equal two — forever! We need to respect the integrity of our life-part-ners, never reducing them to a pale reflection of our own shadows.

Real happiness in marriage — like happiness in all other human relations — comes from shared experience based upon a recognition of our inter-de-pendence. Dependent women wedded to independent men add up to a big zero.



Independent women coupled with independent men add nothing to each other. Only two inter-dependent partners make a union which has substance and vitality and which can even become adventurous.

An inter-dependent partner is one who is strong enough to "go it alone," yet wise enough to share his thinking and decision-making with someone he cares for. He realises that "go-ing it alone" may create inde-pendence, but that marriage, to be successful, must be based upon a shared Declaration of Inter-dependence.

Thus, if men want happy wives, they, too, must be gov-erned by the same rules they would ask their women to fol-low. There can be no real standards, unless they are bas-ed upon a single standard. For the home, like no nation, can long endure, half-slave and half-free.

POLIO CASES FEWER

OTTAWA (CP) — Three new cases of paralytic polio were re-ported in Canada in the week ended Sept. 15, bringing the to-tal to that date to 112. WILSON — SPENCER

Tall white standards of yell-ow and white gladioli adorned the chancel in Holloway Street United Church, Belleville, on Saturday, September 2nd, 1961 at high noon for a lovely late summer wedding when Con-stance Mary Anne Spencer, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Morris Spencer, became the bride of James Al-bert Wilson, of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Harry Wilson. The Reverend C. W. Coleman, pastor of the church, officiated. White satin bows marked the guest pews.

Mr. Alec Gordon, guest solo-ist from Bridge Street United Church, presided at the console of the organ, and accompanied, Mr. Robert Burke, of Belle-ville, as he sang before the cer-emony, "O Perfect Love," and "The Wedding Prayer," during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Wesley Morris Spencer, the bride was radiant-ly lovely in her floor - length bridal gown of "I Do" taffeta featuring a moulded bodice hav-ing a Sabrina neckline accented with tiny seed pearls an lace-and long, sheath-like eleven-lilly-pointed over the wrists. The bouffant skirt of "I Do" taffeta appliqued with baby seed pearls and Chantilly lace cascaded gracefully into a short chapel train. She wore a crown of seed pearls with mid-length bouffant veil of silk illusion tulle, and carried a cascade of red roses mingled with white, feathered carnat-ions.

She was attended by Miss Shirley Ackerman, of Belle-ville, as maid of honor; by Mrs. John Wilson, nee Joan Kim-met, of Kingston; Miss Joan Dickey, of Belleville, Mrs. Ger-ald Meagher, nee Shirley John-ston, and Miss Judith Wilson, also of Belleville, sister of the bridegroom, as bridesmaids. All the attendants were gowned alike in emerald green peau de soie, fashioned with fitted bod-ices, enhanced with bateau necklines, and cap sleeves. The full skirts cascaded into slight chapel trains. They wore mat-ching rose headdresses of green peau de soie with shoulder-length veils, and long white above the elbow gloves, and carried nosegays of yellow roses centred by white baby mums.

The bridegroom was attended by his twin brother, Mr. John Wilson, of Belleville; while the guests were ushered by Messrs. Donald Alexander, Gerald Mea-gher, Donald Bishop and Jo-seph Black Jr., all of Belleville.

The reception was held at Club Canara, Belleville, where the bridal table was beautifully appointed with white damask, and centred by an all-white wed-ding cake in three tiers, topped with an arch of white flowers and two white doves bearing golden colored wedding rings. The bridal bouquets added a lovely nuptial accent to the set-ting.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Wes-ley Morris Spencer, received, gowned in mink-brown peau de soie in sheath style, with over-skirt of mink peau de soie, and lace, beige accessories, and cor-sage of yellow roses and white baby 'mums. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Stanley H. Wil-son, wore a navy blue sheath gown of iridescent embossed taffeta with matching jacket and navy accessories. Her cor-sage was of pink roses and white baby 'mums.

For the wedding trip to pic-turesque Northern Ontario, Timmins and North Bay, the bride chose a short box style suit of shantung in chocolate brown shade with matching accessories, gold hat and glo-ves, and nosegay of gold gladi-oli blooms.

Guests were present from Galt, Toronto, Niagara Falls, Kingston, Picton, Moscow, Syr-acuse, Ivanhoe and Port Cre-dit.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was entertained at two miscellaneous showers, one at the home of Miss Shirley Acker-man of Belleville, and the other at the home of Mrs. John Wilson of Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson are re-siding at 32 Burton Street, in Belleville.

Christian Dior of Poland Says Women of Country Have 'Fairy Fingers'

By ALAN HARVEY

WARSAW (CP)—Remember how Scarlett O'Hara whipped up a ravishing dress out of a green velvet window curtain in Gone With the Wind?

Well, the women of Warsaw have the same gossamer touch. Madame Jadwiga Grabowska, Poland's top authority on fash-ion, says her countrywomen have "fairy fingers" and the visual evidence seems to back her up.

"Before the war our women were really smart," said Mme. Grabowska.

"During the war, they couldn't think about dresses. Now they are beginning to take an interest once again. I hope they can be as smart as they were. Really, you know, they care terribly about clothes. After all they have suffered, they have a craving for beauty."

Mme. Grabowska tries to ap-pease the craving. As artistic designer for Poland's biggest fashion house, the state - con-trolled Moda Polska, she is pre-siding over the renaissance of haute couture in a city al-ready acknowledged as the Paris of eastern Europe.

Moda Polska has some 140 employees, including a fleet of kolo - Robot modeled Polish Fabrics are used exclusively. Dresses and coats are exported to most iron Curtain countries and some outside it. In 1960, Russian orders totalled more than $1,000,000.

There are few private dress-makers in Poland. All the big houses are under Communist control. Mme. Grabowska works under supervision of a party-approved managing director, but the impression is that you-lame count for more than poli-tics in Poland.

"Of course do not talk about politics," she says. "Let us con-centrate upon clothes. I design all the dresses myself, but I do not supervise mass produc-tion."

As in France, women favor individual styles and the result-ion of the Rita - dressmaker-round - the - corner. So Moda Polska finds production of any one dress to 30 copies.

What of the future? Mme. Grabowska, widely known as the Christian Dior of Poland, may be the arbiter. She says her chief problem is how to change the figure of the aver-age Polish woman.

EAT TOO MUCH

"The girls are very, very pretty. But they eat too much starch and cream. . . ."

A small, energetic woman, still on the "roomy side" of 50, Mme. Grabowska comes from a well-known family of archi-tects. Her father, a fashion pedant, she took to designing after liberation.

Clothes are her life. Bubbling with vitality and ideas, she has had.

Paris couture is unique in the world. A man like Balenciaga is not just a designer but a true artist. London lacks the Paris touch but the "fashion in the street," as opposed to that of the great occasion, is out-standing.

American women lack sophis-tication of the right kind—and personality. They look alike, they are a "little bit provin-cial," they lack that extra. Yet everything is all very demo-cratic, and the typist can vie with the tycoon's wife.

Fluent in six languages, the child "Dior" travelled widely. A year ago she vis-ited Montreal and Quebec, whose Old Town impressed her. She said Canadian women "seem" well but, ad-ded:

"For me, Canada means top fashion authority. (CP Photo).

B.G.H. Emergency, Out-Patient's Dept. Outlined at Recent W.H.A.

The Women's Hospital Auxiliary met on Tuesday afternoon in Education Hall. Mrs. M. F. L. Jones, president, welcomed the members and expressed her thanks to those on duty during the summer months.

Mrs. W. J. Musgrove read the minutes of the June meeting and Mrs. George Home gave the treasurer's report. Several letters were read by the corresponding secretary, Mrs. W. Tyrcham, in connection with the business of the Auxiliary.

The membership now stands at 180, of which 47 have been added this year.

OPPORTUNITY SHOP OPEN

It was announced by Mrs. J. B. Casky, Opportunity Shop convenor, that the shop was open for business. It has been completely and tastefully renovated. She reminded the Association of the dire need for additional volunteers and donations of saleable merchandise to stock the shop for active business. She also mentioned that Mrs. A. Muir and her staff were competent and hard-working.

The Avondale Neighbors' Aid held an Opportunity Shop shower at its last meeting. Mrs. Jones expressed the appreciation of the Auxiliary to this energetic group for its assistance and interest.

The convenor of the Coffee Shop, Mrs. H. Murray, gave an account of the summer operations. Her resignation and Mrs. Madden, popular supervisor of the Shop for a long period, had been regretfully accepted by the Coffee Shop committee. This little tea room will be in operation seven days a week. To keep it supplied a pick-up service for donations of cakes, cakes, pies, is to be maintained. Mrs. Murray also made a plea for more volunteer workers.

The Volunteer Service requires the support of the Auxiliary members and there is a need for more magazines.

PUPPETS FOR SALE

Mrs. P. L. Allcorn announced there would be sufficient puppets and gay puppets for sale at the autumn Fashion Fiesta. Mrs. Benjamin Blashall and those assisting at the recent Medical Laboratory Technology tea on September 16.

Tickets for the Fashion Fiesta will soon be on sale and tickets for the grand draw are now available. An elegant wrist watch in white gold set with eight large diamonds is to be the grand prize.

The Women's Hospital Auxiliaries Association is the province of Ontario will hold its 51st annual convention at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, on October 30, 31 and 32. Official delegates and alternates were elected.

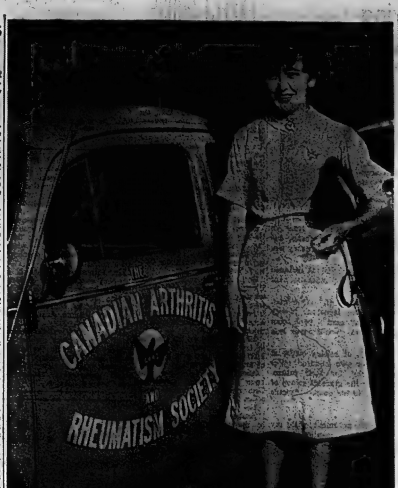
It was voted by Mrs. Jones that at the next meeting of the Auxiliary, Mrs. J. H. Forrester will speak on "The New Constitution."

HI-LO BEDS

The new Hi-Lo beds presented to the hospital by the Women's Auxiliary, and now in use were highly commended by Miss Doris Smith, Director of Nurses. She spoke of them as a boon to the patients, a wonderful assistance to the nursing staff, and adding to the independence of the sick.

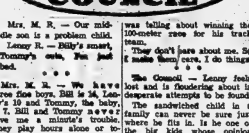
Miss Donna Plumton, supervisor of the Emergency and Out-Patients' Department, was the interesting speaker of the afternoon and was introduced by Mrs. Harry Fuke. She explained the duties of that department which is operated by seven graduate nurses, two senior students and a ward aide. There are six rooms available for emergencies. Of these, one is used for operations with general anesthetic and posturmusmis, another with oxygen is the recovery room, a third small room is used for minor treatments. There are also fracture and neurology rooms, and one especially reserved for initial tests of infectious diseases.

1,500 PATIENTS TREATED



The records show that during the month of August 1,500 patients were treated in this department. There are rules of procedure here: each patient must see his or her own family doctor; only one other person per patient is allowed in the recovery room. In this department, burns, lacerations, heart attacks, insect bites, fractures and accidents are given the closest attention. Here, a patient may receive oxygen immediately, and a vaccine bed is kept ready for emergency. Great care is used in the timing of the release of a patient after treatment. Two hours in bed for an adult and three for children is the minimum requirement to ensure safe recovery. It has been found that immediately after an anesthetic it is not advisable to drive a car.

Summing up her address, Miss Plumton proffered the timely advice "Get in touch with your doctor."



The General Hospital is also. "Poison Control Centre" in the district where information on antidotes for all poisons may be received quickly. Emergency ambulance assistance the hospital may continue to further treat the patient. Here again come the good advice "Get in touch with your doctor."

Miss Plumton was thanked by Mrs. George Home for her most interesting and informative address.

Tea was served by Mrs. Benjamin Safe and her committee.

ARTHRITIC THERAPIST — A welcome visitor to the homes of arthritic sufferers in the Belleville district is Miss Mary Millen, occupational therapist for the Belleville branch of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society. Mrs. M. R. — Our middle son is a problem child.

Lenny R. — Billy's smart, Tommy's cute, Pam just bad.

Mrs. M. R. — We have three boys. Bill is 34, Lenny's 10 and Tommy, the baby, is 7. Bill and Tommy never give me a minute's trouble. They play hours alone or together.

But Lenny! Let Tommy spend a morning setting up his trains and Lenny sweeps into the room and kicks them into the four corners. When Bill's on the road, that's when Len shoots off his cap pistol like mad.

I'm called to school a few times a month whenever Leo forges my name on a homework paper he's supposed to show me, or when he shoots ink out of a water pistol. His latest trick is to fall down and yell, "I'm paralyzed." He yells until I come and rub his leg and help him up.

Lenny R. — I hate my life. I have no one to play with at home. And in school they're always picking on me. No matter what I do, somebody gets mad.

Once I tried to do a trick and make my mother laugh. But I broke a lamp and made her mad. When I bought my turtle to school, nobody cared because Bobby Green had a big snake in a box. I wanted to tell Daddy I was picked to pull the curtain for the Hallowe'en play but he wouldn't listen. Bill was telling about winning the 100-meter race for his track team.

I don't care about me. So it make them care. I do things.

The Council — Lenny feels lost and is floudering about in desperate attempts to be found.

The sandwiched child in a family can never be sure just where he fits in. Is he one of the big kids whose opinion counts? Or is he lumped with the baby and regarded more as a toy than a growing boy? Lenny thinks himself as the proverbial bread of the sandwich, between two slices of juicy roast beef, rather than the crust.

Position in a family, studies have shown, accounts for some of the differences in child-

Trailing ivy over the arch of the living room-east formed a charming background for the tea table with its lace cloth centred by a silver container of variegated pink and magenta pompoms. Candles flanked by tall-stemmed silver candelabra with pink candles rising from lacy white collars. On the buffet was a bouquet of white mums and magenta asters, flanked by flickering pink candles in silver candelabra.

QUESTION:

I would like to know if you have a Tomato Sauce recipe.—Mrs. J. N.

ANSWER:

I could not decide whether you wanted a tomato sauce recipe for pouring over meat loaf or poached eggs etc. or for a tomato sauce recipe for spaghetti or noodles so I am giving you one of each.

TOMATO SAUCE NO. 1.

1¾ cups fresh stewed or canned tomatoes, 1 slice onion, 1 bay leaf, 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, 3 tablespoons flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper.

Cook onion and bay leaf with tomatoes fifteen minutes, rub through a strainer. Melt butter or margarine and stir in flour and salt and pepper until blended. Stir in tomato puree until thick.

ANSWER:

Yes.

FEA 'N PINEAPPLESDOWN CAKE

Prepare an 8 x 8 x 2" pan by putting in it 1-8 cup butter or margarine and ½ cup light brown sugar and placing over low heat until mixture barely bubbles. Remove from heat. Add 3 tablespoons corn syrup and stir in. Invert fresh (or canned) pineapple, cut side down, in the syrup, but under hollow of each pineapple place a maraschino cherry, if desired. Peaches should be touching. If desired pretzels may be placed blanched almonds in crevices. Keep this warm.

Batter: Cream cup all-purpose flour, 1¼ teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup shortening, ½ cup sugar, 2 eggs, ½ teaspoon almond extract, ¼ cup milk or peach juice (if canned peaches are used). Sift flour and baking powder and salt. Cream shortening and sugar until light and beat in eggs and flavoring. Stir in flour mixture alternately with milk or juice in three portions, beating until smooth after additions. Spoon batter evenly and carefully over peaches, spreading it out gently. Bake at 350 deg. F.for about 50 minutes or until inserted slightly above centre of oven, syrup in bottom is allowed to cool before batter is added, baking time should be increased. Invert cake on serving dish and allow to hang until all syrup flows down over fruit.

TOMATO SAUCE NO. 2 (for spaghetti):

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL

Question — I'm going to my first formal dance early this Fall and will wear a full-length gown with narrow straps at the shoulders. My problem concerns gloves. May I wear short gloves with a gown of this type, or are long gloves more correct?

Also, should I take them off when I go through the receiving line? And what about dancing? Should I wear the gloves then, or take them off and leave them at the table? — M. M. A., Syracuse, New York.

Answer — With a gown such as you describe, you can wear either very short gloves or the 18-button opera-length, which covers the elbow.

If you're not too sure about what opera-length mean, then you might investigate a manual called "Gloves of Fashion and Etiquette," which is available in glove departments of leading stores. It's 25 cents, and illustrates in drawings the proper glove length to wear with various types of sleeves.

Gloves, of course, should be left on as you go through the receiving line, but hands should be bared while eating.

Shorties can just be slipped off. The longer opera gloves may be removed entirely, also, providing the fabric is a type that doesn't require extensive tugging.

However, if they do have to be worked off, then they can be opened at the wrist, and the hands rolked back while you eat.

During the dancing part of evening, gloves, whether long or short, should be worn. If the hand doesn't have been heated to the wrist, they should be covered again.

W.D. Herridge, Controversial Diplomat, Dies

OTTAWA (CP)—William Duncan Herridge, wealthy Ottawa lawyer, diplomat and brother-in-law of a former prime minister, whose outspoken views cast him into the political wilderness, died Thursday night. He was 72.

Shadowed him semi-constantly in recent years by illness, Mr. Herridge in the 1930s and early war years was a man whose name spelled controversy.

From a generous meeting on a train with R. B. Bennett, he rose meteorically in a few short months to become the Conservative leader's right-hand man in his successful 1930 election campaign, m a r r i e d the new prime minister's sister in one of the biggest weddings ever held in the capital, and then was appointed Canada's second Canada's second ambassador to the United States.

After the defeat of the Bennett government Mr. Herridge on several occasions was the item of as the possible new Conservative l e a d e r, until he ditched the party in 1938, describing its national convention's resolutions as "a lot of junk."

FOUNDS GROUP

The following year he founded the New Democracy movement promising "security for all" the people of Canada. Signing an election pact with Premier William Aberhart of Alberta, Social Credit's leader, he contested the 1940 general election.

Mr. Herridge was defeated as New Democracy candidate in Kindersley, Sask., but the party mostly Social Crediters, gained 10 seats in the Commons.

Throughout the war Mr. Herridge was a virulent critic of Liberal Prime Minister Mackenzie King and strongly urged a greater Canadian war effort. He frequently warned against the coming post-war battle, as he saw it, between democracy and communism.

Mr. Herridge was born close to Parliament Hill, the son and grandson of Presbyterian ministers. He was educated at the University of Toronto and was admitted to the bar of Ontario in 1912.

During the First World War he served overseas as a brigade major with the 3rd Canadian Infantry Brigade. His impressive war record included many mentions in dispatches, the award of Military Cross and Bar and the Distinguished Service Order.

WARNS OF NAZIS

In the 1930s, when Hitler was massing his forces for Nazi Germany's assault on Europe, Mr. Herridge frequently warned of the impending war and sought a build-up in Canadian defences. After war broke out he was a leading supporter of national conscription.

During the First World War, he married Rose Fleck, granddaughter of Ottawa lumber king J. R. Booth. She lived only a few years, however, and there were no children.

Building his career as a successful Ottawa and Montreal lawyer in the '30s he gave little kind of his future social and political prominence.

Mr. Herridge's political career was born in a railroad coach between Ottawa and Montreal where he met Mr. Bennett.

Mr. Bennett was impressed with the young lawyer and invited him to become his personal adviser on his 1930 election campaign, later attributing much of the credit for his victory to Mr. Herridge. When he became prime minister Mr. Bennett continued to rely heavily on his advice and assistance.

Mr. Herridge married Mildred Bennett, the bachelor prime minister's sister and Canada's "first lady" in a gala wedding.

The honeymoon to Europe, however, sparked a controversy that continued in the Commons about allegations that the Canadian treasury had helped finance the expenses.

The couple had one son, William Richard Bennett Julian Vere Herridge, now living in Toronto. Mrs. Herridge died in 1938.

He was no relation of H. W. Herridge, CCF member for Kootenay West, in the present House of Commons.

Mr. Herridge was appointed ambassador in Washington in March, 1931. Negotiation of the St. Lawrence Deep waterways treaty was the chief single task of his three - year stay in the American capital. In 1931 he was also appointed to the Privy Council of Canada.

Successful Living

By Doris Clark

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Raise Pigeons - Why Not

DEAR DORIS:—My son is not interested in stamp or coin collecting, but is interested in raising pigeons as a hobby. He has been interested in pigeons since he was eleven years old. He is now fourteen.

DORIS CLARK

My husband said he could raise pigeons but I disagreed. To settle this argument I decided to write to you. Who do you thing is right?—Mr. M.

DEAR M. M.:—It is an absorbing hobby. Many Canadian cities have junior pigeon-racing clubs with members from 12 to 18 years of age. It can be expensive or cheap, depending on how many pigeons are kept, how far they are raced, the kind of feed chosen.

You need a loft, which must be erected at distance from houses determined by city by-laws; must be kept clean.

You'll always know where your boy is. One man says he frequented pool rooms in his teens; at twenty he was given two pigeons. He hasn't seen a pool room since. "If you get the bug," he says, "you'll never lose it!"

Imagine the thrill for your boy, of raising birds; at a given time shipping them one or two hundred miles (or father), then watching the sky for their return. Hours later the vigil is rewarded by the graceful swoop of a large bird out of the blue and into his coop. "That's my pigeon!" he cries.

DEAR DORIS:—Recently I had an argument with my steady girl friend about my boy friend. I mentioned that we would probably go skiing in the north some winter weekends and she says I am more interested in the boys than in her. I see her at least three times a week, but sometimes I would rather be with my friends than with her.

Could you tell me if this is a sign that I don't love her? Could you also tell me if she is right when she says that this liking for my boy friends won't end with a wedding band?

I was under the impression that it was quite in order to have fun before you get married because after marriage this sort of thing will all but vanish.—TROUBLED MIND.

DEAR TROUBLED MIND:—In the best marriages hobby horse outings "with the boys", and wifey plays bridge or uplifts society in a women's club. Let's hope you will always have a "liking for your boy friends." It is not a sign you do not love her.

Your girl wants you more than she has you right now—but once the knot is tied, she will be glad there are times when you are off with the boys.

Paul Martin (L—Essex East) and Walter Pitman (NDP—Peterborough) criticized the government for not providing more direction to the provinces and municipalities in the actual retraining of unemployed workers.

Mr. Starr replied that the problem of just how courses should be constituted comes under provincial jurisdiction—and the prerogative was "more jealously guarded by the provinces than any other."

"Consequently, it is not our intention to move in on this jurisdiction in any way whatsoever."

CRITICIZES PC VIEW

Lionel Chevrier (L—Montreal Laurier) said that despite the flowing picture drawn earlier in the debate by Mr. Starr the unemployment s i t u a t i o n was twice as bad as when the Conservatives took office.

Both Mr. Chevrier and Mr. Pitman e x p r e s s e d doubt whether the government's system of double depreciation for industry locating in depressed areas has put a single man to work.

Mr. Starr said the government is in the process of creating 1,000,000 jobs over a period of four to five years.

About 500,000 of those jobs have been created since the Conservative government took office in mid-1957, he said.

Besides the government is looking for a further increase in manufacturing employment which had risen 2.6 per cent in the last year.

Since legislation was passed last December, Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation had a p p r o v e d $17,000,000 in loans for 16 university housing projects. Thirty applications had been received along with 23 preliminary inquiries up to Sept. 14.

Of the $100,000,000 earmarked last December to aid in municipal water pollution projects, $25,000,000 had been loaned for 106 projects so far.

Answering harsh criticism of the double depreciation scheme Mr. Starr noted that this applies to new industries locating in designated "surplus manpower" areas and anywhere in Canada where a company is turning out a product never before made in this country.

"A representative cross-section" indicates that secondary is taking advantage of this offer. Mr. Starr said.

The government by mid-September had received 49 applications for designation of surplus manpower areas. Eight areas had been designated and they included 16 of the counties and municipalities who had applied.

Mr. Chevrier said three-quarters of the projects mentioned by Mr. Starr were in one field only—c o n s t r u c t i o n — while other areas of the economy were suffering.

Mr. Pitman said there is a "serpentine basket" respecting the government's policy of helping reduce unemployment by stimulating construction of what Mr. Pitman termed highcost housing.

If there is a "slight recession," a tremendous number of houses will fall into the hands of the government, Mr. Pitman asserted. What was needed was direct government action to spur low-cost housing.

"As this is my first operation, pronto you won't laugh if I make a mess of it?"

In answer to shouts from the floor that he and other national officers resign, Smith said: "If you are unhappy with me, there are ways in the constitution of getting rid of me."

Gillis invited Smith to stay and hear what he had to say, adding: "I don't want there to be any leaflets tomorrow from Mr. Smith charging that I was talking behind his back."

But Mr. Smith left the hall as Gillis spoke.

Gillis then described the national officers' recent attempt to take over the Sudbury local and the dispute which followed.

STIRLING

Over 400 Attend I.O.O.F. Barbecue

STIRLING—Over 400 attended the barbecue held by members of Stirling Encampment No. 90 I.O.O.F. on Tuesday evening in the I.O.O.F. Banquet hall, Charlotte Street.

The tables were centred with vases of autumn blooms and appointed with silver, and portions served in buffet style, with a choice of the delicious viands that were arranged in appetizing style. A half chicken was served on each plate, and there was a choice of pie. The men served coffee or chocolate milk to the guests. A group of women was in charge of the kitchen duties. The tables were set for 175 at a setting.

The patrons came from Peterborough; Brighton; Campbellford; Belleville; Carrying Place; Trenton; Bonarlaw; Springbrook Eldorado; Tweed; Thomasburgh; Madoc; Wellman's; Carmel; Mount Pleasant; Bethel; Salem; Burnbrae; Hoards, and the surrounding area of Stirling.

Millers Barbecue Service, of Elora was in charge of the cooking on the lodge driveway. The Stirling Rotary Club with their wives occupied one long table at the first serving; and were special guests on this occasion.

Mr. Sherwood Reid provided background music for those who were waiting in the Lodge hall for the second and third servings.

The lodge members were busy at the various duties and the evening was a success.

In past years they have held their barbecue at the fair grounds and this was a new venture to hold it at the banquet hall, and was an excellent idea.

Ross Herington; Mayor A. M. Haig; Ian McKinnon, company secretary-treasurer, and Wilfred Laporte, Corbyville distillery manager.

(Fried) Bellstedt, technical supervisor at Corbyville; company president G. Ross Herington, Montreal, and Wilfred Laporte, distillery manager, and vice-president.

Group in Union Nationale Party Calls for Recognition Of More Rights for Quebec

QUEBEC (CP)—The issue of provincial autonomy, for 25 years the battle-cry of the Union Nationale, likely will continue to be the key plank in the party's platform.

Now, however, it may be taken a step further with a group in the party calling for recognition of Quebec's right to self-determination.

A draft resolution by the party's Quebec County Association asks recognition of this claimed right and suggests the Union Nationale work towards "a revision of the constitution" so that Quebec can enjoy all the powers of sovereignty necessary for its liberation.

While not suggesting Quebec secede, the group from a Quebec area riding have called for French - Canadian nationalism claims that the province could drop out of Confederation if it wants.

The draft resolution, scheduled to be studied by the leadership convention's committee on constitutional matters, has the effect of a bombshell.

Of the other leadership candidates two were available for comment.

Daniel Johnson, 46, member for Bagot and former hydraulic resources minister, declined to comment until he has studied the proposal.

NEEDS ADDED POWERS

Jean - Jacques Bertrand, 45, member for Missisquoi and former youth and welfare minister, said he believes Quebec must remain within Confederation, but at the same time must work towards acquiring the powers necessary for Quebec's French-Canadians to "blossom out" within the framework of Confederation.

"There is nothing against asking and working towards more powers," he said. "I believe that all this can be worked out peacefully."

Mr. Bertrand and Mr. Johnson appear to be neck - and - neck race party candidates for the leadership.

The other candidates are Uves Cadieu, 46, member for Trois-Rivieres; Mayor Armand Nadeau, 51, of Sherbrooke, Que.; Maurice S. Hebert, 36, Montreal lawyer; and Raymond Maher, 40, Quebec City lawyer.

Mr. Hebert and Mr. Maher were not on the platform for the opening ceremonies Thursday when Antonio Talbot, retiring interim leader, urged the party to remain broad-minded and free of federal political ties.

"For an autonomous province, there must be an autonomous party," he told the more than 2,000 delegates and alternates in the Agricultural Pavilion of Quebec's Exhibition grounds.

The three-day convention is scheduled to wind up Saturday night when 1,367 eligible voters choose a new leader.

MUST BE PASSED

Copies of the draft resolution — it is understood there are three other similar proposals from other convention groups — were distributed during opening ceremonies. It is not scheduled to come before the convention until—and if — it is passed by resolutions committee on constitutional matters.

A memorandum accompanying the draft resolution said that "the provincial government is completely sovereign within the limits of its jurisdiction. The French - Canadian people has possession of the state of Quebec and can legally declare itself a sovereign nation.

"Quebec can live alone economically and it can establish, on its own, all the international relations allowed emancipated peoples . . .

"The autonomy and emancipation of Quebec is a question of life or death for the French-Canadian people."

SKYSCRAPER SCRUBBED

NEW YORK (AP)—The 77-storey Chrysler Building, second tallest skyscraper in the world, is being bathed by 10 pairs of hands. Workmen required 37 years at grime from the building have been reduced to doing it with brushes, cleaning fluid and elbow grease. The generator used in steam-cleaning the first 30 floors is not available above that point. Some of the men have complained of chilled hands.

Federal Health Officials Discuss Significance of Nuclear Fallout After Blasts

OTTAWA (CP) — At what point does fallout from nuclear explosions constitute a danger to the health of Canadians?

Federal health officials said Thursday there is no easy answer. Full significance of the many factors involved is not yet understood by health scientists.

When the Russians set off a nuclear bomb test in the stratosphere, some 200 different kinds of radioactive materials are sent swirling around the earth. They become a problem when they start to settle.

The radioactive materials created by atomic blasts are of two types. There are short-lived products which decay over a brief period and long-lived ones which remain active for many years.

Following a nuclear explosion, the federal health department's 24 air-sampling stations begin to record increased radioactivity in the air, and it caused by the short-lived fission products.

The short-lived fission products in the air are inhaled. But because they are around for only a short time they are not considered by officials to constitute a health hazard and officials say these factors must be taken into consideration in assessing the significance of reports of fallout readings as a result of Soviet bomb tests since Sept. 1.

Fallout levels in air samples are determined by the rate of decay of radioactive products created by nuclear explosions. They are given in disintegrations per minute per cubic metre of air.

The International Commission on Radiological Protection has set the safe maximum permissible radioactivity level at 0.6 units. But this is the level at which they must be inhaled over a lifetime.

Dr. E. A. Watkinson, principal medical officer of the health department's environmental health division, Dr. P. M. Bird, senior scientific officer of the health department's radiation protection division, and Health Minister Monteith are concerned about what might happen if Canadians are subjected to high levels of short-lived fission products over a long period of time.

However, other federal health officials say their knowledge is not sufficient to make any precise predictions on health of short-lived fission products absorbed over a long period of time. They do not know at what levels of these types of fission products would be harmful. And they do not know how long they would have to be absorbed to create a health hazard.

The long-lived fission products are considered the main hazard to health. It will be at least a year before the health department can determine the proportions have increased the levels of these products.

The chief ones are strontium-90 and cesium-137. They fall to earth and settle on plant life. Strontium-90 is found in the milk from cows which have grazed on pasture fodder on which this material has fallen. Samples of milk powder are being collected by officials to constitute a health hazard and officials say these factors must be taken into consideration in assessing the significance of reports of fallout readings as a result of Soviet bomb tests since Sept. 1.

A microcurie is a millionth of a millionth of a curie, the radioactivity present in a gram of radium.

The so-called lifetime "safe" level of strontium-90 in milk is five micromicrocuries a quart. In solid foods it is 33 micromicrocuries a kilogram (2.2 pounds). A total of 73 micromicrocuries of strontium-90 from all sources is considered the maximum allowable total intake in any individual on a daily basis throughout a lifetime. But a person may ingest up to 1,000 micromicrocuries a day for limited periods without ill effects.

The health department's last measurement of strontium - 90 levels in Canadian milk—at the end of December, 1960—was 9.5 micromicrocuries per gram of calcium in one quart of milk.

Keeper Picked Up and Taken To Hospital

TRENTON (CP) — An assistant lighthouse keeper reported to be seriously ill was picked up by the United States Coast Guard helicopter Thursday from a lonely Lake Superior island.

The RCAF here said the pickup was made by the helicopter from Traverse City, Mich., accompanied on the flight by an amphibious Albatross aircraft.

The lightkeeper, 43-year - old Joseph Alfred Thibeault, was to be hospitalized in Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., about 150 miles southeast of the island, suffering from acute appendicitis. His condition was reported as satisfactory.

Thibeault's plight was reported to the department of transport's Parry Sound radio station Wednesday night by the unidentified chief lightkeeper on Michipicoten Island. A doctor was told of the symptoms by telephone and ordered him taken to hospital as quickly as possible.

H. Corby Distillery Holds 3-Day Conference Here; Presents Gift to Library

By GEO. H. CARVER

Sales representatives and top-ranking officials of the H. Corby Distillery Ltd., began on the 26th National Marketing Conference, enjoyed a respite yesterday from a three-hour conference program.

The conference theme, "Breakthrough," hailed temporarily while 56 "coast-to-coast" salesmen enjoyed golf on the Bay of Quinte Country Club and a cruise on the Bay of Quinte.

The three day conference was highlighted last night by a banquet in the Hotel Quinte.

Distillery president and general manager G. Ross Herington of Montreal paid fine tribute to the "hospitality of the city of Belleville." He announced that his company will present a radio-phonograph to the Corby Public Library here.

"We are proud to make this presentation," Mr. Herington said, "I understand the library needs it for children's activities and other important phases of its work."

Mayor A. M. Haig extended the official welcome of the city and the community appreciation of "this wonderful gesture."

"It is fitting it should be made since the library bears the name of Corby." It will make a splendid addition to the library's facilities in its new addition."

He said he accepted the invitation as a compliment to city council and the community. "We are proud to have such a great industry centered our perimeter. But we think it is just of us. It is a great asset to this city. We are happy we are indebted to you and we thank you."

Reeve Harry Pound of Thurlow, in a brief address, recalled the fires of the early century which damaged the distillery. He said its township was greatly appreciative of Corby's since it brought employment, "not to mention taxes."

In humorous vein he recalled the days when he worked for Corby's driving a beer truck.

With President Herington at the head table were Mayor Haig, Howlett, company vice-president; Reeve Pound; Mayor Haig; Wilfred Laporte, Belleville, vice-president and distillery manager and Ian McKinnon, company secretary-treasurer.

Mr. Laporte and G. C. (Mickey) MacDonald, assistant distillery manager, of Corbyville, are the hosts for the conference. Tribute was paid them by the president and other officials for the fine efforts in arranging the functions and other conference agenda items.

A novel effect at the banquet was the "piping in" of the head table by "Mack" McLellan, age-old supervisor at Windsor, "Mack" was in full kilt regalia.

Humor and good-natured raillery marked the post-banquet activities. President Herington and Mr. Laporte presented prizes and awards to golf winners, and regretted no arrangements had been made for "seamanship" achievements.

Keen "recitation" sequence brought bouts of laughter as company raconteurs regaled their fellows with assorted stories.

The national conference which is held here every three or four years is a marked feature of company activities. Proximity of the distillery to the city provides a practical basis for discussions on production.

A tour of the distillery was an item on the conference agenda. A novel touch was seen here when the "marrying" or blending of whiskies was demonstrated. A "fiver" bride and groom appeared from a large barrel.

The marrying process, it was pointed out, is a feature of all Corby and Wiser whiskies. Corbyville has the largest single distillery in Canada with a capacity of 3,000,000 barrels of maturing spirits.

The conference agenda calls for a sequence of panel discussions on topics that come under the head of the theme "Breakthrough." Sales training is an important item while the entire sales force participates in presenting problems of sales objections and their solutions.

The conference got under way on Wednesday with an address on "Breakthrough" by president Herington. Mr. Howlett gave a general progress report on the year. Laporte gives a symposium on production. Mr. MacDonald conducted the tour of the distillery.

Separate meetings of the Quebec, Ontario and Western divisions followed the conference agenda today.

Argentine Man Swims Channel Back and Forth

DOVER (Reuters) — An Argentinian became the first man to swim the Channel virtually non-stop both ways early today and a few hours later a Pakistani splashed ashore with a one-way record.

Argentine swimmer Antonio Abertondo, 42, spent 43 hours, five minutes in the water—longer than any other channel swimmer has done.

Abertondo left Dover Thursday and reached Wissant on the French coast in 18 hours, 30 minutes. He spent only four minutes ashore before diving back into the water on the return trip.

Later, 30-year-old Pakistani Mrojan Dau came ashore after clocking 15 minutes from the existing record of 10 hours, 10 minutes from France to England set by an Egyptian swimmer 11 years ago.

PLANS DIEPPE VISIT

WINDSOR (CP)—The Essex and Kent Scottish Regiment is planning to make a "pilgrimage" to Dieppe France, in 1962 to mark the 20th anniversary of the Second World War invasion, Lt-Col. J. A. Baxter, commanding officer, said it is hoped that about 100 will attend a commemorative visit at Dieppe next Aug. 18 and 19.

Far-Reaching Unity Plans Being Worked Out Toward A Christian Solidarity

NEW YORK (AP) — A new and far-reaching unity plan is considered to guide the movement toward Christian solidarity.

It would make a believer at home in any church anywhere, no matter what his denomination, without necessitating organizational mergers.

Tre provisions, drawn up as the proposed goal of the fast-growing ecumenical movement, will be acted on by the forthcoming General Assembly of the World Council of Churches in New Delhi, India.

Under the council has not spelled out the kind of inter-church unity it advocates beyond the undefined spiritual goodwill, structural merger, or workaday co - operation, each of which have figured in the movement.

The proposed new formula would commit all churches holding the same catholic faith, preaching the same gospel and breaking the one bread" to full intercommunion, and acceptance of each other's baptism.

Numerous other historic-making decisions face the November assembly; which comes in the midst of an upsurge of Christian unity efforts that now have also captured Roman Catholic attention and that of previously non - participating blocs of orthodoxy.

The Russian and Rumanian Orthodox churches, long remote from the rest of Christendom, now seek membership. Most other orthodox branches already belong. Entrance of the Iron curtain churches presages new tension, but broader representation.

Protestant-Orthodox relations with Rome, which likely has registered increased interest in the council's work and has set up lines of contact, also will figure in the assembly's proceedings.

Theme of the New Delhi meeting, which will include some 1,000 church leaders, including 625 voting delegates, is "Jesus Christ—the Light of the World."

Ban Bomb Delegation March on Ottawa

This week several hundred teen-agers across Canada paused in their halls to consider something quite different from the classroom—the horror of nuclear war.

Their aim: to somehow convince world leaders that a nuclear arms race is a menace to humanity.

On Thanksgiving weekend a large percentage of them plan to join adults and young people presenting a petition to Prime Minister Diefenbaker in Ottawa urging Canada not to adopt nuclear arms.

Armed with sleeping bags, signs and iron constitutions, they have already cheered Billy decided to stage a 78-hour vigil on Capitol Hill to dramatize their case.

Whether or not you agree with these young people, just five minutes with any one of them destroys forever the usual stereotype of teen-agers only interested in fast cars, dating and loud music.

How many adults, I wonder, have noticed the unexpected growth across Canada during the past 12 months of teen-age organizations dedicated to preventing the spread of nuclear arms.

Are they visionaries? Eggheads? In fact, just how do Canadian teenagers find themselves tackling a problem on which few adults can agree (including the ladies and gentlemen in Parliament)?

A young Montreal ban-the-bomb enthusiast offered this explanation: "Adults—or those in charge—don't seem to be doing a good job. We just couldn't sit still any longer without doing something to help."

Attractive Susan Macpherson, a Grade 13 student at North Toronto Collegiate, had a slightly different opinion: "We may be banging our heads on a brick wall"—But rather than head by while things got worse we felt we had to do something."

The Combined Universities Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament has been underway in Canada for some time—but its counterpart at the high school level is only about one year old.

First organized group was the Canadian Students for Nuclear Disarmament Committee in Toronto. It held about five meetings last year with representatives from about 40 high schools.

In Montreal, several students from Westmount High School are planning to organize a nuclear disarmament study group. Eventually, they hope, the organization will be duplicated by as many Montreal high schools as possible.

Students from Victoria, B.C., and Regina, Sask., have written to ask how they can similarly tackle the problem. And students at Dalhousie University in Halifax, N.S., expect to form a nuclear disarmament group before Christmas.

What can teen-agers hope to accomplish by discussing the perils of nuclear warfare? Every young person I talked to agreed they may accomplish nothing—but they felt it was still better than the apathy of most adults.

"I think the most important thing we can do is make other people aware of the dangers of nuclear warfare," said Doni Fugen. "Once they've become aware, they'll start considering alternatives."

How do schools feel about this increased interest? Some principals, I found, welcome the increased interest in adult international affairs. Others worry about their school being called "pink" and ban meetings during schooltime.

Our final conclusion: No one who reads about young people investing Ottawa's Capitol Hill in a few weeks can ever again charge them with being a "couldn't-care-less" generation. Drop me a line if you have any strong feelings on the subject.

RESTRICTED MOVIES

Lord Herbert Morrison, president of the British Board of Censors, chatted briefly with us about teen-age moviegoers on his way out to the Canadian Film Censors' Conference in Regina.

"It's extremely difficult to guess some people's age, particularly with girls who use make-up," he said. "Therefore, many 16-year-olds get in to see movies restricted to people, 18 years of age or older."

"My big worry," he added, "is that 14-year-olds will start getting in to restricted movies if the age limit is cut down to 16?"

BURIES HUMOR

Finally, this chuckle was going the rounds this week.

General—"Does the sergeant know the trench has fallen in?"

Private—"No sir, we're digging him out to tell him."

Brampton Needs Punch

VANCOUVER (CP)—Brampton Rambers desperately need more scoring punch if they hope to bounce back into contention for the Canadian senior lacrosse championship.

The eastern champions scored only 10 goals in losing the first two games of the best-of-seven series for the Mann Cup against Vancouver Carlings.

A weak Brampton attack hurt the Ramblers in the series opener as they lost 14-4. It was the same story Thursday night as Ramblers scored only one goal in the second half and were beaten 11-4 before 1,830 fans.

The third game will be played Saturday night. The fourth game is set for Monday with a fifth, if necessary, Wednesday.

Coach Bruce McClure of Brampton, near Toronto, just should his head after Thursday night's game.

"How can we beat them if we don't score any goals?" he asked.

McClure hopes the addition of forward Bert Naylor will give his club a lift. Naylor, one of Brampton's high scorers this season, is flying here for the third and fourth games. He is a school teacher and can leave his job only briefly.

Defenceman Bill Barbour led Vancouver Thursday night with three goals. Stu Smith, who had four goals in the first game, and Bob Parry each scored twice. while Gordie Gimple, Bob Babcock, Wayne Pecknold and Bill Chisholm added singles.

Adios Colt Wins Little Brown Jug

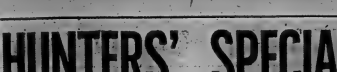
DELAWARE, Ohio (AP)—A power with a big heart and a little driver reigns as winner of the annual $75,000 Little Brown Jug for three - year - old sidewheelers.

Henry T. Adios, a bay colt with speed to burn, snatched the four-heat feature Thursday from a field of 15, biggest in its history, and boosted his two-year payroll to $125,388.46 with a $16,752 purse.

With the cash carved into five pieces in each of three heats, and a single slice for the fourth, the victor's share was the fourth smallest ever paid in the classic event over Delaware County Fairground's hallenhe oval.

Stanley Dancer, 34-year - old driver who has been driving sulkies since he was 16, piloted Henry T. to victory. The champ pulled the sulky as if he didn't have anyone aboard. Dancer weighs only 136 pounds.

Dr. and Mrs. Nicholas Derrico of Pelham Manor, N.Y., paid $37,500 for Henry T. Adios as a yearling. He got $44,328 back for them as a two-year - old and $56,001 this year. Most of the Jug drama was wrapped up in the late going. Lang Hanover, a chestnut colt owned by Samuel Huttenbeuter of Cincinnati, won the first section of the divided field in 2:01, beating Adios and by a half-length.



Way Wave, bay filly owned by the Castleton farm of Lexington, Ky., took the second section in 2:01 1-5, hitting the wire a neck ahead of Henry T. Adios.

The first five came from each of the first two heats for a run-off, and Lang Hanover or Way Wave could have finished it had either won, but Henry T. took charge and romped home in 1:58 4-5, a fifth of a second off the Jug record, with Way Wave second and Lang Hanover third. That brought the three best winners back for the big one, and an added payoff of about $17,000 over the $5,000-plus each won in the earlier jaunts.

Bulldogs Battle For Entry

SARNIA (CP) — Windsor Bulldogs have agreed to release playing coach Joe Klukay and two players to Sarnia Rams as the price for Sarnia's support in the Windsor bid to get back into the Ontario Hockey Association Senior League, it was reported Thursday.

Sarnia manager James Mahon said the Rams are still negotiating with Klukay, who will be here Sunday to continue talks.

"If an agreement is reached with Klukay, Sarnia will not stand in Windsor's way," Mahon said.

Windsor withdrew from the league after last season, but has made a late bid to re-enter. The league members first voted against re - admitting the Bulldogs but are understood to be reconsidering.

The two other players sought by Sarnia were not identified.

In London, Ont., C. G. (Pat) Patterson, OHA vice - president and convenor of the Senior Western Division, said Wednesday night the question of Windsor's re-entry is up to the other teams.

"If a meeting is to be called to discuss a Windsor entry, a majority of the eight teams in the league will have to request such a meeting on Windsor's behalf," he said, adding:

"The OHA does not like to keep anyone out of hockey. However, the deadline for senior hockey entries is Sept. 1 and at a group meeting Sept. 10 in London it was a unanimous decision that the present eight entries only would be accepted in the league unless a replacement was needed."

Patterson said he conducted a telephone poll of the teams in the league asking whether a Windsor entry is acceptable. He said six voted against Windsor, and one and one abstained.

Bulldogs spokesman Bill Baksi told Patterson Thursday he also conducted an informal poll and had mustered enough support to gain entry.

Adios Butler Paces Mile In 1:55 3/5

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP)—Adios Butler, five-year - old bay horse owned by the Adios Butler syndicate of Westbury, N.Y., paced a 1:55 3-5 mile against the clock Thursday—the fastest ever raced over a half - mile track.

Piloted by Eddie Cobb on Washington Court House, Ohio, the little stepper of pacing's triple crown blazed around the Delaware County Fairgrounds half-mile oval in the third fastest time ever raced on any track.

The time erased the old record of 1:57 4-5 which Adios Butler held jointly with Bye Bye Byrd. Adios Butler, who has piled up more than $446,000 in purses, also holds the mile record of 1:54 3-5 set a year ago at Lexington, Ky.

BANTAMS START TOURNEY

HUNTSVILLE (CP) — Some 400 young players from all parts of Ontario gather here tonight in preparation for the provincial bantam lacrosse tournament. Huntsville Green Gaels are favored to take their fifth straight championship in the tournament which concludes Saturday night.

But Where?

Patterson Will Fight

BOSTON (AP)—Floyd Patterson has agreed to give young Tom McMeekley a shot at his world heavyweight crown before the end of 1961—but where?

The once-certain Boston setting suddenly became remote Thursday when the Massachusetts Boxing Commission refused approval of the contracts which specify the referee be a non-state resident.

After the three-hour deadlock on the issue of officials, Patterson officially signed for his sixth title defense against the unbeaten and relatively unknown Arlington, Mass., campaigner.

The 15-round bout had been tentatively set for Nov. 23 at Boston Garden until the agreement impasse developed. Cus D'Amato, Patterson's manager, insists on a non-Massachusetts referee. Commission chairman Herman Greenberg replies that his group has sole legal jurisdiction over who the officials will be.

"Floyd Patterson will fight McMeekley before the end of the year," announced Thos. Bolan, head of the promoting Championship Sports Incorporated. "If it's not in Boston, it will have to be somewhere else."

Though Greenberg said the commission could not approve the fight in this state under its present wording, the long - delayed signing took place. The contracts, binding between the principals but invalid in Massachusetts, will be resubmitted with some revisions. The Commission will pass judgment within a few days upon these revisions. No one would say what might entail.

Bisons Win Shy Of Title

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Buffalo Bisons of the International League stand at the brink of baseball's Junior World Series.

The Herd smashed Rochester Red Wings 17-6 Thursday night and now are a victory shy of winning the best-of-seven league finals. The win was Buffalo's third in a row after the Wings won the opener. The teams meet here again tonight.

Tony Curry, with a homer, four other hits and six runs batted in, led the surging Bisons, who got rid of Red Wing starter and loser Herb Moford after only an inning and two-thirds. The Herd collected 22 hits.

Five other Bisons — Ted Savage, Bob Sadowski, Felix Torres, Jim Frey and Cal Neeman —pummelled Red Wing pitching for three hits apiece. Savage's output included a three - run homer.

Wally Seward went all the way for Buffalo.

If the Bisons win tonight, they will start the Little World Series here Sunday against Louisville Colonels, the American Association winners. Lefty Paul Brown will pitch for Buffalo tonight against Rochester's right-hander John Anderson.

65 Leads Portland Tourney

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Jerry Steelsmith fired eight birdies Thursday on his way to a seven-under par 65, the low score in the first round of the $50,000 Portland open golf tournament.

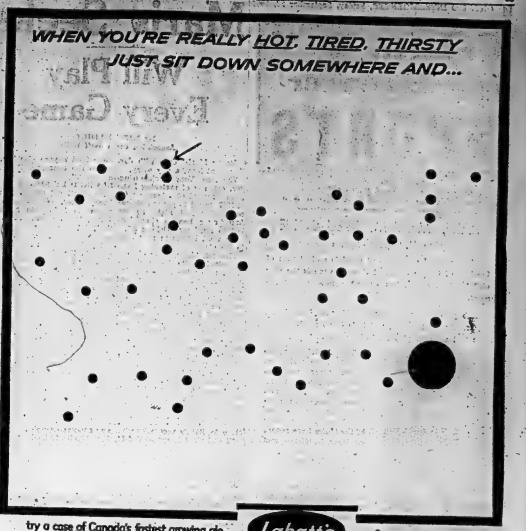
The stroke back in the 72-hole tournament were Tommy Aaron and Dave Hill.

Gary Player of South Africa, the pro tour's leading money winner, was tied with four others for fifth place at 69.

Al Balding and Jerry Magee, both of Toronto, finished in a tie with eight others for 19th place at 70.

Western Football

WINNIPEG (CP)—Two backfield starters return to action Saturday night when Western Football Conference teams meet in two games.



Veteran halfback Charlie Shepard will be in the lineup when Winnipeg Blue Bombers take on the Eskimos in Edmonton. He has missed two games with a knee injury.

Halfback Bobby Walden is set to return to the Edmonton backfield after missing one engagement because of a bruised rib.

The other conference game pits the winless British Columbia Lions against the Stampeders in Calgary. Star halfback Willie Fleming of the Lions is a doubtful starter with a bruised shoulder and toe. Assistant coach Ed Vereb may be used in Fleming's spot.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The general consensus of officials and players of the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club is the new eighteen-hole course has opened a new era of the sport.

Club president "Bud" Trill said, "we have had an exceptionally good season, and it is in no small part due to the fact we now play an 18-hole course."

"BUD" TRILL

Ladies' division president Mrs. Betty Diamond stated "Our members have enjoyed a very successful season and there is no doubt the 18-hole course has contributed to it. A number of the ladies have reduced their handicaps and the overall pleasure is that everyone is playing better golf."

"We have had many successful events in the division and are fortunate that we were blessed with good weather," Mrs. Diamond said.

"An eighteen-hole course has a distinct advantage over a nine-hole links," she said, "because each hole is different. It calls for the best in a golfer and I believe this has been one of the most important factors in the general improvement of play."

The ladies' division closes the official season tomorrow with its final field day. There will be a post-tournament dinner and presentation of prizes.

Another major contributing factor to the seasonal success of the club has been the excellent conditions of the course. This has been largely due to the outstanding work and effort of the club professional, George Balzas.

But George had his troubles. Quinte, like other clubs of the district and province, fell victim, in spots, to a fungus that destroyed grass of the greens.

"It came overnight," said Mr. Balzas. "We had two weeks almost steady rain followed by a heavy dew. The first, second, 13th and 16th greens were badly hit, but the situation is being cleared up."

President Trill said his own tribute. "The greens have been well kept and are in fine condition. Those on the hole nine are large, green and beautiful. We are fortunate the fungus attack was halted at the time."

Another factor in the fine maintenance of the greens, Mr. Trill said, has been the use of modern mowing machinery purchased this year by the club. This includes greens and tee mowers and a special golf course tractor.

The eighteen-hole course has proved a distinct advantage to the club, he said. "This year for the first time in some years, various organizations, residential and service clubs have held entertainment tournaments. These have proved to be of financial benefit. Also aiding in this respect, has been the permission of green fees privileges. The club has done extremely well since these fees."

Mr. Trill feels the eighteen-hole course appeals to the "real golfer in a man or woman. "Nine holer," he said, "are for pleasure and relaxation. Eighteen brings out the 'golfer' in a man. The real golfer prefers the larger course."

The addition of the new nine holes, the president pointed out, has resulted in the elimination of "piling up" at the first tee. "Now, there is no waiting, no hold up. Members can play straight through without unnecessary delay. This has proven a distinct benefit and has been no small item in the success of the season."

Membership of the club showed a decided increase this year, Mr. Trill said. The catering service has been outstanding.

"Bud" did not say so but does an excellent job in the presidential chair. It remained for a number of members to tell me that. Lady members paid the same tribute to Mrs. Diamond.

The club winds up a fine season on Sunday with a men's field day, dinner and presentation of trophies to ladies, men and juniors.

Will Play Every Game

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Staff Writer

Roger Maris' date with destiny is at least a day away.

The New York Yankee slugger, one shy of matching Babe Ruth's record of 60 homer total of 1927, failed to get the chance to add to his total as the American League champions lost 9-3 to Baltimore Orioles Thursday night.

He appears in four trips to the plate.

That left Maris, who no longer can officially tie the Bambino's mark under the 162 game limit set by Commissioner Ford Frick, with seven games in which to match or surpass the Babe on the American League's expanded 162 - game program.

The Yankees open today, move into Boston next for a two - game set Saturday and Sunday, then return home for a pair with the Orioles and a single game against the Washington Senators.

"I intend to play every game the rest of the season," insists Maris, who hit No. 59 at Baltimore Wednesday night and became the first player in major league history to come that close to Ruth's record.

"I still want to get 60 and 61. Record or not, I want to hit more than Ruth did. That is, 61 (10-11) getting the less.

Lead Series 3-1

Lightfoots Nip Trudeaus

Lightfoot Construction moved to within one game of the Commercial Softball League championship at the CNRA Park last night when they edged Trudeau Motors by a narrow 3-1 score.

The Lightfoots lead the best-of-seven series three games to one. The next game is slated for the CNRA Park at two o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Last night's game was a thriller from start to finish.

Trudeaus scored their lone 1-0 lead in the top of the third when John Casey smashed a long drive over the centre fence to start the scoring.

Lightfoots tied it in the bottom of the frame. A walk, Rusty Garvin's single, moving the lead runner to third, and a fly ball by Ralph Plane got the equalizing score.

The winning run was scored in the fourth. Don Wood singled and moved third on an outfield bobble. An infield error and a walk loaded the bases and Rusty Garvin hit a second single to drive in Wood with the decisive marker.

Percy Long pitched three-hit ball over the seven-inning route for the winners. He struck out four and issued two free tickets.

Harry Powers toiled for Trudeaus. He gave up four hits, walked four and yielded five runs.

Rusty Garvin, with two key singles, paced the Lightfoot hitters. Ralph Plane and Don Wood had the other singles.

John Casey, Wood, Ray Jones, and Bob Brooks and Ed Plata had a single apiece for Trudeaus after the Trudeau safeties.

May Seek Liberal Nomination

What's This? Kelly MP!

SEE yesterday Sept20

OTTAWA (CP)—Tommy Mc-Leod Leeds are known for, besides hockey, supplying Liberal members to the House of Commons.

Leeds centre Leonard Patrick (Red) Kelly may make it hat to maintain this tradition in the next election, however.

The political word here is that Kelly will seek the Liberal nomination in Yorkshire South. If he decides to end his playing days in Toronto.

It is known that the Liberals would like to grab Kelly but they have failed to interest him in trying to win York-Scarborough, the most marginal riding in Canada, from Progressive Conservative John Diefenbaker.

Former Leeds who have been Liberal MPs include Hardin John Donald and Howie Meeker. Another National Hockey League player from Toronto who became a Liberal MP was the late Lionel Conacher, a Liberal cabinet minister from Ottawa. He died on the front lawn of Parliament Hill after hitting a triple in a political softball game.

The name of Syl Apps, former Leeds centre, has tentatively been put into circulation here as another possible Liberal candidate. He was a Conservative candidate in the 1940 general election, losing by 136 votes to D. S. Thorson.

In Peterborough, where the late Tommy Lewis was born, Kelly said: "I've given it some thought but right now I'm playing hockey. I guess I said he wasn't too positive before training started that I thought he would be playing this season. "But I'm feeling pretty good now and getting a little better each day."

Upstart Als Meet Unbeaten Cats

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Alouettes, calledowners-turned-quarterback, try to take Hamilton Tiger - Cats by the tail Saturday night with the same team that last weekend gave them their only victory of the season.

"You don't tamper with a winning combination," said a spokesman for the club that nudged Edmonton all around the Eastern Football Conference last Saturday with a 26-12 off Ottawa Rough Riders.

The win boosted Montreal to within hailing distance of third-place Toronto Argonauts, who have seven points, four more than the Alouettes. Argos are at home Sunday to Ottawa in a game that could see the Rough Riders with a chance to edge Argos over Toronto reserved.

The Alouettes spokesman said the club's spirit after their first win "better than it ever was". The "no change" edict apparently means that Montreal will send Ken Ploen, who was expected to rejoin the lineup after missing two games with a shoulder injury, will not see action.

Hamilton coach Jim Trimble, with seven victories, no defeats and first place in his clutches, is not so complacent. His fig-ures the Montreal offensive is "real confusing" and has organized the Tiger - Cats to up the plays fast and, if that fails, to "play it by ear."

TIED RETURNEES

Quarterback Bernie Faloney, and Hal Patterson and Ilne-backer Hardman Curtis, all injured in recent games, will be back in the lineup.

Coach Frank Clair, still stinging from last weekend's upset, will bring Edmonton Eskimos three full-dress workouts this week. He said that if his club comes up with any more games like last week, "I'll just have to look for some changes."

He already has a few in mind for Sunday. Bill Graham will switch back from defensive end to offensive tackle, Ted Smale will move from Graham's end slot and Tom Rodgers, recently acquired from Edmonton Eskimos, will likely go defensive half. The only regulars missing will be Ken Ploen, Davey West and Ernie Whitt.

Argos will have at least three key injured regulars missing—Dave Wallace, Mean Schriewer and Gerry Philips. Wallace, Schriewer and the top scorer with 32 points, has a sprained ankle but may be well by Sunday. Bob Jewett will replace Schriewer, but coach Lou Agnew is having trouble assigning a man to last end.

Hurst Asks OASA Action

Joyces Awarded Series

Bill Hurst, president of the Belleville and District Softball League, announced last night that Joyce Real Estate has been awarded the league championship and the Bill Ott Trophy.

Joyces led the best-of-seven series three games to none over the Cobourg Merchants. The Merchants said yesterday that they would not continue the series and would never have anything to do with the league again.

Hurst then awarded the series to Joyces and issued the following statement.

"As president of the Belleville and District Softball League it is my intention to write a letter to the OASA, recommending that the Cobourg Merchants be dealt with by that organization for their actions in this league.

"I will ask that the entire club, including Ray Neill and Charlie Callahan, be dealt with for calling Cliff Belch, Bill Shaw and myself names and for the way they have treated us and the people of Belleville."

All blasted President Hurst, secretary-treasurer Cliff Belch and Joyces, including manager Bill Shaw, in a telephone call to this paper yesterday.

The Cobourg club has failed to live up to obligations throughout the finals series against Joyces. Hurst said yesterday was the final straw.

The awarding of the Ott Trophy to Joyces gave them a clean sweep of league honors. The two-run homer that nonplused a 1-1 tie in the seventh inning against the Yankees.

Offered $500 For Baseball, Wants $2,500
BALTIMORE (AP) — The man who caught Roger Maris' 59th homer ball Thursday night was offered $500 for the souvenir by a man in Miami.
The telegram arrived at Memorial Stadium addressed to "the man who caught the ball that Roger Maris hit Wednesday."
"I will pay $500 for the ball that was hit in yesterday's baseball game," the text of the message said. "Money will be available at any minute, if I can get the ball."
"Please write or call Daniel L. Wagner, 13 Northwest 117th Street, Miami."
The club said it will try to contact Bob Reitz, the fan who caught the 361-foot homer run ball, at his home but were unable to reach Mrs. Reitz by phone. Reitz left the game again Thursday night.
The 23 - year - old Reitz had put the ball on a meat stand in a Baltimore package market today, waiting for an offer for it.
"I feel this way," said Reitz. "The Yankees have everything, but I have the ball. I'll settle for a couple of tickets to the world series with all expenses paid."
Maris, who posed with Reitz for photographers after the game, offered to exchange an autographed ball for the 59th homer ball. But Reitz wanted none of it.
Maris made a second attempt to get the ball Thursday, when he was driven to the Reitz home by former major leaguer and Baltimore businessman, Lou Gramcich.
Maris remained in the car as Gramcich attempted to negotiate the deal. The Yankee slugger was told that Reitz wanted $3,500 for the souvenir ball.
"No dice, let's go," Maris said.

Schedule Favors Reds

Pennant In Cincy This Weekend?

By TED SMITH
Associated Press Staff Writer

Cincinnati Reds, their first National League pennant in 21 years almost within grasp, take on San Francisco Giants tonight at Crosley Field while their fading rivals, Los Angeles Dodgers, journey to St. Louis to do battle with the Cardinals.

The key number is four. Any combination of Cincinnati victories or Los Angeles defeats totalling four assures the pennant to the Redlegs for the first time since 1940.

Cincinnati has Bob Purkey (18-11) ready to send against San Francisco's Billy O'Dell (8-5). The honor of being chosen to oppose the New York Yankees in the world series might be decided this weekend.

Certainly the schedule favors the Reds. They play San Francisco again Saturday then go on the road for their four last games — at Chicago Sept. 28 and at Pittsburgh Sept. 29 and 30 and Oct. 1.

Dodgers will be on the road from now to the end of the season and have a much busier time of it. Two more games after tonight will be played at St. Louis, then the Pirates will be at Pittsburgh Sept. 25 and 26, the Phillies at Philadelphia Sept. 27 and 28 and the Cubs at Chicago Sept. 30 and Oct. 1.

This flurry of action by the Dodgers while the Reds pursue a stately pace comes from the fact Cincinnati has played two more games so far this season. The Reds' record is 89-57 .610 and the Dodgers 84-60 .583, or five full games to the rear.

Yankees, out scouting the Redlegs in force, are recognized to playing Cincinnati. They would have served the Dodgers. The reason, of course, is that the Coliseum in Los Angeles holds 92,000 for a baseball game and Crosley Field a mere 29,000. This makes a big difference in the players' share of the series receipts.

Dodgers will use either Don Drysdale (13-9) or Johnny Podres (12-6) against Cardinals' Ray Sadecki (14-8). They won 13 - losing thriller over Chicago 3-2 in their last appearance in the Coliseum Wednesday night to keep their hopes alive, even if faintly.

In other National League games tonight Chicago is at Milwaukee and Pittsburgh at Philadelphia.

There were no scheduled games in the National League Thursday night.

Norburn Square Series

By AL MASKILL

POST CREDIT (CP) — If confidence counts, Thursday Norburns should take the next game of the Minto Cup lacrosse series when they wrestle at six Norwood and Hastings Legion grounds each for two games of the best - of - seven series with the next one to go tonight.

Hastings coach Dr. Normabee says he is afraid the team has lost confidence in him and is doubtful his can "get them up" for the next game.

Norburn coach Bill Dickinson, however, elated at his team's 11-8 win over Hastings Wednesday, says his boys "can keep it up" for the rest of the series.

Dickinson was speaking specifically about the fourth period of the Wednesday game, when Norburns drove in five unanswered goals to overcome a 8-6 deficit.

Maris Hair Fell Out In Tufts

BALTIMORE (AP)—Roger Maris, who has been mumming the pressure on him during his assault on Babe Ruth's 60-homer record, broke down Thursday night.

He admitted the strain has been so great that his hair has been falling out in tufts, sending him in anxiety to a Baltimore doctor.

"I was afraid it was some kind of disease," he said.

"But the doctor assured me it was nothing of the sort. He said it was just a case of nerves. My hair will grow back season. He told me it must have been building up for some time and said I'd probably have some bald spots but that they would eventually grow back again."

Pressure began back in July when it became evident that the 27-year-old outfielder had a real shot at Ruth's record. It got worse in August, with 46 home run and reached agonizing proportions in the final days.

Thursday night Maris looked tired and indicated being tired.

"I know I can use a couple of days off," he said, "but I'm going to play right through. Even if I'm lucky enough to hit three homers, I still won't ask for a day off. I guess I'll have to take my rest after the season is over, if they let me."

Maris has given himself one more chance. He will disrupt batting practice from now until the world series.

The Training Camps

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Gale-force winds can be expected today in Eastern Canada, the result of one massive sigh of relief on the West Coast.

That cry on Jean Beliveau's instep wasn't serious.

The Montreal Canadiens' spectacular centre was injured in a collision during the bench during the National Hockey League club's training sessions at Victoria. Two stitches closed the wound and Beliveau was back in action.

With that taken care of, coach Toe Blake's eye wandered to a new forward line that has sparked the Montreal camp. Teaming rookie Bev Bell with Phil Goyette and Dickie Moore, Blake was rewarded with a three-goal outburst from Bell and a single from Moore in an intra-squad game.

At Niagara Falls, Ont., Detroit Red Wings played their first exhibition game and posted a 5-0 victory over Boston Bruins. Gordie Howe dazzled the 2,800 fans with a brilliant unassisted goal in the first period.

AT THE PARK — Maureen O'Hara, as Kit Tilden, an outcast woman, who is shunned by the Arizona frontier town in which she supports herself and her orphaned son as a dancehall girl. Here Maureen lashes out with her horse's reins, at Brian Keith, off scene, when he suggests that maybe the town's suspicions about the legitimacy of her child are true. In this scene from Pathe-America's presentation of "The Deadly Companions", filmed in Pathe color and Panavision showing today and Saturday at the Park Theatre. On the same program "The Unstoppable Man", starring Cameron Mitchell and Lois Maxwell. Continuous show Saturday from 1.00 p.m. Doors open at 12.30 p.m.

Kukla, Fran and Ollie Return to Special Spot

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — A few years ago in the halcyon days of television, one of the joys for the adult, semi-literate-and-better viewer was a slightly pappy show called Kukla, Fran and Ollie, which specialized in a rather sophisticated brand of weird whimsy.

The attractive little show subsequently suffered the slings and arrows of low ratings and finally disappeared from the networks. Now, in one of the pleasant puzzling events of the new season, NBC is bringing it back.

In the black-and-white world of television thinking, it is ordained that puppet shows are for children. Hence, the new Kukla and Ollie returns next Monday as a daily show—and at an hour reserved for the little ones.

The official name of Steven Allen's new ABC variety show, which will have its premier Wednesday, is The New Steve Allen Show, although Steve himself insists the format will be much like that of the old, NBC one. Things have come to a pretty pass: The Wayne and Shuster situation comedy series which is the supposed replacement for Jack Benny will go into repeat broadcasts before it disappears, and the shows were not particularly entertaining even the first time out.

Second 'Mutiny on Bounty' To Run About $18,000,000

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — How does it feel to spend $18,000,000?

Not bad, says Aaron Rosenberg. In fact, you would hardly know that he is spending a record sum for any movie and inserting a record number of headaches with it. He is producing the second Mutiny on the Bounty.

"Spending umpteen million on a movie is no different than spending one million," said Rosenberg. "The only difference is the bills come larger."

So do the rumors. There have been all kinds about the massive production, which started last May, 26 and will finish in three weeks. The most recurrent one is that star Marlon Brando has been the cause of delays for various reasons.

Brando, who seldom reacts to what is printed about him, is looping mad about the reports. ALWAYS READY

"The reports are nonsense," the producer said. "Marlon has always been on the set and ready when we need him, which is almost every day. He has got only been present, he has been a constructive force. Whether he wants to be a director or remain an actor, I believe the has genius."

Then what has caused the delays?

Rosenberg rattled them off by the dozen:

The Bounty replica built in Nova Scotia was four months late in delivery ("it was a bad year for lumber"); the writers' strike stalled production, the film had to start with half a script because of actor commitments. The ship delay put the company in Tahiti at the rainy season.

Sports in Brief

BOOST STATUS

DWIGHT (CP)—The William Braden Memorial Power Boat Races (page 23-24) have been declared the Canadian national championships for all inboard classes, Don MacDonald, inboard director of the Canadian Boating Federation, announced Thursday. The program, featured by the three-heat, 30-mile Braden Trophy event, will be raced on Lake of Bays at this Muskoka district community.

LOST FOR SEASON

CLEVELAND (AP) — Southpaw Sam McDowell, Cleveland Indians' $70,000 bonus rookie, has two broken ribs and won't pitch again this season, Dr. Don Kelley said Thursday. McDowell, 19, brought up from Salt Lake earlier this month, suffered the injury Friday night when he slipped on a loose piece of turf on the mound and fell. He had shut out Minnesota on three hits when the mishap occurred in the seventh inning of his major league debut.

MAY CURTAIL HUNTING

WINNIPEG (CP)—Duck hunters in southern Manitoba take to the marshes today, facing a government warning that their hunting season might be cut short if the forest fire hazard gets worse. A published government "request appeal" to hunters warns that "continued drought or the occurrence of fire caused by hunters may make it necessary to close the game bird hunting season entirely until conditions improve."

CLAIMS SWIM FIRST

DOVER, England (Reuters)—Antonio Abertondo, 46, this morning became the first person to swim the English Channel non-stop both ways. The Argentinian landed here after more than 10 hours in the water—longer than any other channel swimmer in history. He left Dover Wednesday and reached Wissant on the French coast in 18 hours and 30 minutes. He spent only four minutes ashore before diving back into the water for the return trip.

PASS TV BILL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Thursday night passed by voice vote and sent to the president a bill to permit professional sports leagues to contract for the televising of games by member teams. The bill provides that professional football games cannot be telecast Friday nights or Saturday within 75 miles of a college game.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

GENERAL TENDENCIES—Now you have one of those interesting days when all kinds of opportunities are present for you to make considerable headway by putting into motion the changes you have been considering for some time but which you have not yet had the chance to complete. The approaching Full Moon lends its benign help to your plans.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) A perfect day and evening to get everything organized quietly in the way you prefer. Don't confide in others or make selfish individual can pirate what is rightfully yours. Take it easy tonight. Enjoy some of those fine TV programs.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Nice day to be with friends who are busy working during the week. Plan nice social events for the evening also and have a wonderful time. See that you dress beautifully and don't hide your light under a bushel. Be instantly entertaining.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Handle any civic matters that you could and take care of during work week, also any duties connected with your vocation or social. Get out to dinner in P.M. and to some floor show or other entertainment if you have not enjoyed of late.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) A good day to meet interesting people, but be sure you also are active and go for a drive or enjoy sports that are healthful. P.M. take time to make arrangements that will keep you from worrying in the future financially.

Leo (July 22 to August 21) Spend some of this free day getting bookkeeping records in order. You can handle this without spending money on experts. P.M. fine for having a wonderful time with the one you love. Seek out to some charming restaurant, etc.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) Informal talks with associates are fine today as well as doing whatever is necessary to bring harmony between you and other key people in your sphere of endeavor. Then the evening is fine for social pleasure and being truly happy.

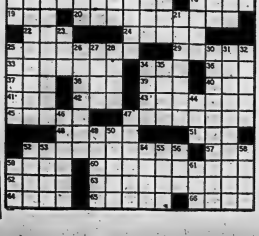
Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) You can get all those accumulated tasks cleared up easily if you stop worrying about them and dig right in and do them. P.M. assist friends with their problems so they prosper, too.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22) Ideal Saturday for light entertainment. Dress nicely in A.M. and then go to whatever pleases or amuses you. Ride that hobby for all its worth, but be sure you have it well organized first. Forget your worries today.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) Look about you and see what you can do to make surroundings far more charming and clean. Every opportunity is yours now to be truly devoted to close ties and bring greater harmony into the home. Buy little presents, etc.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Instead of dreaming about all the shopping that you should be doing, dress up and get out early and you will find the items and bargains you have been searching for. Then plan future activities. P.M. go out for pleasure, fun.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Better spend this day improving real estate you may have or surroundings and also making any additions difficult during work week. P.M. sit down and work out a workable budget that will be easy to maintain. Don't be frivolous.



Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) A day for doing exactly what you please. Dress up nicely early in A.M. then off to the social affairs and hobbies that most appeal to you. Be dynamic and show you also have a sense of humor and are a wonderful companion.

If your child is born today there will be great ability to tackle big things and bring them down to a practical and workable level. So be very sure you give as fine an education as you can afford, without neglecting spiritual and ethical training, without which this chart could lose much of the success that is in it. Your youngster is a highly geared lot, so be very understanding, too.

Sunday School Lesson

Making of a Church Boss

By ROY L. SMITH

The integrity of the New Testament is proved by the candor and honesty with which it introduces its characters. No effort is made to gloss over their imperfections. With the exception of Jesus of Nazareth, none of the characters is represented as having been a perfect person. And some of the most arresting spiritual lessons originate in the stories of those who lacked most of being perfect.

THE CHURCH BOSS

In the third Epistle of John for example, we have the portrait of a very modern individual — the local church boss who is quite unable to tolerate the issuance of any instructions other than his own.

It is quite unfortunate that we know so little about the administration of the first century Christian churches. It seems evident from this week's lesson, however, that they were infested with some of the same nuisances that disrupt the work and fellowship of some of our modern churches.

There was the local church boss, for example. No one knows, precisely to whom the Third Epistle of John may have been addressed, beyond the fact that his name was Gaius, and that he was the official head of a local congregation who was having no little difficulty with a self-appointed critic.

In the case of the church referred to in this Lesson, it appears that a certain Diotrephes (Dee-ot-ref-eez, unknown,) had arrogated to himself the authority to recognize some church workers and repudiate others.

It was probably a balm to his ego when other men obeyed his orders. It gave him a sense of inner satisfaction when he could order people around, and to have them to defer to his judgments in all things. Actually, no one is ever smaller than a small boss.

There were hundreds of wandering Christians, some of them genuinely spiritual and entirely honest, who moved about in the ancient world. Many of them liked to pose as teachers and preachers. Upon arriving in a community they would hunt up the local leaders and offer their services as preachers and teachers.

At a day when there were no tests of orthodoxy and when there was no standard of doctrine, it was easy for charlatans to impose themselves on honest people and work great injuries.

The author of the Third Epistle of John (called in his book "the elder") seems to have been a man who was officially commissioned to render recommendations, judge candidates and otherwise protect the churches against impostors. It became his duty, therefore, to pass on the fitness of those who proposed to foist themselves upon the church as teachers and interpreters.

In one congregation, however there was this man Diotrephes who refused to accept the judgments of Gaius. Instead, he proposed to pass judgments himself and was determined that no one bearing the author's imprimatur was to preach in any church over which he had any influence. The end result was that he had become more than a nuisance; he had become the equivalent of an enemy of the faith.

There is an old proverb to the effect that "power always corrupts the man who has it." Some exceptions can be made in the case of the popular saying, but without a doubt there is something about power which has the effect of corroding away the moral powers of the one who is entrusted with it.

There is, for example, something about a title that makes a small man even smaller, and serves as a temptation to largeness.

Let a self-seeking man be given a little bit of authority inside a small company of even religious people and he is very apt to become arbitrary, dictatorial, and difficult. And there are few men more bossy than the bosses of small churches. The only salvation in such instances is a spiritual democracy which bestows authority with a niggardly hand.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for September 30 is "GAIUS, A CHRISTIAN" 3 John.

Police College Still Sought By Hamilton

HAMILTON (CP) — A last ditch effort is being made to have a $2,000,000 police college established in Hamilton, even though Aylmer has been recommended as the site of the building.

Ald. Joseph Kostyk said today that cost of fixing up the old RCAF buildings at Aylmer for the college might be too high. He suggested Hamilton might even free land to attract the institution here.

Deputy Attorney-General William Common said today that while Aylmer was the recommended site, a survey of costs and maintenance was still being made.

New Approach To 2 Germanys Now Developing

Believe West Willing To Consider Changes

by JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

NEW YORK (AP)—American officials said today that United States policy on Berlin and the future of Germany stands unchanged, but evidence increased that ideas of new and more elastic approach to a settlement of the Berlin crisis may be developing.

The key to the situation seems to lie in next moves to be made by Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

If he indicates to the Western powers that he is ready to agree to a compromise way out of the dispute, he seems likely to find the West willing to consider a number of changes. If he tries to dictate the terms of settlement, however, the West position will be hardened.

News dispatches from Berlin Friday said U.S. officials are telling West German authorities that Communist East Germany is a fact of life and that the West Germans must face up to it. The dispatches added that discussion of the possibility of letting the Communist regime share some power over access to West Berlin.

The transfer of the Berlin dispatches is that the U.S. at least informally, is advising the West German government to consider dealing with the reality of an East German state. Berlin would occur it would mark a radical change in West Germany's long standing and inflexible policy of new element into over-all Allied policy.

In a statement the state department characterized reports on this aspect from Germany as highly inaccurate. The statement did not specify which reports or what details it considered inaccurate.

Privately officials said U.S. policy on Germany has not changed, but on one has said it would never change. It is in this connection that the problem of unification of Moscow and possible negotiations becomes critical. Russia's demand for some kind of East German control over Berlin access routes, for example, would have to be met, said negotiations — and one on which the Western powers probably would not disclose their bargaining position in advance.

The question of whether there are to be "negotiations is under discussion between U.S. Secretary Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko here in New York. They meet for 4½ hours Thursday and plan to meet again next week. Rusk is leaving the Western Allies informed.

BERLIN (AP)—High American officials said it be they are to face up to the existence of the East German Communist state.

But an American mission spokesman said there have been no official announcements of that new German attitude.

The spokesman emphasized that signal to greet the East German regime is not the decision to Berlin remains firm Western policy.

News reports hinting at a possible Western de facto recognition of East Germany surprised and upset West Germans.

West German policy always has been based on the principle that East Germany does not exist a state and that therefore its administration there is illegal. This has been the policy of Germany's Western allies.

HERE TO STAY

The American officials said the people of West Germany and West Berlin must realize that the Communist regime in East Germany is here to stay, at least for years.

The same sources say the East German regime probably have to be given some form of check on civilian use of the autobahn, the highway between Berlin and West Germany. The officials said the Communist set all civilian surface movements into Berlin.

Any mission to Berlin is just a token gesture which would do what we can to demonstrate the freedom we once had . . . in international competition.

The resolution received unanimous approval and the bill was given first reading.

WILL HELP SPORT

Mr. Monteith outlined three points in which the money would be channelled to amateur sports:

1. Provision of greater assistance to Canada's national training camps in sports months out in advance.

2. Support for research and for expansion of facilities and services for training of coaches and officials. Bursaries and fellowships to improve the competition of sports personnel.

3. Support for research and information activities; 5. Provision of special recognition for outstanding achievement.

The plan will benefit "in all its main aspects" from the national advisory council being set up to administer proposed legislation, said Mr. Monteith. This council will consist of not more than 30 members, officials and the provinces and various sports organizations.

MUST DETERMINE

Need for strict criteria to determine the kind of grants and grants are made under the plan was emphasized by Walter Pitman (Peterborough).

The federal government must "be very careful indeed" to avoid favoring "the kind of agency which is sincerely motivated to help the individual athlete and recreation and does not have other motivations," he said.

Survivor of UN Plane Crash Dies Without Being Able to Tell Much

NDOLA (Reuters) — American Sgt. Harold Julian, sole survivor of the plane crash that killed United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold, died in hospital here today, a Northern Rhodesian centre today she days after he was pulled from the wreckage of his plane.

Julian was a UN security guard accompanying Hammarskjold and 14 others on the flight here from the Congo capital of Leopoldville for cease-fire talks in the Katanga fighting.

Julian, 28-year-old wife Marie, was flown from their Miami, Fla., home to be at her husband's bedside.

Julian received burns covering one-third of his body in the crash in the bush about eight miles from here.

Investigators had hoped Julian would recover sufficiently to give them information that would help determine the cause of the crash.

Julian's death brought the toll in the crash to 16 including a Canadian secretary, Miss Alice Lelande of Joliette, Que.

Julian's survivor was at his bedside to catch anything he could say that might solve the mystery of the crash. Doctors said that as soon as he stirred he was immediately put under sedation. He had been quoted as saying he heard explosions before the plane hit before the crash.

Mr. Salisbury, Southern Rhodesia, Rhodesian federal government announced Friday that it was "deeply disturbed" delay" a commission to investigate the air crash.

The Rhodesian and Swedish Radio reported that investigators had found no evidence that the plane was shot down.

(The broadcast quoted a Norwegian UN intelligence officer taking part in the investigation as saying no bullet holes or other evidence of that nature had been found. Lt.-Gen. Bjorn Egge of Norway, also ruled out suggestion that a bomb hidden in the plane could have caused the crash.)

AMATEUR SPORT WILL BE AIDED BY NEW BILL

$5,000,000 Set Aside by Govt.

OTTAWA (CP)—A move to bolster the standards of amateur sport in Canada drew a warm non-partisan response Friday in the Commons.

Party lines were erased as members got behind a government plan to establish a Sports Advisory Council and provide $5,000,000 annually for the promotion of amateur sports and physical fitness.

The bill was also sprinkled with references to Canada's lackluster performance in international competition in recent years, and to the prestige value certain to accrue to Canada for the top countries.

Hope was held out that Canada's new national sports program of sports development, including the building of the Olympic Games and similar competitions can be improved.

HERE TO STAY

"Our aim should be primarily to provide the proper environment and opportunity for the youth of Canada so they may in fact be good competitors," said Health Minister Monteith, introducing the resolution which preceded presentation of the bill itself.

"If this is done, then we can have every confidence that in the course Canada will have all the competitors we could reasonably hope for."

Opposition Leader Pearson, saying there is room in society, particularly the Communists, for non-Communist and non-political purposes, said:

". . . to a country of young people of this type [Canada] we should do what we can to develop and increase the prestige we once had . . . in international competition."

The resolution received unanimous approval and the bill was given first reading.

French Doubt New Appeal By Rightists Means Revolt

CP from AP Reuters

ALGIERS — French officials said today they doubt the new appeal for disobedience by the right-wing secret army organization will lead to a new attempt to seize power.

The bare-bonsting and passbeating responses by thousands of European settlers Friday night indicated that some of the populace would follow orders by the underground leaders. But officials said the French army now is thoroughly loyal to the de Gaulle regime.

They said the campaign is aimed more at keeping up an appearance of the Algerian crisis than at organizing a march on the government headquarters.

Armored cars and water cannons blocking the main street moved quickly Friday night under government orders to put down demonstrations by either side of the Algerian conflict.

The demonstration was ordered on a clandestine transmitter which had replaced the voice channel of the government television station, blasted off the air by explosive charges at the transmitting towers.

Another government action — this time flag and banner waving— was called for Monday.

The OAS, the existence of which was announced in a clandestine broadcast Friday by Col. Antoine Argoud, Lieut.-Gen. Raoul Salan, spokesman on broadcasting matters.

The opposition MP for Bonavista-Twillingate said CFTO-TV should either live up to the CBC-TV standards of news objectivity or lose its licence or lose its franchise by the Toronto area.

Rather than sanction the sale, the Board of Broadcast Governors could ask for new applicants for the private TV channel in Toronto—obliging any bidder to invest considerable time and out-of-pocket expenses, he said.

Mr. Pickersgill raised the issue of the proposed stock transfer in the Commons during the estimates of the national revenue department after a busy day.

In its 5½-hour sitting, it fin- ished the estimates of the health and welfare department.

HOUSE NEARS END

By the end of the day, MPs had also finished national revenue estimates and those of the provincial item dealing with the Canada Council, and were closer to prorogation next week.

The fireworks over CFTO-TV began when Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson of the Friday sitting—the fifth in which the Canada's crisis the two top issues Parliament.

Japanese Foreign Minister Kenzo Kimden told the assembly his country could not support the Soviet tirolea plan, which would give representatives of the Communist, eastern and neutral countries to run the UN with veto powers.

"Such a system would bring the UN to a standstill," he told the United Nations conflict that exists between different political systems. Japan supports the functions of the secretariat and deserves the confidence of its international neutrality."

Lawyer Calls Mimico Inquiry Witness Unmitigated Liar

TORONTO (CP)—Lawyers for two figures in the Mimico building inquiry Friday termed their acts as witnesses bad and testified earlier against their clients.

Lawyer Sanford Wolfe termed Robert Wilson, real estate man for the Mimico Ratepayers' Association, an "unmitigated liar" during cross-examination by Wolfe, counsel for the Mimico Ratepayers' Association.

Mr. Wilson, 42-year-old real estate man and bookmaker, used this inquiry to throw allegations and accusations that Mimico Mayor Lloyd Jamieson and Mr. Jamarino."

Mr. Jamarino as "sinister" Joseph Moher's testimony implicating Jamarino had held Book Mr. Wilson had been responsible for property he sold.

Mr. Wilson knew when he testified that the money was for sewers and was perfectly legal.

Mr. Wolfe said Mr. Jamieson was against Jamarino by two real estate men "who were grossly, not facts." Because Jamieson was successful and they weren't. "Because they have never been successful."

Mr. Wolfe said there was no evidence to show Jamieson acted improperly in connection with the Mimico land deal. Mr. builder Joseph Kostelic which Mr. Jamieson was a partner in a $1,400 loan bought by Book.

"There is not the slightest piece of evidence against Jamieson," he said.

"Even in the unlikely event, Mr. Wilson Victoria Jamieson given full marks for reliability," Mr. Wolfe said, "Inspector Book could not say Jamieson ever did anything for it and never offered to do anything for it."

Army, RCAF Demonstrate Mobility in Emergency

OTTAWA (CP) — The army and RCAF have demonstrated more dramatically than ever before how swiftly and surely they can move in an emergency.

The emergency in this case was the Newfoundland forest fires. But the military implications of this operation, which ended Friday, were obvious.

Just a month ago Sunday, Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland asked for federal help to fight the island's disastrous forest flame.

At 8:30 a.m. Aug. 24, Lt.-Gen. S. F. Clark, chief of the army general staff, telephoned Eastern Command headquarters at Halifax and ordered the dispatch of 200 troops to Gander, Nfld.

At the same time, Maj.-Gen. J. V. Allard, air officer commanding, telephoned Camp Gagetown, N.B., and told the officer commanding he would be converging on Fredericton in three hours.

At 10 a.m. the same time, Air Marshal Hugh Campbell, chief of the air staff, had been informed Transport Command at Trenton, to get planes to Fredericton for the army and its equipment and vehicles to Gander.

By 4.30 p.m. Aug. 24, two C-119 Flying Boxcars and three Yukon transports, three C-106s from Downsview; Ont., had deposited 200 troops, three trucks, three jeeps, two trailers and 6,715 pounds of cargo at Gander.

At Camp Gagetown, staff had to be called in from off-duty hours. Some 180 recruits were found still on their training area and were fed and hustled off to the airport 14 miles away. Some men on leave heard about the radio appeal and volunteered for firefighting.

Depots were opened for supplies.

The army intended to call off the operation "Quick Jump" when the situation appeared so fast there was no time to put the name down on paper. All ranks from Maj.-Gen. Allard fore- turned to aides.

On that day, Mr. Smallwood asked for 800 more troops. Air Transport Command got the order at 4 p.m. and by 6 p.m. ordered to move even faster than before. The first plane departed for Gander at 3 a.m. the next morning.

Other army headquarters-orders went to Camp Valcartier, Que., and Camp Gagetown.

Within the hours of the order, the first RCAF North Star, from Ottawa, landed at Gander with the first load of troops.

Royal Bank Manager Held On Theft Charge

SANTOS (AP)—Police have arrested Jose Antonio Braz, the manager of the Royal Bank of Canada branch in this drastline port, on charges of the theft shortage of 352,000,000 cruzeiros (about $1,175,000) was found on his books.

Police identified him as Peter Smith, 31-year-old British Columbia subject who is believed to be a native of Brechin, Scotland.

Police said they were seeking a second party, Aleksandra Maria Capurro who had an account in the Canadian bank there.

The shortage was allegedly discovered, police said, through routine examination of the books by a Canadian bank inspector.

PROPOSED SALE OF TV STATION UNDER ATTACK

ABC Tries to Buy Part of CFTO-TV

OTTAWA (CP)—The proposed sale to the American Broadcasting Company of a 25-per-cent interest in Toronto television station CFTO was attacked in the Commons Friday by J. W. Pickersgill, Liberal spokesman on broadcasting matters.

Mr. Pickersgill raised the issue of the proposed stock transfer in the Commons during the estimates of the national revenue department after a busy day.

In its 5½-hour sitting, it finished the estimates of the health and welfare department.

HOUSE NEARS END

Tshombe Says UN Breaking Armistice Pact

By GERALD RATHEN

ELIZABETHVILLE, The Congo (Reuters) — President Moise Tshombe accused the United Nations Friday night of breaking the Katanga cease-fire agreement.

He told a press conference the UN had been moving troops int the town and by the post office, a UN stronghold in the Katanga fighting, contrary to a cease — fire agreement since Wednesday.

He added: "At the airport there have been a lot of landings and we do not think they are bringing in arms and military stuffs."

Replying to a question about possible reconciliation with the UN, Tshombe said: "There remains only the UN representative must be punished first."

He could not know the names of the UN members of the joint cease-fire commission but Conor O'Brien, chief UN representative here, that the Katanga press refused permission for food to be supplied to the camp outside Elizabethville where Belgian refugees.

Hundreds of the 30,000 refugees in the camp stormed into the capital Friday and besieged the Belgian consulate between back by Katanga police using rifle butts and clubs.

Second Aussie Kidnapped by Viet Nam Reds

CANBERRA (Reuters) — A second Australian Colombo plan expert has been kidnapped by Communist guerrillas in South Viet Nam, it was announced here. Australian officials said the second man, agricultural officer Mr. Crozier, was kidnapped as he was trying to obtain the release of Wilfred Lindsay, the first expert who was captured Thursday.

The government said it did not believe either man was in "great physical danger."

Polish Catholics See Themselves Liable to 'Reverses, Even Injuries'

WARSAW (AP) — The Polish Roman Catholic hierarchy has warned priests that the "decisive reverses, even injuries" have taken in defence of liberty and religious instruction can expose us to various reverses and even injuries."

The warning was given in a proclamation drawn up by Polish primate, Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski, and the bishops of this predominantly-Catholic country at a meeting earlier this month.

It was distributed to parish priests through the mail Sept. 8, but was not made public then.

The proclamation is the Church's answer to an education ministry order that by Oct. 31, 1961 all religious instruction will must be registered. The order also set up conditions under which they may operate.

Cardinal Wyszynski, in a sermon Aug. 26, called the ministry order "an invasion of episcopal jurisdiction."

UN Dies, We Die Green Asserts At Press Parley

Interim Secretary Need Not Be Famous

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

UNITED NATIONS (CP)— With the United Nations at the crossroads, External Affairs Minister Howard Green said Friday night "If the UN doesn't survive, we won't survive."

This was his reaction to questions at a press conference about what will happen if the 16th General Assembly, which adjourned for the week end, doesn't find a way to resolve the problem of a successor for the Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjold.

Green said "we do strongly support" appointment of an interim executive officer — with the title of secretary - general. That would get the UN secretariat "over the hump."

Green shied away from the United States position outlined by Secretary Dean Rusk on Friday that an "outstanding world leader" be placed in the interim job.

"I wouldn't have put it quite like that," he said. The appointee need come from nowhere else than within the UN.

RADIO COMMENTATOR

General debate — A procedure similar to the addresses in the UN by heads of states to throne in Parliament — opened Friday and plunged into the of Hammarskjold and the Berlin crisis the two top issues Assembly.

Japanese Foreign Minister Kenzo Kimden told the assembly his country could not support the Soviet troika plan, which would give representatives of the Communist, eastern and neutral countries to run the UN with veto powers.

"Such a system would bring the UN to a standstill," he told the United Nations conflict that exists between different political systems. Japan supports the functions of the secretariat and deserves the confidence of its international neutrality."

The proposals still have to seek the co-operation of the United States in known to favor Mongolian, this year's membership problem. Another possibility is U Thant of Burma, who has strong Asian and African support.

Nikita Says Threat of War Now Very Great

CP from AP-Reuters

MOSCOW — Premier Khrushchev said Friday the threat of war is perhaps greater now than it has been at any time since the second world war, and declared Russia ready to negotiate for peace at any time or place and at any level.

Khrushchev blamed the West for world tension and said any talks between him and President Kennedy should be part of a wider plan to draw up a German peace treaty.

Again he linked the questions of complete and universal disarmament and the question of nuclear weapons tests and said both questions must be solved simultaneously.

Khrushchev made the statements in a letter sent to heads of the non-aligned nations, who attended a summit conference in Belgrade earlier this month.

The letter was an answer to a letter delivered from the Belgrade conference by Indian Prime Minister Nehru and Ghana President Nkrumah.

Mr. Percival Hooks Another Big Musky

Two weeks ago Mrs. Lloyd Percival, wife of the well-known Sports College director and television personality, made family fishing history when she hooked and landed a 39½-pound musky from Stoco Lake.

Not to be outdone, Mr. Percival went out and caught almost a 41-pound beauty.

This week while trolling with Kit Kitchen on the lake, Mr. Percival hooked a hand-some 38½-pounder.

This was such a sunfish for bait when the big fellow grabbed it. He ate the bait, the bait, and submerge into deep water.

It broke water several times before it was boated some thirty minutes after being hooked.

New Legion Hall Plans Explained At Meeting

Thursday evening, in the Legion Hall, the Col. Play Wills Branch of Canadian Legion held an executive meeting, the first meeting following the summer holidays.

The Branch padre, Canon A. S. Mansell and Mr. Len Taylor, building chairman for Br. 99 and also public relations officer for the Quinte Command were special guests of the evening.

To commemorate the first anniversary of club's existance a Chuqui Parade is planned for this coming Sunday at St. Thomas Anglican Church with all ex-service women invited to attend.

The Rector outlined the proper procedure for entering and leaving church. He stated that children were welcome and would be taken care of during the service.

"Billy" Kirby, president of the Branch urged as many as possible to attend and the only requirement of dress being the wearing of berets, for those who owned one.

Before Canon McConnell left he added that Col. Play Wills wasn't in the best of health at the present time.

SPEAKS ON CONVENTION

Having attended the Provincial Convention at Hamilton, in the capacity of Ontario Public Relations Officer, Mr. Taylor had prepared a very informative summary of the meeting. He explained the features of the new badge and why it had been changed; the reason behind the increase of the per capita tax and the need for identical resolutions to thoroughly understand what the Legion is striving for.

As building chairman, in Belleville, Len was able to report the assembling for the new building and stated the contract had been let, the first section would be ready for use by the end of November. Mr. Taylor had with him a specimen one hundred dollar bond which bears a picture of Belleville and can be purchased at the Victoria and Grey Trust.

Following the speaker "Billy" Kirby, asked him to make the draw on the Pay-Day what-you-pull- tickets." The first prize of $25 went to Mr. Alfred Little, Shannonville; second prize, Mary Thompson R.R. 4, Shannonville, and third to Mrs. Harold Hall, Ameliasburg.

HOLD RUMMAGE SALE

For a future money-raising project a rummage sale was approved and a committee formed. Kathy Smith, Betty Hay and Sandra Hall will convene the sale during the latter part of October.

The request by Elizabeth Robinson, that two holsters be purchased, was approved.

"Robbie" was pleased to report no one on the sick list, and that she had received a letter from Betty McBride, a former member, now living in England.

District Commissioner for Guides and Brownies, Betty Her and group, from Bedeo Powell is touring Canada and would be in Kingston on October 29th, which meant if any Belleville girls wanted to see "Our Chief" it would be necessary to hire buses. An equal number of girls of the three Guide Districts in Belleville, was approved to help reduce the cost, each individual girl deserving to make the trip.

Before the tea drive for funds for the Retarded Children's School, a cheque will be sent to that organization.

Kathy Smith was appointed secretary-treasurer following the resignation of Val Tucker.

A decision to retain the present membership fee was made although the per capita tax had been increased. Comrade Kirby expressed the desire that the membership be doubled in the coming season.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Figures Show That Retirement Less Expensive Than Now

By THOMAS COLLINS

Retirement's getting better all the time.

And you can prove it with figures, according to a mathematical friend who has been doing some adding and subtracting since his retirement a year ago.

"People either don't know arithmetic or are too lazy to work it," says Mr. Jones. "As a result they tie themselves in knots worrying over the hard times they'll have when their salaries stop."

Mr. Jones was in the neighborhood of $7,500 a year. His retirement income, which is about normal for that salary, brings me with $1,500 a year. What that salary actually gave me. That's a small loss for my freedom.

Here's how Mr. Jones figures it:

COST OF WORKING
(Per week)

Transportation, 5 days a week	$ 2.50
Lunches, 5 days a week	3.75
Pay deductions (insurance, charity, dues, etc.)	2.25
Extras (coffee, donations, entertaining, etc.)	2.50
Clothes	3.25

(Mr. Jones had a white-collar job. His figure here is based on one suit per year at $75, 3 shirts at $12, and 2 pairs at $30. He estimates that this much of his buying ceased when he retired).

Income taxes, deducted from salary	$ 13.00
Vacation	30.00
	3.25

(Mr. and Mrs. Jones always took a trip on vacations, being on the road about 7 days at a cost of around $35 a day. With retirement he figures he doesn't need that kind of vacation any more).

Changing from cigarettes to a pipe	1.00

(Which he says he couldn't do on the job.)

Grand total of working costs	$ 47.25

This amounts to $2,457 a year. But according to Mr. Jones the figure is low. In retirement he is shaving half a buck per week getting haircuts half as often. Also, he shines his own shoes and presses his own suits, and so no longer wears his good clothes often enough to need much dry cleaning.

"Actually, a man can't figure exactly what his job costs him. My job probably was costing me $1,000 a year, but I'll stick by the $2,457 figure."

If you subtract the $2,457 from $7,500, you have $5,043 left for some which the Jones and wife Mr. Jones are saving.

How much do they have in retirement? Interest from securities for Mr. and Mrs. Jones, interest from a small savings account and Mr. Jones' pension adds up to $290 a month, or $3,480 a year. This is $1,563 less than the $5,043 provided by the job.

Of course there are some gimmicks involved in all this, which Mr. Jones concedes. There are no income taxes and only a $100 lunch costs during the three-week vacation, for $19 or so). There is still the $1,563 to look at home, though it costs much less than a year ago. There is still a small income tax; there is hospital insurance, since the company policy doesn't carry over into retirement.

Nonetheless, says Mr. Jones, "things like the razor blades and the haircuts balance off. In such cases what's money for? By doing all repairs in and about the house myself. This summer I had a friend come in that let cut drastically into our food bill. I considered it a labor of love while I was working."

Mr. Jones is pretty good with figures, and he has a certified case his figures work. He took the $1,563 out which he invested in his income, divided it by the 52 weeks of the year, and came up with $30.06 per week, reduced their standard of living to that extent. It was simply a reduction than they needed. They've banked about $250 of the savings in the first quarter of retirement.

Don't take Mr. Jones' case as the gospel. But he's thinking right. Retirement doesn't cost you as much more as you might think. Add up your own figures.

"Jest a Second"

Thomas Deline Of This City Given 2 Years

BARRIE (CP) — William J. Forbes, 36, a former Barrie police officer, Friday was sentenced to four months in jail after pleading guilty to a charge of breaking, entering and theft.

He was charged with three counts under 2060 from Central Collegiate by breaking through the brick wall of a vault.

Thomas Deline, 22, of Belleville was sentenced to two years in penitentiary on the same charge while Donald Ross, 22, of Toronto and James Gannon, 21, of Belleville were remanded to Sept. 26 for sentence. All three pleaded guilty Friday.

"This is a very cool and difficult case," said Magistrate C. W. Guest. "The police are in a position of trust and this early a bad reflection on the whole force."

Police Chief Edward Tschirhart testified that Forbes made arrangements with the other men to break into the undertaking on his beat Sept. 6.

Thomas Deline-in-law, contractor John Watt, said he would make up the $130 still missing in the safe and replace the safe and hire Forbes after his return from Europe. The mother and grandmother had both suffered heart seizures after the arrest.

418 Wing R.C.A.F. Attend Parade

On Sunday 13 members — president L. Foley, H. R. Welch, F. Burns, B. Woodley, B Hogan, P. Halloran, W. Brown, J. Lynch, R. Calnan, T. Smith, W. Packard, W. Lewis, and F/L W. Miller attended the Battle of Britain parade in Brockville under the sponsorship of 426 Brockville Wing, Kingston, Ottawa and Cornwall units were also represented.

The Air Force was represented by the 6 R.D. band and the flight of airmen from Station Trenton. As the majority of them had been out of service for some time, a rehearsal was held at 1 p.m. in the armouries and it was a credit to Air Force training to hear the feet of over 100 veterans click as one.

The parade moved off for an impressive ceremony at the Cenotaph. A low level fly-past of two Air Force Sabre jets and an electrifying touch to the service. Following the ceremony, a short march was held, with the Salute being taken by A/V/M Carscallen.

Following dismissal at the Armouries, a buffet lunch was served.

An ex-member and friend of 418 Wing, Harry Sabb, now lives in Ottawa, renewed acquaintances and from the trend of the conversation Harry's heart is still with the Belleville Wing and he hopes to be able to attend one of its meetings in the near future.

Parliament At a Glance

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

FRIDAY, Sept. 22, 1961

The Commons approved unanimously a government resolution to provide $5,000,000 annually for physical fitness and amateur sport.

Health Minister Monteith said if the program provides the proper encouragement for training for youth Canada eventually could have "all the champions we could possibly hope for."

Opposition Leader Pearson said it should be made clear that the government aid is a supplement to voluntary support from other organizations.

Walter Pitman (NDP—Hamilton-borough) said there should be strict criteria to determine the basis on which grants are made under the program.

John B. Aitken (PC—Vancouver - Burrard) urged the government to establish two or three schools for coaches.

J. W. Pickersgill (L—Bonavista-Twillingate) said OTC-type training should use Ile-aux-Noix rather than be allowed to sell it. Ile-aux-Noix is a leadership in American Broadcasting Company.

Women's Club Hears Talk on European Trip

TRENTON — Wednesday night saw the opening meeting of the Trenton Business and Professional Women's Club, for the 1962-63 season, president Miss Eva Rose presiding.

Guest speaker for the evening was Mr. W. J. Housion, principal of Trenton High School. Topic of his address, "Let's Go to Europe."

Mr. Housion commenced his speech with advice on the practical aspects of travel in Europe, touching on types of travel, itineraries, language, foreign currency, hotel accommodation, food, etc. Lack of knowledge of the country's language, he said, should not cause undue concern, as ease and ingenuity was all that was required to make your requirements known as gestures and goodwill are the best means of communication. He told of the friendly atmosphere and personal interest shown to travellers in the small residential hotels.

Mr. Housion described the beautiful scenery, the historic sights of Rome, Naples, Florence and Venice, the cosmopolitan atmosphere created by the tales of Verona, the theatres and concerts heard therein, the beautiful gardens, vineyards and orchards and always, the industry of the people.

Mr. Housion's final piece of advice was to learn as much as possible about the countries you intend to visit before your sight, as "the more you learn before hand, the more dividend it pays."

Mrs. Doris Webb reported on preparations for Business Women's Week, which is the week of October 15th to the 21st.

PUC Finds Rate Set by Hydro, Lets It Ride

TRENTON — The members of the Trenton Public Utilities Commission found out Thursday that the rate charged for electrical power locally for house heating, is set up by the Hydro Power Commission of Ontario. The local commission may, if it wishes, have the rate changed to a schedule which is more to its liking.

"This should get us off the hook with local users," said Commissioner Hilton.

The matter came under discussion when utilities manager James H. Page read a letter from the provincial body informing the local group that there had been a reduction in electric house heating rates from 1.5c per kilowatt hour to 1.35c.

"There's a principle involved," said Commissioner Hilton, "but in this case, I'll go along with the commission."

The commissioners were in complete agreement in ordering a request from A. M. Malloy, who had written in to ask permission to hook onto the RCAF water supply. Mr. Mallory lives east of RCAF Station Trenton and supplies water for 17 families. He said that he was having trouble with his well.

"You're getting into deep water there," advised commissioner Hilton. "Much arrangements wouldn't conform with our by-laws," said chairman Baker.

Mr. Mallory will be advised of the commission's decision to refuse his request.

CPR Freight Train Derailed At Trenton

TRENTON — Shortly after 8.30 p.m. last night, nine cars of a 35-car CPR freight train, travelling east on the main Toronto to Montreal line, were derailed just east of the high level bridge over the Trent River.

The derailment which occurred on a siding running parallel to the main track, "dragged" the latter out of the road bed, as much as five feet along a considerable distance. Ties were torn out of the road bed and strewn along the track.

Extra crews were sent in to help clear the track.

A CPR official said that damage to the freight cars and the track, could be considered as "minor."

Police were expected to clear the track in a short time.

The CNR line at Lock No. 1 on the Trent River, was the scene a few months ago of a spectacular "pile up" of freight cars.

Cause of last night's derailment was not immediately known.

AMATEUR SPORT

ment to establish two or three schools for coaches.

Mr. Taylor, son of hockey great Fred (Cyclone) Taylor, said a coaching school could be aimed at the masses but would develop, as a result, "producers, our super-stars."

Mr. Taylor's efforts over the last three years helped bring about the bill now before the House.

He suggested that grants should be made under the legislation to "appropriate cities" in Canada that show marked interest in staging a Pan-American Games.

SHOULD BE DIRECT

O. W. Welchel (PC—Waterloo North) said there should be direct financial aid to Canadian teams taking part in international competitions.

He told the House that Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen, who represented Canada twice at the world hockey championships, had to appeal to the people of those cities both times for funds.

"Yet this team was not representing Kitchener-Waterloo, it was representing Canada."

Mr. Pearson expressed fear that with the government providing assistance for amateur sport it might become more difficult to get voluntary support from other organizations.

Tenders for Construction Of New School Now Closed

TRENTON — The first general meeting of the 1961-62 season was held by the Trenton - Brighton and District Association for Retarded Children in College Street School on Thursday night.

Jim Carter, association president, reported on developments during the summer months; outlining the progress made on the association's efforts to secure a new school building for the retarded children of the district. Mr. Turner told the meeting that in accordance with government regulations, it has been necessary to appoint members to a school board. This board, comprised of C. E. Reynolds, inspector of public schools for Trenton, John Hunter, teacher of the special class and Dr. Presutti of Brighton, will work in conjunction with the existing education committee. Dr. Presutti will serve on the board in the capacity of a qualified medical practitioner. The board will consider and approve or reject applicants for the association's school classes.

Friday was the closing date for tenders for the construction of the new school. The tenders will be opened by members of the building committee over the weekend and a special meeting of the association executive called to vote on the committee's recommendations.

Appreciation was expressed to members of the Trenton Kiwanis Club for their work in the recent Gas-O-Rama, the proceeds of which are to be given to the association for the building fund.

Mrs. K. J. Reid, 1961 campaign chairman for a house-to-house canvass for funds, said that the canvass would be held in this district to coincide with the Canadian Retarded Children's Week, Nov 5 to Nov. 24. Mrs. A. A. Lawson will act as campaign chairman for the Middleton Park area and John Martin will act as chairman in Brighton.

Mrs. John Martin said that the children in the special class would be taken for a nature ramble in Presquile Park on Oct. 7.

Mrs. Reid told the members that the urgent need for desks for the schoolroom had been solved by the donations of seven desks by Joe Dale. This generous donation will make it possible for the class to be operated without the association buying desks until the new school is opened. It is hoped that the school may be ready for occupancy by the first of the year.

The education committee has received another application for the enrolment of a student and of this student, who will attain the necessary age for enrolment by December, is accepted, it will bring the present enrolment up to 13.

Following the business meeting the members enjoyed a light lunch and carried on a discussion about school furnishings, the probable opening date of the school and other association plans.

To Perdition With Erudition Is His Position

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Manual Hernandez Sanchez is one of the few Indians in the sparsely settled state of Chiapas who can read and write.

Because of his erudition other Indians often seek his help in presenting appeals to the governor, the president or other officials. When he isn't other officials. When he isn't successful he makes enemies.

And Manuel says his enemies keep burning his house down—it has happened three times.

Manuel came here to make an appeal to President Adolfo Lopez Mateos for help for himself.

"I wouldn't have all this trouble if I hadn't learned to read and write," he complained.

Marion Davies, Silent Movie Star, Dies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Marion Davies, whose philanthropies matched her fame as a movie queen, died Friday night at 64 after a three-year fight against cancer.

The star of Hollywood's colorful 1920s had been in a coma for two days.

Miss Davies entered hospital last May 16. She underwent jawbone surgery June 7 for osteomyelitis, inflammation of the bone marrow. Then, 21 days later, she fell in her hospital room and broke her left leg.

Capt. Horace Brown, her husband of 10 years, was at her bedside when the end came. Funeral arrangements are pending.

Miss Davies, educated in a New York convent early in life, reached movie stardom via the Ziegfeld Follies and the promotion of the late publisher, William Randolph Hearst.

Her movie success brought her a $4,000,000 beach home, a leading role in Hollywood social life and a fortune estimated at several million.

She retired from films in 1937 to launch a second career—this one of giving. Wounded war veterans and needy college students alike received her aid.

In 1938, Miss Davies donated $1,500,000 to the University of California at Los Angeles Medical Centre for construction of the Marion Davies Children's Wing. The Jewish Home for Aged, American Legion, City of Los Angeles and Los Angeles Retarded Children's Foundation presented several of the nearly 100 citations she received for her charitable work.

The blue-eyed blonde was born Marion Cecilia Douras Jan. 3, 1897, the daughter of a New York judge. She began school as an early age to join the Follies and to model.

In the early 1920s, Hearst plucked her rise to movieland's peak through his International Films Company. She became his confidante for 28 years until his death in 1951.

Hearst himself admitted she saved him from financial ruin with a $1,000,000 loan during the depression. He called her "my loyal friend" to the end.

As the millions poured in, Miss Davies decided to how to build a Santa Monica beach home. It became the "Versailles of Hollywood"—a cluster of colonial buildings with 55 bathrooms, 37 fireplaces and a staff of 32. One fireplace alone cost her $600,000.

She lived there for 15 years, serving "intimate" dinners for six, extravagant cocktail parties and costume-ball banquets for the cream of Hollywood society. In 1945, she sold the house to a series of that one fireplace, and moved to a Mediterranean style mansion in Beverly Hills.

Miss Davies appeared in more than 42 movies.

Immunization Week

This coming week is National Immunization Week, sponsored by the Health League of Canada.

"The campaign," declares the League, "is directed towards protection against diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus and poliomyelitis and smallpox."

Statistics on the incidence of four of these diseases over the past two decades provide varying pictures.

Smallpox, once a dreaded scourge, has been virtually eliminated. There has not been a case in Canada since 1943.

Results from immunization against diphtheria are most impressive. In 1934 there were 9,057 cases in Canada, resulting in 1,281 deaths. By the early forties the number of cases had been reduced to the 2800-3200 range. In 1947 the number of cases fell below 2,000 for the first time and the following year there was a further drop below the 1,000 level. In 1953 only 132 cases, resulting in 15 deaths, were reported. Cases fluctuated within a narrow range until, in 1958, for the first time, the number of cases fell below 100. In the following year, 1959, there were only 38 cases, with not a single death being reported, a memorable triumph for preventive medicine. Last year there were 83 cases, resulting in 7 deaths, but this was in keeping with the overall record, one of a fluctuating number of cases on a year-to-year basis but a steady decline from the longer-range view.

The record for whooping cough is somewhat different. While there has been a marked improvement from the early forties, when high marks of 19,083 cases in 1943 and 467 deaths in 1945 were reached, the record has been more uneven. As early as 1946 the number of cases was down to 7,676, while as late as 1955 it went as high as 13,652. The low mark in deaths, 40, was reached in 1958 and the low mark in cases, 6,014, in 1960.

Despite the Salk vaccine, the record in polio is also uneven. There were only 327 cases in 1943 and only twice since, in 1957 and 1958, has the number of cases been as low, while even the Salk vaccine has been unable to bring the number of deaths down to the 24 mark recorded in 1945. We must remember, though, that Canada's population has increased in the interval, and that polio is notoriously a disease in which the number of cases fluctuates widely from year to year.

Need Complete Disarmament

The U.S. and Russia, though failing to reach an agreement on a formula for resuming disarmament negotiations have agreed on a statement of principles to guide negotiations.

Do not complain to us if that sounds like double-talk. We are just repeating what we have read.

We are also told that this eight-point statement of principles "put the U.S. firmly on record as accepting the Soviet-promoted concept of general and complete disarmament!"

Well, that's some progress, anyway.

Since the day when Nikita Khrushchev startled the world by his speech at the UN calling for "complete" disarmament it has become increasingly clear that this is the only possible solution to the arms race.

Any partial disarmament scheme would see each nation urging a reduction in arms in the categories in which its potential enemies were strong, and no reduction in those categories in which it held an advantage.

Even if, by some miracle, this pattern was not followed, partial disarmament would not meet the world's needs.

The most obvious form of partial disarmament would be the banning of nuclear weapons. But, altogether aside from the fact that nations which got involved in a war with conventional weapons could later produce nuclear arms, abolition of nuclear arms would leave the Western allies at a great disadvantage. Remember how, in the days before Russia tested its first atom bomb, it was continually stressed that only the possession by the U.S. of nuclear bombers enabled the West to offset Russia's great advantage in manpower in Europe?

As for abolishing conventional arms and retaining nuclear ones, would anybody breathe easier if they knew that any war would have to be a nuclear one?

People who complain that no progress whatever is made at disarmament conferences ought to take note of the change in opinion which has made what was once considered daringly novel now accepted as obviously essential.

A decent and manly examination of the acts of Government should be not only tolerated, but encouraged.—William Henry Harrison.

Portable Pension Pitfalls

A portable pension system would help workers who change jobs, but nothing in pension benefits by transferring from one job to another is an absolute pre-service-supports. Without it the pension plan of the new employer from a pensionable job becomes a far more serious matter for the worker than the actual loss of the job. There is not only loss in pension benefits but loss in deferred wages represented by the employer's contribution to his pension plan. Investment age. The same situation applies to a worker seeking to change to new jobs and is creating a rigidity and immobility of the labor force that is handicapping not only the individual worker but the economy as a whole. A third reason for portable pensions, and perhaps the most emphasized, is the opening of employment to older workers.

Portability, too, is the first essential of any government pension plan that may be launched to supplement the present old-age pension act. This was emphasized by Professor R. C. Clark in his volumnious 1957 report to the federal government but, at that stage, Premier Frost declined this necessity as one of the great difficulties in the way of establishing a federal plan. A year later he was working on a portable pension plan with Premier Frost to investigate ways and means of providing pension portability. From the report of this committee has emerged the draft provincial bill, nothing in pension benefits by transferring from one job to another is an absolute pre-service-supports. Sell Lists Of Names

Stratford Beacon-Herald

There are many ways to earn a dollar, and several of rare ones is the business of selling mailing lists. We have received an unsolicited offer of the catalogue of a firm in Montreal which offers a great variety of lists of names. "Mail-list Supports" to "Zippers," and classified according to their supposed value.

If you should wonder occasionally who gets on the mailing list for some form of circular that comes to you by post, here is a possible answer. Anyone who thinks he can make "Mail-list" merchandise, or some service to sell to such a name, and the catalogue lists them price scales, selling the names of various kinds of people at so many cents, a cent and a half or a cent each. Here is a case-system of the most modern kind, with a top-bracket selling at 3 cents a name, are lists providing the names of 569 automobile paint shops, 811 bowling alleys, 1,000 barbers and 2,802 fuel and oil dealers. It is comforting to see that newspapers come in for somewhat category. A mailing list of 1,853 newspapers and magazines in Canada is for sale at a cent, a name. One consolation in the concept of life is that it has its lowest level. Also at a cent a name, one can buy a list of banks and bank managers, or a list of clergymen. These two categories, no doubt for different reasons, seem to have a low value as targets for mail promotions.

HEAVEN

All through the Bible we find references to Heaven, but very seldom in the Bible do we find descriptions of same. A few of the prophets describe heavenly experience. The Book of Revelation, written by the Apostle John, is reputed with such description. But the concept of Heaven, that is not Jesus frequently referred to Heaven, but he said almost nothing which could be interpreted as a description of heaven.

Why this omission both in the teachings of the Bible in general and in the teachings of Christ in particular? Probably because Heaven is a place immeasurably exalted that human mind cannot understand it. Even the inspired writers of the Bible felt that they were not competent to describe it. Also we may well believe that the details of heavenly glory were left unexplained in order that we might reflect upon them and think about them vastly more than if we could turn to the Bible and read page after page of descriptions of heaven's glory.

If there is one thing of which we can be absolutely sure concerning Biblical teaching, it is that Heaven is a place so glorious that it involves a separation of the good from the evil, that to those who have served God and obeyed Him promises of the most precious variety are made.

There is not little of Heaven in the thoughts of modern Christians. Some look upon Heaven as a place of boredom, a place where nothing will be done but sing, teaching, and writing. Heaven is not that. It is certainly used both to relative finite and to consider the sublime nature of such a truth.

Then I have started to forget all that I knew before I came to the best."

Queer Doings In Berlin

West German Bulletin

On Aug. 30 the Communists stationed a man on the East Berlin sector frontier, armed with a mirror. He stood there from mid-morning until late afternoon. His job was to raise a mirror every time a photographer on the west side of the Potsdamer Platz or other point levelled his camera. The mirror would flash bright sun and reflected it in the direction of the photographer. Said one unsuccessful: "Any of us could have told him that all he would accomplish would be to make a dot on our negative—a record of himself in action."

There is a tavern on Heidelberger Strasse just west of the sector border in Berlin' When the Communists in East Berlin started building the wall that now divides the city, they allowed the tavern proprietor a 15-inch strip of sidewalk in his customers could step out on it. But they warned him that if they saw any customers step on the sidewalk, that would be a "provocation." Behind the wall thing the tavern proprietor put "People's Police" armed with machine guns. Finally he erected a long fire hose connected to a hydrant. Last week several patrons of the establishment stepped out on the sidewalk together. They quickly learned that this practice is called "provocation" is to be doused by a powerful stream of water. Soon the customers were crowding out the tavern door and were soaked by a spray from the hose. Then they were driven off by a police car which came up with its siren screaming.

Two days ago a man was arrested in East Berlin and in the Soviet sector. Berchtesgaden in trouble with the Communists last week. Special squads of "volunteers" are being sent to collect rags and tore down any TV aerial that looked as if it might be capable of receiving signals from West German stations.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

September 22nd, 1941

Anyone reading the report of the activities of the Women's Auxiliary of the Belleville General Hospital cannot help but be impressed by the splendid work that is being done by this group of public-spirited women. The Auxiliary is really doing a tremendous work by providing much needed equipment at the hospital, as for instance the mobile X-ray unit which was purchased a year or so ago and which cost over $1,200. When the new wing was built to the hospital, the Auxiliary furnished a cabin at a cost of $200 and also furnished a waiting room. This year a laundry press is to be purchased. The above are just some of the major expenditures that the Auxiliary has made since the organization of the Auxiliary three years ago.

Jayce Jayce son of Alfred Street, canght a white pigeon at Peter Ritchie's store on West Street in Trenton on Wednesday afternoon. The bird had become exhausted apparently, and dropped down to rest and in search of food. The identification band on its leg had the following inscription—Au 39 . . . Buffalo, No. 1238. It was thought that this was an ex-pigeon so the matter was immediately referred to the police.

Eight secondary schools from the district elected J. Lester Sliski of the Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School to be president of the Bay of Quinte group in the COSS, at their annual meeting held in the Collegiate Institute last night. Primarily in the election of the officers was the return to office of T. A. Hamlin of Tweed, who was elected secretary-treasurer for his eighth consecutive term.

The woollen mills and other buildings belonging to the Pearce Company at Marmora were destroyed by a fire at an early hour this morning.

The great interest taken by citizens in the Belleville Home for the Aged, was shown by the large number who attended the reception given at the home by the ladies of the Women's Christian Association. Mrs. W. G. Mills, president of the Association, and other officers, welcomed the many people who evinced a keen interest in the work of the home and expressed great satisfaction with accommodations and the conduct of the Home. Congratulations were received amounting to $25 including a cheque for the sum of $10 which was presented by Mrs. Robert Anderson of Toronto on behalf of the Royal Templars of Temperance. To Your Good Health

We Note Feeling Worse, But Do Not Note Feeling Better

By Joseph C. Hollister, M.D.

A whole lot of people were interested to hear the other day when a couple were talking in the Bell Telephone.

It was pretty clear from the conversation that the patient hasn't been taking the medicine prescribed. She said so herself. She, I stopped taking the medicine because it just wasn't doing any good."

My colleague had an answer: "You don't 'feel better' when you are on it, but you don't feel ashamed when you go off it!"

Any doctor would enjoy giving you a medicine that would immediately and unequivocally put an end to all your symptoms, and then, years old again, restore the original color of your hair and maybe cut 20 inches off your waist more, but things don't always work out quite that well.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is it harmful to use two quarter-grain saccharin tablets in coffee five times a day? Will saccharin destroy vitamins in one's system? — R. H."

No, I don't destroy vitamins It won't do harm or any kind—unless I object to the flavor of chemical with a very sweet taste.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What is antabuse? Is it dangerous? — E. E."

It's a drug used in treating alcoholism, and its whole purpose is to make the patient sick as a dog if he takes a drink of alcohol. It can do harm in certain situations, as for instance in a patient with heart disease is a factor. Antabuse should in fact, never be used except under a doctor's supervision.

I might add antabuse was originally hailed as a powerful means of curing alcoholism. It is, after all, a most adroit means of drug-addiction. But like so many "answers" to problems, this has its unfortunate aspects, too. It works only as long as the patient is willing to keep taking it. As long as he is willing to use it as a remedier. But he wants to stop drinking.

The drug can't do anything more the patient refuses to take it or, more likely, begins to "cheat" by pretending to take it. Drugs alone are not the cure they are used. And you'd be surprised at how clever some alcoholics become in avoiding their medicines, hiding bottles in unlikely places, and creating excuses to fall off the wagon.

• • •

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is it safe to use anti-paraprasin combination tablets? I would like to be there a catch somewhere — Mrs. S. Are you going to fall off?"

— Mrs. S.

I enjoy your wry way of asking a question. Most of the warnings aren't going to fall off! If it a safe and effective antiperspirational material. They're may however, be an occasional-alcoholic, and a few may be overly sensitive and thus experience irritation from using it.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Along the street, a neighbor was busy fidging up the flowerbeds beside his house. His place always looks beautiful from late April until, in fact the snow flies. Something is always blooming there and it is his illness and daffodils. In autumn, the mouldish ash tree is a great heavy blaze of scarlet berries above the slumies and burnets.

Among us neighbors, he is said to have a green thumb. But it seems to me a really outstanding gardener like him has more than a green thumb. He has a green brain.

He looks up the lawn and told him this morning.

"Ho," he said, "It's just a hobby."

Hobby. And a man puts more understanding into a hobby than he would put into his job or his family. You've seen it, fisherman? I bet you know the names of a hundred trout flies, but you've never seen him at mess of half the people you meet. If you have a green brain, you've got a fish brain. And Jones next door has a head full of balls, rattling around all the time. So it goes. A man's deepest love is for his hobby."

"Yah," he said, "it's names of some plants that you don't open hours to water, and some that you can't water too much."

"No," he said, "it's just a hobby."

Second Car Loses Appeal

Stratford Beacon - Herald

The year 1960 brought one exception, in Ontario, to the general trend to more of everything in connection with automobiles. The annual statistical review, just published by the Canadian Automobile Chamber of Commerce, shows that in 1960, as compared with 1959, we had more of almost everything in Ontario — more automobiles, using more miles of pavement, drinking up more gasoline, paying more taxes.

The exception to the trend was in the number of two-car families. The estimate is that the number of households in Ontario with two or more cars dropped from 179,000 to 178,000 between 1959 and 1960, but this is not so much a negative trend, as the observer of the positive change in the number of households with cars.

The over-all picture is one of increasing affluence, with the number of households with a car increase more rapidly than the number of house-holds. There are now 2,100,000 households in Ontario last year than the previous year there were 53,000 more households with cars. This increase of 53,000 compares with the total of increase of 37,000 in one-car families, offset by the decrease of 8,000 in the number of two-car families.

The summary of the pattern of car ownership in Ontario for the year 1960 shows that 1,031,000 households were equipped with one car each, 158,000 had two or more cars and there were 370,000 households were without cars.

This little trend-against-a-trend, in which fewer families stretched their budgets to include operating two automobiles even while many more families were finding the money for a first car, is in some measure, without doubt, a reflection of the housing boom for job hunters. The compelling reason for the second car, in a good many cases, is that two members of the household have to have a way to get to work. 1960 was a year when the second job was hard to find, and the second car was a necessity in her case.

A larger influence in the dwindling of the number of two-car families, we suspect, is a change in habits. The number of boat-trailers. The thing to do now, to keep up with the Joneses is to have a motor-boat, and a good many families who might, a decade ago, have been struggling toward two-car status, now have their sights set on the target of car-and-boat-status.

A Lift for Living

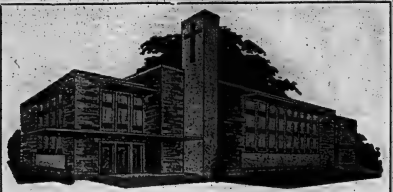
Steadfastness Vs. Whirlwinds

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

About twenty - five hundred years ago a great prophet looked out over his nation and described its condition in one of the most striking sentences in literature. He said of his people: "They have sown the wind and they shall reap the whirlwind." Hosea had observed how the wind, beginning as a gentle breeze could be whipped into a whirlwind and then come dancing across the desert like a howling dervish, piling the sand into dunes, and leaving destruction in its wake.

Yes, men can sow the wind and reap the whirlwind. When I hear that expression I think of a man who entered the ministry some years ago. He was one of the most versatile and attractive men I ever met. His was so agreeable that he fitted into any group and was in demand in many parishes. But his versatility and agreeableness developed in to a kind of breezy compromising. He let go of fixed principles and regular routines. He began to reach out into business speculations and the tempo of his financial transactions began to speed up. Pretty soon he was in a whirl of secular deals which took his mind off his ministerial work. Others became involved with him, one man even going to prison. And then one morning we read of my friend's death under conditions closely connoting suicide. He had sown the wind and reaped the whirlwind.

FAMILY SITUATIONS



Or one thinks of family situations. A university dean once told a company of us that the modern home makes a harder problem for the colleges than did the homes of our fathers. He said that in the old-fashioned home, the family was the unit and the individual child was trained to subordinate himself to the group, but in the modern home the individual is made the unit and the family is subordinated to the wishes of the child, with the result that boys are often sent up to college before they have learned how to obey any group loyalty. With such kids the university has a hard task. I think we can see his point. We parents of today are so eager to give our children a chance to develop, their hosts that we often allow them to develop so many knots that they become too crooked for any college to straighten out.

Or turn from the family to the social activities outside the home. How easy and how common it is for the social standards of a community to begin this windy disintegration. Social circles can drift into the condition described by Saint Paul when he wrote of a certain group that they "measuring themselves by themselves and comparing themselves with themselves, are not wise." Have we not seen situations like this? Places where the people seemed to have no fixed principles of conduct but took their codes of right and wrong from the customs of others. The tendency is for pleasures to become more exotic if not more erotic. Again it is the principle of sowing the wind and reaping the whirlwind.

The appalling result of all this shows in the mounting crime statistics.

But this column will be read by no criminals. Let the rest of us look to ourselves. There is a prevalent looseness of living which leads to the windy instability of contemporary life. So many of us seem to have no fixed principles by which we regulate our personal habits. We pray and read the Bible not regularly but when we feel like it. We go to church not in the habit of our fathers but when we feel like it. In giving up so many good habits, we are giving way to a breezy laxity which is unsettling socially and unsteadying personally. Andrew Jackson's mother left a letter for him when he was fourteen. She was going abroad a British warship at Charleston in 1781 to nurse some friend ill of fever. Fearing she might not see her son again, she left this message: "In this world you will have to make your own way. To do this you must have friends. You can make friends by being honest — keep them by being steadfast."

Steadfastness stops moral whirlwinds.

WIGGINS — VANSTONE

MARMORA — A pretty autumn wedding took place in St. Andrew's United Church in Marmora, on Saturday, September 16th, when Miss Helen Evelyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Vanstone, of Marmora, became the bride of George William Wiggins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wiggins, of Cordova Mines.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. M. D. McLeod and the wedding music was played by Mrs. McLeod. Miss Sandra Meiklejohn was soloist, singing the "Lord's Prayer" and "These Lovely Things".

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a floor length gown of chiffon taffeta, enhanced with a round-cut neckline of fine petit point lace accented with delicate bead beading, dipping softly in the back, complemented with long lily-point sleeves. Her fully bouffant skirt, worn over many crinolines trimmed with real lace appliques was showered with bead. A round pillbox of matching material was flattered with a bouffant of silk illusion edged with a row of finger-tip length. She carried a bouquet of red roses entwon 'mums.

Peter Stursberg To Speak Here

Mr. Peter Stursberg, who will address the Women's Canadian Club, next Wednesday evening in Queen Alexandra School auditorium, is best known on the subject of "Twenty Years After," is well known writer, broadcaster and foreign correspondent and one of the most popular speakers in Canada.

During the war he was the first CBC correspondent to cover the combat troops in action and many of his war recordings are in the National Archives. It was his voice which brought the news of the Canadian advance in Sicily and Italy.

As a roving foreign correspondent, he travelled more than 100,000 miles in Europe, Asia and Africa, covering many international conferences, met his wife at the beginning of the Peace Conference and was married her at the end — the conference lasted three months. For six years he was CBC correspondent at the United Nations in New York.

He was the first to broadcast the popular war song, "Lili Marlene," on the Allied side, and in 1944 published "Journey into Victory" and is the only Canadian Correspondent to embark with the Captials with the first British and American troops. He has Hitler's spoon and fork as a memento of the bunker in Berlin.

Deserted Wives Problem Discussed at CAS Meef

At the recent meeting of the Children's Aid Society, held in the Public Library, on Thursday, Mrs. James H. Forrester, the guest speaker, spoke briefly on the United Appeal which opens on the 16th of October, requesting that each member of the board resident in the city provide the names of at least two persons willing to canvas in the residential area.

Mr. Norma Kerr, director of the C.A.S. stated in his monthly report that despite the fact the intake remained fairly constant the number of children in the care of the Society continued to decline. Said Mr. Kerr, "In the month of August we provided more than 1,900 more days care than for the corresponding month in 1960. In dollars and cents, this means a saving of more than $5,000 to the local municipalities.

"We have 66 children in public school, 21 in high school, one attending Ontario Business College. In addition we are assisting two men at present in University and one young University and one young woman in School of Nursing.

DETENTION FACILITIES LACK

The lack of detention facilities for juveniles was discussed. It was pointed out that for many than one year now that the Society had been admitting juveniles to its receiving home which had in the past been placed in the now closed detention quarters in the basement of the residence of the governor of the County Jail. The charge has made no charge for this convenience. The propriety of admitting young adults about whom nothing was known; in particular as to the state of their mental health, who are apprehended by the police on the highways to the Receiving Home to share the facilities with children attending local schools was considered. This matter too was set over to the October meeting.

Smartly Suited

Coming in are fashions that are as striking as they are wonderful. Then, of course, there are the usual "conversation pieces" that invariably mark each season.

Arthur Jablow shows an especially handsome suit in gold and green houndstooth—collarless with the jacket closing, sleeves and pockets are bound in gold ribbed knit.

Completing the suit is a bow neckline blouse of gold-colored jersey that closes with tailored gold buttons.

To Attend Munich Oktoberfest Dream of Every Beer Drinker

By Sidroky and Bob Sloane

Munich, Germany — It's a consumption takes place within long way from here to Berlin, where communism in the person of Comrade Nikita Khrushchev stands jaw to jaw with Yourian in the streets of Comrade Mickoleon Hilton. (Knowing Hilton, we'd bet on him any day.)

But here in Bavaria they have long since outgrown/outmotion the political sense of words, being that comes from good friends, good music, good eating and good drinking.

Especially good drinking, for in the only city in the world where you can get a university degree in brewing, the Oktoberfest has just gotten under way, and for the next two weeks they will be off and running at the worlds largest combination state fair, harvest festival and beer blast.

The Bavarians, always looking for an excuse for a party, found their for the Oktoberfest in 1810. A wily cab driver named Franz Baumgartner got the idea of borrowing a horse race in front of the Bavarian Palace on the occasion of the forthcoming marriage of Crown Prince Ludwig. Ludwig, who later graduated into the well-earned title of Mad King Ludwig and shortly bankrupted the country with his penchant for gemutlichkeit, thought it a great idea.

AN ANNUAL AFFAIR

Everybody had such a good time that first year, it was decreed a worthy excuse for an annual affair. Each year the agricultural exhibits and commercial exposures came along, ceremonial rides were added and by the twentieth century the Oktoberfest had grown into one of the largest folk festivals in the world.

Wine it should be noted, is at least as much a German national drink as it is French. But it is from Bavaria that the most and best beer comes, and the Oktoberfest eventually assumed the proportions of a national beer holiday. There are literally hundreds of breweries here, and during the Oktoberfest so much of it is consumed that accurate counts are not even available. Estimates run as high as a staggering 32 million quarts.

Down the hatch with it each Oktoberfest goes estimated 200,000 barbecued chickens and 100,000 smoky pork sausages.

All of this highly conspicuous

Mother's Helper

THERE'S NOTHING like discretionary tactics to dry up the tears and quiet the loud wails which are likely to result from even a minor childish mishap. While you're cleansing the abrasion, give the small victim the job of opening a readymade bandage. Concentration on this ticklish operation should make her forget any others.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Norton A. — Husbands and wives should sleep together.

Edith A. — Together is one thing, sleep is another.

Norton A. — We're planning to move when our lease is up and my wife insists that we find an apartment with separate bedrooms.

After 26 years of married life I must say I'm puzzled by her demand. Maybe she'll want separate apartments next! But don't get me wrong. Aside from this, we have no special disagreements. We each have interesting work — she's a teacher and I'm a dentist — and we get along fine. Edith denies that her new wish has anything to do with our sexual partnership, which she agrees is satisfactory.

The only reason she gives is that I keep her awake. But, whether she admits it or not, she seems to sleep soundly.

* * *

Edith A. — There comes a time when, all kidding aside, people need some good solid sleep. This is it.

We're in our 50's, leading a vigorous life. A refreshing night's sleep is essential. But Norton and I have never learned to sleep together, and I'm not referring to sex compatibility.

I'm a light sleeper. A double bed was impossible because Norton's bulk made me get down into open windows. We tried twin beds, to end the tug over coverings. But Norton's hay fever sneezes shake the room and get me up. Our separate medication — says it makes him hazy next day.

Or else his reading light bothers me. What's wrong with the dark?

The Council — It's too bad there are no pre-marital courses in Bed-lynche. It doesn't always just come naturally adapting to another's routine with whiskers, blankets, pillows, lamps and composure.

There's nothing for Norton to be hurt or indignant about in Edith's proposal. All's fair, with in a healthy marriage, when one is sleepy, and many a husband or wife finds ways to catch up. They use anything from a sleeping bag on the back porch to a room at the Waldorf with a Do-Not-Disturb sign on the door.

Sometimes, however, sleepiness is given as a reason for apartness in bed to mask less admissible reasons, such as annoyance with one's mate, dislike of marital relations or a general falling out of love. But taking Ike's at their word, the separate sleeping rooms — lovingly agreed to by Norton — constitute no threat to their strong union.

Before abandoning the one-bedroom setup, this couple might first try a few modifications. Edith's bedroom could be tightened sheet by finding the proper treatment for his hay fever, an ailment almost completely controllable today. He can install a bright lamp to read by, so that the light is focused on his page. Air-conditioning might settle the hassles over fresh air vs. freezing air.

Instead of Edith's walks every night, maybe you can still manage with 30, plus Norton.

"He Is a Traveller Bold"!

By ALMA MASON

Today I am grateful for a glimpse of the contented heart of a friend; a friend endowed with a capacity to drink deeply the well of simple earth-bound pleasures and marvel then into an astonishing magic carpet of happiness.

At big time of the year the curtain that is suspended halfway between winter and spring, falls finally asunder, towards bluer skies and warmer breezes. It is apt to expose a haunting restless border of the heart.

Mental feet tied to winter's apron strings suddenly itch to be off seeking and exploring unknown glamorous trails. Minds, leaden and earth-bound by winter's cold, dark moods, stir and lift and dream of impossibly delicious trails or wing endlessly through far away lands.

Day dreams of mountain waterfalls and trout streams; the lazy valleys of quaint, picturesque habitant villages, wondering hand in hand to the sea.

Such thoughts were verbally conjured the other evening at a birch travel talk from the South Seas to Alaska, from Hawaiian orchids to Norwegian fjords, from cherry blossoming in Japan to carnival time in New Orleans.

Nostalgic wanderlust memories, recently from the air like a beckoning demanding lacuna.

One traveller spoke of returning recently from far away lands on a jet propelled carpet; another reminisced about crossing blue Mediterranean waters; another mused longingly of the cathedrals and castles of Spain and France and Italy.

But I, who had but like a cold grey rock forever part and parcel of a dull brown hill, who had never seen, experiencing, never enjoying, just listened, absorbed and fitted over and anon, without a thrill or a pang or a quickened heart beat.

The guests departed, taking with them the breath of the Riviera; the heady perfume of mimosa and gardenias under a tropical sky.

One guest remained. He lingered to reminisce about the pleasures he and his wife had enjoyed until the time of her passing. He mentioned one pleasure, especially, they had shared before they parted. Friends had taken them to a small village in Provence in Italian. There they had stayed overnight in a cabin by a small lake. He spoke of the delicate silver beauty of the lake in the light of the full moon; the unbelievable charm of the scene by the clear and caressing June air. To him it had been an excursion into Paradise because he had shared it with one he loved.

He realized here was a noble traveller, an emperor elevated above many who translated into an unending rivulet of miles in search of contentment and thrilling happiness, there are still distinguished pilgrim.

He sat brooding in thought for a time; then said — you know, while I listened to our friend's travels, and the thought came to me that travel can be a pretty lonely thing without the eyes of love to share the radiance it. Fascinating and enthralling reminiscences are a kind of mind. God's world is always on one's doorstep. It can be challenging and constructive if the capacity for beauty is in the soul."

Here in his heart is his castle built;

Hefe a blue tropic sea;
Glowing within his garden wall

Are roses from Italy.
His feet are not spurred by wanderlust

But beauty is his to hold;
Walking with fairies and love and trust.

He is a traveller bold.

TCA Ground Hostess One Of Canada's Top Golfers

MONTREAL (CP) — When Judy Darling is not on the fairways she is likely to be found on the tarmac of Montreal's new International Airport.

The blonde, 24-year-old Canadian women's open golf champion is a Trans-Canada Air Lines ground hostess and one of the terminal's most attractive employees.

Judy's job is to extend a helping hand to any who need it—the elderly and the handicapped, harried mothers, unaccompanied children and immigrants.

"The other day I had a 14-year-old girl who had an eight-hour wait between flights. It's a lot of time to put in. I took her to lunch and to supper and she spent the rest of the time reading in the ground attendants' office and watching people come and go."

Then there was the time 34 children arrived on one flight. "It was quite a chore," said Judy, "to see that they and those accompanying them got through customs and immigration."

SEARCHING CHORE

Ground hostesses and their male counterparts sometimes have the searching chore of finding passengers they've been instructed to help.

"Usually we pick them out as they disembark but not always," she said. When they don't, they must do a lot of questioning.

Eventually we find the ones we're looking for. It's not easy, though, when 127 people arrive on a jet."

Although she likes travelling, Judy hasn't thought much about applying for a job as a stewardess.

Women's Institutes

MARMORA W.I.

MARMORA—Marmora Women's Institute branch held its September meeting at the home of Mrs. Percy Gordon with 13 members present and two visitors.

The president, Mrs. George Empey, chaired the meeting.

Mrs. Don Bailey, secretary-treasurer, gave a report of the holiday months, July, August.

No regular meetings were held, but the executive made plans for the August bake sale, home and sewing, and the gift booth at the Marmora Fair. All were financially successful. Also a group visited Havelock branch.

Three readings on "Autumn" were given; one was a poem, "The Crickets," by the late Herma B. Anderson.

The contest, words from chrysanthemum, was won by Mrs. R. E. Neal.

After the meeting closed lunch was served.

PREPARING MUSICAL

"GONE WITH THE WIND"

"Oh earth! For all the fruits thou has render'd to me, I give thee back this." — Byron.

"Bridge? But of course I'd love to . . ."

Such are the Autumn phrases, that herald the end of season, and perhaps the beginning of new friendships, as was made, for example between Lois Cole, who drew as her bridge partner at a luncheon one day in the early thirties it happened in Atlanta, Georgia, where Lois was acting as office manager of the Atlanta branch of the MacMillan Publishing Company trade department and the partner was a Mrs. John Marsh, whom the world would come to know a few years later as Margaret Mitchell, author of "Gone With The Wind."

In an article which appeared recently in the literary section of the New York Times, Lois Cole remembers being seated across from a small very blue-eyed person, rather plumpish with a heart-shaped face and nose and enquired, "Do you follow any particular conventions, partner?"

"Conventions? I don't know any. I just bang away. Is there? What do you lead from?" and "Eeeeeasily," she replied.

Thus began a friendship which was to endure until Margaret Mitchell's death. In those days, Lois Cales tells us, the Marshes lived in a two-room, kitchenette bachelor apartment, in an apartment house, grandly called "The Dumps" on a narrow street then known as "Tightsqueeze" behind Peachtree Street. And cards graced their door, one of which read "Margaret Munnerlyn Mitchell" — and another "John R. Marsh" much to the latter's horror, a distinct shock of Atlanta." And in the small space beneath a bay with small high windows stood an old-fashioned sewing table which was to shelter many typewriter and piles of paper.

IMPRESSED WITH STORY

"I don't know much about writing, but I've go to do something with my time," and Peggy would throw a bath towel over it, whenever anyone dropped in unexpectedly, Lois Cole told her, she was to send her finished story to MacMillan's if and when she finished it, and for she was impressed with Peggy's tales which she read "with such fun and skill that a whole roomful stay spellbound all evening long," she says her. "She knew that the story was about the Civil War and the only Peggy could write was the bound copies of old newspapers in the basement of the Carnegie Library was to "lie on the floor and prop them on her stomach while she read on her stomach."

Lois Cole kept her in mind, and after she returned to work in MacMillan's New York, office, she wrote, requesting Peggy to let them read her manuscript.

Peggy replied that she did not hold out much hope for her story's completion; along with her appreciation. Then several years late, a surprised editor-in-chief at MacMillan's found himself in possession of an unwieldy, massive, unfinished manuscript from Peggy, who later explained, "I would never have sent it, except for remarks of friends, such as, 'Book, pooh! Peggy will never finish it. She's too fond of playing.' Or, 'Really, I wouldn't take you for a type who would write a successful book. You don't take life seriously enough to be a novelist. You are wasting your time.' — and well, suddenly I got so mad that I . . ." and she simply wrapped it up as it was and sent it so that I could at least brag that I had been refused by the very best publisher."

BOOK FINISHED

Lois Cole was asked to read the manuscript and she tells of spending many evenings reading it; that is was physically one of the worst manuscripts she had ever seen, with chapters missing, others neatly typed, and some with entirely different accounts of the same event. (Peggy admits to having written the last chapter first.) But in spite of all difficulties Lois comments, "I knew it was one of the most fascinating novels of all time." And Peggy, when advised of its acceptance, in part wrote: "Lois, your beloved gift came and I am overwhelmed! I just can't believe it's real fact that her book merited all its praise, saying: "I wrote it for fun, for my own amusement . . ." and even after she was told the last chapter first had to put up to that time for "copyrights" for an unpublished novel with still no faith that it would sell."

Several years later, one afternoon while Lois Cole was urging Pegsy to write another book, a strange distant look came into her eyes as she said: "You know, I always like the book I wrote before NOW, it's and when Lois Cole frantically asked her to hand over the manuscript Peggy merely replied:

"Ugh, I burned it up when it was finished. I just wrote it for fun. I never thought of having it published."

Two Montreal Girls Want To Produce Comedy

MONTREAL (CP) — Two Montreal girls—a composer and a lyricist—have run into difficulty in their search for a venturesome player/pilot.

"Not many young people want to take a chance," says Nora McCardell, 24, a psychologist and the composer of the team.

"They are afraid of the theatrical world. People get married so young these days and surround themselves with responsibility. I want to find somebody who is unattached, young and willing to collaborate even beyond the foreseeable future."

The "foreseeable future" is Miss McCardell and nurse Audrey Rose, 25, in a musical comedy that would be produced next year by Montreal's Gallery Players.

"I have a backlog of about 50 songs and I'm writing more all the time. If the play is good enough, I have some contacts in New York and London and I'd be ready and eager to hop on a plane and try to sell it for a full-fledged production."

Miss McCardell is working reasonably as a staff psychologist at Montreal's school for exceptional children. Audrey at present is "scouting in Europe."

Both girls have musical training. Nora, the daughter of a violinist father and pianist mother, studied music at McGill University and the Quebec conservatory.

Before returning to McGill for her master's degree, Nora worked in New York with The Canadian Players Theatre and, when that group folded in 1958, did interviewing for Consumer Behavior Research.

Audrey, a friend and collaborator of Nora's since high school days, was also working in New York and the two spent offhours composing songs. They had one published but it didn't get off the ground, Nora said, because it was a blues number in the rock'n'roll era.

They have no thought of giving up their search for a playwright. "I intend to keep looking until I find one," says Nora.

"There is a great demand for musical comedies. It's a good time now to try."

Women's Institute

WELLINGTON W.I.

WELLINGTON — The regular monthly meeting of the Wellington Women's Institute was held in the Town Hall on Tuesday evening. The president, Mrs. Tripp, was in the chair and opened the meeting. There were 14 members present, who donated the sock to buy supplies for the kitchen.

Letters were read from Phil Dodds, re an exhibit for the Picton Fair; a report on the training school for leaders to be held September 18th and 19th in Picton, and a letter for help for the Belleville Children's Hospital. Ten dollars will be sent for this good cause. Thank you cards were received from Ethel Chatterson, Laura Wight, Marilyn Jenkins, Frank Harris, Syd Broadbridge, Keri Marvin, George Dorland and Mrs Burd.

Mrs. Ogilvy reported on the sick and flower fund and ten dollars was voted her for future use.

A discussion on catering to a county wedding took place. It was arranged that a special meeting for the executive be held at the home of Mrs. Hilda Adams, on the evening of September 27th, to make final arrangements.

Mrs. Bill Adams and Mrs. Perry Spencer, having birthdays in September, replenished the birthday box.

Mrs. W. Jackson took over and presented the following program: All joined in singing "Home on the Range." Mrs. Jackson read the poem of the month, "In The Garden." Mrs. H. Dick gave a splendid current event paper, and Miss Louise Pettingell gave a talk on "Canadian Association of Consumers," which was most interesting to everyone. Institute Unity Song ended the program.

Mrs. Tripp closed the meeting and Mrs. Jackson and her group then served refreshments.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

WHAT'S YOUR E. Q.?

There's a great deal of protocol invested in wedding kits, invitations and announcements. Do you know the etiquette involved? Answer True Or False:

1. The bride's mother, as official hostess, makes up the entire guest list for wedding and reception.

2. Husbands and wives of attendants should be invited.

3. It's bad form to invite business associates of both fathers to the wedding reception.

4. You can skip sending invitations to relatives who live far away, since they probably couldn't make it anyway.

5. It's proper to invite the clergyman who performs the ceremony (and his wife) to the reception.

6. Invitations may be engraved on pastel paper, as well as traditional white.

7. If the bride's parents are deceased, the groom's parents may issue invitations and announcements.

ANSWERS:

1. False. Groom's mother supplies part of guest list; is notified by bride's mother how many she may invite to reception.

2. True.

3. False. Business associates of bride and groom may correctly be invited, too.

4. False. It's a warm gesture. But better not to enclose reception card. It might give impression a gift is expected.

5. True.

6. True. Formal invitations are always engraved in black ink on white or off-white paper. Colors are out.

7. True.

8. True.

9. False. They should be mailed on the day of the wedding, or a day or two before at most.

10. False. They may be issued by other relatives or by the bride, herself, but never by any member of the groom's family.

Question — My husband and I are going to a black-tie dinner in town. We will stay over in a hotel last night. My husband will take his bag with him when he commutes to his office and check into the hotel. I'm driving down later in the day and will meet him there. How do I go about parking the car and checking in? — Mrs. A.M., Orlando, Fla.

Answer — If the hotel has its own parking facilities, drive in, obtain a check for the car and have the bell captain take your bag. Tell him you're joining your husband, who has already registered for both of you. He will obtain the room number and key and take you up. If the hotel has an outside parking service, the doorman will see that your car is taken care of. Park it at the hotel entrance, get a check, and be sure to leave the keys with the proper attendant.

Inuktitut, Eskimo Mag With Circulation of 4,000, Edited by 22-Year-Old

By DEIRDRE HUNGOVAN

Inuktitut, a magazine started by Miss Panegoosho two years ago, has grown to a circulation of 4,000.

It's unique in that it is printed in the Eskimo's own language and that all its outside literary and artistic contributions come from the Arctic.

Miss Panegoosho, a petite 22-year-old Eskimo from Pond Inlet, a community of 200 on northern Baffin Island, is the editor and chief contributor.

A correspondence translator in welfare division of the northern affairs department in Ottawa since 1958, she is an artist and poet of some talent. She got the idea for a magazine after less than a year in Ottawa.

With the exception of a few religious pamphlets, the Bible and prayer books of the Roman Catholic Oblate priests and Anglican missioners, Inuktitut—meaning the Eskimo way—is the first regular publication in the Eskimo's own tongue.

SPECIAL TYPEWRITER

From her typewriter, designed for the Eastern Arctic's syllabic language form, Mary corresponds with her readers, encouraging them to take up their pen.

The number of contributors to the magazine, which averages 30 to 40 pages and appears four times a year, has steadily increased under her gentle persuasion.

Legends, personal experiences, news and comment have come from hunters, guides, Eskimos in hospital, trading post workers, mothers, wives and students.

Financed by the federal government, the magazine is distributed free, carried by aircraft and Eastern Arctic supply ships. Copies have also been sent on request to teachers and students in other parts of Canada.

Rarely does Miss Panegoosho edit stories.

"Eskimo stories are written much differently from English ones," she said. "This is because every word in Eskimo contributes to our perfect language. I just write short passages to introduce the writer to the reader."

DOES ILLUSTRATIONS

Miss Panegoosho does all the illustrations for the cover and inside pages of the magazine, and edits, writes and oversees layout of articles and photographic montages.

She is a product of mission schooling on Ellesmere Island and Hamilton, where she completed her high school education.

She spent three summers interpreting for the federal health department aboard the Arctic supply ship C. D. Howe. Her father, an RCMP employee at Pond Inlet, encouraged her to come south.

Since becoming a civil servant in 1958, Miss Panegoosho has earned a measure of fame.

"I don't feel famous but every time I go back to the arctic they all seem to know me."

Aside from her work she takes night courses in drawing and oil painting and writes poems, first in English, then in Eskimo.

Duties of Best Man

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—Our son is to be best man at a wedding for the son of a dear friend. . . Would you please explain the duties of a best man?

Also, we are not invited to the wedding but want to give a nice gift. Should our son also give a gift, or can he go in with us?—BELLE.

DEAR BELLE — The story goes that in ancient days the best man helped the groom steal the bride from another tribe; fended off pursuers, and in general made sure the affair was a success. He still has plenty to do.

He takes the groom in hand from the start. Helps about wedding suit, gloves, shoes; about ushers and their ties and gloves. Arranges about flowers and boutonnieres. Checks with the groom as to marriage license and carries the ring. May pay the clergyman's fee. Gets the groom to church on time.

Stands the register; escorts the maid of honor in the recessional; aids helps with many details at the reception. He proposes the toast to the bride or groom and reads the congratulatory telegrams. As of old he helps the bride and groom get away, taking charge of luggage and taxi or car arrangements.

Since you are all close friends of the groom, he need not actsd as extra gift but may share in yours.

DEAR DORIS:—I am 19 years of age and would appreciate some advice concerning one big problem. I have been associated with this girl for a year now and not until recently have I taken an interest in her.

Now I constantly think of her either at work or in my dreams. I have a problem of relaying her from my thoughts. Sure, I must admit I like her very much, but I think that either I think of her too much or I am in love with her. I do not think it would affect me in any way if she went out with other boys.

My job involves meeting and talking to a lot of girls, and when I do I picture her in mind's-view. Am I nuts or something?—WORRY WART.

DEAR WORRY WART—Nuts my eye. I wouldn't give two hoots for a young man who couldn't get overboard about a girl. Just a red-blooded Canadian boy!

It could be love. More likely, it is physical attraction or puppy love. Keep on seeing her, keep your head and keep your own counsel. If it is love, it will grow until there is no mistaking it. If not, it will peter out with the year.

Fine Fur Flattery

By ALICE ALDEN

We often wonder why chinchilla has been absent from the fashion scene for so long. After all, fine chinchilla is one of the most beautiful, the softest, most flattering of furs.

Well, anyway, it is very much a part of the smart sartorial scene now and new techniques have made the fur even prettier and soften than of yore.

Sen Kahn does a delightful cloche-shaped jacket with cloche-shaped sleeves in American chinchilla, a year-round delight.

Wife of Premier Roblin Getting Tired of People Who Take Her for Maid

By TOM WILLIAMS

WINNIPEG (CP)—Mrs. Mary Roblin is getting tired of people who mistake her for the maid.

"I get so many telephone calls here who think I am the maid and ask to speak to Mrs. Roblin, please," says the vivacious 31-year-old wife of Manitoba's Premier Duff Roblin.

"The fact is that we have no maid. I do the housework and I like it."

She chatted with a reporter while strolling with her two children on a tree-lined street near the Roblin home in a quiet South Winnipeg neighborhood.

Mrs. Roblin, a petite, striking brunette with dark eyes and an elfin smile, pushed a carriage containing six - month - old Jennifer while Andrew, nearly two, trailed behind, absorbed by the cavorting of a stray kitten that had adopted him.

Letter, in the Robbins' comfortable but unpretentious home she commented on her do-it-yourself homemaking.

NOT WEALTHY

"It seems that most people have the idea that anyone in public life, such as Duff, is enormously wealthy — even though his salary is public knowledge."

(The premier's salary is $12,000 a year plus the $4,000 indemnity he receives as a member of the legislature.)

"Some of our visitors are surprised to see me wrestling with the children or preparing meals and most seem surprised that we live in an older home. But I like old houses and old furniture and I enjoy working in the kitchen."

Mary Roblin's day starts about 7 a.m., preparing breakfast for her husband who is usually away to the office before 8 a.m. There follows a series of jobs such as laundry, bathing the children, cleaning and dusting.

"I try to get the routine chores finished in good time so that I can do one extra job each day. For instance, the other day I got out the hose and washed my car" — a small English model she had before her marriage in 1956.

The former Mary Linda MacKay met Duff Roblin casually at a number of parties and didn't get to know him better while working as a producer for the CBC's talks and public affairs department.

"I used to work with him on his radio addresses while he was still leader of the opposition. It wasn't really much work because he is an excellent speaker and his speeches were always well prepared."

Mrs. Roblin was born in Montreal but the family moved here when she was three. She graduated in arts from the University of Manitoba and after a short time at home "learning the domestic arts" she followed the MacKay family tradition and entered newspaper work as the women's page of the Winnipeg Free Press.

Her father, Douglas MacKay, worked for the Canadian Press in Ottawa and served as public relations officer for the Hudson' Bay Company here. He was killed in an airline crash in 1958.

HER'S FIRST DUTY

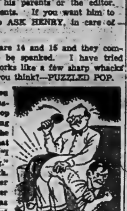
Her brother Shane is executive editor of The Free Press and her mother was a newspaper reporter in Ottawa for time before marriage.

"I enjoyed newspaper work—especially editing and page layout work," Mrs. Roblin said. "But I wasn't much of a reporter or writer."

In radio, she handled a number of religious and children's programs besides assisting with political talks programs.

As the premier's wife she was introduced to a hectic round of social and public functions in the first year after her marriage.

"I think a wife's first duty is to her husband and I try to help with Duff whenever possible on his campaign trips and other official trips.



"But now that the children are here—and at this age—I feel I can't be away alone for very long. So I don't travel so much and we don't entertain as much as we possibly should."

ask henry

The writer of this weekly advice column is an 11-year-old boy. The advice he gives is strictly his own. It has not been changed by his parents or the editor. He welcomes letters from parents. If you want him to discuss your problem write to ASK HENRY, in care of this newspaper.

Dear Henry—My two boys are 16 and 15 and they complain that they are too big to be spanked. I have tried other punishment but nothing works like a few sharp whacks with the hairbrush. What do you think?—PUZZLED POP.

Dear Puzzled Peppers — You parent seems to take much pleasure in whacking kids. My pop used to say: "A good spanking early in the morning fires up the rest of the day." Remember what Lilo reminds after being hit. "I will get you when I am big." Your boys soon will be big enough. That's why I think that kids over 10 shouldn't be hit but given other punishments, and kids under 10 as seldom as possible. Don't forget that all great people were kids . . . . . reader.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—My little boy, 5, loves to play with his many cars around the house and keeps busy all the time. After, he never has any energy left to put them away. They are left there for us to enjoy them and we keep bumbling over them. How can he be made to look after his cars?—CAR SICK.

Dear Car Sick—Help your boy to build a garage out of cardboard. Tell him he should put the cars into the garage or his cars will get wet if it rains. This way he will take pleasure putting his cars into the garage which would be placed in his room.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—I am Amy, I am 9 years old. My brother Tim is 5 years old. I am afraid to fight him, but he is not afraid to fight me. What can I do? Love, AMY.

Dear Amy—Tim may not be afraid to fight you, but I'll bet he is afraid to fight your father. Don't pick a fight with Tim and when he starts a fight with you, tell your father.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—We have lots of trouble in our family these days. Janet, who is 8, got a nice doll on her birthday and is very fond of her. Michael, 12, who loves to tease her, asked her if he could marry the doll, and she foolishly agreed. Now Michael claims that the doll is his wife and keeps the doll in his room. There are endless screams and fights about it. What do you suggest?—A PARENT WITH IN-LAW PROBLEMS.

Dear Parent—Arrange for a divorce and find Michael a living doll.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—I am just recovering from several months of sickness. When I was sick everything I did was O.K. But now that I am getting well everything I do seems to be wrong. What shall I do?—P. J.

Dear P. J.—When you are sick you have privileges and you can do anything you want. But now you are O.K. and a fuss doesn't need to be made over you. You should be happy that you are well.—HENRY.

Readers' Saturday Column

As conducted by Mary Moore

Question: My husband likes molasses. Do you have these brown hard molasses cookies recipe? I buy something at the store called Pantry cookies which is on the order of what I want. — Mrs. D. Mack.

MOLASSES COOKIES
(Highly recommended)

½ cup shortening; 1 cup white sugar; ½ cup molasses; 1 egg; 1½ teaspoon vanilla; few drops maple flavoring; 2 cups sifted flour; 2 teaspoons baking soda; ½ teaspoon cloves; ½ teaspoon ginger; 1 teaspoon cinnamon; ½ teaspoon salt.

Cream together shortening and sugar. Add molasses and egg and vanilla and maple flavoring and mix well. Sift together flour, baking soda, cloves, ginger, cinnamon and salt and add and mix well. Form into uniform balls between palms and roll in granulated sugar. Place on greased cookie sheets, press flat with fork. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. (so they will not brown too much). Bake about 12 to 15 minutes. Makes about 3½ dozen.

Question: I never miss your column and enjoy it so much. Could you help me please? I have a recipe for peach and apple jelly "spiced". I have heard it's awfully nice with meat, but friend lost her recipe and we cannot seem to locate it. I said "Mary Moore" — Emily H.

Answer: Thank you, Mam.

SPICED CRABAPPLE JELLY

Wash 3 quarts slightly underripe crabapples, cut into quarters and barely cover with cold water. Add 1 cup vinegar, 1 teaspoon whole cloves and two 4" sticks cinnamon. Bring to boil and simmer covered until apples are tender and mushy. Strain through moistened jelly bag overnight. Measure juice. Bring to boil and boil 5 minutes. Add 1 cup sugar for each cup measured juice. Bring to boil and boil until when syrup is dipped up in metal spoon 2 drops form which tend to run together. Pour into sterile jelly glasses and seal with coat of hot paraffin, adding second coat when first is set.

Question: would like to get the recipe for cucumber salad. It contains lime gelatine and cream cheese — Mrs. Dan S.

Answer:

MOULDED CUCUMBER SALAD

Two packages lime-flavored gelatin, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ tablespoon sugar, 2 cups hot water, 1½ cups canned grapefruit and pineapple juice, 1½ tablespoons vinegar, 2¼ cups grated seeded cucumbers — about 2 medium cucumbers, 1 cup finely diced cucumber — about 1 medium cucumber, dash of salt, whipped cream mayonnaise. Dissolve gelatin, salt, and sugar in hot water. Add fruit juice, vinegar, and grated cucumbers. Chill until slightly thickened. Season diced cucumbers with salt and fold into slightly thickened gelatin mixture. Turn into 1½ quart mould. Chill until firm. Unmould on crisp lettuce garnish with Whipped Cream Mayonnaise (see below) Makes 12 servings.

Whipped Cream Mayonnaise: One cup whipping cream, ½ cup mayonnaise, ½ teaspoon salt. Whip cream. Then fold in mayonnaise and salt. Makes about 2½ cups.

Note: If desired, one 3-oz. package cream cheese may be added by beating it until it is creamy and creaming into it a little of the partially congealed gelatin mixture before adding diced cucumbers. Fold it in with the cucumbers.

Gentile Equals Grand-Slammer Record

Sport Slices . . .

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Perhaps the best thing to happen to the Cobourg Merchants softball team this year was its elimination from OASA playdowns at the hands of the Picton Waits.

I wonder how far the kindergarten behavior of the team's officials, especially Manager Bob Neill, would have taken them had they been under OASA jurisdiction.

The Belleville and District Softball League, after a fine season, deserved a better ending than the disgusting farce that concluded its 1961 operations.

The stream of invectives that Neill smothered over a telephone against league secretary Sonny Balch and Jayce's manager Bill Shaw led up to the point he had in mind.

He stated he would not talk to either of these officials. He would have nothing to do with them or the league.

So he called the sports department of this newspaper. The reason is obvious. He wanted publicity. He wanted the Belleville sports public to know how the poor downtrodden Cobourg Merchants had been ruthlessly persecuted by the Jayce Real Estate team and the league officials, especially the secretary.

Our Mr. Alexander was on the receiving end of the viciously abusive Cobourg tirade. Neill would have been set to remind Mr. A. to take it all down in writing. Carry took time out, too, to wipe the tears from his eyes. But behind the mythical moisture was the glint of a grin.

Mr. Neill roasted and raved like a Class A Hyde Park orator. We could have made the cost of the call had he inserted a few toothpicks, cigarette or beer commercials.

He repeated time after time that Cobourg was through with the B and D League. "Tell them," he snorted, "we will not be back next year."

Mr. Neill forgets that even in the many dignified circles it is polite to wait until one receives an invitation to join the family party.

As far as this corner is concerned, the incident is closed. "Good riddance completely." It is too bad that the league season ended on such a sour note, a situation that a good Grade Three League would not be found guilty of.

Perhaps the OASA is giving its association and league affiliates too much latitude. It could insert into its constitution that all teams must have at least twelve men in uniform ready to play at each and every game whether it be a scheduled affair, a league playoff or playdown.

Such a ruling could have prevented its sorry farce that apparently has wound up the 1961 season for the Belleville and District Softball League.

Hits Fifth Of Season

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Staff Writer

Take the spotlight off Roger Maris of New York Yankees for a moment and turn it on Jim Gentile, Baltimore's slugging first baseman with the grand-slam habit.

Gentile, among the leaders in home runs and runs batted in but overshadowed by Maris' attempts to crack Babe Ruth's record of 60 homers in one season, equalled a major league record Friday night by cracking his fifth grand - slammer of the season in an 8-4 Orioles victory over Chicago White Sox.

The blast, Gentile's 46th of the year, came off Don Larsen as the Orioles scored seven runs in the fifth inning to put away the victory. Pitcher Clark Estrada was the beneficiary — just as he had been for Gentile's four previous bases - loaded shots.

Gentile's feat matched the mark set by Ernie Banks of the National League Chicago Cubs in 1955 and surpassed the American League record of four held by Bob Cerv, Tony Lazzeri and Tommy Henrich of the Yankees, Al Rosen and Ray Boone of Cleveland Indians and Rudy York of Detroit Tigers.

MARIS TRIES AGAIN

Meanwhile, after a day off, Maris tries again today for homer No. 60, at Boston's Fenway Park, where he launched his major league career. Maris with 58 homers, has seven games remaining in the regular season.

Maris, who no longer can officially tie the Bambino's 60 homer record of 1927 under the 154 - decision limit set by Commissioner Ford Frick, faces rookie Gary Bell of Cleveland (15-5) in the opener of a two-game set between the Yankees and Red Sox.

Frick has stated that if Maris hits No. 61 or 62 he will go into the record book with an asterisk denoting that it was made after the 154th decision under the American League's expanded 162 - game schedule. That ruling will be the fate of Gentile's fifth grand - slammer.

In other action Friday, the second - place Tigers beat Los Angeles Angels 9-6 while Frank Lary's 22nd victory by Cleveland Indians City Athletics edged Cleveland 4-3. Washington at Minnesota was rained out.

SUCCESS AMAZING

Gentile's amazing success with the fat part of baseball bat because May 19 when he bit two of them consecutively off Minnesota Twins and became the first player in major league history to hit his first two - ball slams.

Gentile, who failed a bort of major league trials before finally earning a berth with the Orioles last year, slammed a seven - run outburst against Fred Bauman, Jim Duffalo and Lorenzo Cain handed Estrada (14-9) an 8-2 lead. Estrada needed it. A pinch - hit grand - slam shot by Floyd Robinson in the last of the ninth inning before Milt Pappas and Stu Miller saved the final out.

Larry Sherry, the Angels and Ed Roebuck (10-10), although he was touched for 10 hits, including two on a two homer by Leon Wagner. Al Kaline, who snapped a 4-4 tie with a single, inning solo shot, Dick McAuliffe and Rocky Brown homered for the Tigers.

Jerry Walker (8-13) and Jim Archer, who came in in the eighth inning, checked the locals on four hits, one a two-run homer by Willie Kirkland. Leo Posada's triple with two men on in the ninth inning off Jim Perry (10-16) clinched things for the Athletics.

WIN WORLD TITLE

RYE, N.Y. (AP)—Axel and Erik Schmidt, 22-year-old twins from Denali, west, Friday's final two races and the world snipe class sailing championship. They scored four victories in the seven races and piled up 9,442 points. A United States team took second place with 3,359 points. Crews from 39 countries competed in the 154-foot, wood-on-metal centerboard sloops especially built for the series.

Both Ways, Non Stop

Swimmer Makes Channel History

By JOHN FARROW

FOLKESTONE, England (AP) The English Channel swimming business will never be the same again now that Argentinian Antonio Abertondo has made history by crossing the channel both ways non-stop.

Abertondo, 43, crossed from England to France in 18 hours, 59 minutes, took a hot drink, put on some more grease and immediately plunged back into the cold waters.

He made the non-stop round-trip swim Friday in 43 hours two minutes. Nobody before had battled the tides of the channel and achieved a two-way record. Abertondo, a member of the English Channel Swimming Organization.

"This is the ultimate in channel swimming!" said Sam Rocheit the English Channel expert who planned Abertondo's swim. "What can anyone do now—except try his best Abertondo's time for this historic two-way swim!"

British newspapers gave Abertondo the salute he deserved. The five-foot two-inch 10-pound Argentinian had joined the great men in world sport because the channel—the world's toughest—is something most people thought impossible.

Captain Matthew Webb started the channel craze in 1875. He swam the channel in 21 hours 45 minutes. Since then 22 people have swum it.

Less than an hour after Abertondo climbed ashore Brogan Rees of Wales completed a France-to-England swim in the record time of 10 hours 26 minutes. That was 15 minutes faster than the previous record set by Hassad Abdel Rehim of Egypt in 1950.

Abertondo at climbed ashore nearly unnoticed at St. Margaret's Bay near Dover shortly after 4 p.m. Friday. A few hundred yards from the coast "he started suffering from hallucinations" Rocheit said.

"His eyes were sore and his lips swollen. His tongue was bilious out of his mouth. It was agonizing for me as well as for him.

"I jumped into the water and swam the last few hundred yards with him. As he climbed over the rocks to the beach he collapsed and broke into tears. It was the most dramatic experience of my life. But I never want to see anything like that again."

NEARING CHANNEL GOAL — Antonio Abertondo, 43-year-old Argentinian swimmer, is shown in the water a half mile off the English coast as he nears the end of an unprecedented round trip swim of the English Channel yesterday. Abertondo, in the water over 43 hours, swam from Dover to France and back to England. (AP Wirephoto)

Bisons Take Series From Wings

ROCHESTER N.Y. (AP)— Buffalo Bisons of the International League meet the Louisville Colonels of the American Association in baseball's junior world series, beginning Sunday in Buffalo.

Louisville won the American Association playoff finals Thursday night.

Buffalo did all the scoring needed in the first inning on a leadoff triple by Ted Savage and a single by Tony Curry. Solo homers by Curry and Don Mincher in the fifth and eighth innings accounted for the rest two Bisons runs. Curry added another marker in the ninth.

The Red Wings only got to Buffalo starter Paul Brown for four hits, but when they loaded the bases with one out in the seventh, Bison manager Kerby Farrell pulked out Brown and brought in veteran Max Surkont.

In the eight, Rochester pop together back-to-back singles with one out for the only hit off Surkont but did not score.

Buffalo, which finished third in regular league play, reached the playoff finals by whipping second - place Charleston four straight times. First place Rochester ousted league champion Columbus 4-1.

Senior Hockey Meeting Here Next Tuesday

A gleam of hope has penetrated the gloom that hangs over the eastern senior hockey situation.

Another attempt to organize the loop will be made at a meeting scheduled for the ANAF hall here next Tuesday night.

Oshawa representatives have stated they will definitely attend the get-together.

OHA executive members Matt Leyden of Oshawa and Jack Devine talked with Oshawa club representatives in the Motor City last night.

It seems Oshawa has a team ready to go but are troubled with arena problems. They think this can be ironed out.

They told the OHA representatives they would attend a meeting and Lorne Cook, the group convener, immediately called the session for next Tuesday.

The fate of the proposed circuit hangs on the Osh. awa decision since Kingston has refused to play in a league composed of less than five clubs.

END TRAINING TODAY

Howe Hurt In Hockey Exhibition

DETROIT (CP) — Gordie Howe, 33, captain and all-star right-winger for Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League, suffered pulled chest muscles in a game at St. Thomas, Ont., hospital officials disclosed today.

He was brought here by car after colliding with winger Ron Muir of Cleveland Barons of the American League, Detroit beat Cleveland 3-0.

Howe and Muir crashed into the boards before the Detroit net and the Red Wing ace sank to his knees. He had to be helped from the ice.

Team officials did not rank for the game, to and, but handled Howe into a car and drove directly to Detroit with him. Howe was admitted to the Detroit Osteopathic Hospital.

It was believed the injury was similar to one that kept him out of action for 15 games during the 1957-58 season.

Team officials said Howe would likely miss Detroit's Western Canada exhibition tour, which begins Sunday in Fort William.

Wings' two-lost Norm Ullman off the left wing Friday night. He suffered a bruised knee in a hard check during the second period and didn't return to the ice.

SKIRMISH

The Saints ran into stiff competition on the Trenton campus from the kick-off to the final whistle, and left the field not before contributing to the Tigers first win of 8-0.

Trenton emphasized its points as a T.D. from an interception off a long pass attempted by Quinte and a safety off a wide Quinte Quarterback Paul Clark of Trenton kept the Tigers on the ground on most of their plays. Quarterback Gilroy and Skinner of Quinte put the Tigers on their toes by alternating a series of ground and air plays. Although Trenton's line averaged 200 pounds, both teams played an unusually equal offensive and defensive game. In the first quarter the Tigers pushed Quinte steadily until they attempted a field goal. They missed their three points objective but gained one point by trapping the Saints in their own end zone. After a number of successful passes in the second, Quinte took to the air for a long pass but Quantrial of Trenton pulled in the interception, and went on his way down field for the first touchdown. The convert was good. The score remained the same throughout the rest of the game.

The hard defensive tackles of Trenton's Hess and the loud grunts and pass receivings of Quinte's Chatelain were the all-star features of the game.

JUNIORS

The Saints reversed the tables on Trenton in the junior game by bringing home the victory. From the kick-off the Little Saints pushed the Tigers downfield until they were perched on the Trenton 10 yard line. Ray Finkle of Quinte then ran a quick-faking reverse up the end and across the Trenton line for first points. In the second and third quarters the Quinte tried to duplicate the first but Trenton's hard tackling and strong defensive tactics kept any carrash to a minimum. The fourth was a frantic frenzy of offensive plays by Trenton to gain a tie. Then Quinte let loose with a series of passes which brought them to the Trenton 25 yd. line. Trenton took over the control of the ball. Trenton's Clark was shining in his own endzone to thwart any pass attempt. Quinte pushed and some eager advice.

SUMMARY AND SCORING

The actor admitted that his professional touch was pure nothing.

"I took physiology in high school and geology at college (Pomona)," he said. "That was the extent of my acquaintance with the sciences."

He's a Los Angeles boy, son of a Hollywood lawyer. After some services in Korea, he studied acting and drama and landed a few TV films. He starred in an MGM western pilot film that didn't sell, but it led to a steady stop producer Herbert Hirschman from tapping him for the Kildare role.

The Kildare series beat stuck one the first time around. MGM made a half-hour pilot last year with Lew Ayres playing Kildare 20 years later and a younger actor as intern. It found no buyers, because it was "too young".

An unscoped hour show was whipped up this season with Chamberlain in Lew's old role and Toronto - born Raymond Massey as the crusty Dr. Gillespie, originated by Lionel Barrymore. A harder, less sentimental look at modern medicine the new series marks the grade.

The film series ran to 15 features and helped spawn such stars as Red Skelton, Van Johnson and Lassie Dog. Calling Dr. Kildare (1939) was the most famous of the... films and the become a national phrase.

Rams Clash With Bears

NEW YORK (AP)—Coach Bob Waterfield of Los Angeles says the Rams are going to go all-out to arouse group of Chicago Bears tonight when the two teams clash in the National Football League's only activity. The Rams battle the Bears in Los Angeles Coliseum.

"When the Bears are awakened they are the meanest," Waterfield said.

All-other NFL teams will be busy Sunday. Making their second appearance will be Detroit Lions at Baltimore, Minnesota at Dallas, New York Giants at Pittsburgh, St. Louis Cardinals at Cleveland, San Francisco 'Gers at Green Bay and Washington Redskins at Philadelphia.

In the American Football League Buffalo Bills and Boston Patriots and Buffalo Bills, two clubs acted for inconsistency, clash at Buffalo tonight to get a busy weekend under way. The big game is Sunday when the only undefeated teams in the field—San Diego and Houston — battle it out at San Diego.

The Boston - Buffalo melee could be a sizzler and just which should be favored is a question unknown by even the teams. Boston lost New York 21-20 but Buffalo whipped New York 41-21. Yet Boston lashed Denver 45-17 and Denver toppled Buffalo 29-10.

Didn't Want Record Broken

Babe's Widow Happy

NEW YORK (AP) — Babe Ruth's widow is happy that Roger Maris didn't tie the Rambino's record of 60 home runs in 154 games.

"That was one record I didn't want broken," Mrs. Claire Ruth said Friday. "I have the highest regard for Roger Maris. He's a fine hitter. But I must admit I'm glad he didn't equal the Babe's 60."

Mrs. Ruth watched Wednesday's games New York Yankees' 154th of the season—on television in a friend's home.

"It was a nerve-wracking night" she said. "After Maris hit his 59th I didn't know what was going to happen. Most home-run hitters go on streaks but I figured that Roger might get hot."

She explained why she was sadness that the Babe's 1927 record be preserved.

"If the record had been broken the next year after Babe made it or even two or three years later it wouldn't be so bad," she said. "But now that it has withstood challenges for 34 years it would hurt to see it go."

Then she added:

"The Babe loved that record. He wanted to be known as the king of home runs forever."

Rough Riders Call in Help

SARNIA (CP)—Ottawa Rough Riders of the Eastern Canada Football Conference Friday night turned to Sarnia Golden Bears for additional defensive strength.

Middlebrook Lou Reale will report to the Rough Riders in Toronto Sunday. He will play for the Bears Saturday night in the Ontario Conference game against Columbus Colts.

Golden Bears have a farm club agreement with Ottawa.

Reale, 25, is six-foot-one and weighs 205 pouns. He formerly played at the University of Buffalo.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Sunday, September 24, 1961

General Tendencies: Until soon you have a good chance to see just where you stand with all others and to gain a renewing of the finest and loftiest precepts you can conceive at the services, worship, studies of your choice. Later you find your judgment is not apt to be too good and you would be wise to double-check any plans before placing them into actual motion.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Morning is best time for concentrating upon whatever problems you have and praying for guidance. Your prayers will be answered and then you can quietly organize your activities for the new week ahead and beyond. Accept a modest attitude.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) In a.m. concentrate upon what you truly want to do in the future and then contact good friends and get their ideas and promise of co-operation. You get a good friend given to you right if you also make your concrete plans on paper. Retire early.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) The morning must be devoted to study situations in the outside world so that you can then use the fine inspiration later when having to tackle them. Take care in p.m. that you do not err where a good friend is concerned. Think.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Get out to the services of your choice in a.m., and then follow the Rev.'ideas and philosophies expounded. Raise your level of conciousness and be sure you act circumspectly or you lose prestige you have built up so laboriously.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — If you get into the so-called rocks for a while in a.m., you get wonderful intuitive help from the planets. Then sit down and study your newspaper and get practical ideas to supplement your inspirations. Plan for expansion.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21)— Every chance is yours this morning to talk to experts informally and get their ideas and help. Later, be most diplomatic with a loyal partner. Also, find some way to entertain him, or her, for favors rendered in the past.

Libra (Sept. 22 to Oct. 22)— Concentrate on being a greater help to close ties so that real harmony will be reached immediately. Also insist those who are in trouble. P.M. get out with partners and have fun.

Scorpio (Oct. 22 to Nov. 21) — Important you do something new for the one you love la.t. and show your true and lasting devotion. Later, live in such a way that you will be an inspiration to others. P.M. get weak's activities organized on paper.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Concentrate on close ties and general security in A.M. Ideal for going to church to achieve more happiness in your daily living. Evening can be very enjoyable if you do not spend too much money for entertainment. Be happy.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A.M. idea like going to church or reading and earnestly studying whatever is vital and necessary to raising your level of consciousness. Later, get together with worthwhile friends. Be sure you drive carefully, speak wisely.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Concentrate upon what has brought you the greatest success in the past and resolve to follow along the same lines in the future. Later, sit down with good associates and make plans informally for a better modus operandi.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) Think of personal pleasures and needs in a.m. and go after them enthusiastically. Tonight is then the time for contrasting upon how to have a greater income in the future and making notes so that you will not forget good ideas.

If your child is born today—he, or she, is one of those rare people who early will have an idea for making money and early will take the right steps to insure security, and ethically, too. Be sure you give as fine an education as you can afford and give your understanding of your youngster and assume a protective attitude to prevent criticism from others who are jealous. Marvelous success here.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 23

General Tendencies: Forget the past now and look toward the future with courage, chance for action and confidence. If you try to push through matters already started, you are apt to have a bitter disappointment. But if you simply wrap it in patience and progress in the future by a new and fresh approach, you can have a very good day and evening.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) —Be sure you concentrate on personal problems today and leave matters of credit or civic affairs for a more favorable day. Keep busy getting all the information you need that will bring success from worry. Put it to good use.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) —You will realize that by taking persons into your confidence who do not understand your affairs you have wasted time. Forget it quickly and then decide to seek those who look to you for help at this time. Be generous, kind.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) —Don't rely on own hunches today, for they are apt to be erroneous, but accept the assistance of a good friend who understands your problems and can do much to help you launch that new project or yours. Be grateful and cooperative.

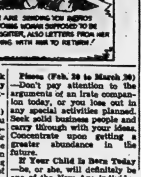
Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — An associate does not understand what you have in mind today and could be quite a deterring factor, if you permit. Seek the assistance of an influential person you know and you can meet with fine success. Be dynamic, down-to-earth.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — This is a day when you seem to be bogged down with many duties, so it behooves you to execute only those that are most necessary, then off with the good friends who can be of assistance with ideas and inspiration. Be happy, relaxed.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)— Rather than spend a great deal of money on pleasures, get together with experts and learn new and better ways of operating. Then sit down and work with what you have learned and prepare to put your ideas into operation quickly. Grow.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)— If you are faced with close ties today, you will meet with definite opposition. Get out with partners instead and talk over business matters quietly and in a practical fashion. Expand.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) —If you are not careful, you can lose a valuable friend today by being thoughtless, or you can have an accident while out driving. Plan to stay in and concentrate on finding newer and better systems of operating. Be efficient.



Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — If you keep harping on financial matters today, you can certainly annoy your partners. So this gives you a fine opportunity to get away for some needed relaxation and having a wonderful time at favorite hobbies. Be gay.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—Put aside own plans that are not very practical and carry through with the ideas of close ties and you will find that you advance much more quickly at this time. Co-operation will open fine doors for all concerned. Be sane.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) —If you permit, private worry can certainly keep you from advancing as you had planned today. Forget it quickly and keep those appointments. Have conferences with associates enthusiastically and succeed. P.M. be social, have fun.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) —Don't pay attention to the arguments of an irate companion today, or you lose out in any social activities planned. Seek solid business people and carry through with your ideas. Concentrate upon getting a greater abundance in the future.

If Your Child is Born Today —he, or she, will definitely be one of the New Age individuals of tomorrow and you must plan to give the finest of modern educations and not insist on old-fashioned orthodoxy, which can be most limiting here. Naturally, fundamental principles remain the same but New Era imagination must be placed where it can be understood and developed most constructively.

Merry-go-Round Suffers Decline In Popularity

FREDERICTON (CP) — The merry-go-round has suffered a serious decline in popularity, says millionaire showman Bill Lynch of Halifax.

Even small children look for something more daring and sensational. But although the merry - go - round is the least patronized ride at carnivals, it's a necessity and no carnival would be complete without one, he says.

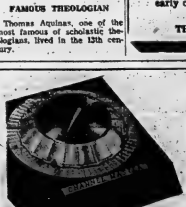
Known as the "King of the Carnival" in the Maritimes, Bill Lynch is the son 56-year-old president of Bill Lynch Shows. He has a sentimental attachment for the merry-go-round, having started his career with a second-hand model at a picnic site on McNab's Island in Halifax Harbor.

Mr. Lynch talked about the carnival business while two of his units were playing at the Fredericton exhibition. He said spending power during the last 10 years has apparently declined and carnivals have been affected.

"But carnivals were here to stay. The key to success was to keep providing something new.

"I'm going to Germany next month. There are a couple of rides I'll have to look over for the 1962 season."

Smaller, mobile roller coasters are being made and he may acquire one.



"Not the thrill to it that the big ones have but you can't put out a fire which does not get it Platt's factory.

Tuples this week: Radioactive waste, the great Antarctic ice cap and the Hottentots.

HOW DEEP THE OCEAN

There are some 1¼ billion billion tons of water in the world's oceans, even the driest water world can't take all the trash man would dump into it.

Thousands of tons of shot machines, guns, and everything man wants to get rid of—are dumped into the ocean. And now radioactive wastes are dumped there, too.

For most of the next decade or so, it appears that the ocean can accept in its deep waters radioactive wastes without danger, suggests oceanographer John Isaacs of the Scripps institution. But later on there may have to be limits on the waste material to be dumped.

WORLD ON THE ROCKS

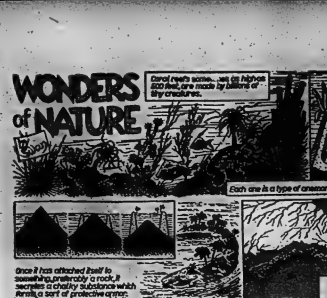
If you melted the ice of the Antarctic, the world's seas would climb nine feet, level higher and drown some of man's biggest cities.

Some scientists are measuring the Antarctic ice cap as a possible barometer of world climate. If the Antarctic ice is growing, this may signal a warmdown spell on the Earth.

If this is so, then the earth faces the possibility that many years from now the Arctic ice pack will melt and large cantrells will deluge parts of North America, Asia and Europe, say University of Michigan geologists Jaroslav Zemberge and Charles Southwinski.

HOTTENTOTS

The Hottentot people of southern Africa have long been regarded as of Mongolic origin—the same origin as the Berbers and perhaps the ancient Egyptians. The Mamites were considered similar to the Caucasians.



But now South African researchers from the University of Cape Town say their studies indicate the Hottentots are really negroids, from the same stock as the Bantu and the bushmen.

TO BUILD A FIRE

Now they have developed a machine that kicks sand on a forest fire.

Experimenters have developed a machine that shoots a 50-mile-an-hour stream. The operator directs the trajectory of the stream.

The machine, developed by the Swiss Federal Fire experiment station at Roscommon. Mich., can fling two tons of sand or dirt a minute. It will soon be delivered to firefighters for action trials.

Coil Produces High Voltage

By EUGENE R. MILMOE

The puny six or 12 volts pushed out of the battery could never run your car engine. That is why the ignition coil is needed. It multiplies this low voltage a few thousand times, then sends it off to the distributor. The distributor, of course, immediately directs it if the high voltage to the plugs producing the spark which ignites the fuel mixture.

Normally, the ignition coil doesn't require much maintenance although, however, it can fail victim to some other neglected part of the system. For example, when spark plugs are gapped too widely, a strain is placed on the coil. As far as the coil itself goes, there are but two conditions which should be checked occasionally. Make sure connections are tight. Similarly if the high tension lead or cable — are tight and clean. See that no corrosion forms in the cable, the coil terminal. Replace any porous, cracked or leaky high-tension cable.

ASKS FIREWORKS LIMIT

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipal Associations will ask the federal government to make legislation to control fireworks. A resolution to this effect was passed by delegates at the federation's annual convention here Thursday after a number of speakers asked that firecrackers be sold only to adults. Today, Moirs - Schuster Limited continues this important community service with fast, modern delivery trucks . . . automatic central oil fire use in modern, economical heating units . . . Plan to Keep Goods Moving In Emergency

By ROBERT RICE

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is working on an urgent plan to keep Canada's transport industry rolling in a national emergency, reliable informants said Friday.

The program—rated as priority in federal emergency planning—is expected to involve just about everything that moves in the country, including trains, planes, buses, trucks, ships, even private automobiles.

It also involves key facilities such as the St. Lawrence Seaway, major ocean and inland ports, countrywide air terminals, roads and highways as well as maintenance and repair depots for road, rail, air and sea carriers.

The problem is complex.

PLAN OWN ROLES

To meet it, the government is trying to get the experts in the various transport fields to plan their own role in the emergency, with co-ordination at the top.

The first step in warning civil air carriers was taken this week in Ottawa.

Representatives of eight major airlines were summoned to Ottawa for closed briefings on what to expect in the event of an attack. They were told what would be expected of them and were asked to make their plans accordingly.

One problem facing the airlines would be where and how to cache replacement parts and repair facilities away from potential target areas and perhaps vulnerable to fallout from nuclear detonations.

At the meeting were officials from the publicly-owned Trans-Canada Air Lines, the privately-owned Canadian Pacific Air-lines, Maritime Central Airways, Pacific Western Airlines, Quebecair, Transair, Nordair and Okanagan Airways.

REDS CHALLENGED TO DROP ARMS RACE

Whites Fleeing From Katanga, Fear Invasion

Thousands of Tribesmen Given Automatic Rifles

ELISABETHVILLE (Reuters) — White refugees continued to stream out of Elisabethville today as the U.N. announced that the Congolese central government was planning to invade Katanga.

Widespread reports here say invasion plans may well under way following the United Nations' failure to end Katanga's secession. Only eight - day battle that ended in a cease-fire last Wednesday.

More than 300 persons—most of them Belgian families—got out of Elisabethville Sunday, crossing Saturday that in any nuclear shock he, his wife and his staff will go back to an entirely fallout shelter being built in the basement of his residence at 38 Sussex Street, a mile from the Parliament Buildings.

It is not a deep fallout shelter, he said. It is the same kind of shelter as is being constructed by the government for any home in Canada, except that this one is for the Prime Minister's staff.

IS ORDINARY SHELTER

That is where I shall be when and if war should come, he said, which is where I shall stay." And he said again—declining home a point—that it is just an ordinary fallout shelter.

"I want that realized across this country. After there are no protective measures being taken for the survival of any particular person in this country."

He did mention, however, that protection has been provided for certain essential services: civil servants and others "needed to maintain the organization of the country" in order to ensure continuance of government.

He did not elaborate on this point. Location of that shelter is a secret which has been published since the establishment of the government's emergency measures organization.

Pearson has revealed for the first time official estimates that 3,000,000 to 6,000,000 of Canada's 18,000,000 people would be casualties in any one series of nuclear attacks.

And he hasn't left any doubt that the prime minister — and his staff — would be one of those counted in the dead.

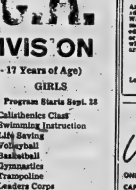
Labor Council For Swim Pool

TRENTON — At a meeting of the Trenton Labor Council Thursday night, council members were to report in regard to having the Trenton Board of Education in its determination to include a swimming pool in the new composite school.

Members also discussed plans for a special tent display of union-made articles, sponsored by the Labour Council, which will be featured at the International Plowing Match. The display it will be organized by members of the Trenton and Belleville Labor Councils.

Duck Hunters' Bag Opening Day Small



TRENTON—Many residents of Trenton awoke at dawn Saturday to the sound of gunfire. It was the local hunters firing a resolute but apparently unfruitful annual salute to usher in another season of open warfare on the wild fowl.

A survey of local merchants and those with sporting goods lines reveals that, despite exceptionally heavy sales of shells, decoys and other trappings by the hunter, very few reported back the "headhunters" with claims of a successful day's work.

Food Plant, School Are Broken Into

TRENTON — Corporal Lloyd Lyle of the Brighton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police and today the Graham's Food Products, on the Frankford Road, had been entered during the night. He said that the loss could not be determined until an inventory had been taken.

On Saturday night, East Northumberland High School was entered and a small amount of change taken from the administration office.

IN MEMORIAM

FRASER. — In loving memory of Pte. Felix Fraser, who died Sept. 25th, 1942.
Fast his suffering now are past,
But memories of him we have.
He who suffered is at rest,
To God's Heaven he has gone.
—Lovingly remembered by his son Harold and Sandra and granddaughters.

FRASER. — In memoriam of my husband, Clarence, who passed away one year ago, September 25th, 1960.
Sadly missed by his wife Dorothy.
A gentle voice said "Come",
One day I heard it call,
He gently entered home.
And left me lonely all.
—Sadly remembered by his wife Anne.

HAMILTON. — In memory of my beloved cousins, Seymour and Louise Hamilton, who were called home, Laura, January 23rd, 1956, Seymour, February 9th, 1961.
Days are not dead,
Nor dead the sad hurt borne below,
Into the full sunlight
Time the full night.
Forever done with sighs and cloud and sorrow,
Where all is calm and bright.
Nor ever severed shall be closed awakening,
In heaven's peaceful day:
Not still and moveless clasped and voiceless,
But waking, living, busy and rejoicing
In the full life of God's eternity.
To sing Heaven's anthem new among the blessed,
Not touching, sorrow's sacred lyre,
Amid the white-robed throng.
Oh no, not dead — but passed beyond the sky,
And with all suffering's cry,
And pain and death
To live forever more.
—Wells Reid Lynn.

Immunization Week Declared By League

The Health League of Canada has declared National Immunization Week, September 24 to 30.

Diseases which once were fatal to thousands of Canadians have been cut by immunization but can rise again if vigilance is relaxed. In 1936 there were 1,351 deaths from diphtheria, in 1959 there were none but in 1960 there were 33 cases and seven deaths.

People who neglect booster shots have diminished protection and many have no immunization at all. They are relying on the immunization of others to prevent the spread of disease.

Poliomyelitis, which was at one time considered to be a disease of children, now attacks those between the ages of 20 and 45 years. Adults should not feel they are beyond catching other childhood diseases.

It has been said that "the saving and disease preventing agents are useless of they stay in bottles."

Every child should be immunized against diphtheria, whooping cough, smallpox, tetanus and polio.

In 1959 there were 6,614 cases of whooping cough with 71 deaths; 909 polio cases with 83 deaths.

The Belleville Health Department strongly advises parents to see that they and especially their children are immunized against the diseases which once filled Canada's cemeteries.

Consult your family physician or attend one of the several clinics held by the Belleville Health Department.

Sumner Welles Dies at Wife's Family Home

BERNARDSVILLE, N.J. (AP) Former American state undersecretary Sumner Welles died at his wife's family home here Sunday. He was 68.

Welles suffered a heart attack a number of years ago, but the exact cause of death was not immediately announced. He was visiting the home.

Welles became state undersecretary in 1937 in the administration of President Roosevelt. He resigned in 1943 and had lived in virtual retirement since then.

Welles was a man of considerable wealth. Born in New York, he entered the United States foreign service in 1915.

Welles was credited with coining the phrase "good neighbor policy"—a phrase much in use even today describing the United States' proclaimed aim of co-operation with Latin and South American countries.

NDP Holds Corn Roast at Carrying Place

The New Democratic Party in the riding of Prince Edward-Lennox held a corn roast at Carrying Place this past Saturday afternoon. Guest speaker for the occasion was Andrew Brewin, K.C., the party's candidate in the Toronto riding of Greenwood and a member of the party's National Council. Some 60 persons were in attendance.

Tentative plans for the New Democratic Party organizations in both the ridings of Hastings South and Prince Edward-Lennox provide for nomination meetings sometime next February, providing no federal election is called before then. Party leader Tommy Douglas will be the guest speaker for both of these meetings it was announced. Dates, as yet, are unconfirmed.

Col. P. Wills Group Deposits Colors on Altar

A small group of ex-servicewomen representing the Col. Philip Wills Branch of Royal Canadian Legion attended the 11.00 o'clock service in St. Thomas' Anglican Church yesterday.

The Rev. Canon A. S. McConnell, rector of St. Thomas' and also padre of the visiting branch, told the congregation that this was the first time in the history of the ancient church that a branch of the Canadian Legion had ever deposited their colors at the altar. He proudly pointed out that flags from five regiments already added to the dignity of the church.

During the singing of the recessional hymn the color party led the group to the rear of the church, where they shook hands with the minister and signed the guest book.

The occasion marked the first anniversary of Branch 587's existence in Belleville.

Revolution Among Kurdish Tribes Serious

TEHRAN (AP) — The revolution among Kurdish tribes in northern Iraq was described by an informed source ere gunday as a more serious issue for Premier Abdel Karim Kassem's Iraqi government than was the Kuwait crisis.

Baghdad has blacked out most news on the revolt by tribesmen, but some sketchy reports reach here from travellers in the mountainous Iraq - Iran border area. Casualty figures of casualties and extent of the fighting are still lacking.

Reports indicate Kassem's biggest fear is that Kurds may seize control or shortage production at oil - producing areas in the north — Kirkuk, Mosul, Sulaimaniya and Erbil.

Government troops evidently have firm hold of these regions and other major towns while mountain warriors control surrounding hills and villages.

(Reuters news agency reported from Baghdad that Kassem charged Saturday night that the revolt was fanned by Britain, backed by the United States. British government circles in London called the charges are groundless.)

Major Jack Gets Promotion, New Postings

The appointment of 14 senior staff officers to Target Area headquarters across Canada has been announced by army headquarters.

Included in the list of officers is Major M. Jack of Belleville, now a staff officer at headquarters, Central Command, Oakville.

Major Jack has been promoted to the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel and will be assigned to the Ottawa area with headquarters at Almonte, Ont.

The appointments mark a further step in planning for national survival should the country come under nuclear attack. The target area headquarters are located near potential target cities some 30 to 50 miles from the target areas.

Target Cities View Planning As Far Fetched

OTTAWA (CP) — Judy La Marsh (Liberal—Niagara Falls) Saturday said that many women and especially those in the 16 "target" cities view the government's survival planing as "far fetched."

She mentioned in the Commons two Niagara Falls women who, despite derision from their husbands and neighbors, went to Toronto recently to see a display of fallout shelters.

The attendant at the display gave them pamphlets but took them away after learning the women were from Niagara Falls. The women were told the pamphlets were of no use to them because they were in a target city, Miss La Marsh said.

She said she received one letter from a Niagara Falls woman who had three children attending different schools, far from home, where there was no shelter for them. The woman's husband also worked where there was no shelter.

The woman asked in her letter:

"Am I to sit at home in a fallout shelter for two weeks and go quietly mad?"

Many women doubt that it is worth surviving when everyone dear to them cannot survive, Miss La Marsh said.

Something had to be done for people in target cities.

Admin Knowledge Limited

One small dividend has accrued from the action of the Russians in callously resuming the testing of nuclear devices in the atmosphere.

It has made authorities in the free world acknowledge the possible danger to health from radioactive fallout.

In the days before the moratorium on tests, while many scientists raised their voices in protest and warned of the danger of contamination of the atmosphere, the official line was that the level of radioactivity resulting from these tests was far below the danger level.

Now, though, while the announcements of radioactivity levels often scrupulously mention the fact that the higher readings resulting from Russian tests do not exceed those of the past resulting from U.S. tests, it is admitted that we know little about the hazards of such radioactivity.

For instance, both Dr. F. P. M. Bird, senior scientific officer of the Department of National Health and Welfare, and Hon. J. W. Monteith, minister of health, indicated last Wednesday that in Mr. Monteith's words, "knowledge is incomplete concerning significance of high levels of short-lived fission products."

In other words, scientists are not sure what the long-term results will be.

Khrushchev is gambling, not only with the lives of all of us on earth today but also with the lives of generations unborn. Of course, the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission made the same gamble in the past. The difference is that today those in authority will admit that there may be some risk to health, a contention which was once limited almost entirely to scientists not connected with any government agency.

Tennis Machine

Somebody in Britain has invented a new machine to teach tennis. It is called the "Strokemaster."

Machines are crowding men hard these days.

The "Strokemaster" was described on the BBC by Rhona Salter.

Broadcasters, especially women broadcasters, sometimes crowd reason even harder than machines crowd men.

Listen to this description of how the "Strokemaster" works.

"Suppose you want to practise your backhand drives. All you do is fix the appropriate striking head to the machine, fill up the container with a maximum of 54 balls, pick up your tennis racket and switch on. Out will come 54 backhand drives, strong and accurate."

Fancy that! And that's all you have to do to improve your backhand!

Nonsense!? Of course it is! Miss, or Mrs., Salter, knows nothing about tennis, or else she knows nothing about English.

If you want to practise your backhand drives, you don't want 54 strong, accurate backhand drives pouring at you. You want some drives, flat and with top-spin. You also want some lobs and some chops and some slices and some undercut drives and you want them long and short, coming straight and coming cross-court, as many varieties of shots as there are in the book, which is plenty.

Of course, if you want to practise returning backhand drives (with backhand drives, forehand drives, chops, slices, lobs and drop shots), 54 backhand drives, strong and accurate, will help. But in this case Miss, or Mrs., Salter needs a refresher course in English.

Bring on the next machine that wants to play man—we feel in good form today, like smashing it for six, homering to deep centre, splitting the uprights from the 55-yard line.

There was an Irish soldier who had a line of dots tatooed round his neck for a joke, with the words "Cut round the dotted line." He broke his neck falling downstairs some years later.—Francis Huxley speaking on the BBC.

I know that our inheritance is held in store for us by Time. . . . I know there is a sea of Time to rise one day, before which all who wrong us or oppress us will be swept away like leaves. I see it, on the flowl—Charles Dickens

When all is done, human life is, at the greatest and the best, but like a forward child, that must be played with and humored a little to keep it quiet till it fails asleep, and the care is over.—Sir William Temple.

It is easier for a man to be loyal to his club than to his planet; the by-laws are shorter, and he is personally acquainted with the other members.—Elwyn Brooks White.

Letters to the Editor

Denies Bad Habits Are Valuable

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer:

Will you allow me some of your valuable space to reply to an article from the "Canadian Spectator" which appeared in a recent edition of your paper entitled "Bad Habits Valuable." It stated: "The Hon. Donald Fleming settles drinks, alcohol and smokes, which may be accounted to him as virtues. Now there is a good reason why he should not encourage others to follow his example. If Canadians overlight pretenders, there would be a loss of $500,000,000 in revenue to the treasury."

Revenues to all governments receive from the sale of alcoholic beverages, are undoubtedly considerable, but there is an offset by the money spent in reclamation, law enforcement, and crimes. We have no accurate figures for Ontario or Canada — in fact it is very hard to get accurate figures for such statistics, because the effects of alcohol extend so far. However, they did conduct a survey in Massachusetts some years ago and discovered for every dollar received in revenue, $2.50 was spent in the following agencies, police and others to offset the ugly results of drinking. In California it was in the ratio of $1 in revenue to $7 spent in any event, far more is also lost in repairing the damage by drinking than is received in revenue.

We quote a member of a recent discussion: "Gentlemen — You need not worry, it involves any trouble about the revenue. We are not in the Commission trade the same gamble in the past. The difference is that today those in authority will admit that there may be some risk to health, a contention which was once limited almost entirely to scientists not connected with any government agency.

Dr. Gordon Bell, medical director of the Bell clinic, said: "Alcoholism costs Canada at least $100,000,000 a year in accidents, absenteeism and lowered efficiency alone," as stated to Macleans some years ago.

Dean Inge of England said: "If you do not drink you are a nation who are soft, lazy and self-indulgent just look at the figures we spend on alcohol, tobacco and gambling. A nation that spends on these things more than on education, pensions and home, is sick."

A priest, speaking on the radio, also pronounced such a nation sick, and out of it would come alcohol, unemployment and poverty.

(Mrs. Rev. Ross)
Mabel Farnsworth.

Canadians Flock to U.S.

Vancouver Province

The government of Canada is unwilling to release figures showing how many Canadians have been, every year, lured to and work in the United States. And no wonder. For the past few years nearly 275,000 naturalborn Canadians make the decision, each year, that they can better themselves in the land. And of the 1,363,000 Europeans who emigrated to this country, more than half are using Canada as a stepping stone before going south.

Officials in Ottawa do not make these figures public. Nor do U.S. immigration officials, since they tend to "make Canadians unhappy." The U.S. department of justice, immigration and naturalization in Washington, however, systematically issues data on the "brain picture" they reveal is enough to convince Mrs. Fairchild that this country should no longer be considered a way-stop from Naples to Los Angeles, from Bucharest to Portland.

Mrs. Fairclough has stated that the main reason the most European immigrants into Canada is to give their children a better opportunity in life or the prospect of better living as exemplified by the purchase of a car and household effects, or establishing a business.

This is true enough. But Canadians are losing the third biggest crop of emigrants to the United States. German and Italian-born have contributed the highest number of nationals to the USA but the number of Americans and Mexicans taking out U.S. papers there are 10 times greater in the same thing. They must all be considering their children get a better crop from the United States, or they can more easily buy those household gadgets and start their own businesses.

Of the 8½ million new Americans in the last ten years, nearly 375,000 have been Canadians. Other businessmen, like Fairchild, here for the final jump. It is a sobering thought that Canada, which needs people, can't keep them.

Taxpayer Fays

Fredericton Gleaner

We have despaired that by permitting two national systems to operate in Canada to be heard for the same costly duplication of air services that already exists in the country, the TCA's loss is the taxpayer's loss.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

A FAMOUS FRIENDSHIP

We are told that when Jonathan and David met for the last time and commoned together, Jonathan strengthened David's hand in God.

The friendship of David and Jonathan has been famous throughout the ages. How Jesus than strengthened David's hand, in God, on that last occasion we do not know. But evidently he said things by way of encouragement that strengthened the faith of the man who later wrote the Twenty-Third Psalm declaring that the Lord was his Shepherd.

The finest thing about that famous friendship was that Jonathan strengthened his friend's hand in God.

Friendship is never really friendship until this happens. When those who are near to us can really say that our contacts have deepened our faith in God and man, than and then only can we claim to be termed worthy of the name. Many a man can look back on companionable years spent in idle sport, over a period of years without having received any benefit in nature. It is the part of wisdom to discourage one's self from the pernicious influence of such relationships if they exist. True friendship exists only when friends strengthen each other in all good things.

Jonathan did soon after this meeting. Or did he? He seems always to have lived so influentially in the life of his friend David.

Annual Pay Below $100

St. Catharines Standard

The statistical office of the United Nations, having surveyed 107 countries, reveals that no fewer than 40 of them have a per capita national income of less than $100 a year. The U.S. is tops with $2,035 Canada next with $1,385).

Among the 40 are the two countries which between them hold one-third of the world's population — China with 600,000,000 people and India with 435,000,000.

Most statistics are dull things. But there are those, like this one, that tell volumes and tell a story which even the most statistically minded can understand.

Tennis Machine

Somebody in Britain has invented a new machine to teach tennis. It is called the "Strokemaster."

Machines are crowding men hard these days.

The "Strokemaster" was described on the BBC by Rhona Salter.

Broadcasters, especially women broadcasters, sometimes crowd reason even harder than machines crowd men.

Listen to this description of how the "Strokemaster" works.

"Suppose you want to practise your backhand drives. All you do is fix the appropriate striking head to the machine, fill up the container with a maximum of 54 balls, pick up your tennis racket and switch on. Out will come 54 backhand drives, strong and accurate."

Fancy that! And that's all you have to do to improve your backhand!

Nonsense!? Of course it is! Miss, or Mrs., Salter, knows nothing about tennis, or else she knows nothing about English.

If you want to practise your backhand drives, you don't want 54 strong, accurate backhand drives pouring at you. You want some drives, flat and with top-spin. You also want some lobs and some chops and some slices and some undercut drives and you want them long and short, coming straight and coming cross-court, as many varieties of shots as there are in the book, which is plenty.

Of course, if you want to practise returning backhand drives (with backhand drives, forehand drives, chops, slices, lobs and drop shots), 54 backhand drives, strong and accurate, will help. But in this case Miss, or Mrs., Salter needs a refresher course in English.

Bring on the next machine that wants to play man—we feel in good form today, like smashing it for six, homering to deep centre, splitting the uprights from the 55-yard line.

There was an Irish soldier who had a line of dots tatooed round his neck for a joke, with the words "Cut round the dotted line." He broke his neck falling downstairs some years later.—Francis Huxley speaking on the BBC.

I know that our inheritance is held in store for us by Time. . . . I know there is a sea of Time to rise one day, before which all who wrong us or oppress us will be swept away like leaves. I see it, on the flowl—Charles Dickens

When all is done, human life is, at the greatest and the best, but like a forward child, that must be played with and humored a little to keep it quiet till it fails asleep, and the care is over.—Sir William Temple.

It is easier for a man to be loyal to his club than to his planet; the by-laws are shorter, and he is personally acquainted with the other members.—Elwyn Brooks White.

Why Are We So Afraid Of Russia?

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I don't know if you're getting as tired of the Russians as I am, but sometimes it seems as if every activity in America would stop unless we investigate it if we didn't have the "Russian Threat" to point to.

Why do we need more science in the schools? Look at Russia. Why should we keep our streets clean, avoid forest fires, have TB checkups, attend neighborhood meetings, buy a new car this year? All because of that menacing Union of Socialist Soviet Republics.

Didn't we get anything done before the Bolshevist threat appeared on the horizon 30 years ago? Are we so lacking in initiative, energy, imagination and civic zeal that every activity must be keyed to some warning that Russia will outstrip us, communize us, outschool us, outlive us?

Now comes a letter from Douglas MacArthur, Sprague, Ted Lill and Clare Counryman have returned to Kingston to continue their second year studies at Queen's University.

Causes of Amenorrhea Are Very Numerous

By Joseph C. Hinsie, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Would you comment on the condition called amenorrhea. — Mrs. L. F."

Amenorrhea, very simply, means absence of menstrual periods at any age at which they should be occurring.

There is a common notion that a lack of periods is harmful. This is not so — although, to be sure, amenorrhea does indicate that something may be wrong. The underlying cause may, or may not, be an indication of ill health.

Pregnancy, naturally, is a normal cause for absence of menstruation, and periods may be absent in the early months of nursing. But beyond these normal causes of amenorrhea, it is a wide and varied array of others.

In a young girl, amenorrhea may be due to some abnormality, perhaps some malformation of ovaries or uterus. And then, again, everything may be perfectly all right. It is not at all uncommon for periods to start at the usual age (from 13 to 15) and then stop for a few months, after which the human mechanism adjusts and everything becomes normal.

At menopause amenorrhea may occur from two to perhaps six months or so. It's part of the process of stopping.

Emotional disturbances can also affect regularity of periods. For a few of the many possible situations, girl friends may experience such upsets due to homesickness, worry about school or maybe over-spending their allowances before they get the next of budgeting. Shock or fright can be involved.

I've known of individuals who, otherwise in perfect health, had a natural cycle that left gaps of three or six months between periods. This is rare, but it happens, and I dare say that in such cases it was years into sufficiently careful studies, we would find some abnormality to account for the situation. But, after all, if the individual is in perfectly good health otherwise, why fuss?

Still another cause of amenorrhea is obesity. This isn't surprising, because obesity can result in many problems, both physical and emotional.

If no developmental defects are present in somewhere, exhaustion of the glandular stimulus is in order. Sometimes thyroid extract is needed. Again, what is called "cyclic therapy" is used. For this, hormones are given periodically. Often the cycle are re-established and it may carry on without additional treatment. In other instances, if a more profound pituitary or ovarian failure is at fault, this can be expected of treatment.

What do you want to drug-induced temporary weight reduction, or form of budgeting? Shock or fright can be involved.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

While sitting in the office of one of my cronies who is an advertising agency executive of high rank, I witnessed an interesting procedure.

His secretary came in the room shutting the door behind her.

"It's Mr. Whittle," she said. "Ah!" exclaimed my friend, "Switch 'em quick!"

The secretary hurried over to the wall and removed a framed photograph. She carried it over to an ornamental book case, the bottom drawer of which appeared to be stacked with framed pictures. Hastily sorting through them, she fished out, and replaced in the drawer, the one my cronies who is an advertising agency executive of high, rank, I witnessed an interesting procedure.

The secretary hurried over to the wall and removed a framed photograph. She carried it over to an ornamental book case, the bottom drawer of which appeared to be stacked with framed pictures. Hastily sorting through them, she fished out, and replaced in the drawer, the one she had taken down. Then she hung the new picture on the wall.

"Now him is," directed my friend.

Mr. J. W. Whittle, of the Whittle Pickle Corporation, one of Canada's large packers, about they call in the advertising business a shotgun account, came in a purchasing mentality. I was introduced and took my departure, having learned that I took note that the picture newly hung on the wall was one of Mr. Whittle, taking his place on the walls with the Queen, Mr. Diefenbaker and Sir Winston Churchill.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

SELF-MADE MEN

I used to greatly admire what many term the "self-made" man.

I now know that there are no self-made men. People are made by their fellows, by their circumstances and grasped opportunities.

Anything that is helpful, inspiring, interesting does something to make a man.

Everyone with whom we come in daily contact does something to make us what we are. We owe a debt of gratitude to every person living, to every book that grows, to every tree, to every rock, to every bird song and to the sum total of every individual merit without consideration of which no man can truly say Yonkers, Yalta or the Upper Yukon.

But every public speaker, every writer, every promoter of a cause feels he must frequently ask action by rattling the Russian skeleton over our bedsteads. I cannot believe that the rabid nationalism generated by this tactic is any better than the rabid nationalism provoked by the loudest ranting of "anti" Russian we try to be, the more like the Russian we become.

Let us begin to lead our lives individually and collectively for positive reasons, because virtue and wisdom point the way, and not because the Russians have done this or have not done that. Let us win the Olympic Games as an example of our fitness, not as a grim measure in the personal chess game of world politics.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

HERE THEY COME — The racing program held at the Tweed Fair as a part of the grandstand entertainment drew large crowds of spectators. Shown above is one of the heats with the horses just coming down to the finish wire in a very close race.

TWEED FAIR MIDWAY — Clement weather and large crowds were present at the Tweed Fair on Saturday. Above is a scene of the Midway which was well packed throughout the afternoon as crowds took their leisure.

STAGE STRUCK — Many people gathered to watch a very entertaining grandstand show at the Tweed Fair Saturday. Mostly local and district talent was featured with a good variety of bands, dancers, singers and fiddlers on hand. Good weather saw the grandstand well filled for the entire afternoon program.

PRES. PICKS THEM — Tweed Fair president Bill McCrae shows a fine eye (for horses, of course) as he puts a first in class ribbon upon the mount of pretty Miss Patsy McCormick of Madoc. Mr. McCrae said that he felt the 1961 fair had one of the finest entry lists of recent years with increased entries in the horse and cattle sections.

Exhibits and Attendance Up At Annual Fair at Tweed, Favored by Ideal Weather

There was a large increase of agricultural exhibits, horses and cattle, as well as attendance, said Bill McCrae, president of the Tweed Fair, Saturday afternoon.

Beautiful weather encountered on Saturday may have been a good reason for some of the district farmers to remain at home, but there was still a large number who halted work on their farms to attend the local fair. The Tweed 4-H Club and the South Hastings 4-H Tractor Club, held their big day on Saturday and there was an assortment of games for the kiddies.

One of the main features of any fair is the agricultural building with its excellent showing of exhibits, and Tweed Fair was no exception to the rule.

Local public school children were given an opportunity to display their school work and garden items, as did the various ladies' organizations.

Another main event at the fair was the midway with rides for all ages.

The Kiwanis Club of Tweed was responsible for the selling of tickets while the Rotary Club of Belleville sold and displayed their "ten gallon" plowing match hats.

Prominent figures present at the Tweed fair on Saturday were past president B. J. Hunt; president William (Bill) McCrea; first vice-president Wilbor Bateman; second vice-president Thomas Lynn and secretary-treasurer D. E. Spencer.

The well-known baby show was sponsored by the St. John Ambulance of Belleville.

City, District H-S Council Holds 'Workshop', Enjoys Supper

The members of the Belleville and District Home and School Council met in Quinte Secondary School last Thursday evening for a pot-luck supper followed by the general meeting in the form of a workshop for the Associations.

Grace was said by Mrs. Lane, the religious education chairman of King George School.

When coffee was served, Mrs. R. Jones thanked Mrs. M. Smith of Queen Alexandra, and her helpers, for their part in serving supper.

The members spent the next half hour browsing through the well organized and interesting display of publications and books.

The meeting was called to order at 8.00 p.m. with a welcome from the president, Mrs. B. Stenson.

Roll call showed that 14 schools of Belleville and district were represented.

Mrs. D. McDonald pointed out the many pamphlets and books dealing with the administration of Home and School work. She also drew attention to the books from the Corby Public Library and the Counties Memorial Library concerning the subject of programs. Those assisting her were Mrs. J. F. Fox, Mrs. E. Toulson and Miss Sharon McDonald.

COUNCIL MEETINGS

The council committee chairman of religious education, Mrs. G. Digby, announced that she would be asking the executive of the schools in the district to assist with the devotions at the council meetings.

In the absence of Mrs. A. Fort, chairman of the oral French survey committee, Mrs. R. Jones reported that the survey of the parents of elementary school children of Belleville concerning 'Oral French' showed that the majority wished to have oral French taught in the elementary schools.

The sessions for the workshop were led by members of the Belleville and District Council. When the group re-assembled, the reports were brought to the general meeting.

Mr. Pollard, reporting from the committee chairman session pointed out how essential the chairman was to Home and School and said that they must keep in contact with the Ontario Federation chairman.

The report from the executive members session was given by Mrs. Waddell, who said that the executive members should be people new to Home and School, because that is the training ground for future members of the executive.

Mrs. Best, reporting from the secretaries session, said that minutes are not legal unless they are kept in a bound notebook; that motions should be written in red ink; that a copy of all correspondence sent out should be kept on file.

The session for presidents and vice-presidents was reported by Mrs. L. Jousard. She mentioned that the president is responsible to her chairman in giving guidance; that the president must be in touch with all levels of Home and School work.

After the announcement of the Area "C" conference to be held in Oshawa on October 21, with the theme, "Emphasis on Education, the meeting was adjourned.

Wife Says New Leader's Only Hobby Is Golf

QUEBEC (CP) — Politics are the life, the career and the hobby of the newly - elected leader of Quebec's Union Nationale party, says Mrs. Daniel Johnson.

"Outside politics," she said in an interview after watching her husband elected, "he doesn't have any particular interests except for golf, which he plays once in a while, and music."

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson have been married 18 years and have four children.

Mrs. Johnson said women will have to wait another 10 years before being able to enter politics in Quebec.

"They must change the male mentality in these matters," she said, "and things like that always takes a while."

Besides the hours she devotes to her children — Daniel Jr., Pierre-Marc, Diane and Marie —Mrs. Johnson acts as assistant to Mrs. Jeannine Beaubien, director of La Fondiere Theatre in Montreal and a long-time friend.

She collects Canadian paintings, Eskimo art, blown glass and antique lamps. She also devotes part of her time to work for the Red Cross, the Canadian Cancer Society and the Heart Fund.

STOP THINKING

Man is often told "As far as religion is concerned, stop thinking! Our church has all the answers. There is no need for you to think. Simply believe."

If you have lost faith in religion because you insist on thinking for yourself, then you should know about the Unitarians.

In Unitarian Sunday Schools, children learn to reverence life, to appreciate the miracle of creative processes, to wonder about unknowns. They learn that as Unitarians they must think for themselves, form their own honest convictions, and be prepared to proclaim the truth as they see it.

ROLAND — KEEL

White carnations adorned the candlestalks and carnations the chancel steps and white satin bows the guest pews in St. Thomas' Anglican Church, Belleville, on Saturday, September 16th, at high noon, for a very lovely wedding, when Canon A.-S. McConnell, rector of the church, united in marriage Linda Mary Keel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Keel, of Rossmore, to Flying Officer Murray Cameron Roland, of Ridgeville, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Roland.

Mr. Donald Davenport, church organist, presided at the organ console and accompanied the choir of nine boys who sang for the processional, "Praise, My Soul, The King of Heaven," to the tune of "Westminster Abbey" by Purcell; the "Twenty-Third Psalm," during the signing of the register, and the "Trumpet Tune and Air," also by Purcell, for the recessional.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Ronald Keel, the radiant bride was lovely in her bridal gown of pure silk organza over taffeta, fashioned with molded bodice having a bewitching square neckline, and tiny sleeves. The waistline was accented by re-embroidered lace. The floor-length skirt ended into a chapel train. Her fingertip veil of illusion silk tulle in four bouffant tiers, was held by a regal crown accented with lace inserts delicately adorned with seed pearls and cut crystal bugle beads, and she carried a white prayer book crested with two purple-throated white orchids and stephanotis.

Her maid of honor, Miss Jean Muirhead, of Belleville, and the bridesmaids, Mrs. Wayne Muirhead, of Toronto, sister of the bride and Mrs. David Gee, of Kingston, were all gowned alike in deep turquoise gem peau de soie in sheath design, having petal shaped overskirts. They wore matching peau de soie headdresses and veils each centred by a single matching rose; matching satin shoes, and carried crescent-shaped bouquets of white feathered carnations.

The little flower girl, fouryearold Thoresa Etherington, of Toronto, godchild of the bride, was dainty in her short frock of white silk organza with turquoise gem cummerbund and floral headdress of white Snowdrift mums. She carried a basket of white Snowdrift 'mums, mingled with turquoise gem stephanotis.

Mr. Donald Hallett of St. Catharines, attended the bridegroom. Ushers were Mr. Wayne Muirhead and Lieutenant David Gee, of Kingston, were ushers.

The reception and luncheon were held on the spacious rear lawn of the Bayshore home of the bride's parents, where the guests were received by the bride's mother, who was gowned in a tailored peau de soie with matching hat and shoes. She wore a small corsage of yellow Sweetheart roses. Assisting was the brodegroom's mother, attired in dusty-blue silk with matching hat, and shoes. Her corsage was of deep pink Sweetheart roses.

Immediately following the ceremony, the happy couple left for Portage la Prairie, Manitoba, where they will reside. The bride travelled in a teal blue three-piece double-knit ensemble with black accessories, and corsage of white stephanotis.

Guests attending were from St. Catharines, Welland, Ridgeville, Toronto, Kingston, Picton, Hamilton, Belleville.

The bride, prior to her marriage, was entertained at showers and presentations: a linen shower at the summer home of Mrs. Kayt Knudsen of Rossmore, with Mrs. Clifford Ostrom as co-hostess; at a miscellaneous shower given by the bride's classmates of Belleville General Hospital School-of-Nursing, held at the home of Miss Jean Muirhead, with Miss Lorelie Greer as co-hostess; at a Kitchen shower at the home of Mrs. G. M. Davison, of Belleville R.R. 1, with Mrs. W. Anderson as co-hostess, and at a presentation of a purse of money and family Bibles from the Rockway congregation of Ridgeville, Ontario.

A rehearsal party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Muirhead, 6 Edward Street, Belleville, and a trousseau tea, in her honor, given by her mother at the Rossmore home.

TIPS FOR YOUNG JOB-SEEKERS

Being interviewed for a first job, fresh out of school, gives you a shaky feeling.

Other qualifications may be good, but you can't help wondering what other assets a prospective employer is looking for.

Well, as you walk into his office, you may be sure that initially he is rating you on appearance, personality and general manner. You background may be just what is required, but he still has to consider how you will fit in to the company's "family," and what sort of impression you will make on business contacts.

A pleasing personal appearance often helps clinch a job, so dress neatly for your first interview, and with as much distinction as you can muster. A trim suit or dress, with a hat and bag that tie well, shows good taste on your part. Gloves, of course, should be worn as you enter, then removed and folded in your lap when seated.

A good resume which you can present immediately always makes a good, businesslike second impression. Should be neatly typed, and organized so that whatever you can quickly grasp such pertinent details as shooting and whether you've had any former experience. Part-time jobs related to the one for which you're applying, while he's reading it, you'll have time to compose yourself for the oral interview.

When answering questions use a clear, firm voice, avoid being shrill and don't mumble. Answer all questions in full detail without embroidery, but without trying to sound like a shrinking violet, either. A good vocabulary impresses an interviewer, so try to make your answers interesting, without being stilted.

An alert, easy manner indicates both efficiency and poise to a prospective employer, who is always on the look-out for these virtues in an employee.

And be sure to emphasize what you can contribute to the job, rather than looking for your lack of practical experience. Everyone has to start some place, and in most cases that is this. After all, he himself once occupied a lower rung.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Esther Y. — A beard changed both his appearance and his personality.

Denis Y. — I can't help it if I've suddenly become so attractive.

Esther Y. — While on vacation last summer, my husband decided to grow a beard. Now he's so enamoured of himself I can hardly get a peek at myself in our mirror any more!

It's true it makes him look very attractive and distinguished. Unfortunately he looks that way to other women, too, not just me. And it has really gone to his head — the swelled part above the beard! He's taken to strolling down the Avenue with his 19-year-old niece, never with me. He imagines everyone is saying, "What a gorgeous couple!" when they behold the two of them.

I'm out of the running now. When I complain and want him to take a walk with me, he gets angry and invites two nieces along — one for each arm.

Denis Y. — Oh, can't Esther let me have a little fun? All of a sudden I can pass for a rakish devil (a V.I.P.). It's very flattering, a surprise that came with the beard.

I'm not serious with any other woman. But, let's face it, Esther is dumpy. She's about and at least 40 pounds overweight. It sounds conceited to say it, but she just doesn't "match" my new appearance. Instead of grumbling, accusing and suspecting me, why doesn't she get busy on her own appearance, so she and I can be a stunning couple?

Meanwhile, I get a kick out of promenading with glamorous women and making people wonder who we are.

The Council — Watch it, Denis. Today a niece, tomorrow two nieces, and then, a widow-boards-hostile?

It's hard for a married man to have his fun (that kind) and his wife, too. And the joke might not seem so funny to Denis if roles were reversed; that is, if Esther shaped herself into a dreamboat and refused to be seen with a barge like Denis — not while sleek luxury liners were tootling to be seen with her along the seaways!

Unless Esther can dredge up a king-size sense of humor, Denis had better try something less "physical" for laughs. It would be a rare wife who'd join in on the guffaws over a stunt that not only enclosed her, but underlines her "shortcomings."

Along with "better or worse," Denis, marriage is for the eternals rather than the externals. Through fat and thin whiskers and shaves, you and Esther are bound. Whatever you do must be guided by your resolve (and vow) to honor and enhance that joining. A mature married man can find his "kicks" elsewhere than on Zee Boulevard posing as a Marquis, or on the dance floor doing the Mambero La Zongo. The girl on his arm may contribute to the effect and be striking "scenery," but is she wife material? Usually she'll leave him flat and with more impressive beard comes along.

Of course Esther can do more than "puff along behind, bursting her "man of distinction." Perhaps she could surprise with the oohs and ahs and the compliments and bouquets heaped on Denis by his admirers since she too is numbered among them. Also, she can follow up Denis's idea (really a dare!) to work on her own looks and become the other half of that "Stunning couple" he yearns to be part of.

Root for her, Denis. That way, you'll keep your beard and keep your wife, too.

Relable Recipes With Hamburg

by Mary Moore

My secretary Eleanor says that everybody picks up a package of ground beef or hamburg meat when they do their weekly shopping and depend on it for Wednesday or Thursday's dinner. She made a dish last night that Bruce and her boys enjoyed, much to her delight.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

MONDAY

ELEANOR'S CONGLOMERATION:

Brown 1¼ pounds ground beef mixed with 2 tablespoons flour in pan in hot fat (margarine), stirring. Add 1 cup water. Add 3 large tomatoes peeled and chopped ¼ green pepper chopped, ¼ Spanish onion chopped, ½ cup chopped celery tops, 1 teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, shake of garlic salt, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, shake of accent. Cook gently, stirring frequently, for half an hour. Add about 2 cups uncooked macaroni elbows or broken spaghetti to 1 quart salted boiling water and cook until tender — about 10 minutes. Drain. Mix with meat sauce. Pass at table a bowl of grated old Cheddar cheese to sprinkle over. Eleanor served this with a tossed green salad of lettuce, cucumber, green onions, celery, lettuce, molybed with mayonnaise. Serves 5 or 6.

HARVEST HAMBURG CASSEROLE:

One pound ground beef, 2 green peppers sliced, 1 onion chopped, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine or oil, 2½ teaspoons salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, 2 cups raw or canned kernel corn, 2 large tomatoes peeled and sliced, 1 teaspoon sugar, ½ cup breadcrumbs, 1 tablespoon melted butter. Saute the green peppers and onion in the butter or margarine or oil until soft but not brown. Add the beef, salt and pepper. Brown lightly, stirring as it cooks. Put the corn in bottom of casserole. Cover with the sauteed beef, peppers and onion. Top with a layer of sliced tomatoes. Sprinkle the tomatoes with a little extra salt and pepper and the sugar. Toss the crumbs in the butter and sprinkle over top of casserole. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 40 minutes.

Successful Living

Unhappily in Love

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—I am in love with a wonderful man or thought I was. Trouble started when he came to work in the same place I was. He started to date my girl friends and then asked my good friend to go to a big dance. She refused and told me, but he denied it when I asked him. If he phones me for a date and I am busy I say no. He gets mad and doesn't believe I am telling the truth. The last time I heard from him was a month ago. I tried to date other men but it just wouldn't work out.

I am so much in love with him that I'll do anything to win him back. He is 23 and I am 19.—PENNY.

DEAR PENNY—He is eating his cake and having it too. Come out with other girls yet wants you at his beck and call when he takes the notion.

He has no intention of settling down. Don't cut yourself off from meeting other men or you may miss out on finding your own life partner.

You are in love with him? Take yourself in hand. Stop mooning around about a spoiled boy who hasn't grown up and begin getting to know young men around your own age.

DEAR DORIS:—I am Protestant and will soon be married to a Roman Catholic. Since we do not want our children raised Catholic we cannot be married in the Catholic Church.

Out of respect for the parents of my wife-to-be, we are thinking of being married in a community hall instead of a church, and by a magistrate or justice of the peace. Can we do this and still have a formal wedding?—SID.

DEAR SID:—A civil ceremony is sometimes a nice compromise in a mixed marriage, although, as you know, this is not recognized by the Roman Catholic Church. However, it depends on the official who performs the ceremony, or on provincial by-laws, whether he will do so outside his own office or chambers.

If he is so confined, your fiance could still wear a white wedding gown and veil, have attendants and a formal reception in quarters to accommodate a larger group after the ceremony.

CADILLAC FOR 1962—The 1962 Cadillacs are featuring several interesting engineering developments as well as the introduction of two new "short-deck" models, the Town Sedan and the Park Avenue Sedan, which are seven inches shorter back aft than any other new models.

The engineering features include a dual braking system which allows synchronized, independent systems for both the front and rear brakes. Thus in the event of failure by one of these systems there is still a braking system left on the other two wheels. The regular emergency, or parking, brake, is also provided.

Cornering lights, located at the sides of the regular headlamps, are a Cadillac engineering innovation. Operated by the turn signal lever when either headlights, parking lights or fog lights are turned on these lamps enable a driver to see his way into a turn beyond the normal range of his headlamps.

An unique tail light which normally looks white but changes color to suit whatever task it is called upon to perform—either as a back-up light, a tail light, a stoplight or a turn signal, is another 1962 feature.

Bombers Wallop Eskimos

Winnipeg Blue Bombers have settled a score with Edmonton Eskimos and in so doing, have set themselves up as the likely choice to represent the Western Football Conference in the Grey Cup game.

Just over a month ago, the Bombers were humiliated before their home fans when the Eskimos kicked them by 32 points, 56-24.

The Winnipegsts got that off their chest Saturday, walloping the first - place Eskimos 35-16 before 19,196 Edmonton fans. The victory not only hoisted the Bombers within one points of the Eskis, but the cave with which they won continued experts that Winnipeg is the team to beat for the league title.

In Saturday's other game, British Columbia Lions kept their winless record intact, losing 36-9 to the Stampeders before 15,000 Calgary fans.

The Calgary victory put the Stampeders in the favorite's role for the third and last playoff position.

Kenny Ploen went most of the way at quarterback and guided Winnipeg to three touchdowns before being forced out of the game in the third quarter with a shoulder injury.

Hal Ledyard took over and added another touchdown on a pass to end Farrell Funston, who had earlier taken a payoff pass from Ploen. Halfback Ray Jauch, fullback Charlie Shepard and end Ernie Pitts, on a pass from Leo Lewis, scored other Bombers touchdowns.

Gerry James kicked three converts.

The Edmonton points came on Howie Schumm's touchdown and a field goal and convert by Jackie Parker. Schumm was injured in the second half.

The Stampeders used a trick ground attack in the opening half to overwhelm B.C., which managed its nine points on three first - half field goals by Vic Kritsopalis.

Rookie halfback Ed Hosmanak, quarterback Eagle Day and halfback Earl Lunsford scored touchdowns by rushing for Calgary, which trailing 6-7 at the half. End Emie Wedeck picked off an end zone pass for the other Stampeders touchdown and George Hansen converted all four.

He commended the efforts of the club pro George Balazs for the outstanding condition of the greens during the season. "Members can be justly proud of them," he said.

Braves Get New Boss

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Milwaukee Braves Saturday announced the selection of a new president, promoting general manager John J. McHale who started in baseball 20 years ago as a farmhand player.

McHale, 40, succeeds Joseph F. Cairnes, who will become assistant chairman of the board. McHale will continue as general manager only for the transition period, he said.

The changes were announced at a press conference by Braves owner and board chairman Lou Perini of Framingham, Mass. Perini said he wants the Braves to have a resident president. For the last three years, Cairnes, 54, has been in West Palm Beach, Fla., directing a real estate development of Perini's construction company.

Perini said McHale would have full operating responsibility for the Braves, now struggling for a first division berth in the National League.

TALKATIVE PEOPLE

Canada's 1960 average of 530 telephone conversations per person was the highest in the world.

OLDSMOBILE FOR '62 — Face-lifting fore and aft and the introduction of hardtop roofline which closely parallels that of an actual soft top convertible highlight styling changes for the 1962 Oldsmobiles. The new models will be about two inches longer, although wheelbases will remain the same.

Engineeringwise the new models have some very worthwhile features in the form of factory-sealed lubrication units where previously open-end fittings were required to eliminate the need for periodic lubrication under normal operating conditions. Self-adjusting power brakes eliminate another normal maintenance chore and expense. A 10.25:1 compression ratio helps to achieve 280 horsepower in the Rocket engines and 330 horsepower from the Skyrocket motor.

Spahn Wins No. 20, Breaks Own Mark

Shuts Out Cubs 8-0

By JACK HAND

Milwaukee's Warren Spahn recorded his 20th victory of the season Sunday, the 12th time he has scaled 1 at peak, breaking his own major league record for left - handed pitchers.

The 40 - year - old National League marvel now has won 308 games in his career, tying him with Hoss Radbourne for 11th place up the all - time list. His 55 shutouts are tops for lefty.

Spahn left nothing to chance in his third bid for No. 20. He shut out Chicago 8-0 on two hits in the first game of a double-header and contributed two doubles and a single. The Cubs won the second game 4-2.

In the pennant race, Cincinnati Reds edged a step closer despite a 13-5 drubbing at the hands of San Francisco Giants. Because St. Louis beat Los Angeles 7-1, any combination of two Red victories or Dodger defeats will end it.

The Giants scored nine runs in the fourth inning, including a grand - slam homer by Orlando Reds' last home game. Cincinnati plays only four more, one at Chicago and three at Pittsburgh.

Los Angeles trailed 6-0 at one stage and just missed by one run in a ninth - inning rally. As it turned out the winning run was driven in by Stan Musial's pinch double in the seventh, which put the Cards out front 8-5. The Dodgers have six to play, all on the road with two each at Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Chicago.

Pittsburgh Pirates put together singles by Dick Groat, Don Clendenon, Dick Stuart and Bob Skinner to score two runs in the seventh for a 4-3 edge over Philadelphia Phillies.

ROBBIE CONNECTS

About the only thing Cincinnati had to cheer about, except the scoreboard showing Los Angeles' impending defeat, was a homer by Frank Robinson. It was his first since Aug. 26 and his 29th for the year. Jack Sanford was the Giants' winner with his-losing help.

Los Angeles scored five in the seventh, cutting the Cards' lead to 8-5 before St. Louis came up with two in its half of the seventh.

Musial drew an ovation with his pinch double off the right field wall. The Dodgers' final bid in the sixth produced two runs but fell short as Norm Larker grounded into a game-ending double play. Bob Gibson was the winner over Sandy Koufax.

Saturday, Cincinnati beat San Fran i s c o 10-4, Milwaukee downed Chicago 6-3, Los Angeles defeated St. Louis 8-5 and Philadelphia edged Pittsburgh 1-0 in a 16-inning affair.

Riders Trounce Argos

Larks Clobber Tiger-Cats 28-7

Score Was 6-5

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Eastern Football Conference underdogs showed unsuspected mid-season spunk during the weekend.

Montreal Alouettes who had managed only one victory and a tie in seven previous games, Saturday shattered the seven-game undefeated string of Hamilton Tiger-Cats with a 28-7 victory at Hamilton.

In Toronto Sunday, the Grey Cup champion Ottawa Rough Riders snapped back from a two-game losing streak and defeated the favored Toronto Argonauts 29-18.

The Hamilton game firmly established the Als as mid-season favorites for the Big Four, not only because they won two in a row after six winless starts, but because of the way they did it.

"They physically manhandled us," said Hamilton coach Jim Trimble.

MAKES MOST OF LEAKY

Although Montreal quarterback Gerry Thompkins fired but 10 passes—only three in the last half—he completed seven, including payoff pitches to Don Clark and George Dixon. Each halfback also had another touchdown.

Bill Bewley converted three of the four and Gino Berretta kicked a single to round out the upset that upset 25,281 Hamilton fans.

Quarterback Bernie Faloney scored Ticats' only touchdown, converted by Don Sutherin, near the midway mark of the second quarter after the Als had taken a 13-0 lead.

Quarterback Tobin Rote, who counted the only touchdown for the injury-plagued Argos, was hard-pressed by Ottawa's defense. They made him fumble twice and turned one into a touchdown.

Quarterback Russ Jackson, Gilles Archambault, and halfbacks Dave Thelen and Ron Stewart sparked the 18-members for Ottawa before 30,648 fans. Gary Kownacki kicked four converts and Jim Conroy punted 86 yards for a single.

Halfback Thelen converted Rote's touchdown and on the final play of the first half booted a 17-yard field goal.

Trudeaus Extend Finals

Trudeau Motors, scoring both their runs in the first inning, shaded Lightfoot Construction 2-1 at the CNRA Park yesterday afternoon in the fifth game of their Commercial Softball League finals.

Lightfoots hold a 3-2 lead in the evening-matched best-of-seven series. The sixth game is slated for the CNRA field on Tuesday night at six o'clock and if a seventh game is necessary it will be played Thursday.

An infield error and a base-on-balls set up Trudeau's runs in the bottom of the first yesterday. Bob Brooks lined a two-out single to centre, driving in one run, and the second scored when the throw from the outfield went wild over third base.

Lightfoots plated their scores tally in the sixth when Don Smith lined a single to centre and the ball got past the outfielder for a three-base error. Junior Day and Don Smith hooked up in another pitching duel over the seven inning route.

Day allowed four hits, struck out half a dozen and walked three. Smith gave up five hits, fanned two and walked three.

Larry Potter of Trudeaus was the only batter with two hits. John Casey, Bob Brooks and Frank "Shiner" Murray had the others.

For Lightfoots, Ralph Plane, Don Smith, Jack Garvin and Jack Canning each collected a single.

Each team left seven runners on base and both sides committed a pair of errors.

Trudeaus: Plata, Whiting, Casey, Wannamaker, Brooks, F. Murray, Baker, Potter, Day.

Umpires: "Shud" Elhier (P) and Tom Hulme.

Kingston Shades Kenmors

By PETER CARVER

Belated rallies failed to overcome an early foeman lead and the Belleville Kenmors went down to a 8-5 defeat yesterday at Kingston.

The victory spurred the eastern Ontario junior "A" major finals at one game each. The third game of the best of three series will be played in Kingston next Sunday.

The Limestone City youngsters held a commanding 6-0 lead before the Kenmors struck back for a pair of runs in the sixth innings, they added three more in the seventh to come within striking distance but were blanked over the rest of the route.

Joe Kolowicz started on the hill for Kingston and gave up all five runs off eight hits. He fanned six and walked three. Brad Aylesworth took over in the seventh and choked off the Bellevillle bid for victory.

Bill Latchford started on the mound for the Kenmors but was chased in the third inning after being slicked for five runs off four hits. Larry Soden took over and held Kingston to a single run off three clouts. They whiffed six and walked eight between them.

The winners took a one-run lead in the first innings off a walk, two passed balls and Anderson's single.

They blew the game wide open in the second, shoving four runners across the plate. McConnell walked, Fraser singled, and Kolowicz got aboard when Fraser was thrown out. Earl hit a towering three-run homer. O'Donnell reached first on an error and scored later on a stolen base and Carty's single.

Kingston added their sixth run on a hit, an error, and two walks in the fourth.

Goyer smashed out a single in the sixth for the Kenmors and grabbed home on Moe Hunter's home-run blast to deep centre.

Soule and Latchford walked in the ninth and Fraser raising home on Goyer's single. Hunter's second hit of the game sent Goyer and Latchford across the plate to bring the Kenmors within striking distance and send Kolowicz to the showers.

Hunter paced the Kenmors with his homer and a single. Goyer had two singles with Larry Soden clouting a double and single. Moons and Duguid each had singles.

Earl had a homer and single to lead the winners at the plate.

The teams:

Kenmors: Goyer, Hunter, Mavety, Moons, Soden, Weston, Duguid, Clapp, Soule, Latchford, Clarke.

Kingston: Earl, O'Donnell, Anderson, Carty, Mercer, McCue, McConnell, Fraser, Taylor, Kolowicz, Aylesworth.

Mantle Hits No. 54

Donovan Could Be Hurler Of Season

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Staff Writer

Dick Donovan, a "reject" tossed into the talent pool by Chicago White Sox when the American League expanded to 10 clubs last winter, shaped up as one of the best baseball stories of the year.

The veteran right-hander, drafted by Washington Senators for $75,000, practically clinched the league's earned run title Sunday when he pitched a one-hitter against Minnesota Twins for a 4-1 victory. The only hit was a home run by Joe Altobelli with no man out in the seventh inning.

Unofficial pitching averages show Donovan has an earned run mark in 2.32. The nine innings against the Twins gave him 163 for three on, one over the revised required minimum (one inning for every game scheduled). Dick Arroyo of New York Yankees with 2.53 and Milt Pappas of Baltimore Orioles have lower averages but they can't qualify on innings pitched.

Considering that Donovan lost his first 5 decisions of the year and missed almost two months with various ailments, his 10-8 won-lost record is a league-club comes under the heading of miracles.

MANTLE HITLESS

Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle failed to connect for a home run in Boston, where Maris settled for a single and Mantle went hitless as the Yankees lost 3-1 to the Red Sox and 29th Mon. bouquetless.

But Mantle got one round-tripper Saturday, His 54th of the season, as the Yankees beat the Red Sox 8-2.

Maris still one short of Babe Ruth's total of 60, has five more games to play in the 162 game schedule. All are in the home, two with Baltimore and three with Boston. Mantle has been in and out of the lineup recently, suffering from a bad cold.

Baltimore clinched third place victory over Chicago after the White Sox took the opener 8-7.

Detroit Tigers topped Los Angeles Angels 7-5 in 10 innings when Lou Ilark, whose eighth-inning pinch homer tied the score, dropped a fly ball for a two-run error. The victory assured the Tigers of no worse than a tie for second place in the final standings. Cleveland at Kansas City was rained out in 7th second inning.

SPLIT DOUBLEHEADER

Washington and Minnesota split a doubleheader Saturday. The Senators won the opener 6-4 and were behind 10-0 in the nightcap. Detroit beat Los Angeles 4-2 and Cleveland defeated Kansas City 9-3. Baltimore at Chicago was rained out.

Before Altobelli hit his home run in the Twins' stadium Sunday only three men had reached base against Donovan, two on walks and one on an error. Only one man had hit the ball out of the infield. Following the homer, Donovan retired the last eight men he faced. Jim Kaat was the loser.

GIVES CROWD THRILL

The only Yankee run in Boston came on Bill Skowron's 28th homer of the season. Maris gave the crowd of 30,922 a thrill when he fired a foul into the fifth backed a five-run first inning in the first game. Ralph Houk, with ninth - inning help from Wilhelm, won the second game, in which Minnie Minoso hit his 14th homer.

Loser Art Fowler retired the first two Tigers in the 10th inning before he walked Norm Cash and Gates Brown. Whitey Ford hit a short fly to right. Steve Hamilton conveyed to Rocky Bridges, Lee Thomas and Ron. Hunt had the ball in his glove but dropped it. Howe Koplitz was the winner.

The Training Camps

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chicago Black Hawks have finally hit the winning stride that earned them the Stanley Cup last year, taking a pair of exhibition games during the weekend that ended a pre-season hiatus.

Sunday they blanked Hull-Ottawa Canadiens, defending champions in the Eastern Professional League, 3-0 at Hull. Eye cuts suffered in separate mishaps by Hawks defenceman Pierre Pilote and Canadiens Claude Provost each required five stitches.

Saturday, the Hawks defeated Toronto Maple Leafs 4-1 for their first exhibition win after a tie and two losses.

At Fort William Sunday night, Detroit Red Wings, minus injured goal records, were and left winger Norm Ullman, defeated Edmonton Flyers, their Western League farm club, 4-2.

The game was the first in a 12 - day Western Canadian tour. Howe, hurt in an exhibition game Friday night in St. Thomas, and Ullman, with a knee injury, did not make the trip.

Other exhibition action Saturday saw Springfield Indians, last season's American League champs, stop New York Rangers 4-3 at Port Colborne while Boston Bruins walloped North Bay Trappers of the NPHL 7-1 at North Bay.

The Hawks were short centres Bronco Horvath and Stan Mikita, both recovering from minor injuries. Leafs' injured list included Bert Olmstead, Larry Hillman, Bobby Baun and Dave Keon.

At Port Colborne, Rangers goalie Lorne (Gump) Worsley, who saved New York from a drubbing on several occasions, was struck on the head by the puck in the game's final minutes but finished out the play after treatment by the trainer. Rangers playing coach Doug Harvey did not dress for the game.

Goalie Hank Bassen and defenceman Gerry Odrowski signed Detroit contracts in time to leave on their tour, but 32-year - old Fleming Mackell, formerly with Boston, was not at the tryout. Mackell plans to return to Montreal and said his future plans are vague.

Centre Len Lunde, with Detroit the last three years, has signed to play with Edmonton.

In Victoria, where Montreal Canadiens are training, star left winger Dickie Moore was mildly treatened for an injured knee after he collided against the boards with Ralph Backstrom. During a workout Saturday, Coach Toe Blake said the injury didn't appear serious.

The Canadiens sent goalie Charlie Hodge to Quebec of the American League and the rookie line of Terry Harper, Bill Carter and John Almond to Hull-Ottawa.

Bisons Win Opener 'Stampede'

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Buffalo shortstop Bob Sadowski holds two junior world series hitting records today and the Bisons are off to a 1-0 lead in their best-of-seven struggle with the Louisville Colonels of the American Association.

Sadowski rocketed two home runs, good for five runs, in the Bisons' wild nine-run first inning of Sunday's 13-6 stampede. The batters and the Kitts set inning records for the series.

Buffalo's nine runs also established an inning record.

The 23 - hit Buffalo attack showed the power that brought the International League playoff champions their quick victories over Charleston and Rochester en route to the minor league world series.

Jim Frey and Tony Curry each belted one out of the park for the Bisons, while International League batting champion Ted Savage connected for five hits. Felix Torres and Cal Neeman had four hits each.

The starter was four was Louisville lefty Denny Lemaster, who found himself two runs down after his first five pitches.

Louisville will go with right-hander Moe Drabowsky tonight against Buffalo's Bill Smith, a lefty. The third game will be played here Tuesday before the clubs move to Louisville.

The Colonels won the junior series last year, dumping the Toronto Maple Leafs in six games.

First Lacrosse Shutout

VANCOUVER (CP) — Don Hamilton, 34, who has had two brief trials as a professional hockey goalender, owns the first shutout ever posted in a Canadian senior lacrosse final.

Hamilton did it by stopping 52 shots as Vancouver Carlings trounced Brampton Ramblers 13-0 before 800 fans Saturday night to take a 3-0 lead in the best - of - seven Canadian final.

It was the first shutout since the Mann Cup was put up for challenge competition in 1910 and the first since eastern and western teams began an annual series for the $2,500 trophy in 1925.

Big TV Battle for Saturday Night Audiences Started

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — The big television battle of the season — the CBS-NBC fight for the Saturday - night audiences — has started.

CBS still has its hopes pinned on the two quick - draw horses of the humorous Old West, Marshal Dillon and Paladin, the former champion of the last five or six seasons.

On Saturday night, underdog NBC moved its most important but untried weapon into the late evening lineup, the first of a series of full - length feature movies with big star names. The first two-hour film was a 1953 comedy, How to Marry a Millionaire, and the most important thing about the show was that Marilyn Monroe was in it. Next weekend the earlier part of NBC's evening will be revised, with the new expanded hour-long Tales of Wells Fargo opening the evening, followed by another western, The Tall Man. The idea, obviously, is to give the western fans their chance to fill up on gunplay early and then settle down to a nice long movie on NBC.

TRIES TO STRENGTHEN

Meanwhile, CBS is trying to strengthen its lineup by making some changes—a rather dangerous procedure when things have been working out so well. It will kick off Saturday night with Perry Mason, but now it is followed by the new Defenders. Then comes the popular Have Gun, Will Travel, and new hour-long Gunsmoke.

A lot of money is involved in this two-way situation with the third network, ABC, more or less on the sidelines. As one viewer who can take westerns or leave them alone, I hope that some of the coming NBC movies show a little more class and substance than How to Marry a Millionaire, which shows its age.

Detroit Shades Colts 16-15

NEW YORK (AP) — Detroit Lions have taken up where they left off last year as the hottest team in the National Football League. Their defensive skill deserves plenty of credit.

The Lions, who won seven of their last nine games in 1960, hold the top spot of the western conference with a 2-0 won-lost record after stifling Baltimore Colts' high-powered offence 16-15 Sunday.

In the season opener a week ago, the Lions beat Green Bay Packers 17-13 and now have won seven straight games since last season.

The defending champion Philadelphia Eagles and Dallas Cowboys share the lead in the eastern division. The Eagles had to scrape to get by Washington Redskins 14-7 Sunday. Dallas defeated Minnesota Vikings 37-7.

In other eastern games Sunday, New York Giants defeated Pittsburgh Steelers 35-14 and Cleveland Browns came from behind to beat St. Louis Cardinals 20-27 despite two 100-yard passes by sore - armed Sam Etcheverry, former 1961 quarterback with Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four Union.

Green Bay Packers picked up a 30-10 victory over San Francisco 49ers in the western division Sunday. Chicago Bears beat Los Angeles Rams 21-17 Saturday night.

Hastings Wins Minto Cup

PORT CREDIT (CP) — The Minto Cup, silver symbol of the Canadian junior lacrosse championship, is back in Eastern Canada today following a bitter, brawling playoff.

Hastings Legionnaires took the best - of - seven series 4-2 from Burnaby Nortonres, winning 7-4 Saturday night. The cup was won last year by the New Westminster, B.C., Salmonbellies.

The opening game, which Burnaby won, was studded with fist fights. Attempts by both coaches said they didn't think much of their opposition.

Pen State Defeats Navy 20-10

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A couple of mild upsets, a couple of good scares for favored teams, and a show of impressive power by several teams marked the first major meetings Saturday on the college football program.

Among the favored elevens which emerged on top after having their troubles were Wisconsin, a Big Ten power, which barely took a 7-0 victory over Utah on a sloppy field, and Penn State, which surged to a 20-10 triumph over Navy.

In the mild upset category were Iowa State's 14-7 decision over Oklahoma State in a Big Eight game, and Wyoming's 15-14 victory over North Carolina State.

Alabama, known to be tough, more than lived up to expectations in whipping Georgia 24-6, and Missouri, a Big Eight stalwart, rolled over Washington State 26-6.

Two long streaks were snapped. Virginia, which had failed to win in its 26 previous starts, finally crushed through with a 21-6 victory over William and Mary, and Stanford, with a 11-game losing string, defeated Tulane in a squeaker 9-7.

Another major games Texas rolled over California 28-3; Army showed greater potentiality in defeating Richmond 34-6; Kansas City upset favored Indiana 14-6; Florida downed and too much speed and defence for Arkansas 18-6.

KIDS, KIDS, KIDS—Last Saturday was Kids' Day on the annual calendar of Kiwanis International events and some 2,000 local kids were in noisy and bustling attendance for the theatre and coke party held at the Belle Theatre. Shown above is a portion of the crowd as they lined up for their refreshments.

Bigger Attendance, Exhibits Favored by Ideal Weather Make Picton Fair Success

PICTON — Three days of warm, sunny weather favored Prince Edward County Fair held at Picton, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The attendance was up slightly over the previous year though the weather brought on the last of the tomato crop and started apples picking earlier, so that many in the rural areas were unable to attend during the days. However, the night crowds were larger than usual and a total attendance of 21,432 was recorded.

Directors usually listen for comments of visitors and this year seem to be in accord in their decision that it was "a good fair". Visitors from a distance were quick to express admiration for the displays in the County Agricultural Centre, this 220 by 100 foot building being filled with more than nine thousand exhibits. Flowers, fruit, vegetables made a colorful garden like display while interest was added by several thousand exhibits by County schools, ladies' work, woodwork and other classes. Outstanding were tomato and fruit displays which held special colorful settings and also showed how these products could be used. Flowers and plants in a rail fence enclosure were like a garden.

The horse barns saw 376 animals, including 97 pooled. There was an excellent display of poultry with many natural and pigeons of special interest.

In the display of home baking, there were 98 pies, 47 cakes as well as miscellaneous other items.

Though traffic was dense, police report no serious accidents. They report that no complaints were received in connection with the excellent Green's midway.

Opening day parade with 2,000 children taking part in the parade. Colorful banners, many children in costume, Picton Odd Fellows band and 33rd RCAF band brought thousands along the route. One school had pupils carrying a large canvas, many being dressed as coppers with Chief Constable, in costume in the prow of the canoe. Many other clever ideas were carried out by a number of schools.

OPENED BY WARDEN

The Fair was officially opened by County Warden Harmon Montgomery who had words of praise for the hard-working Fair Board members and he stressed the value of Fairs and the work of the local Society. Mayor H. J. McFarland urged teachers to teach the value of democracy and freedom, and he presented each of the children with a ticket good for a midway ride. President Creighton Lockyer extended a welcome and thanked Inspector H. L. Knight and teachers for their co-operation.

The Junior Farmers' competitions were held the first afternoon with 85 calves shown. The juniors also had a bulding filled with exhibits.

Saturday night, more than 500 people gathered in the grandstand to enjoy the show by Doc Williams of Wheeling, West Virginia. There were also several colorful horse classes with fun being provided by potato races and musical chairs by pony riders.

Friday's black and white day saw 100 district lodged by J. McCagie of Alliston. In the evening the Americana Dare Devils car show saw 1,382 paid admissions to the grandstand, with as many seeing it "for free". One act saw a motorcycle rider go through a sheet of burning gasoline on the track. The heat was so great one couple suffered minor burns.

Saturday afternoon, the horse races, horse show and jumping events again filled the grandstand and thrills was the only cool spot in the 88 degree temperature. The races saw driving finishes.

Most popular show ever to visit Picton is the Doc Williams' group, well known radio entertainers. A total of 1,086 people filled the County Centre Saturday night, for a rousing show and dance, even though a similar event by the group was held here only a few weeks ago.

Though directors were weary Saturday night, they were happy, confident that the Fair had served its purpose and again proved a success.

GOOD RACING

Driving finishes featured the horse races at the County Fair at Picton on Saturday. They were excellent races, said C.H. Wreikfield, GC, race chairman. A capacity crowd in the grandstand showed interest in this sport in still high.

In the 2.25 class, both heats were won by Dominion K. McDuff, K. Kayes, Gananoque. There was a battle for second place. Capt. Race, P. J. Adair, Gananoque, finished 3-3, and Mills, Picton, Tarbox, Jamestown, Holland, Picton, 3-3. J. L. Mann, Pall Stewart, Belleville, finished 4-4 and Scott III, R. Lucas, Belleville, 5-5. Times, 2.32, 2.32.

In the 2.20 class, both heats were won by Judge Moore, driven by Albert Dafoe, Trenton, who was given keen competition by Rosedale McDuff, driven by Sam Knapp of Sebastopol's Bay. Ken Kayes finished with Georgie Dr. H. Wellbanks, 3-5 with Buddy C. Abbey; J. R. Hampton, Gananoque, 4-4 with Debbie Lee Gration; P. J. Adair, Gananoque, 6-6 with Edgewood George. Times 2.14.7, 2.15.7.

ASKS PROBE

CAIRO (Reuters) — President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic Sunday called for careful investigation of what he called the "suspicious circumstances" of the death of United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold. He compared it to the assassination of Swedish count Folke Bernadotte, murdered in Jerusalem in 1948 while acting as UN mediator in Palestine.

two per cent of the world's population now lives under such rule.

The U.S. intends to be a participant and not merely an observer in the movement of nations from colonial to equal status, Kennedy said. He added, referring directly to the Soviet Union, that "there is no ignoring the fact that the life of self-determination has not reached the Communist empire . . ."

He added: "Let us debate colonialism in full — and apply the principle of free choice and the practice of free peoples in every part of the globe."

Kennedy said the U.S. program for disarmament would proceed through balanced a a d safeguarded stages designed to prevent one country from gaining military advantage over another.

"It would place the final responsibility for enforcement and control where it belongs — not with the big powers alone, not with one's adversary or one's self — but in an international organization within the framework of the United Nations itself."

He announced that the program would provide for true inspection, which he called an indispensable condition of disarmament. Inspection would also be incorporated in stages to halt ultimately production as well as testing of weapons. It would also halt transfer as well as possession of such weapons.

Under the eye of an international disarmament organization, Kennedy said, the program would provide a steady reduction in nuclear and conventional forces "until it has abolished all armies and all weapons except those needed for internal order and a new United Nations peace force."

Kennedy proposed a prompt resumption of disarmament negotiations which would continue "without interruption until complete and general disarmament has not only been agreed upon but actually achieved.

BLAMES BRITAIN

NEW YORK (AP) — Admiral Arthur W. Radford, retired, former chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, says the United States should quit the United Nations if Red China is admitted. Writing in the October issue of Reader's Digest, Radford said the British would be among those at fault if Red China gains admission, because the British "hoped to save properties there and to continue lucrative commerce."

peared to pale into insignificance. In the last 90 minutes of the Saturday session they spread through a long list of government spending estimates with about the same amount of debate imaginable.

The speed pressed the government's House leader, Veterans Minister Churchill—himself dazzled at the rapidity with which his own departmental estimates went through—to issue a taildown—to speculate that Parliament, now working on his longest session in history, may be prorogued Tuesday night.

There was little doubt about the intent of Mr. Diefenbaker's speech later in the day. He said openly the government has been having difficulty convincing people that they should build basement shelters. He added:

"What we are trying to do represents the considered opinion not only of the government but of all the officials and also of experts in other countries who have been consulted regarding the course we should take."

He was asked about public shelters, especially for the 15 target cities—Calgary, Edmonton, Halifax, Hamilton, London, Ont., Montreal, Niagara Falls, Ottawa, Quebec City, St. John's, Sask., Saint John, N.B., Toronto, Windsor, Winnipeg, Vancouver and Victoria.

The cost would be fabulous, Mr. Diefenbaker said. It would provide shelter for 12,000,000 to 6,000,000 people. He added that "it's up to them. . . to involve themselves in the prime minister's position."

"If we proceed with such a policy costing at least $1,000,000,000—that's several billions—and war does not come, we will then be subject to wide, bitter criticism from the incredulous."

"We have been inclined to take the stand that this is one risk we have to take, that our policies will be the best way of as many Canadians as possible and to see that saving those lives shall not be based on the possession or lack of possession of money but on the necessary wherewithal to protect themselves."

No government has solved this problem, Mr. Diefenbaker said. He noted that if anyone is right under a nuclear bomb "there is nothing that can be done." Further away, blast-proof shelters might be of some help but they are breathtakingly expensive.

What about school children? someone asked. Should they be built in schools?

Mr. Diefenbaker replied that authorities say only 30 per cent of the day in school. The rest of the time they are at or near home — therefore the priority should be on building home fall-out shelters.

If a nuclear attack should coincide with school hours, he said, the Canadian Army will have time to get home "having regard to what may be expected as the normal warning time."

Mr. Diefenbaker informed the House that a national civil defence force working with as many Canadians as possible participating, will be held Nov. 13, extending to Nov. 16 as far as participation by governments is concerned.

This would be a follow-up to Exercise Tocsin I, held in 1959, involving the emergency evacuation of high-government, military and civilian personnel from Ottawa to Camp Petawawa, Ont. Shortcomings in emergency plans, disclosed by the earlier exercise, had since been remedied.

Harold Winch, (CCN—Vancouver East) criticized Tocsin I, he was one of two opposition members invited by the government to take part in the exercise as observers.

Mr. Winch said he assumed that any exercise which planned to launch a nuclear attack against Canada would have an interest placed in strategic positions in advance of the attack. Yet there was no security check of those being evacuated.

There was no communication on the train carrying the officials away from Ottawa, so the government was completely out of touch" with what was happening across Canada.

He had written to all the provincial premiers asking that their governments participate in the November exercise and that they encourage the municipalities to do likewise.

Near the beginning of his remarks, Mr. Diefenbaker said he could not conceive of any national leader— "whether it be Khrushchev or somebody else" —who knows the potentialities of

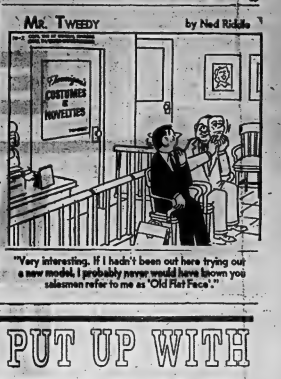
Stan McMullin New P.M. of Student Body

With the possibility of a federal election being called in the near future there might be something ominous in the fact that at Quin's Secondary School's parliamentary election held this past Friday one party won by a landslide.



The "Q" Party won 21 of the 23 seats available with their opposition, the Kaudu Party, winning in but two constituencies despite an all-out and vigorous campaign which was highlighted by two assemblies in which the candidates in the field had a chance to put their views before the school's electorate. In the first of these two assemblies was held in the mould of an American presidential campaign.

Stan McMullin, leader of the "Q" Party and Leslie Secondary's new Prime Minister, will have a strong opposition in opposition leader Bill Buddle, minister without portfolio; Bruce Jarvah, minister of publicity; Marilyn Picard, minister of social affairs; Diane Davis, minister of finance.

The opening session of the student parliament will be held this Wednesday morning with governor-general Leslie Reid, principal of QSS, making the speech from the throne. It is at this time that the electorate will find out what election campaign promises are to be kept.

Gromyko's Reply To Kennedy Plan Awaited In UN

Nuclear Arms Control Sought in First Stage

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — President Kennedy's call for a "truce to terror" was expected to get an answer from Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko today.

Gromyko, addressing a late-afternoon session (about 4:00 p.m. EDT) of the United Nations General Assembly, had a chance to reply to the American president's proposals for new negotiations on disarmament and Berlin, settlement of the crisis in the UN itself and other cold war issues.

Kennedy's challenge to the Soviets to join in a race for peace lacking in full disarmament made no visible imprint on the Communist - bloc members who sat silently while the rest of the hall applauded his Monday speech.

Gromyko's first reaction was non-committal. Talking with reporters outside the Soviet UN Mission on Park Avenue Monday night, he was asked if he saw any hopeful signs in the speech.

"It would not go so far," he said, "I want to study it more thoroughly."

He repeated Moscow's announced intention to sign a separate peace treaty with Communist East Germany, adding that some aspects of the speech "do not meet our objectives in guarding the inviolability of the frontiers on Germany."

Western diplomats and many neutrals were impressed by Kennedy's broad new disarmament proposal to freeze nuclear weapons production and stockpiles as soon as controls can be organized.

They also were impressed by Kennedy's overtures for a Berlin settlement coupled with his warning that if Russia tries to take over the divided city, the United States stands ready to use nuclear weapons.

Speaking for the first time to the 99-country world body, Kennedy made his major topic the same as that of Soviet Premier Khrushchev in his first UN speech Sept. 18, 1959, when he called for total disarmament within four years.

Since then no lasting disarmament whatever has taken place and instead the world is facing difficulties that prompted Kennedy to declare:

"The events and decisions of the next 10 months may well decide the fate of men for the next 10,000 years."

Kennedy introduced a formula of disarmament which he said would enable a prompt resumption of the East-West negotiations that collapsed in Geneva in June, 1960.

The six-point, three-stage formula covers far more than the first stage than had hitherto been offered by the West, informants said.

A Canadian spokesman said the main points that should make the proposals attractive to the Soviet Union are: Restrictions on the means of delivery—rockets and far - range bomber; planes — of atomic bombs; restrictions against the further dissemination of atomic weapons; atomic countries couldn't share their lethal weapons with non-atomic; and the "confusion negotiations" offered by Kennedy.

Kennedy hit hard at the Russian "trojka" plan for replacing the secretary-general's post with three men — yet to sending the

DRIVE TO WIND UP MARATHON SESSION HALTED

Opposition Pounces On Railway Bill

OTTAWA (CP) — The drive to wind up the two-month session of Parliament ground to a halt Monday night when opposition critics pounced on the government's Pine Point railway bill.

Liberal and CCF MPs hammered for 2½ hours in the Commons at one central issue — the $86,500,000 proposal for a 256 - mile rail line to Great Slave Lake too big a risk for the Canadian taxpayer?

Transport Minister Balcer argued that the line is vital to the development of a large section of Northern Canada. He admitted it involves a "calculated risk" but declared he is confident "that the future will show the government was right in moving before the future is ripe for the money to build such a development railway."

Opposition spokesmen, who have supported the principle of the bill, came down hard on the agreement under which the Hon Co. will be financed.

The bill authorized the public body - owned CNR to put up a $35,000,000 share of the line which would extend from Hay River, Alta., to Hay River on Great Slave Lake in the Northwest Territories, a branch of the Great Slave Lake Railway Company. Pine Point Mines Limited, a lead-zinc property north of Hay River.

PROVIDES PAYDIRTS

A draft agreement provides that Pine Point — a subsidiary of Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company — would provide certain payments to the railway, based on two formulae.

One would be a guarantee of $7.50 a ton on concentrates up to 315,000 tons a year for the first 10 years of the operation. A second involves payment up to a maximum of $2,000,000 a year for 20 years based on ore values.

Lionel Chevrier, a former Liberal transport minister, said the bill would probably have built the railway under such an agreement.

He said the project does not contain sufficient guarantees to protect the huge investment involved.

Harold Winch (CCF — Vancouver East) questioned why the privately - owned CPR, which controls Consolidated through it the Pine Point mine, hadn't built the line itself. "It appears to me that the people of Canada now being asked to subsidize the CPR."

Mr. Balcer contended the CNR will be able to show a surplus on the line's operation which would help reduce the CNR deficit and thus benefit the taxpayers.

SAY RISE TOO GREAT

J. W. Pickersgill (L — Bonavista - Twillingate) charged that the estimates on which the agreement is based on the project are based on "Alice-in-Wonderland economics" which

Sicily, Riviera Robberies Continue World-Wide Rash of Art Thefts

CP from Reuters-AP

PALERMO, Sicily — The unprecedented world-wide rash of art and jewel thefts in recent days has shown no letup with the disclosure of two new robberies involving probably more than $1,000,000 worth of jewelry and paintings.

Twenty-three paintings and other art objects valued by police at $320,000 were stolen during the weekend from a villa here, police said today.

Masked gunmen pulled off the largest jewel robbery of the summer Monday on the French Riviera. Estimates of the loot ranged from $500,000 to $1,000,000 — more than twice that.

Three of the robbers, dressed in blue jeans and wearing scarves across their faces, smashed a jewelry shop opposite the Monte Carlo casino in the afternoon, when most residents of the neighborhood still were fast asleep. They forced an elderly saleswoman to the only bit in the store—to lie on the floor in the back and began scooping jewels into bags.

The store manager said the value of the stolen gems could be as much as $1,000,000 and added that only half the loss is insured. Police put the loss at $500,000.

The paintings stolen here included three old masters attributed to Titian, Van Dyck and Tintoretto.

"The thieves must have been connoisseurs," a police spokesman said. They left the pictures out, of their frames, leaving behind only the gilt on the walls.

The police official said the owner was wealthy Baron Gerard Berliet de Bonnecorse.

The theft was the latest in a series in Europe this year in which millions of dollars worth of art masterpieces have been spirited away.

During the summer alone more than $1,000,000 in jewelry from art and money have been stolen from wealthy visitors to Riviera resorts, hotels and firms catering to them.

RUSSIANS HEAR KENNEDY SPEAK — Members of the Russian delegation looked like they were paying close attention to U.N. General Assembly at United Nations in New York Monday. Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko leaned back in his seat, UN Ambassador Valerian Zorin looked down at some papers and V. S. Semenov, deputy minister for foreign affairs, cradled his head in his hands. Allies Praise Kennedy Talk, Await Reaction of Neutrals

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

President Kennedy's United Nations speech drew warm praise today from friends and allies. First Communist reaction was hostile.

Returns were awaited from the non - aligned nations, who were cast in a vital role by Kennedy. He appealed to them to help the new UN for working for a strong secretary-general and to participate in disarmament.

The first significant neutralist comment came from Cambodia's Norodom Sihanouk, chief of state of Cambodia. He visited Kennedy at his New York hotel and said that Cambodia adopts the same position toward disarmament as Kennedy. "With control," Sihanouk stressed.

Moscow radio and the Soviet news agency Tass reported without comment that the president had addressed the General Assembly and "dwelt on the activity of the UN, the question of disarmament, the so-called Berlin problem and the question of colonialism."

The East German news agency added that "the spoke of U.S. willingness to negotiate without submitting any concrete proposals."

Chinese Communist reaction appeared in the Ta Kung Pao of Hong Kong, a Red Chinese paper which follows Peking's line. It accused Kennedy of mouthing

Outline of Possible Pact To End Berlin Crisis Seen

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—The rough outline of a possible East - West agreement to end the Berlin crisis is beginning to appear in official statements heralding President Kennedy's speech to the United Nations.

What is highly uncertain is whether any concessions Russia can be worked out to Western diplomatic tallies now under way with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. The talks could produce accord in the next few days if Soviet Premier Khrushchev is ready to ease the tensions over Berlin a bit, if he is not, the current efforts of U.N. State Secretary Dean Rusk and Foreign Secretary Lord Home of Britain will end in failure.

Experts Take Grim View Of British Financial Position

LONDON (CP)—Now that the financial commentators have had time to think things over, they are taking a grim view of Britain's economic outlook.

Two recent events have had a seismic-action impact on the meeting of Commonwealth finance ministers in Accra and the International Monetary Fund conference in Vienna.

The first is regarded as having resulted in a Commonwealth coalition against British entry into the European Economic Community. Any complacency in London has been exploded by the strength of feeling within the "club."

"The Accra communique represents, for the first time, a deliberate attempt to sabotage Britain's entry altogether," writes Nigel Lawson in the London Sunday Telegraph.

Coupled with this rueful reaction is an unfriendly examination of the Canadian position.

Lawson, for instance, says the Canadian Finance Minister Fleming, a "politician to his fingertips," is well aware of the value of appealing over the heads of the British government to the "profound fund" of Commonwealth sentiment existing in Britain.

Don't take this at face value, Lawson warns.

"Over the past few years, from the rejection of the proposed Anglo-Canadian free trade area to the threatened increase

HOUSE APPROVES PROGRAM FOR AMATEUR SPORTS

Physical Fitness Chief Objective

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons gave final approval Monday night to a "people's program" for amateur sports and physical fitness, whisking the bill through its final stages in one lashup.

Health Minister Monteith said the government's $5,000,000 - a - year program will not be concerned solely with the gifted athlete.

"It will also be concerned with fitness and sports programs for the great mass of our population," he said.

"I would like to see them the large sum being made available under this program represent but a small part of the total effort required to develop well - balanced recreational activities across Canada."

"The new program would give "major emphasis" to promoting amateur sports and fitness for all Canadian young people.

Publisher Thinks Monopoly Bad For Public, Likes It for Himself

LONDON, (CP) — Canadian-born publisher Roy Thomson spoke of his life and times on British television Monday night and stressed that he is still negotiating to buy more newspapers.

He had "pretty well agreed" with the Ethiopian government to start a newspaper in Amharic and English in Addis Ababa.

"We hope there will be television as well, although negotiations have not progressed very far in that respect," he added.

He was also negotiating for newspapers in Rhodesia. I think we will get a group of newspapers there."

"I am interested in buying a paper — Englishman Augustus Spencer — in Tangier, Morocco, but that has not been done."

Thomson was interviewed on the commercial television channel for South Wales and western England.

Sir David Llewellyn, journalist and former Welsh member of Parliament — the interviewer — asked if he felt a television monopoly was a bad thing.

"I think monopoly in anything is a bad thing for the public," Thomson said. "But I find it very excellent.

"I always like monopolies that I personally operate, because obviously they are very profitable."

He questioned about the future of British journalism.

"I have always confided that newspapers were going to prosper, I would be awfully stupid to invest my money in it all the time."

Sir David then referred to Thomson's newspaper empire of more than 80 newspapers in Britain, Canada, Australia, India and Nigeria.

"Are you afraid of what will happen to what you have built after you have gone?" the interviewer asked.

"If you leave the business well protected and well operated with a good staff, then what more can you do?" was the reply.

"I have a son coming on who, I am confident, will carry the business to good advantage and so I have no real worries about it." Thomson's son, Kenneth, heads the family interests in Canada.

Parliamentary Meeting Cheers Sandys' Pledge

Puts Partnership Ahead Of Common Market

LONDON (AP)—Britain told her Commonwealth partners today they come before Britain's desire to enter the European Common Market.

Commonwealth Secretary Duncan Sandys hinted that he may seek an accommodation that will bring the six blocs closer together.

"We have made it clear," said Sandys, "that if we are faced with the necessity of choosing between the Commonwealth and Europe, we should unquestionably choose the Commonwealth."

The 120 delegates attending a meeting of Commonwealth parliaments broke into applause. Strong opposition has been expressed in Britain's application for membership in the six-nation European trading group.

The Commonwealth countries fear they may have to give up their preferential trade and tariff position in Britain. A meeting of Commonwealth finance ministers in Accra, Ghana, earlier this month, issued a communique which voiced fear that the Commonwealth may break up if Britain joins the Common Market.

Sandys said Britain would not join the European group unless it could obtain special concessions aften to protect Commonwealth interests. But the Common Market countries are reluctant to go far in making concessions when they are making their own sacrifices of sovereignty to the organization.

Sandys said he does not think the Common Market countries will confront Britain with the painful choice of choosing between them and the Commonwealth.

"There is, I believe, no reason to fear that by drawing closer to Europe Britain will be asked to draw away from the Commonwealth," he said.

What is more likely is that, through Britain's entry into the Common Market, Europe and the Commonwealth will tend to develop closer trade relations with our member. Surely that could only be to the advantage of both."

Businessmen and Property Owners Show Little Liking For College St. Control Dam

Belleville businessmen and property owners in the flood threat zone are betting that the Moira River won't ever again rise to go on a rampage such as it did in 1954 when hundreds of Front Street and put the main drag several feet under water.

Only a few have shown a little interest in appearing with lingness to assume the cost share of the city's cost of the proposed College Street ice control dam.

As result, the dam which would have prevented possible flooding in the downtown area by holding up break-up ice above College Street, appears farther from reality than ever.

Yesterday at city council Aldermen George Wishart, said there had been a "very disappointing" response to a survey conducted to establish whether property owners in the flood threat zone would be willing to assume a major share of the cost of building the control dam.

He said 800 ballots had been sent out but only 304 were returned and of these less than a third were in the affirmative.

NOT MUCH INTEREST

The lack of response from the property owners seemed even more of a disappointment than the low percentage of affirmative votes, he added.

"I would have been less disappointed if there had been a better return of the ballots with the answer being a resounding "no". It seems the people are just not interested," he said.

He said the committee had no course, but to recommend that no action be taken.

Construction of the ice control dam at College Street was one of the recommendations of the Moira River Conservation Authority survey report made in the late 1940's. Engineers said the dam would hold up the ice of the spring break-up thus preventing its jamming in the lower reaches of the river and flooding the downtown business area.

The Authority has fought an uphill fight over the past decade to make the dam a reality.

NO ACTION

At one time it was felt that the federal government would assist in the cost equally with the province with the Authority or benefitting municipality paying the remaining 45 per cent.

However, Federal assistance has been ruled out and the province views would coincide at 20 per cent of the estimated cost.

Under provisions of the act property owners in a flood threat area may be assessed a share portion of the costs for flood remedial projects.

Now, however, property owners in the flood threat area have shown little interest and no action has been recommended.

Will Install Parking Meters In Front of Federal Bldg.

It's going to cost motorists money to park on the new concrete pavement in front of the new Federal building.

City council yesterday authorized the installation of parking meters in front of the building, some of them to be 15 minute meters for the convenience of visitors to the post office.

Parking meters were also approved for the east side of Coleman Street between the north boundary of St. Thomas' Church and the south boundary of St. Andrew's Church last Church.

In reference to the meters at the federal building, however, Mayor A. N. Haig suggested a complete survey of the situation before any permanent changes was made in parking at this point.

He noted there still could be changes made in the plans as was very wide and possibly an 8 hour limit would be required to regulate traffic.

Alderman Ben Corke as chairman of the traffic committee said the committee had not come up with a very good solution to the parking problem.

Different street changes which might come out of last year's traffic survey were in use two years ago, he said.

West, Communism and neutralism.

To adopt the Soviet plan, Kennedy said, would "replace order with anarchy, action with paralysis and coexistence with gross competition."

ISSUES WARNING

Aiming at the smaller countries Kennedy issued an implied warning:

"The secretary-general, in a very real sense, is the servant of the assembly. Outside his authority and you diminish the authority of the only body where all 110 nations, regardless of power, are equal and sovereign. Until all the members are just, the weak will be secure only in the strength of this assembly."

On Berlin, Kennedy rejected Soviet claims that the U.S. is threatening war to stop Khrushchev from signing a peace treaty with Communist East Germany.

The Western Allies "are not concerned with any peace arrangement" and such could not affect their rights or responsibilities.

The essential fact, said Kennedy, is that the Berlin crisis is unnecessary—it could be settled by negotiation if negotiations were "rooted in mutual respect and concern for the rights of others."

Council Refuses Adjustment Of Error in City's Favor In Company's Sewer Tender

The tender of the Beaver Construction Company of Montreal for one of the main trunk line sewers it has been awarded, in connection with the city's sewage disposal system, contained a $35,000 error in favor of the city.

This was told city council yesterday by Mayor J. M. Hall after he had received the report from the consulting engineer, and recommended that the city make an adjustment.

Council, however, turned down the recommendation and moved to sign the agreement for the amount stated in the contract.

The tender price quoted by the Montreal firm for construction of the sewer was some $200,000 less than the next two tenders submitted by the Montreal firm for construction of the sewer, which was awarded by council, was $676,000, which was well below the original estimate of consulting engineers.

Mayor Hall told council the error in the tender had been brought to his attention by a representative of the bidding firm and the city engineer.

The error had been made through omitting to include the cost of certain rock and other materials.

He said that inclusion of the $35,000 item would not affect the order would still leave the lowest contract well below that of the second highest bidder.

Alderman Don Whalen, however, said he was opposed to any change as he was contrary to all business practice and that by doing so it would open the wide open to justifiable criticism and possible legal action.

Alderman Jack Ellis, chairman of the works committee, was in favor of the company receiving something additional but was not in favor of the way the matter was presented. He said that the sewer was needed in the neighborhood of $34,000, not $35,000.

He said the city should go slow in giving the increase to the company.

MOTION REWORDED

Mayor Hall reworded his recommendation calling for an additional amount — not to exceed the difference between the first and second tenders — to be given to Beaver Construction, and that the error in their bid be accurately recalculated.

Only Mayor Haig as mover, or the recommendation voted for the motion. Alderman Jack Deacon, supported the move in correct the contractors error.

When the by-law authorizing the agreement was before council Mayor Hall made a last-ditch stand to have the error corrected.

"I still want to protest the action of council in going ahead with this contract knowing full well there has been a mistake and without making some indication there would be an adjustment.

This is done all the time in municipal tendering when there has been an honest error," he said.

New Sidewalk On Dundas St. Is Authorized

A new concrete sidewalk on the north side of Dundas Street running from the city limits to near Parker Street, has been authorized by city council.

The work was originally started under section 8 of the Local Improvement Act which permits the municipality to initiate the work.

The original recommendation called for the walk to be constructed west from Sidney Street to the city limits, but Alderman Walter Elliott noted that students from the Deaf School for the Deaf would still have to cross Dundas Street to get to Albert College or downtown.

The motion was accordingly changed, calling for the walk to be extended to the end of the existing walk.

in the tariff on imported British motor cars, the Canadians have had a habit of seeking for Commonwealth relationship as a strictly one-sided affair.

"For all the talk there is precious little attempt by Canada to understand our own predicament."

William Rees - Mogg in the Sunday Times of London takes a similar tack. Developments at Accra and Ottawa, he said, show that Britain now is the "most lonely people in the world."

He dismisses the idea that the Accra communique is "merely another piece of Canadian impudence" from Fleming, whom he describes in passing as a man "whom nobody believes." He adds:

"Diefenbaker is, however, one point that emerges clearly from talking to the Commonwealth delegations. . . . No one of them would accept, in however graceful a form, the idea that any plan for freer Commonwealth trade that would offer Britain a reasonably attractive alternative to the free trade market of 200,000,000 people in the Six would be created in Europe."

The idea that Britain should get the same benefits as entry to the Canadian market that Canada has to the British market is "not even a starter," Rees-Mogg says.

"When one asks Commonwealth countries why they will not consider an alternative, they say that on the whole it has been put to them; when one puts specific alternatives they reject them."

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—In one of the widest morning trading sessions on the Toronto stock market in recent years, Lake Dufault Mines today advanced $2.40 in price to $3 a share on an 11 a.m. volume of 333,793 shares.

The little Quebec mining company, which since last Wednesday moved up from 60 cents a share to $3 at the close Monday on rumor of a rich copper strike, caught on swiftly in the open this morning following its announcement Monday night of a copper, zinc, silver and gold find in its Horbec field property in the Rouyn-Noranda area.

The stock opened at $4.25 a share, up $1.25 on Monday's close, advanced to $4.50 a share and then fell quickly to $4.15. In less than 30 minutes it had come back again and reached $3.65 a share before coming back to $3.

On the industrial market there was a general decline with papers and financial institutions leading the way down. In papers, Bathurst Pulp and Paper B was down ¾ and AMBIA and Bathurst A each ½. Moore dropped ¾, Bank of Nova Scotia and Industrial Acceptance each lost a point, while Guaranty Trust was down ¾.

On the exchange index, industrials failed 1.34 at 594.38, base metals 0.46 at 190.71 and western oils 0.32 at 94.62. Golds gained 1.13 at 96.65. The 11 a.m. volume was 847,000 shares compared with 974,000 at the same time Monday.

Senior base metals were weak. Geco dropped ¼ as did International Nickel ¼. Falconbridge gained ⅝ at 55¾.

Western oils traded quietly and on the downside.

Monday's Late Dufault Mines moved ahead in another wild trading session.

It turned over 754,744 shares and advanced 92 cents to $3 a share after earlier going as high as $3.25. The stock began moving last week when rumor of a rich copper strike in northern Quebec hit financial circles and it hasn't stopped since.

On the industrial market, there was a general decline with papers showing any strength. Bank and paper stocks were the exception. Bank of Nova Scotia dropped 1. A many-to-one split was announced.

The names of those in the Toronto car were Harold Hammond, 36, 737 Oban Crescent; London, Henry Carpenter, 500 Avenue Road, Toronto and Leslie Holt, 63, 12 Banbury Road, Don Mills. Those in the Quebec car were Conrad Cote, 31 of 3666 Delormier St., Montreal and Adrian Gaudette, 32 of 2401 Belanger Street also of Montreal.

The extent of their injuries has not been determined as the accident victims are still in emergency.

Seven Injured In 2-Car Crash At Marysville

Seven persons were injured, four being admitted to hospital when two cars collided almost head-on one mile east of Marysville on Highway 401 shortly before ten o'clock this morning. A Toronto car was proceeding easterly while a Quebec licensed car was coming in the west and the Toronto driver is said to have swung quickly to avoid striking a dog crossing the road and the car then veered into the path of the approaching car. In the accident the dog was killed.

Individual issues included du Pont, down 1¼, S. Ford, 8⅝ 2¼, and Aluminium and Loblaw B, just 1⅛ each. The Montreal gain was by Canadian Industrial Gas, up 1¾ at 19.

Index industrials were down 2.33 at 395.92, base metals 91 at 200.06, western oils .90 at 94.64 and golds .15 at 86.52. Volume was 2,000,000 shares compared with 2,361,000 Friday.

With the exception of junior issues, golds had a rough day in the senior list. Ventures was down 1¼, Noranda 1 and Hollinger ½ each. International Nickel gained ⅝.

Western oils were weak.

Refrigerator Motor Starts Fire in Home

Fire believed to have started from an overheated refrigerator motor early this morning caused extensive damage to the kitchen at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. McMullen, 94 Donald Street.

Three walls and the ceiling of the kitchen in the McMullen home were extensively fire damaged.

Mr. and Mrs. McMullen were awakened by the smoke and ammonia fumes about four this morning.

"When I got to the kitchen door, the flames were rolling as high as the ceiling," Mr. McMullen said.

He grabbed the fire extinguisher and after the contents of this were expended he fought the fire with water from the taps until the arrival of firemen.

Merchant Marine Service Needed Rotarians Told

Robert Sulton, general manager of the Kingston Shipyards was the guest speaker at the local Rotary Club's meeting in the Hotel Quinte club room yesterday afternoon.

The speaker noted that at one time, almost 90 years ago, Canada was the third largest ship-building nation and the fourth largest ship-owning nation in the world. This reputation, however, diminished considerably despite the fact that Canada has first in prominence as a trading nation in the world.

Ship-building, the University of Toronto graduate noted, is not a predictable business even in the best of times and the decision of the government to subsidize the shipbuilding industry following the recent advice of a Royal Commission appointed eight years ago should go much to help build the Canada's Merchant Marine.

Canada, he suggested, needs a self-sufficient and independent American service in order to establish an advantage in the trading activities. The building of ships in Canada provides an extensive amount of work in many other industries than just the ship-building yards, he said. Mr. Sutton said, more work is provided outside the shipyards than within.

He also spoke on the diversity of work experienced by the industry using the recent contracts of his own firm as an example. For past years the Kingston Yards have done everything from building a $170,000 speed complete with electric dishwashers, through constructing a patrol boat for the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, a special construction minesweeper for the Royal Canadian Navy, a brigantine sailing ship for the Royal Canadian Sea Cadets, to reconstructing a Century-old bateau to be displayed at Upper Canada Village.

There is also as much diversity of design offered as there is variation of projects, the speaker said. The customer desiring a ship for whatever purpose is not offered a stock model but usually has his ship designed to his specifications. He noted that the Kingston firm was expanding its facilities in order to handle a greater variety of work projects.

The shipbuilding industry also employs its greatest number of any force during the winter and during the past 30 years has contributed $18 million in wages to this district, Mr. Sutton concluded.

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian Orland Pinkston and thanked by Rube Freeman. The meeting was conducted by club president Virgil James.

Rotary Has Real Outline For World Peace Is Claim

TRENTON — "Someday they'll give a war and nobody'll come".

Borrowing a line from a poem by the renowned Canadian poet, Carl Sandburg, in which a small girl comments on mankind's unending search for peace, Dr. Henry Kingstone, district governor for Rotary, pictured a world of the future, where the aims and ideals of Rotary would be carried, out by all mankind. He was speaking to members of the Trenton club last night.

"Rotary has a real outline for world peace", said Dr. Kingstone, "but we must apply 'people to people' diplomacy. Rotarians have a rendezvous with destiny. But we must learn all we can about each people or other countries and reach out to involve others who are not Rotarians in the task. We live in a world community and the world is our neighbor".

Dr. Kingstone told the Trenton club that in these restless times, the world was crying for unselfish and courageous leadership.

"The machinery we are toying with threatens all mankind", said Mr. Kingstone. "Rotarians must emphasize the things that unite men instead of dividing them. With the application of Rotary's principles, the world could be blended into a new and meaningful creation."

START AT LOCAL LEVEL

Dr. Kingstone said that this effort to unite mankind must start at a local level. He said that the local club was the place where Rotary begins. Members must make every effort to expand their club to include a true cross section of the business and professional life of the community and in growth make the club into the source of strength and service the community should be.

Dr. Kingstone urged members to join Trenton club to take an active participation in all the club's activities.

Call New Tenders For Weigh Scales

As result of what was termed complications in the present tender call, the city council will call new tenders for the installation of city weigh scales.

At the last meeting of council two weeks ago the tender of A. T. Avery of Toronto at $6,300 for the installation of scales was accepted.

Yesterday council was told that new tenders will be called for the scales.

"Each Rotarian represents an investment in what Rotary hopes to challenge", said, "Each club must be an action group".

The local club, said Dr. Kingstone, must concern itself with such things as vocational guidance to the youth of the community; such projects as "Just the Job," and the responsibility to the community.

He urged that club members of the club survey the needs of the community.

Trenton's community need housing for older people? Should you encourage sport programs?

Dr. Kingstone said that if such a survey revealed that there was no great need of physical service in the community, Rotarians should give further afield and cross international borders. He suggested that each club could take on one project a year aimed at stamping out famine or disease or illiteracy in another, less fortunate country. He said that a desire for world fellowship should be translated into personal action and that each member should make a personal commitment to carry out the ideals of Rotary International.

"The time for action is now," said the speaker. "This is an issue of survival for the human race."

Dr. Kingstone was introduced by Jack Goldberg and thanked by past-president John Garrett.

Guests at the meeting were C. B. Morgan of Belleville, Gordon Tizzard, acting zone chairman; Don Pinnock, Glen Ken Jefferson and Jack Luffman from the Brighton club. Dr. Kingstone's home club.

Following the general meeting members met at a club assembly.

The youth sustained numerous bruises and his right shoulder was badly injured as a result of the accident.

The youth told police that a car had driven out of the Lange and Fetter lot just as he was about to ride by. He said that the driver had unexpectedly opened the front door of the car and that he had banged into it. He said that his bicycle was equipped with a light. The youth said that the car drove on after the accident.

Trenton police are investigating the accident.

Yukon Tested On Its Second Atlantic Trip

TRENTON — The Yukon turboprop transport now has a second trans-Atlantic "shakedown" run under its belt. The flight covered a route from Trenton, Ont., to Marville-France, thence to Pisa, Italy, and finally home to Trenton following a refueling stop in Lajes, Azores.

Aboard the aircraft were a number of senior personnel under the direction of Flying Officer Bert Slobod, and Sergeants R. A. Irvine and J. C. Moore.

The aircraft left Trenton about 2 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 16th, followed what might be called the "scenic route." Clear skies allowed those aboard to pick out Lancaster England, and Paris during the 1,800 hop to Marville, France.

Following take-off the following day from Marville, the Yukon flew low over each of the remaining three RCAF Wing bases in Europe, and then climbed for altitude for the flight to Pisa, Italy, Skirting the Alps, the aircraft flew over Marseilles and then down the coast to the picturesque city of Pisa, home of the leaning tower, and the main United Nations airbase for UN operations in the Congo and the Middle East.

The flight from Pisa to Trenton was by way of the Military Air Transport base of the United States Air Force at Lajes in the Azores. Shortly after refuelling the Yukon was airborne on the last leg home.

might be acceptable to the United States and its Allies. But he gave some clues.

The U.S., he said, is not committed to any rigid formula. In other words, the Americans are prepared to consider compromise solutions.

Kennedy said the U.S. recognition of Germany can be kept divided by troops and tanks. His statement implied acceptance indefinitely of the existing division of Germany. Such acceptance would be a big concession to Communist authority in East Germany.

Kennedy also believed an agreement could be worked out which would protect the freedom of West Berlin and Allied presence and access."

South Africa—A Rebuttal

Peter Held, a native of South Africa now residing in Trenton, addressed the Rotary Club of that town last week.

Some of the things he said need to be answered.

Mr. Held told the Rotarians that there had been many misleading reports in European and Canadian newspapers on recent happenings in South Africa.

We do not doubt for one moment that Mr. Held is correct. Until newspapermen are blessed with infallibility, they will make mistakes. But we feel certain that few of these reports were deliberately misleading.

Mr. Held apparently blames these errors on ignorance. "People should acquaint themselves with the country before they attempt to criticise the South African government," he said. Whether this statement is unassailably true or grievously deceptive depends upon the interpretation one puts on it.

If Mr. Held meant, by the phrase "acquaint themselves with," that people should learn something about South Africa and its problems before sitting in judgment on the government, he is perfectly correct. It is to help people to acquaint themselves with South African conditions that newspaper articles are written, and although none of these articles contain the whole truth and nothing but the truth, we think that after reading them most people will be better acquainted with the country.

If, on the other hand, Mr. Held meant, by "acquaint themselves with," that people should actually visit and live in South Africa before forming an opinion on it, he is asking us to adopt a different standard from that used in dealing with most other problems. Mr. Held himself is not qualified to criticize the manner in which newspaper articles were written, without, as far as we know, ever having been a journalist. We all criticize our members of Parliament, most of us without ever having attended a session of the House of Commons, let alone been a member of the House. One does not need to be a brewer to complain that the beer is flat.

Residence in a country is a great assistance to a discerning man with an inquisitive mind in forming an accurate appraisal of that country's problems. But it is nonsense to suggest that mere residence is sufficient to qualify one to judge. Familiarity may breed not only contempt but myopia. We all know people who have resided in Canada all their life, yet who know little or nothing about this country's political, economic and social problems. On the other hand, there are other people who have never been Canada, or have visited it only briefly, and who yet know a great deal about our culture and our economy.

When Mr. Held says that to give the natives, or Bantu, a vote would be meaningless, he is not stating a fact but is merely expressing an opinion which is not universally held and is supported by all other South Africans, not even by all white South Africans. When he says that giving the natives equal power with the whites would create a situation worse than that in the Congo, he is tilting at a straw man. No reasonable man of the South African government suggests that all Bantu should be given the vote immediately. What reasonable men do say is that the color of a man's skin ought not, of itself, to bar him from enjoying equality with the educated whites, that an effort should be made to give the Bantu an opportunity to become educated and civilized, and that the educated and civilized should not find themselves barred from serving their country to the best of their abilities. Despite Mr. Held's reference to "the government's efforts to educate them" (the Bantu), there is more than abundant evidence that the government has no intention of educating the natives for equality but only for subservience to the whites.

The Nationalists just do not believe that the black man is potentially the equal of the white. South Africa's critics do believe the black man capable of the moral standard of attainment. Residence in South Africa might tell us many things about that country and its problems, but it could tell us nothing about the primary point of dispute.

Only time will provide the answer; if it is a bloody one for the whites, it will be their own fault—or rather the fault of people like Mr. Held who believe that "no government could do any better" than the present South African regime.

Tenacious, obstinate, loving, blunt — expect no pretty speeches from a Yorkshire husband. Ask him how he likes your hat and he'll tell you he's seen better on "t'old scarecrow"; but in trouble he's a rock.—Lady Caley speaking on the BBC.

Need Facts on Interest

Winnipeg Tribune

Rates for the Bank of Montreal Automatic Loan Plan announced in the suggested personal loan regulating disclosure of true annual interest rates on instalment loans.

The objection of M. W. Wocks, comptroller, Association of Canadian Credit Men, seems to be mainly that annual interest rates would be too difficult to compute.

He gave the example of a man who buys a refrigerator on a time payment plan for $250 carrying charge. He pays $5 on the first payment. Wocks' argument is that $5 applied to the principle of the debt would reduce the principle, and thus three additional $5 payments at regular one-month intervals with a final payment of $2.

Mr. Wocks said 25 different answers could be claimed as to the true annual interest rate.

* * *

Far from being an "insurmountable" objection to the suggested law, Mr. Wocks' example is a good illustration of why it is most needed.

In the first place, if there is so much confusion about interest rates that even experts may might be claimed as correct in this case, there is an obvious need for having the annual interest rate set down on such sales.

Secondly, while customers might find it hard to figure out what rate of interest they are paying the merchants, certainly the latter know and shouldn't find it so hard. Most merchants making a time-payment sale look up the "carrying charge" in a rate book anyway. It would be relatively simple to have the equivalent annual interest rate listed.

Thirdly, the case Mr. Wocks cited is a rare example of a man borrowing dollars — and — cents carrying charges can be.

It may sound fairly reasonable that "you should pay $3 for $2 carrying charge on his $20 loan," Mr. Wocks argues. But it isn't so reasonable when you consider what interest it represents a rate of nearly 15 per cent. In other words, if the man borrowed $100 for a year at the interest rate his loan would have to put up $234 to repay the $100 loan at the end of the year.

Most time payment interest rates aren't as exorbitant as that cited by Mr. Wocks. But they're a good deal higher than some customers realize, generally ranging between 30 and 36 per cent.

Disclosure of interest rates would be some protection for the customer. We think the tax content of prices should be revealed as fully as possible too. The consumer should know as much as possible about where his money is going.

This will not prevent some people from engaging in foolish time-payment purchases at exorbitant rates off-interest. At least, though, they will be warned, if they care to heed the warning.

Drugs Alter Appetite

Oshawa Times

One day people may get some cues as to how from their brains in regulating their appetites, rather than from that empirical guide which is commonly known as "will power." A Yale psychologist said in New York recently.

Although he said that the jump from experiments on animals, rats in this case, to men may be further than many people think, animal experimentation have demonstrated a mechanism in the brain which acts as a sensory organ that controls hunger and thirst.

Dr. Neal Miller, James Rowland Angell, Professor of Psychology at Yale, discussed his findings from a study in the laboratory made by a student.

The student, Dr. Miller said to F. Grosman, now of the University of Iowa, who reported his experiments to the American Psychological Association.

Dr. Grosman investigated the neuro-chemical properties of the small, primitive area of the brain known as the lateral hypothalmus. Previous researchers had found this area to be concerned with the regulation of hunger and thirst. And Dr. Grosman found that it seems to stimulate the area to eat when hungry and thirst is sated animals.

By means of a minute double-barrelled needle inserted in the brain he stimulated the brain area with adrenalin, a substance found in the blood, a lous nerves of the body and that is secreted by the adrenals in the course of anger or fright.

Only the minutest amount of this substance is crystalline form necessary for the animal to react, the psychologist said. Placing a minute amount of another drug, acetylcholine, into the same area caused the animal to drink vigorously, Dr. Grossman reported.

Using other chemicals known to block inhibit adrenalin, Dr. Grossman managed to curb the appetites of hungry rodents. A solution of mercury shaking of thirst was also effective.

Dr. Miller, whose laboratory has been concerned for many years with the central nervous activities of the brain, observed that this finding helped to confirm his and his associates' impressions of the brain as something other than a switchboard. It is also, he said a sensory organ that stimulates certain actions.

"Apparently the weight-regulating mechanism of the body is a very strong one," Dr. Miller said in discussing Dr. Grossman's experiments.

"If some people have little appetite it is not because it is for them to eat more and also if people have large appetites it is equally difficult to cut down," he observed.

Police Defy Court Ruling

Kingston Whig-Standard

The reactions of various Chiefs of Police in Ontario to the recent judicial decision of Ontario ruling concerning chalk marks on parked cars is revealing. Most Chiefs of Police do not believe in the doctrine that when a car runs afoul that it made it becomes a part of the law until it is upset by another court.

This particular ruling — that a constable has no right in law to put a chalk mark on a parked automobile — has not yet been overruled by a higher court. Yet Chief James Macbay has said that Kingston and Metropolitan Toronto will continue to chalk tires, but that "if chalking is found to be illegal" there are other methods which can be used. One of these is to use "ITS". Chalking has been shown to be illegal.

Chief Macbay refrained from commenting on the decision of the court but Chief Constable Carl Farrow of Windsor, Chief James Mackay of Toronto and also Chief Constables who might decide to give their opinions a "public airing".

This is a flagrant defiance of the principle of law and order in Canada. The police have no right to interpret the law and the spectacle of Chiefs of Police defying the courts is one to arouse the responsible citizen to positive fury. The Attorney General should at this point step some writs.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS.

IT ALL STARTS HERE

The basis of moral character is self-control. You may have many gifts, you may have a million-dollar personality. If, however, you lack self-control you do not have moral character, and you will never have moral character unless you learn to control and develop self-control.

Self-controls are required of every ship that sails the seas. In the first place, it must have some form of motive power, sails, engines, or both. Also it must have an anchor to hold it fast at the end of the voyage. It must have a compass. It must have a crew, and it must have a cargo. Most important of all it must have a rudder. Now these are merely things over into the realm of moral conduct we see how necessary the rudder and the compass are to furnish us direction. We know that we must have power to live. We move away from the docks and keep on going. We should have a cargo — by that we mean we are engaged in handling something useful.

A ship gets out of control unless a crew properly equipped can keep it in control. A life easily gets out of control because as the mariner has to know where he is going, has to be able to set his direction, has to have power, has to have a anchor, so we have to have all the elements of self-control if we are to get through the voyage of life happily and successfully.

All sound moral character begins with self-control.

Chuck Barnett's Big "Z" softball squad, last year's titlists, have been the class of the Belleville Ladies Softball League. They clinched the title last night at the Armories diamond by taking a two-game 8-0 decision from the Stewart-Warner Alemite lassies in the fifth game of the titular series. Zellers took the first three games in a row, dropped the next, and came through in championship form in the fifth to win the title.

In a report submitted by Principal F. C. MacLaurin of the Belleville Collegiate Institute, it was revealed that the present registration amounted to some 800 students with additional number to be added following war enterprises. Principal MacLaurin thanked the Board relative to the continuation of the sale of War Saving Stamps. "Last year the students sold $20,000 in War Stamps, and I would like to see their efforts continued," stated Mr. MacLaurin. The Board graciously ed the proposal unanimously.

Meeting with the greatest response from Belleville and district residents ever to be received at any tag day staged by the Canadian Institute for the Blind in this city, on Saturday baggers collected $3,000, to top by $200 any previous amount realized. Officials of the Belleville branch are grateful for their thanks to a generous public and also wish to express their appreciation to the taggers and others who so willingly gave of their time, and contributed to the success of the day.

Englishmen make fun of the tourists' dreams of Olde England-like quaintness. All that, they say, is another way for the efficiency of planned towns, the glitter of glass and steel skyscrapers and the chaos of traffic jams.

But a few things are sacred. So Mr. Alfred Grunker, a Crawley, Sussex, grocer, says a few chips has harmed. Mr. Brunker felt that wrapping fish and chips in newspaper was not hygienic enough to meet the standards of the new England. So he spent £44.10s on a ton of pristine white paper. All the thanks he got was a stream of complaints that the fish and chips "didn't taste the same."

Mr. Brunker turned in the white paper on the inside and newspaper on the outside and just to keep up appearances.

To Your Good Health

Young Woman's Fear Of Heart Disease Is False

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Five years ago I started having a slight heart pain which led me to believe that I had some sort of heart disease.

"I went to a specialist, had an electrocardiogram, and X-rays, etc. The doctor assured me that I had a good heart condition and that the pains were due to nervousness and gastric trouble.

"I am 26 years old.

"Some time ago I read about a disease known as 'angina pectoris.' I had that all the symptoms I have and up to date. How since I've been told repeatedly that my nerves are causing the pains and discomfort, is it possible that angina pectoris would be prevalent even by a heart specialist?

"I have a very good tennis person such as I am really have pains which copy the exact symptoms of angina pectoris. Mrs. D. Q."

It's possible that you might have angina pectoris (which, when you get right down to it, essentially means an insufficient part of the chest), but I strongly doubt that it is.

I don't mean that you don't have pains, but, in my considered opinion, they are not related to the heart.

The one thing your age is against heart trouble. It's rare at 26, and it's very much rarer at 21, when you have no cause for worrying. Another reason is that you did not list any one of the various prime symptoms of angina pectoris, and I'm certainly not going to tell you what they are!

It is most unlikely that a heart specialist would miss what I've noticed in your letter: the facts simply don't fit heart disease. The fact that your pains are confined and determined to have it somewhere.

Unfortunately, decades from now, you will have a pretty good chance of developing heart disease in the most prevalent and serious sense, our old friend coronary thrombosis, or, to the layman, heart attack.

In view of this, I'm opposed to tolerating my imaginary heart cause. We have real ones. But it seems to me that every doctor has what we used to call "a bounden duty" to point out strongly whenever it looks as though people are trying to persuade themselves that they have something that they don't have.

* * *

"Dear Dr. Molner: What is Addison's disease? M. L. D."

It's a deficiency, or inadequate activity, of the adrenal glands.

Note to W. G. K.: Your friend who tells you that carrot juice will "cure diabetes" is the latest version of the witch doctors who used to claim that toads, turtle and rabbit feet, or what have you, chopped in half at the dark of the moon, were "medicines." When you say he "knows" of people who have "completely cured," I suggest that you ask him for the names of these people. Get them. Get the names of their doctors. See the doctors. And by that time, you'll be so heartily sick that you'll realize that the whole story is a lot of nonsense.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Politicians of the past whether emperors, kings or just plain mutt agitators who had risen high, made war on their rival nations, knowing in advance that a million armed men stood between them and their adversaries. Even in the most recent atomic age, mighty man rode fairly far back in the array, ensconced behind a million men or less.

Things are different now. Our politicians, when we call statesmen some time or other in their careers, have to risk their lives and their wives and children. Their friends, and their stockholders, have nobody between them and the atomic bomb. It must give them pause.

As a matter of fact, the first shots in modern war would probably be aimed at the leaders. This adds a new dimension to the art of politics. It gives a highly personal twist to the thinking in high places. You might say that on the declaration of war, the rulers are the first to step up.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

PRIDE

I like proud people. Not snobbish people, but people who are proud of their heritage and their chance.

A man or woman wouldn't be much of a person who didn't have pride. Who wasn't proud or his or her gifts, be they great or small, and who wasn't proud to assert himself or herself.

I like to see the boy or girl who is proud of his or her personal appearance. It indicates that he or she is going to be proud of the work he or she does and thinks.

I like people who are proud of their ancestry. I regard a person who can trace his family back through a fine town — perhaps but a few hundred years. But it gives a fine, solid foundation over a door that looked as though it was not any too good for this world, was a great sign. It was almost as big a sign as a coat of arms. By what it said: "Pressing Club."

Proud people tend to live in better surgery. I said to myself that it looked as though there was quite as much determination used in the town—pants pressed or hunt! And I will warrant that many a king of finance or some-thing has come out of that.

Proud people with pride about them and who have pride in their hearts and souls. Pride in the feelings of others. They have too much intelligence.

And, after all, intelligence wins out in the end. The intelligent people are the people to be proud of. Intelligence with pride is a big thing to have. Not a thing to be too right to lower himself in a thing as "being top, proud to fight." It is not necessary to be too right to lower himself in a thing.

The man who is personally proud takes pride in his home and in the job he has hired to make the world a better place in which to live.

But this pride must be character pride, not the selfish pride that builds a wall to always gaze before destruction.

Looking at Art
